March 31. The same to the same. The position of captain of the 1st company of canoneers is given to the Sr. Jacau de Fiedmont and that of Lieutenant of the 2nd Company to the Sr. de Lusignan. The six other positions will be filled by six persons taken from the Royal Artillery, namely: The Sr Montbeillard as Captain of the 2nd company, the Sr. Louvicourt as Lieut-

1757. enant of the 1st company, the Srs. D' Espinassy and Bresse Du Verny as ensigns on full pay, and the Srs. Donafous and Danseville for the two positions as second ensigns. The King has approved the choice of the Chev. Le Mercier for the command of the Artillery of the colony, with the police of the two companies and of the school. Will judge whether it will be advisable to give the officer special rank to avoid difficulties and disputes with the staff officers of places in the colony. Folio 9, 2 pages.

March 31. The same to M. Bigot. Does not believe promotion should be given this year to the Sr. D'Autrive. Desires to know if in making him chief scrivener of the King it would not be right to have him give up the position of clerk to the Treasurers of Montreal. Folio 10, ½ page.

March 31. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Sends them a memorial from the Sr. Foucher, King's Attorney at Montreal, asking that his place be given to one of his sons who has been his substitute for three years. Folio 10½, ½ page.

March 31. The same to M. Bigot. Same subject. Folio 10½, ½ page.

March 31. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Hoped that the recruits and the eight substitute companies would have been despatched before the 20th of this month. Explanations and instructions with regard to this. Folio 11, 2 pages.

April 1. The same to M. Bigot. It would be very difficult to grant him leave of absence at the present conjuncture. Grants the Sr. Varin the leave he has asked for, but hopes he will not make use of it unless the good of his health renders it indispensible. Consents to the Sr. De Villers, chief King's scrivener, replacing the Sr. Bréard as Councillor, but gives him the appointment only on the condition that he discharges his duties faithfully. Approves the choice of Sr. de Vienne for the position of storekeeper at Quebec. Folio 12, 1½ pages.

April 1. The same to M. de Villers. On his appointment to the position of Councillor. Id. Order of the King as above. Folio 12½, 1 page.

April 9. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The King has designated the Sr. de Pontleroy to be chief engineer in the place of the Sr. de Léry, deceased. He is a land engineer who was sent last year to Louisbourg, and whose reputation is well established. M. Franquet will give him the necessary instructions, but, if Louisbourg is attacked before his departure, he may remain there. Folio 12, bis, ½ page.

April 9. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Did not think proper to appoint the Sr. de Lotbinière engineer in chief in Canada. It is better, under the circumstances, to appoint someone having more experience. Folio 12½, bis, ½ page.

April 16. The same to the same. Would have liked to be able to appoint the Sr. Fleury Deschambault colonel of militia, but there would be a grave inconvenience in creating this title. Cannot go beyond the grade of captain, but thinks it would be well to establish detached companies and grant commissions and service letters to the officers similar to those of the regular troops. Desires his advice on this subject. Folio 13, 3 pages.

May 12. The same to MM. Vaudreuil and Bigot. The observations of M. Bigot on the expenses, fixed and ordinary, do not entirely cover the information that M. de Machault has asked for under these headings. As these expenses are much heavier than formerly, it seems certain that most of the increases have grown insensibly in taking as ordinary expenses those allowed for extraordinary purposes only. Should make the detailed examination that M. de Machault prescribed, and which he has not done. It is on him, above all, that the reduction in the expenses, variable and extraordinary, which have been enormous, depends. The heaviest source of these expenses is the movements and operations in connection with the war. Will judge of the 1757. attention he gives to these points by the results. Various instructions. Folio 14, bis, 5 pages.

April 28. The same to the same. Sends them the representations of the MM. of the seminary of St. Sulpice on the suppression of the gratuity of 6,000 livres that was given to them. Folio 15½, ¼ page.

May 1. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has granted the Cross of St. Louis to the Srs. Sermonville, de la Corne, La Columbière, De Villiers, De Repentigny and Le Mercièr. Has granted a pension of 400 livres to the Srs. de Contrecœur and de Ligneris. Has created a fund of 6,000 livres to be distributed in gratuities to the subaltern officers who distinguish themselves in war expeditions. Folio 16, bis, 1½ pages.

May 1. The same to M. de Contrecoeur. The King has granted him a pension of 400 livres. Folio 16½, bis, ½ page.

May 1. The same M. de Sermonville. The King has given him the Cross of St. Louis Id. to MM. de la Corne La Columbière, De Villiers, De Repentigny, Le Mercier. Folio 17, ½ page.

May 15. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King is too well pleased with his services to forget him. Has been made Honorary Commander of the Order of St Louis, with a gratuity of 10,000 livres. Folio 17, 1 page.

April 28. The same to M. Bigot. Will cause to be delivered, on his account, to the Sr. Jauge, merchant at Bordeaux, the masts in the King's storehouses, to be conveyed to St. Domingo on his vessel La Sultane. Folio 17, bis, 1 page.

May 12. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has been pleased to reserve two appointments for lieutenants and two for ensigns in the troops of the Windward Islands, and two lieutenancies and two ensigncies in those of St. Domingo for the young Canadians who distinguished themselves in the last campaigns. Folio 17, bis, 1 page.

May 17. The same to the same. The King is well pleased with the zeal and emulation of the officers, but cannot give to the local Governors, King's lieutenants and town Majors the military grades similar to those granted to the officers of the land troops. Neither can the establishment of a company of cadets for the sons of officers be granted. Statement of the reasons for this. Folio 18, 2 pages.

May 27. The same to M. le Chev. Le Mercier. Favours that he has received from the King. Folio 18½, ½ page.

May 27. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has adopted his suggestions for the filling of vacancies in the general staffs and in the troops in Canada, as well as in the ten substitute companies. Folio 19, 1½ pages.

May 27. The same to M. Rigaud de Vaudreuil. Gives him the goverment of Montreal, vacant by the death of M. le Baron de Longueiul. Folio 19½, ½ page.

May 27. The same to M. le Chev. de Longueuil. The King has given him the government of Three Rivers. Folio 20, ½ page.

May 27. The King to M. de Ramezay. Has been appointed Lieutenant of the King at Quebec. Id. to M. Dumas for the majority of Quebec. Id. to M. de Mazières to proceed from Ile Royale to Canada with the rank of captain. Id. to M. de Lèry, made captain for his services on various occasions. Id. to MM. de Montigny, de St. Martin, de Rouville, de Portneuf, Benoist, de Lotbinière, Croizille de Montesson. Folio 20, 2 pages.

