OTTAWA Letter.

OTTAWA, May 4th, 1874.

The course of legislation runs smoothly despite the efforts of the deadheads to embarrass and annoy. It is a minor business attacking facts, but I suppose it is more congenial to those who have followed the business for a lifetime, than to those who are new at it. There is an appropriate term for that politician who like Dr. Charles Tupper prefer to rule in H—— rather than be ruled in Heaven. I won't say that such men are useless, because it may be that they fulfil certain requirements which benefit the country in a negative sense—if your readers will permit me to employ such an expression. It is a free theory to be in opposition with a very good cause to advocate, but it is a most miserable occupation to be following the pursuit of professional obstructionists. It must sadly damage the political mind and render the practitioner so callous as must, a community, I regret to say, with which many of our members are also too familiar. The Election Bill has passed its final stage in Committee, without any important amendments or frivolous divisions. The nomination clause remains, as does the form of Ballot which created so much discussion. The mode secures absolute secrecy. It is impossible to trace a vote. The adoption of the English system would not have secured this condition, because each ballot paper and counterfoil is numbered and another number, the voter's number on the Assessment Roll, is marked under the consecutive number on the counterfoil at the time the voter deposits his ballot. The difficulty to be met and overcome is how to prevent personation and secure a scrutiny without prejudice to the secrecy. This has yet to be settled. It is quite possible, I am informed, to have a ballot answering all the conditions.

The House in Committee of Supply has made commendable progress. They have passed so many items that to include each here would occupy more space than you can spare. Grouping them into a kind of summary, they are as follows: for amounts see estimates; Public Buildings Ottawa, Roads and Bridges North West, Improvements of Rivers, Public Buildings in all the provinces, Harbors and Piers in the same, Slides and Booms, Miscellaneous, Dominion Steamers, Mail Subsidies, Tug Service, Salaries and Disbursements of Fishery Overseers and Wardens, Observatories and Marine Hospitals, Indians and Customs, amounting altogether to $10,000,000. The passage of many of the items under these headings has been stoutly opposed by the Opposition, especially by Peter Mitchell and Dr. Charles Tupper. The persistency with which these gentlemen oppose re-votes is wonderful. On Saturday morning the House in Committee of Supply sat until 3 o'clock. There was a free fight between Mackenzie, Jones of Halifax, et al on the one part and Tupper, Mitchell et hoc omnes on the other. The war was a very wordy one, the immediate question being the dismissals from office from a Nova Scotia standpoint. Tupper it seems, previous to the downfall of the late combination caused the appointments to various offices in that province, of no less than 150 individuals who were hurried into various positions just as the late administration culminated. The members from Nova Scotia who came here are determined to have many of these appointments cancelled. They will no doubt succeed, for most of the appointments belong to that class known as post mortem.

THE NORTH WEST COMMITTEE.

This committee has collected a vast amount of evidence which the country must hear with painful dismay. The examination of Sir John A. Macdonald on Thursday and Friday, shows conclusively what a very long tail this Riel matter has. It would appear from the evidence, that some time after the Fenian Raid in Manitoba in the year 1871, the then Dominion Government became suspicious that Riel and Lepine were playing a double game. They carried on frequent night excursions from St. Joe, where they resided in the United States. The Government were led to understand that these exiles were plotting mischief. Sir John then privately appealed to Bishop Tache to induce Riel and Lepine to leave the country. The Bishop consented to assist in carrying out this, and he was given to understand in a sort of way, that his doing so would facilitate the granting of an amnesty to Riel and his associates. Sir John shortly afterwards transmitted the sum of $1000 from the Secret Service fund to Archbishop Tache to supply funds to help the "brace" to clear out. Sir John however denies that he authorized the payment of $3000 mentioned by D. A. Smith. The former asserts that this amount was advanced without his knowledge or consent, though he, Sir John, afterwards ratified it and promised to repay Smith out of the secret service fund, but the fund had collapsed and the money could not be paid. It is still unpaid. The following from the evidence relates to the amnesty and is a fitting sequel to this strange story:—

