Only a Boarding House Cat.

From the New York Truth.

At No. 130 Eldridge street is a boarding house, kept by Mrs. Caroline Witpan. Among the boarders is a young girl named Lizzie Altfras. Lizzie has a big heart. About a year ago she was on her way to the house when she noticed about a dozen street gamins throwing decayed vegetables and tomato cans at a miserable, sick kitten, who staggered about vainly endeavoring to escape the missiles hurled at it by its thoughtless tormentors. She rescued the unfortunate animal and took it home. Through careful nursing and subsequent kind treatment the kitten grew to be a fat and sleek cat. It was informally christened "Nellie," and showed not only touching gratitude to its young benefactress but rare sagacity. Its fidelity to its mistress went so far that it would seldom leave her side while she was in the house, and at night shared her bed.

At 4 30 o'clock yesterday morning Lizzie was suddenly awakened by the conduct of "Nellie." The cat was scratching her face vigorously and mewing piteously. The girl did not know what to make of such a proceeding on the part of her pet. She seemed strangely oppressed, and her first thought was that Nell had been lying on her face. She jumped from her couch and ran to the door to get fresh air. Her surprise can be imagined when, as she opened the door, a cloud of hot, suffocating smoke surrounded her.

Her room was on the second floor back. In the rear of the house, which is an old two-story and attic frame building, is a stable, the roof of which joins the house, a couple of feet below the second-story window. Lizzie rushed toward the window, opened it, and, screaming lustily, jumped to the stable roof. The girl's cries awakened the other inmates, who opened their windows and jumped out to the stable roof. The whole party were in their night clothes. When the firemen arrived and extinguished the flames and order was restored, "Nell" was found beside her mistress.

Metaphor Among the Indians.

From the Chicago Eye.

The Indians more than any nation, make use of the metaphor in their speech.

An Indian squaw was one day scolding a little papoose.

The brave, the father of the lad, turned upon her reprovingly and said:

"Tahita, use not such big words. His ears are very small!"

The clergyman who has charge of the Indian reservation on Walpole island in the St. Clair river, told us the following anecdote:

He had, from long residence with the people, become so accustomed to the allegorical style of speech that he generally used it when addressing them.

When a squaw went to live in the hut of her brave it had been the habit of her friends to bring her to him to receive advice as to her future conduct.

He resided at a village on the American side of the river, and one day a young squaw was brought to his house for that purpose.

This is the advice he gave her.

He said, pointing to the clock in the tower of the village church:

"Be like that clock; and not like it!

"Be like it, in being always on time—always regular, never too fast or too slow.

Be not like it, in wanting to be heard all over the village."

He said:

Be like the echo, and not like the echo.

"Be like the echo, in ever giving back a soft response—never too loud and boisterous, never sullen and glum.

"Be not like the echo in always wanting to have the last word."

If the Indian maiden followed his advice she was a crown to her husband.

P. J. Sheridan as a Complainant.

P. J. Sheridan of the Irish World, in the Tombs at New York on the 4th inst., charged John Hoag, also connected with that paper, with opening a letter addressed to him. The complainant said that Hoag sent him the opened letter and the envelope was endorsed: "I make no apology for opening this letter." The accused said that the missive had been opened by mistake. As Sheridan did not produce the letter, Justice Smith declined to take any action further than to order the defendant not to repeat the act.

A Wedding Ring Wound.

From the Montreal Witness.

A somewhat singular accident occurred this morning. As a middle-aged widow lady from the country was alighting from a sleigh on Notre Dame street her foot slipped on the ice, and, falling, her gold wedding ring cut into her finger to the bone. The ring was old and had worn rather sharp on the edge. The subject of the unusual mishap went to the Notre Dame hospital, where the ring was filed off and the wound dressed. She said she felt more pain of heart than pain of finger, believing it to be an omen that she would not succeed in getting another husband, on which she was naturally more or less intent.

—She can work a fancy screen,
Just the nicest ever seen,
In a style that all her "culebawed" set enchants;
But my friend, 'twixt you and me,
It would chill a man to see
How she stitched a patch on the old man's pants.

Somebody's Child.

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face, and somebody's mother thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden where no ray of hope can brighten it—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's, take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable; that men are living to-day whom the physicians pronounced incurable, because one lung had almost been destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured hundreds; surpasses cod liver oil, hypophosphites, and other medicines in curing this disease. Sold by druggists.

A Gold mine Owner's Suicide.

CONCORD, N. C., April 6.—Jacob Endy, a wealthy owner of a number of gold mines, committed suicide this morning. He lay on his back, placed the muzzle of the gun beneath his chin and pulled the trigger with his toes, blowing his head almost entirely off. His mind was affected by drink.

Calvert's Carbolic Cerate.

The finest healing compound under the sun. There is no sore but will succumb to its wonderful healing propensities. It is an invaluable dressing for Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Pimples, Scalds, Boils, Festerings, etc. Price twenty-five cents at the Drug store.

A boy who will yell like a Tartar if a drop of water gets on his shirt band when his neck is being washed can crawl through a sewer after a ball and think nothing of it.

Robert Munroe, engine-driver between Kincardine and Hamilton, says: "It was impossible for any person to be a worse subject of Dyspepsia and a greater sufferer than I was. I often had to lie down in the caboose, and actually thought I would die before I reached my destination. I purchased a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure, and it cured me." Free trial bottles at Drug Store. Regular size, fifty cents and one dollar.

Before buying elsewhere see plans of Building Lots on the old Carleton Race Course at

This estate extends from Bloor street, opposite High Park, to Dundas street, where the Ontario and Quebec and Credit Valley railways (Canada Pacific and Vanderbilt syndicate) have purchased 40 acres, for Depot, Shops, etc., in which they state 200 or more men are to be employed this year, also near stations of Grand Trunk, Toronto, Grey and Bruce, Northern, and Great Western railways, and proposed Midland and Northern extensions.

Owing to crossings at this point all trains must soon stop, and it is only a question of a little time until suburban trains are put on and the street car line extended to the junction as in Detroit, Chicago, etc. Arrangements are on foot to put a line of omnibuses on Dundas street at once, and to build a sidewalk to this property. An avenue 100 feet wide extends from Dundas to Bloor street through the centre of these lands forming a section of the proposed city drive and boulevard around the city.

The best of water is reached by sinking 18 ft. Good natural drainage and pure air. Situation is high and dry and commands a view of Lake Ontario across High Park containing nearly 400 acres. Within 20 minutes walk of Toronto Bolt & Iron Co.'s works and proposed Wall Paper Factory. Other large works are proposed within easy distance, but not near enough to be any nuisance. All the surroundings point to this locality as the most desirable in which to secure a PERMANENT HOME or to invest your savings with a certainty of large profits. If you refused to buy West Toronto lots eight or ten years ago that have since paid from 500 to 1500 per cent don't miss the present opportunity of buying at bottom prices in Toronto destined to be one of the most important points on the Canada Pacific and Grand Trunk systems between the Canadian and American Northwest.