May 27. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has seen with regret the details of his letter of the 23rd of October, concerning the land troops that are in Canada. The King's opinion is that these troops find themselves sufficiently well off in the colony to remain there without repugnance. Should divide the risks and fatigues between all the corps, so that each one of them will have no occasion to complain. What is also material, and 1757. it is this that the King has seen with regret, is, that the land troops do not live on good terms with the Canadians, the Indians and the troops of the colony. Will take suitable measures to remove causes for discontent and make it understood how much the Canadians and Indians merit consideration. It would not be surprising if M. de Montcalm himself had given them some cause of complaint. One cannot become accustomed at once to their ways and their character. It is necessary to know them well in order to lead and make the best of them. Experience will soon teach M. de Montcalm. It will not be long before he learns that mildness, patience and moderation are often necessary with these people. Folio 21, 2 pages.

May —. The same to M. Bigot. Has examined with particular attention the agreement he has made with the Sr. Cadet for the supply of provisions for the troops in Canada, and it is not without great surprise that he has seen the advantageous conditions he has granted. Understands the high prices following the short yield of the last harvest, but these high prices cannot last as long as the agreement This agreement gives the high prices of war years and of bad harvests, without diminution for the years of abundance. Criticism of the various clauses. It is of the last importance that the service be assured, but if there are well founded complaints, whether on the part of the troops, the merchants or the inhabitants, not only will the contract be cancelled but the contractor will be punished. Folio 22, 3 pages.

May 27. The same to M. de Montcalm. Replies to the letter he has written to M. de Machault. The testimony he gives of the conduct of his officers agrees with that of M. de Vaudreuil. The Marquis de Paulmy has provided for filling the vacancies in the six battalions in accordance with his recommendations. If all the supplies sent arrive at their destination the colony will find itself well provided for. Has seen with pleasure the reciprocal confidence existing between him and M. de Vandreuil. His experience in the last campaign will have made him aware of the use the Canadians and the Indians can be in the movements to be undertaken. The valour of the Canadians may be counted on with certainity, as well as their zeal and willingness, as long as they are not treated in a distasteful manner. Their situation of itself merits consideration and their character calls for it still more. Firmness is sometimes necessary with them but an enlightened mildness would be particularly successful with them. As regards the Indians, he will have perceived, that, while it is desirable not to encourage their natural presumption especially in respect of the assistance they can render us, it is at the same time important to make allowance to a certain extent for the fancies that sometimes influence them. Much patience is required to make the best of them. These remarks do not apply to him but he makes them because he has learned that certain officers have dealt in too harsh a fashion with the one and the other. Should encourage those who conduct themselves in a way to efface impressions of this description. On the subject of rations. The King is pleased with his conduct and has given him the cordon rouge. Folio 24, 5 pages.

June 3. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Approves their proposal to fill the vacancies in the Council caused by the deaths of MM. de Lanouiller and Gautier, by the Srs. Bernard and Cugnet. Has granted to the Sr. Guillemin the commission of Lieutenant of the Prévoté at Quebec. Folio 26½, ½ page.

Compiègne. July 27. The same to M. de Vandreuil. The King has been all the more satisfied to learn the details of the expedition of his brother against Fort St. George, that the enemy has referred to it in gazettes as one in which the Canadian detachment has been repulsed with considerable loss. It would have been desirable if M. de Rigaud could have captured the fort and rased it, but the advantage of having destroyed the immense supplies the English had collected there is very important. Has learned with pleasure the result of 1757. the deputation sent by the five Nations. Is aware of the tone in which the English in Europe speak of their claims on the Indians, and should judge that we can make good use of this solemn deputation. It remains to be known whether the Iroquois will keep their engagements. Is glad that he has been able to detach the Têtes Plattes and the Loups from the English. The squadron gathered at Louisbourg seemed to have impressed the enemy. Folio 27, 2 pages.

July 27. The same to M. Bigot. Same subject. Immensity of the expenses. Folio 28, 1 page.

August 3. The same to M. de Montcalm. Has received his letter of the 24th April last by way of Ile Royale. Has heard from M. de Vaudreuil the details of the action fought with a detachment of the enemy sent to capture the convoy from Fort Frédéric to Carillon. The King is satisfied with the conduct of the land officers and troops; he has seen in it a proof of the zeal and emulation that exist in the various corps of the colony. Although some recruits were taken by the enemy, he hopes that, with those who have arrived, they will be able to carry out the arrangements that were the object of this increase in the forces. Caused all the provisions asked for to be sent, even increasing the quantity of flour. It is true that two of the vessels carrying them have fallen into the hands of the enemy. Should now be aware of the armaments the enemy has prepared to act against Canada and Ile Royale by sea. The imposing forces sent by the King to Louisbourg have arrested the execution of the project. His reflections on the marriage of officers and soldiers in the colony are very judicious. The King is much pleased with the useful remarks he has made on the accounts of MM. De Lévis and Bourlamarque. Folio 29, 1½ pages.

August 6. The same to M. de Vandreuil. The dignity with which the Iroquois have invested their delegation causes the belief that they give themselves very little trouble to please the English. This, alone, might cause us to feel confidence in their engagements, if the principles on which they have guided their conduct for so long a period are not known, but their behaviour in the past should be a warning as to the course they are likely to take, and it may well happen that they will be governed by events. Their present action has been too striking not to arouse hope that great advantages may be derived from it. Will report to him on the means to attain the objects desired, seeing that the knowledge he has acquired on everything concerning these Indians, and the consideration he enjoys, give him a choice of easier methods than anyone else commands. The most efficacious treatment is firmness. Will recall all that has been prescribed to him. Experience has shown that for a long time too much leniency has been shown to the Iroquois. Too much confidence has been placed in the reports of certain people who meant to render themselves indispensible in all negotiations with the Indians and in showing the opposite side as presenting chimerical difficulties and inconveniences. Knows all that better than anyone. The intention of the King is not to prevent him using circumspection in dealing with the Iroquois, far from that, but he should be careful to do nothing that could lead them to believe that they are feared or that their alliance is regarded as necessary. The King directs, above all that they are not to be allowed to pass certain limits impunity, with which might lead to ill consequences. Whatever the results of the agreement entered into by the deputation may be, they can always be brought forward to show the illusion of the sovereignty that the English claim to have over the Iroquois and the ridiculous pretensions they found on it in the disputes relating to the respective boundaries of the two powers. It will be well for this purpose to draw up a record setting forth the words of the delegates, the replies and what passed generally at the deputation. Will prepare similar minutes on all future occasions. And, as the Iroquois have often made 1757. public declarations of their independence and these protestations must have been entered on the registers of the law courts of Canada, begs him to have a search made and to forward the copies. Folio 30, 2 pages.