The Bishop asked for a written pledge which Sir John refused. His Lordship states that the ex-Premier promised to give the amnesty, which he himself denies, while admitting that he personally desired an amnesty. He explains however, that public opinion in Canada, especially in Ontario, made it undesirable that a direct prayer for amnesty should come from him or his government. On the eve of the meeting of the House in October, the French Conservatives brought Messrs. Langevin and Robitaille to terms, with the result of their declaring that they would resign if Sir John's Government did not secure an amnesty. In their discussion he is reported to have evaded a direct or express declaration in favor of an amnesty, although it is beyond doubt that no other result was thought of by any of the parties.

THE C. P. ROAD.

The announcement of a new expedition to British Columbia, under Horetzky is looked upon with some alarm by the members from British Columbia, who are as a matter of course, interested in Victoria and New Westminster. The object of the expedition is to explore the country in a direct line from the North Bend of the Fraser to the Coast, also to ascertain the depth of the channels at Bellacoula and Bentinck Arm, with a view of making the terminal point somewhere on the Coast, considerably north of Vancouver Island itself. Should a practicable route be found from the north bend of the Fraser to the main coast line on the Pacific, it will be constructed, owing to the economy of distance, the saving being nearly 300 miles.

OTTAWA, May 9th, 1874.

In a country so large as this individual localities unless they are of very vast importance frequently lose their identity. The work of the country goes along, perhaps uninterruptedly for many a day. The merest accident, an attempt to do a violent wrong or the having done the wrong already, and an attempt at redress, bring a locality into prominence—a locality which under ordinary circumstances would probably be allowed to go along the even tenor of its way without noise or molestation. Happy Huron! or rather has it not been unhappy, for I begin to see light on one of these dark transactions which dot the past.

As I have much to say about Tuckersmith, and the redistribution, permit me to pass over "on the wing" such subjects as the Estimates and the Concurrence, both of which you are aware have formed no unimportant part of the work of last week. The Supplementary Estimates are yet to come down, and no doubt we shall have a war of words over them. I am prepared to see the Deputy leader of the Opposition, Domville of New Brunswick, the author of another and more violent uproar than anything which he has yet created. In the briefest way let me remind you that at this stage of the session a week's work is not to be guaged by the idleness generally practiced in the earlier weeks of the session. A marvelous amount of work has been done, local and private, Governmental and personal. The last includes the numerous questions of privilege and order, which alas too frequently interlude our legislative deliberations.

Let me hurriedly say that the General Election Bill and the Controverted Elections Act want only a few finishing strokes to complete the noble evidences of Reformatory progress. But I pass them and come to Tuckersmith—euphoneous much talked of Tuckersmith.

Her shell I proceed without offence even if my allusions bring back the backneyed Saugeen fable which Mr. Farrow sat till with such infinitable effect. Picture to yourself the House in Committee of the Whole—free and easy you know,—Mr. Flynn in the chair. One of our fellows yells out, "Huron, Tuckersmith is up! Tuckersmith is up!" into the gallery I rushed to hear all about—well—finish Mr. Cameron moved that the House resolve itself into Committee on the Bill entitled an Act to amend the Act 38 Vic. cap. 12 by detaching the Township of Tuckersmith from the Centre Riding, and to annex it to the South Riding of the County of Huron.

Immediate Mr. Bowell slowly rose and asked for "explanations."

Mr. Cameron said a majority of the residents of this Township had petitioned for this change.

Mr. Bowell contended that the Ridings were now equal in population, ergo—therefore—consequently if that township Tuckersmith which contained 3,609 was detached from one Riding and joined to another they would be unequal. Immensely abstruse proportion, x=1+2 ergo x=3. Mr. Bowell then subsided, but Mr. White of Renfrew substituted himself instead thereof, and "wanted to know" whether the Government sanctioned this "monstrous" proposal. Mr. Monteith echoed that these were his sentiments.

Mr. McDougall of Renfrew gallantly furnished precedents.

Mr. Kirkpatrick anxious to overthrow the Government desired that the motion should be brought in by the Ministry.