August 6. The same to the Chev. de Lévis. Has received the letter of the 24th of April, that he had addressed to M. de Machault, Keeper of the Seals. MM. de Vaudreuil and Montcalm have not left him in ignorance of his zeal. Folio 31, ½ page.

August 6. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has received his letters of the 18th, 19th and 24th of April last. Has given an account of them to the King. It is to be hoped that the negotiations which the Oneyouts have entered upon concerning to the inhabitants in their vicinity will have the desired success. Will soon know what to do, particularly if the news brought by the Goyogouins to the Sr. Pouchot is found correct. Is well pleased with the success he has obtained up to the present in relation to the government of the Indians. It is well to continue the raids on the enemy in the direction of Belle Rivière, without at the same time too much compromising the forces at his disposal. Is not well informed of the situation in that portion of the country. Would like to know what forts the enemy has raised in those parts not only since the commencement of the war but since they have thought proper to make claim to the lands between the Apalaches mountains and Belle Rivière. The vessel sent from Ile Royale to France for supplies for Ile St. Jean left Brest at the beginning of May. Will take measures in the spring for helping the Acadian families who have sought refuge in our territory. The English are making their greatest efforts for operations by sea. Has lately learned that General Loudon should have reached Halifax, with a considerable body of troops to join those that Admiral Holbourn has taken there from England. Has ground to hope that the forces collected at Louisbourg under the command of the Comte Dubois de Lamothe will render all these preparations useless. Folio 31, 2 pages.

August 6. Pardon for one St. Louis, dit Valence, soldier of the troops of Canada. Id. for one Saline. Folio 32, 2 pages.

March 6. Ordinance of the King prohibiting games of chance in the colonies. Particularly prohibits those called the "3 dés," "le Tope," "le Passe-dix," "les 2 dés," "le Ouiquenove," le Mormonique," "le hoca," "la Bassette," "le Pharaon," "le lansquenet," "le Dupe," "le Beribé," "la Roulette," "la Père ou non," "le Quinze," "les petits paquets," and other games of chance. Folio 33, 1½ pages.

Versailles. October 19. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The King has approved the printing of an account of the principal events of the war during the year. Proposed it to the King on the occasion of the capture of Fort George. Sends them several copies. This account has been well received here and should be still more so in Canada. The honourable testimony borne to all who contributed to the results recorded should help to excite the zeal of all. Will procure rewards for all those who distinguished themselves. Will cause the militia to share in these favours from the King. M. de Vaudreuil must act with great tact and prudence in the selection of participants, otherwise these rewards will do more harm than good. Folio 34, 1½ pages.

October 26. The same to the same. It is an enterprise against Rochefort that the enemy has used the armament the preparations for which for several months have been much talked of in Europe. Their fleet, composed of 120 to 130 sail, of which 18 were ships of the line, with 12,000 to 15,000 regular troops, appeared on the 21st of September before the roadsteads of La Rochelle. On the 23rd, they cannonaded the small fort on Ile D'Aix and obliged the garrison, consisting of 300 men, to surrender. They occupied the island, and that terminated their operations. The fleet left on the 1st of October. It is probable the enemy will make no further attempt on the 1757. ports of France. It is to be hoped their ill success in America will also disgust them with the continuation of the war there. In any case it must be hoped they will not be more fortunate than they have been. Folio 55, 1 page.

October 31. The same to the ame. The storeship La Fortune has happily arrived at Rochefort. Will reply in the spring to all the letters she brought. This one is sent by M. de Drucourt. Is very glad of the success obtained by the troops in their expeditions, but pained at the situation of the country with regard to food. Had taken every measure to provide against this scarcity by sending more flour than was asked for. The Sr. Riouffe, commanding La Fortune, reports having met several vessels in the St. Lawrence. Hopes that their cargoes included provisions and that the grain harvests have proved equal to the early expectations. Folio 36, 1½ pages.

October 31. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King is satisfied with his services. Folio 37, 1 page.

October 31. The same to M. de Montcalm. The King has learned with pleasure of the success of his expedition against Fort George. Folio 38, ½ page.

October 31. The same to M. de Lévis. Has placed before the King the reports that MM. de Vaudreuil and de Montcalm have made, praising his zeal and his conduct at the attack on Fort George. Folio 38, ½ page.

October 31. The same to M. Rigaud de Vaudreuil. The King has been very much pleased with his conduct, as much in the expedition with which he was charged in the month of March last, as in that of M. de Montcalm in the month of August. Folio 38½, ½ page.

December 6. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has given to M. Le Maizat the position of cadet à l'aiguillette in the troops of Canada. Folio 39, ¼ page.

December 14. The same to M. Bigot. Has procured for the Sr. Druillon, ensign in the troops of Canada, the reimbursement of the sum of 3,883 livres that he expended with the English for the detachment of 19 men with whom he was made prisioner on the Oyo in the affair of the Sr. de Jumonville in 1754. Folio 39, ½ page.

December 29. Order declaring an amnesty for deserters in Canada. Folio 39, ¼ page.

ILE ROYALE.

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

Versailles. March 2. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Drucourt. Knows that he had been warned of the suspicions entertained that the enemy had correspondents in Louisbourg and the environs. Relies on his having taken measures for their discovery. Folio 1, ½ page.

March 2. The same to the same. Does not ignore the feeling of M. de Machault with regard to him. His own is the same. Folio 1, ¼ page.

March 10. To M. de Drucourt and Prévost. Circular on the occasion of the appointment of M. de Moras as Minister of Marine.

March 2. The President of the Navy Board to M. Prévost. Will reply very soon to the letter that he wrote to M. de Machault. Profits by the departure of two frigates to tell him he possesses his confidence. Folio 1½, ¼ page.

March 2. The same to M. Franquet. Will shortly receive a detailed reply to the accounts he has given of the fortifications of Louisbourg. The King is satisfied with his zeal. Folio 1½, ½ page.

The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. If the new naval forces intended for the protection of Louisbourg succeed in uniting, there is ground to hope that place will be safe from the attempts of the enemy. It is un-

1757. fortunate that Le Chariot Royal has been taken, as she carried large supplies of provisions. Fresh shipments. Will send funds in silver on the squadron of M. D'Aubigny. Folio 2, 1 page.

March 31. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. Begs them to examine and to have M. Franquet examine the memorial of Abbé Maillard claiming the reimbursement of expenses defrayed by him for the construction of a church and presbytery in Ile Royale with the object of settling the Indians of his mission. He deserves to be favorably treated. Folio 2, bis, ½ page.

April 3. The same to the same. After the arrival at Louisbourg of the Sr. Magalon, who goes there as War Commissary, replacing the Sr. de la Grive, he will take advantage of the first opportunity to have the last named given passage to France. Folio 2, bis, ½ page.

March 31. The same to M. de Drucourt. Observations made to M. Franquet regarding the works on the fortifications. It seems very probable that the English will soon attack Canada from the sea. If the concentration of our naval forces at Louisbourg is effected soon enough, it is likely the English will not attempt anything against that place. In any event, the debarkation of the enemy must be opposed if it can be done without too great a loss. Instructions for the defence for the place. Folio 3, 3 pages.

March 31. The same to M. Franquet. Instructions touching the defence of Louisbourg. Folio 3½, 3 pages.

April 9. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. The King has chosen the Sr. de Pontleroy to fill the position of Engineer-in-Chief of Canada. Sends him his commission. Can retain him if Louisbourg is attacked before his departure. Folio 4, bis, ½ page.

April 9. The same to M. de Pontleroy. At the suggestion of M. Franquet, he has been selected for the position of Engineer-in-Chief in Canada. Folio 4, bis, ½ page.

April 9. The same to M. Franquet. Same subject. Folio 4, bis, ¼ page.

April 9. The same to the same. Has been chosen to replace M. de Drucour in the command of Ile Royale in the event of the latter being unable to act. Folio 4½, ½ page.

April 9. The same to M. Prévost. Will please return the package addressed to him in the year 1755 with orders to open it only in case of M. de Drucour being unable to act. Substitutes another one that he will open only on the same conditions. Folio 4½, bis, ½ page.

May 3. The same to M. de Drucour. The King has granted him a gratuity of 6,000 livres in consideration of the increase in his expences as well as to indemnify him for the loss of part of the supplies that he had ordered in France. Folio 5, ½ page.

May 3. The same to M. Prévost. Id. Gratuity of 3,000 livres. Folio 5, ¼ page.

May 18. The same to the same. Despatch of a cargo of flour by the Sr. de Lalonde on the vessel Le Fils Unique. Folio 5, ½ page.

May 27. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Concerning a case taken before the Admiralty Judges relating to merchandise saved from a wreck. Folio 5, 2 pages.

May 27. The same to M. Drucour. Has had the approval of the King to the promotions he suggested with regard to the officers of the troops. Enumeration of those who have been promoted. Folio 6, 1½ pages.

May 27. The same to the same. Has given the Cross of St. Louis to Sr. Defresne only. Folio 6½, ¼ page.

May 27. The same to M. Come de St. Aigne. Has been promoted captain. Id. for M. de Verteuil. Id. to M. Defresne for the Cross of St. Louis. Folio 7, ½ page.

June 22. The same to M. de Drucourt and Prévost. Is surprised that, far from reducing the expenses, M. Prévost proposes their increase. Understands that in a colony it is necessary to increase its expenses in proportion to its 1757. development, but cannot conceive that his administration requires continued increases in the expenditures without there ever being a question of cutting down or diminution in any one part. Is it necessary that once an expenditure is made the total shall perpetually remain. His intention is to carry out the views of M. de Machault to settle on a fixed sum and send the King's estimates in advance. That is what will be done when the war is over. For the present he forwards him the King's estimates, following the plan he has submitted to him. Folio 8, 2 pages.

June 30. The same to M. de Drucour. Has learned with pleasure of the arrival at Louisbourg of the storeship La Fortune and of L'Appollon at Port Toulouze. Should now be at ease on the question of provisions. Has made arrangements for ensuring further supplies. Counts on the naval force for the defence of Louisbourg meeting there from the 5th to the 20th of this month. The Chev. de Beauffmont left the Cape on the 4th of May. Was surprised that M. Du Revest had not arrived by the 15th of that month, as on the 30th of April, he was within 50 or 60 leagues of the Grand Banks. M. Dubois de Lamotte left on the 3rd of that month with very favourable winds. The English squadron only left Cork on the 8th of May, and naturally the reunion of the various divisions composing the squadron of M. de Lamotte should have taken place in due season. The English squadron consists of only 14 vessels, the list of which he sent to M. de Lamotte. It took under convoy a fleet of 55 vessels conveying troops, the number of which did not exceed 7,000 men. It is probable that the enemy when he becomes aware of our forces at Louisbourg will for this year abandon the execution of his plans by sea. Folio 9, 2 pages.

June 30. The same to M. Franquet. Belives that the English will not undertake anything against Ile Royale, if the King's naval forces have been able to unite. In any case, counts on his zeal, Folio 10, ½ page.

June 30. (In cipher). The same to M. Dubois de Lamotte. Should have been for some time at Louisbourg, where he ought to have met the divisions of M. Du Revest and the Chev. de Beauffrement. From the news he received of the passage of the first at Gibraltar he should have arrived at Louisbourg in the first ten days of May, and yet he was not there by the 15th. Sends him the corvette Le Merlin, commanded by the Sr. de la Garde Payan, to inform him of what he knows as to the naval forces of the enemy. Concerning the squadron of Admiral Holborne. The superiority of our fleet, if it can effect a junction, causes the King to hope it will attack the enemy's fleet, whether before it attempts to undertake anything against Louisbourg or Quebec, or in case it endeavours to put into execution the plans against either the one or the other of these two places. Will approve the course he follows in pursuance of his best judgment. Despatched from Rochefort, on the 22nd of May, two vessels loaded with part of the supplementary food supplies for his squadron. The enemy are also sending a warship, with several vessels from Cork with provisions for Holborne's squadron. Folio 10, 2 pages.

July 1. The same to M. de Drucourt and Prévost. Recapitulation of provisions in store at Louisbourg. Measures taken to complete them. Folio 11, 5½ pages.

Compiègne. July 27. (In cipher.) The same to the same. Has received the letters they addressed to him by the brigantine Le Charmant and the schooner Les Trois Freres. Details respecting the shipments of provisions. There have sailed for Louisbourg from various ports in France, 14 of the King's vessels laden with provisions, of which six have been taken in European waters by English ships, and the eight others, among them La Toisor D'Or and Le Mentor, should have arrived at their destination with nearly 12,000 quintals of flour. Is informed several merchant vessels have arrived at Louisbourg with provisions. Folio 14, 3 pages.