Mr. Dorion in a quiet way intimated that it was only a case where a little redress was about to be given for a foul wrong committed some time ago.

Mr. Rymal went in for a wholesale redressing of grievances of which there were legions by the late Ministry.

Dr. Tupper in the innocence of his heart protested against the manipulation of electoral districts. Go to your tents O Israel!

Mr. Cameron contended that it would make the three ridings on more equal conditions than ever. He replied to the taunt and insinuation as to his own re-election, and said that to him it was a matter of extreme indifference whether he came back to Parliament or not.

Then all care were hushed! The galleries looked down into the pit. The "Mountains looked upon Marathon," the members pushed aside their irrelevant correspondence, for there stood Thomas Farrow who knows as much about the County of Huron as any man who has lived or died, who is still living or about to live (women and Indians plus squaws included). Terrible moment for the Bill. I suppose you are aware that Mr. F. has many personal attractions, conspicuous among which are his voice, his form and his gestures. Talk of a pin dropping or a fulcrum dropping, why the silence of the moment was sublime. Two wrongs, said he, don't make a right, with terrible inflection on the right. Imprudent admission, Mr. F. Your blundering is more than tragical. He then proceeded to demonstrate with awful clearness, vigor and crushing effect that the County was neither a triangle (all varieties of course) a square, a circle or a "parabola." The Centre Riding contained 22,791, the South 21,512, and the North 21,802. The paper diagram or model which Mr. Cameron had submitted did not represent any place at all much less did it represent Tuckersmith. Mr. F. then quoted Scripture. He actually thought that we should not be Ishmaelites with our hands and our feet against everybody. Pen or pencil can't do the hon. Mr. F. justice. He was funny, humorous, poetical, eloquent, pathetic, but vigorous, loud. The story of the boys and frogs he told with tremendous effect, and he was repeatedly encored. Parliament is no arena for such versatile talent. Let him take to the stage or the circus tent, and teach even Nat Austin that nature is not niggardly, and that there are others than he who are gifted with shining qualities at whose dazzling lustre the eyes must be shaded with cabbage leaves and the heads depressed in awe and reverence. But space curbs me or I might go on with the continuation of this most interesting incident. I might tell what Sir John and Dr. Orton said, the latter one of the brightest two-penny halfpenny candles in the House, but peccavi. The Bill was then read a first time. The Bill was read a third time last night and its adoption by the House as a whole is a certainty.

THE RAILWAY RESOLUTIONS.

On Tuesday next Mr. Mackenzie will move a series of resolutions respecting the construction of the Railway. I shall make no summary of them because I trust you will lose no opportunity of laying them before your readers in an extended form. I may say, however, that they give very good satisfaction to the British Columbia members, except De-Cosmos who is put out because matters have gone against him.

Mr. Thos. Swinyard, late of the Great Western, has received an important appointment in Prince Edward Island in the work of inaugurating the new system of railways.

A sensation was created in St. Catherines the other day by the funeral of an unmarried woman being attended by six female pall-bearers dressed entirely in white.

There are at present no less than seventy three cases of small-pox in the township of Peel, and despite the efforts of the authorities, the disease is spreading.

Mr. J. H. Holden, Belleville, recently sold to Messrs. Kilmer, Row & Co., Walkerton, County of Bruce, a fine young Ayrshire bull, for $225; also a splendid Ayrshire cow for $300, and a sucking calf for $100.

The Grand Jury at London have returned "No Bill" in the case of the G. W. Railway employees in charge of the train at the time of the Komoka disaster. The Coroner had committed them for trial for manslaughter.

That the said debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum from the date thereof and such interest shall be made payable yearly on the First day of February, during the continuance of the said debentures or any of them, at the office of the Treasurer aforesaid.

And for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures and the interest thereon at the rate aforesaid, an equal annual special rate of one cent and one and a quarter mills on the dollar, shall in addition to all other rates be assessed, raised, levied and collected in each year upon all the rateable property in the said Municipality during the continuance of the said debentures or any of them.