1757-July 27. The same to M. Franquet. Has received his letters of the 18th and 27th of June. The King appeared satisfied with the details he has given. It is to be believed the presence of his squadron would have impressed the enemy. Folio 15, ½ page.

July 27. To M. Dubois de Lamotte. As many things might have occurred to disconcert the measures taken to assure the superiority of our fleet over the enemy, the King has learned with much satisfaction the happy arrival of his squadrons, under his orders at Louisbourg. Awaits with impatience later news, particularly of the squadron of Admiral Holborne. Is not surprised that some of the vessels that sailed from Brest under his commmand had sickness on board. MM. D'Aubigny and de Chavagnac having experienced a difficult and lengthened voyage from Rochefort to Brest, their crews must have suffered. Was uneasy as to his own health. As it is good, his confidence in the happy results of his operations is strengthened. There is no doubt the reunion of his forces had disconcerted the enemy. Folio 15, bis, 2 pages.

July 27. The same to M. Drucour. Has received his letters by the schooner Les Sept Freres and the brigantine Le Charmant. Has learned with an infinitude of pleasure, the reunion of the squadrons. Under these conditions, Louisbourg, if attacked, will be able to defend itself successfully. Sends back Le Charmant. Must not neglect to forward news on every opportunity. Folio 16, 1½ pages.

July 27. The same to M. Prévost. The letters he has received have removed his uneasiness as to his health. Approves the arrangement made for the transportation from Louisbourg to Quebec of the two battalions of the regiment de Berry. Powder for Quebec. Folio 17, 1½ pages.

August 6. The same to M. de Drucour. The suspicions of which he made M. de Machault aware merit more attention than ever. It seems, by the news from England, that the enemy has been exactly informed at Halifax of all that has passed at Louisbourg. When the man André arrives in France he will have him detained. Folio 17½, ½ page.

July 27. The same to M. Dubois de Lamothe. Has received by Le Charmant, arrived at Brest on the 22d. of this month, the intelligence of the reunion of all the divisions of his squadron without any accident. Will await his news with less disquietude and impatience. Does not doubt that he will be able to fustrate the plans of the enemy against Louisbourg and Quebec. By his letter of the 30th of last month, which left Brest by Le Merlin on the 8th of this, he will see that up to that time the squadron of Admiral Holborne, comprising 14 vessels, with a frigate of 20 guns, three corvettes, a bomb-ship and a fire-ship, was the only one destined for North America. The news has since spread that the English Government had sent orders to Admiral Boscawen, who sailed from Portsmouth to cruise in the Gulf of Biscay with a squadron of 8 ships, to join that of Holborne, but that does not appear probable, since Boscawen could not have sufficient provisions for directly undertaking the expedition; moreover, two of these vessels, that have three decks, cannot make the voyage; besides, Boscawen, it must be supposed, would arrive too late to act with Holborne. A more likely report is one that sends a ship of 50 guns and another of 40, from Cork to convoy 20 vessels in which the two battalions of Highlanders raised in Scotland were embarked. It would be desirable that he could meet this fleet in his cruises, and the same might be said of that of Boscawen if what has been reported to him of his destination is true. As he judged the two battalions of the regiment de Berry were not necessary at Louisbourg, he had done well to send them to Canada. Equally approves what he has done in detaching Le Bizarre and Le Célèbre for the same colony. In order to enable him to remain in America as long as the season permits, 1757. has sent 8 vessels from Rochefort loaded with provisions. Folio 17, bis, 4 pages.

Versailles. August 31. The same to the same. For two months there has been a question in England of a considerable armament prepared at the Isle of Wight for an attack on Brest. The latest news informs us that this project has been recognized as too difficult, and it has even been claimed they have abandoned all idea of attempts on the coasts of France. It is also claimed they have adopted the idea of forming a strong squadron to wait for ours on its return to Europe and that Admiral Holborne has received orders to attack it, strong or weak. This last statement does not seem very probable. In any case he should himself profit by any opportunities he may have to attack Holborne's squadron. Will send before long the squadron fitting out at Brest under the command of M. de Conflans. These preparations have been delayed by the works carried on for the defense of Brest. By the news from England, Admiral Holborne had arrived at Halifax with his fleet, where he was to be joined by General Loudon who has gone to New York with a considerable body of troops with the view of carrying into execution the plans formed against Louisbourg and Quebec. Folio 18, bis, 2 pages.

August 31. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Measures taken for forwarding provisions. Awaits news from them with impatience. Folio 19, 1 page.

October 2. (In cipher). The same to the same. Same subject. Folio 19, bis, 2 pages.

October 31. The same to the same. Same subject. Folio 20, 1 page.

October 31. The same to the same. Same subject. Is without news from them since their letters of the end of June and the commencement of July. Has received no intelligence of any capture by the English except that of the vessel La Parole. Folio 21, 2 pages.

December 24. The same to M. Prévost. Has received his letter of the 2nd of October, with the package addressed to him by M. de Machault in 1755. Folio 21½, ¼ page.

November 19. The same to M. Drucour. Informs him that the King has granted M. Prévost the grade of Commissary General of the Navy. Folio 21, bis, ¼ page.

November 19. The same to M. Prévost. Same subject. Folio 21, bis, ½ page.

December 24. The same to MM. Drucour and Prévost. As they cannot flatter themselves that the enemy is disheartened by the ill-success of his plans against Louisburg and Quebec, but as, on the contary, he is actively preparing for fresh efforts next spring, hastened, on the reception of these letters by the returned squadron, to render an account to the King of all that relates to the defence of the colony. Necessity of continuing the works on the fortifications. Cannot increase the number of troops in the colony unless it be in adding to them one company of canoneers. Has ordered the sending of six mortars and of 6 guns of 6. Provisions. Folio 22, 7 pages.

The same to M. Franquet concerning the fortifications. Folio 25½, 1 page.

1757. Versailles. January 17. The President of the Navy Board to M. Hocquart. Relating to the arrival of the vessel Le Charment returned from Ile Royale. Folio 1, ½ page.

January 19. The same to Guillot. Concerning the embarkation of 800 to 900 recruits for Canada. Folio 1, 1 page.

January 2. The same to M. Rouillé. The warning contained in the letter from M. le Comte d'Affy merits particular attention. This Pichon, the man in question, was in reality the secretary of M. le Comte de Raymond at Louisburg. It is equally certain that he was at Beauséjour at the time of the capture of that fort, and the circumstances connected with his special treament by the English during his retention by them in Acadia, together with his present sojourn in England certainly tend to, render him an object of suspicion. The correspondence he might carry on with persons at Fort Frederic is less important than his knowledge of Louisburg and the relations he may have maintained there. The best use that the warning from M. D'Affy can be put to would be to secure his purpose and to this end to accept the offer made by the one who gave the information. It will be well to write promptly to M. D'Affy. Folio 1½, ½ page.

March 30. The same to M. Rouillé. The information that M. D'Affray has supplied and his two letters, confirm what we already knew on the subject of the views of the English respecting Canada. There is no appearance, nevertheless, that the project of the Sr. Lasalle, so far as shown from the notes of M. D'Affray, has been approved. If the enemy carries out no others there is no cause for alarm. Will, however, make use of these advices by communicating them to Canada. Folio 31, ½ page.

The same to the same. Will not forget the missionaries detained in England. Is occupied in procuring their return, but discretion is necessary particularly with regard to Abbé Le Loutre. It is grievious that M. the Bishop of Quebec should have been obliged to take rigorous steps against the Capuchins of Louisiana. Is persuaded he has not acted without the very gravest reasons. In the meantime the Capuchins have neglected nothing that could cause the belief that they regard themselves as independent of the Bishop. Measures to be taken to restore harmony. Folio 93, 2 pages.

Fontainebleau. September 14. The same to the same. Has just received the reply of the Capuchins of Champagne. They have the idea that the Jesuits are ambitious of being in sole charge of the service of the church in Louisiana, and for this reason, not hoping for the re-establishment of peace, they declare themselves ready to cede the territory to the Jesuits. It is easy to see that what they take most to heart is the withdrawing by the Bishop of the appointment of the Vicar General from the Capuchins and the granting of the same to the Jesuits. It is desirable that the former be allowed some compensation in this respect so that they may decide not to withdraw from the country. Begs him to conciliate matters. Folio 108, 2 pages.

November 27. The same to M. de Paulmy. The two vessels of the King lately arrived from Canada at Brest, brought a company of 56 Irish that M. de Vaudreuil thought proper to send to France under the direction of the Sr. Maine, whom they had chosen as their leader. This company, formed from among the English prisoners, was employed last year on the works of the fortifications of Quebec. M. de Vaudreuil, although satisfied with their zeal and services, particularly those of the Sr. Maine, did not see his way to use them for the military operations of the colony. Can have them incorporated in the Irish regiments maintained in the King's service. Folio 150, 1 page.

CANADA. (4TH PART.)

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

1758. Versailles. January 18. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Vaudreuil. Respecting the leave-of-absence asked for the Chev. de Rosmodue, officer in the second battalion of Béarn, serving in Canada. Folio 1, ½ page.

January 18. The same to M. de Montcalm. Same subject. Folio 1½, ½ page.

February 3. Warrant of Naturalization for the Sr. Feltz, Surgeon-Major of the troops at Montreal. Folio 2, 2 pages.

February 3. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. As to the registration of the above warrant. Folio 2½, ¼ page.

February 10. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The amalgamation of the engineering service with the artillery service is not practicable. It would entirely upset the constitution of the service. Observations on this subject. Folio 3, 2½ pages.

February 10. The same to M. de Montcalm. It is on the recommendation of M. de Vaudreuil that the second company of the cannoneer-bombardiers has been established. The six officers who are to command it have been selected in France from the corps of artillery. Is informed that his last despatches did not reach him. Is having copies sent to him at the same time as this. Observations respecting the amalgamation of the engineering and artillery services. Folio 4, 2 pages.

February 10. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. After mature reflection, has not considered it suitable to adopt the proposition he has made, conjointly with M. de Montcalm, to form the regular troops of the colony in battalions unless these battalions are in temporary formation in the course of a campaign and their companies in sufficent numbers for the purpose. General observations with regard to the troops. Folio 5, 3 pages.

February —. (In cipher). The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has placed before the King the project with which he credits the English for surprising Quebec. Is persuaded that the English would reap very little advantage from it. Could keep informed of the plans of the English by advanced posts and scouts, on land, and on the river by the Sr. de Rivol who has established a watch at Gaspé. Has received from the Srs. Pontleroy and Pellegrin separate observations on the places liable to an attack in the St. Lawrence. May have these observations sent to him if he desires, and tell them observations of this importance should be in cipher. Folio 7, 1½ pages.

February 10. The same to M. Bigot. Has done well to oblige the victualling contractor to draw the supplies of food for the forts situated on the Ohyo from Illinois. It is regrettable that the pillage of the food that was in the Fort William Henry could not be stopped. Is touched by the misery that exists in the colony. Has done right to allow M. Varin to leave, since his health necessitated it. His demands on the Sr. Gradis for victualling will be filled. Will receive the 150,000 printed money notes that he asked for. Has received the account of the Treasurer of the colony for 1755. Did well to send the English in Fort William Henry that the Indians had made prisoners promptly to Halifax. Approves the expenses he has defrayed for these English. Approves his having caused those of whom he has sent a list to embark on Le Célèbre and Le Bisarre. Folio 7, 2 pages.

February 10. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has learned with pleasure the good condition of the troops of the colony, but it is grievous that those from France have experienced so heavy a mortality. Has provided for the recruits. Since le Sr. Foucher, junr., has conducted himself badly, he cannot succeed his father as Procureur du Roi at Montreal if the latter retires. Concerning le Sr. Charly. Folio 8, 1½ pages.

February 10. The same to M. de Montcalm. The Treasurers-General of the colonies ought to make an advantageous arrangement for M. de la Rochette in whom he is interested. Will take account of his representations with respect to the 8 lieutenants of the new companies of de la Reyne and of Languedoc who have left Dunkerque. Folio 8½, ½ page.

February 10. The same to the same. Relating to the composition of the battalions of regular troops of the colony. A Staff Inspector could be appointed. Folio 9, 1½ pages.

February 10. The same to M. le Chev. de Lévis. Has seen with pleasure the details preceding the attack and after the capture of Fort George. MM. de Vaudreuil and de Montcalm have greatly praised his zeal and activity in carrying out the operations of which he had charge. Folio 10, ½ page.

February 10. The same to M. Desandrouins. Has received the precis he prepared of the events of the last campaign in Canada. M. de Montcalm has written that he had put him in charge of the siege operations and that he was satisfied with his conduct. Folio 10, ½ page.

February 10. The same to M. Bougainville. Has read with pleasure his letter concerning the capture of Fort George. Folio 10, ¼ page.

February 10. The same to M. Bigot. Relating to bills of exchange. Folio 10, ¼ page.

The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has procured a warrant as surgeon of the King for the Sr. Alavoine, surgeon of the troops at Three Rivers. Cannot decide anything yet on the application of the Sr. Levasseur to be appointed in France as ship-builder to the King. Does not forget that he has ability, and is well disposed in his favour. Neither will he February 10. forget the Sr. Cressé, assistant ship-builder. Folio 11, ½ page.

February 10. The same to M. de Montcalm. Respecting the Sr. de Charly. Folio 11½, ½ page.

The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has procured their retirement on half pay for the Srs. de la Corne, Senr. and the Chev. de St. Louis, and to the Srs. de Cabanac and de Boucherville, captains, the half pay, and the Cross of St. Louis for the last two named. Folio 12, ½ page.

The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has given the position of captain of the gates of the town of Quebec to the Sr. Aubert; and pensions to the widows of officers deceased on service, namely, 300 livres to the widow of M. de Beaujeu; 250 to the widow of Chev. de Gannes; 200 to the daughter of the Sr. de Léry, deceased, Engineer-in-Chief, and 300 to February 10. the widow of the Sr. de Villers. Folio 12, ½ page.

The same to the same. Gratuities have been granted to the Sr. Briault, Surgeon-Major, and to the Religieuses Hospitalières of Quebec and Montreal, February 10. for their zeal in caring for the invalid soldiers. Folio 13, ½ page.

February 10. The same to M. the Bishop of Quebec. Same subject. Id. to the Marquis de Montcalm. Folio 13, ½ page.

The same to M. Bigot. Efforts that he is making to provide victualling. Will not leave the King in ignorance of the zeal with which he has done everything possible for the King's service and for the inhabitants of the 1758. colony whose patience can but increase the praise due to their fidelity, and approves his having caused rice to be supplied at 10 sols the pound for which he had paid 20 to a Marseilles captain who had bought 500 quintals. Folio 14, 2 pages.

February 10. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has with pleasure sent the six blank commissions for captains of militia. Will announce to the inhabitants the King's satisfaction at the zeal and bravery of which they have given proof. Folio 15, 1 page.

February 10. The same to the same. Approves his having permitted the Sr. Schyler, of the Jersey regiment, and Le Martin, captain of artillery, English prisoners, to return to New England there to obtain funds to enable them to live in Canada. Has done right to accept their word of honour to be at Carillon on the 10th of May next. Will nevertheless observe that the officers are more likely to inform their Government on our situation. Concerning the Sr. Deschambault. Folio 16, 1 page.

February 11. The same to M. Doreil. May address himself to M. Bigot for the remittance to France of the 32,400 livres realised by the sale of the property of M. de Dieskau. Folio 16½, ¼ page.

February 11. The same to M. Bigot. Same subject. Folio 16½, ¼ page.

February 14. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has seen the details of the raids that various parties of troops, of Canadians and of Indians, have made against the English in the midst of their colonies. The advantages we gain from this kind of warfare, though often small enough, should nevertheless weaken the English and cause them discouragement. It is very proper to harass them in this way, but at the same time he must see that these parties do not go too far, especially when they are composed of troops of the colony and Canadians, of whose blood he must be sparing. It is regretable that Fort Duquesne is not better placed and that it was made so small. A good fort in this locality is of importance and it should be placed in a good state of defense. Is touched at the situation in the colony and the zeal that the inhabitants displayed in depriving themselves of their provisions to supply the needs of the army that marched against Fort George. Is satisfied with the results of the negotiations with the Iroquois. Hopes he will be able to withdraw the Mohawks wholly from the side of the English and is very happy to see that the efforts of the latter to secure the other Iroquois served only to make them despised. The firmness he showed in making them give up the murderers of the two Frenchmen who were killed in Missouri had a good effect. The English plan for the invasion last year that was given to the English Ambassador in Holland was badly conceived. He does well to prepare to repulse an attack on Quebec, but it is not to be believed that the English will involve themselves on the St. Lawrence as long as there is a squadron of some strength at Louisbourg. Is persuaded, by all the information he has received, that the Canadians and Indians contributed greatly to the success of the expedition against Fort George, and that they deserve all the praise he gives them for their zeal and their valour, but sees with regret that he continually makes complaints of the troops from France. Cannot believe that there is prejudice on his part, and exhorts him to treat them in such a manner as to get the best possible service from them. Neither does he question all the good he says of M. de Lévis, but, does he believe that M. de Montcalm has less zeal and talent? Believes, as he says, that he is careful to conceal from the public the trifling reproaches he considers himself bound to make to the Commandant. Would be sorry if he learned that a perfect understanding did not exist between them. Has written to M. de Montcalm on this subject, and relies that he will perceive a change in his attitude towards him. Will concert with M. de Paulmy with the view of obtaining the rank of Major General that he asks for M. de Lévis. Regrets that after 1758. the capitulation of Fort George, the English exposed themselves to the fury of the Indians notwithstanding the precautions that had been taken to guarantee their safety. Has conducted himself well in this affair, and from the manner in which he showed what occurred, nothing can be imputed to us in this respect, but on the contrary the English ought to land our generous behaviour. It is very regrettable that they do not imitate us and that they maltreat our prisoners, as is stated. Should make great efforts to maintain M. de Boishébert at the river St. Jean, this point being important. Approves his having stopped Le Bizarre and La Célèbre at Ile aux Coudres and sent them promptly back to France since they were short of provisions. Folio 17, 4 pages.

February 14. The same to M. Bigot. Relating to victualling. Folio 19, 1 page.

February 14. The same to MM. le Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has procured the favours he asked for the various Courts of Justice in the colony. Sends the appointment of Honorary Councillor in the Superior Council for the Sr. Estèbe. Folio 19, ½ page.

February 14. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Not having given the details of his action in sending back the Sr. de Villeray and de Gannes to Ile Royale, has not thought it necessary to report to the King. Folio 20, 1 page.

February 15. The same to the same. On the details of all the good he says of the Sr. de Boishébert amd the advantages he has gained over the English on various occassions, the King has granted him the Cross of St. Louis which he sends to M. Drucour. Folio 20½, ½ page.

February 15. The same to M. Boishébert. Same subject. Folio 20½, ½ page.

February 15. The same to M. Bigot. The Treasurers-General will give an assistant to M. Imbert, their clerk. Cannot procure a warrant for the Sr. Foucher as principal King's scrivener, as he recommends, this year. Has done right to send six masts to M. Prévost to repair the accidents from a gale sustained by M. de Lamotte's squadron at Louisbourg in the month of September. Folio 22, 1 page.

February 19. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. M. de St. Rome, who distinguished himself at the fight of the Robuste, returns to Canada with recruits. Would be glad if he could give him a company or secure him some other advantageous position. The Marechal de Bellisle is particularly interested in him. Folio 23, 1 page.

February 20. The same to M. Bigot. Concerning M. de St. Rome. Folio 24, ½ page.

February 24. The same to the same. The intention of M. de Paulmy is not to recall M. Dorcil before the end of the war. It is important to have a good understanding with him. Folio 24, 1 page.

Februar 24. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Communicates to them information he has received which permits him to believe that the dearth can be, to a great extent, relieved by the culture of the potatoe. This vegetable, farinaceous and nourishing, is good alike for man and beast and is grown well in New England. It is much used in Germany and in the Messin country. Knows it gives an abundant yield and it requires little care. Will learn whether this plant exists in Canada, and in this case encourage its growth. It would be a great resource at a time of scarcity. Will nevertheless make this observation, that it is necessary to inquire, first, whether the ease with which cultivation is carried on may not tend to a diminution of that of wheat when the inhabitants are accustomed to the use of potatoes; and further, whether there may not be some danger in making this plant known to the Indians, who, scarcely equal to the care required in the cultivation of the grains, may satisfy themselves with growing potatoes, which requires no care. It is in general less their inclinations than their wants that hold them in dependance on us; and finding it so easy to subsist by the use of this vegetable, might we not find a diminution of their attachment? Begs them to weigh these reflections, for, if on the one hand some 1758. advantage can be found in this new cultivation, on the other we must endeavour not to fall into a more dangerous inconvenience, if the result should be a disinclination on the part of the inhabitants to continue the growth of the grains. Such disinclination would lead them insensibly into idleness, and it is important to keep them in the activity and at the work that have made them so brave a people as they are today.

February 28. The same to the same. Sends them duplicates of the despatches that have not reached them, in which he asks for information in view of effecting retrenchments in certain expenses. Gratuities. Folio 25, bis., 1½ pages.

February 28. The same to the same. Respecting the representations of M. La Tour Dupin, colonel of the regiment de Guyenne. Folio 26, 1 page.

March 3. The same to M. Bigot. Respecting the emoluments of the Sr. de St. Rome. Folio 26, ½ page.

March 3. The same to M. de Montcalm. Edified somewhat as he may be at the good uuderstanding that outwardly exists between him and M. de Vaudreuil, he would gladly hope it were accompanied by all the intimacy that the good of the service requires. Knows well both are too much attached to the King's interests to allow his service to suffer in essential things, but at the same time it is very difficult to prevent a division of sentiments having an influence on operations. This is not the moment to appraise the qualities or the talents of those who direct affairs ; the principal object is to make the best of everything and live in reciprocal good feeling. Will take note of the recommendations he makes in favour of some officers of the colony, but, as favours can only be granted on the application of M. de Vaudreuil, he will write to him if he defers proposing them. Desires to oblige M. de Bougainville, but can only act indirectly with respect to favours asked for. Should not question the good disposition he entertains in regard to him and it is for this reason he sends him a special cipher, so that he may give free expression to any observations he might desire to make on military operations and the administration of the colony. Folio 27, 1½ pages.

March 3. The same to MM. Vaudreuil and Bigot. On the good reports given by M. de Vaudreuil on the talent and probity of the Sr. Pérault, has sent him the order of the King giving him the position of Clerk of the Marshallsea in Canada. Folio 28, ½ page.

March 6. The same to M. Bigot. The captain of the vessel Le Godichon who will deliver this letter to him, takes a cargo of 2,400 barrels of flour. Folio 28, ½ page.

March 16. The same to MM. Vaudreuil and Bigot. Sends a War Commissary to Canada to assist M. Doreil. The choice has fallen on the Sr. Bernier, who served at Quebec as aide-de-camp to the Baron de Dieskau. Will have the same emoluments as M. de Crancé. Folio 29, ½ page.

March 20. The same to the same. Is occupied constantly with measures for increasing the shipment of supplies for Canada. Sends them instructions given him on the manner of preparing rice for the nourishment of a large number of people at small cost, and several copies which they will have distributed among the inhabitants. Will enquire if the results equal expectations. Folio 29, ½ page.

March 23. The same to the same. Three vessels will be sent from Dunkerque carrying 400 tons of seed wheat and as much rice for the subsistence of the inhabitants. In leaving Quebec they will be convoyed by La Valeur and La Mignonne to Cape François where they are to take cargo. Folio 30, 1 page.

March 25. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The Sr. Druillon, ensign in the troops of Canada, has asked the place of Lieutenant and it appears he deserves it for 1758. important services he has rendered. M. le Comte de la Galissonniére, a relative, particularly recommended him. Folio 31, ½ page.

March 25. The same to M. Bigot. The Sr. Bazagier returns to Canada to resume service as a King's scrivener. His health has made him restless in the positions he has successively asked for, but he has none the less been assiduous in his work. He would like to serve in the most southern part of the colony. Will try to place him at a post in the upper country. Folio 31½, 1 page.

March 27. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The vessels Le St. Pierre, La Baleine and L'Annach of Dunkerque, will be convoyed to Quebec by the frigates La Valeur and La Mignonne. Can retain these frigates if they require them. Folio 32, 1 page.

March 27. The same to same. The King of Spain having granted his subjects permission to fish on the Banks of Newfoundland and to trade with our settlements in America, they will extend them protection. Folio 32½, 1 page.

March 28. The same to the same. The King has allowed the Sr. Gautier of Marseilles, to send the storeship La Louie to Canada with a cargo of provisions and utensils. Folio 33, ½ page.

April 7. The same to M. Bigot. This letter will be delivered to him by the Sr. Albarez, captain of the Spanish vessel Le St. Thomas who has permission to come to Bordeaux to load a cargo of provisions and take it to Canada. Folio 33, ½ page.

April 8. The same to the same. Concerning the separation of the funds of the colony from those of the Navy. Folio 34, 2 pages.

April 19. The same to the same. Will prepare a statement of the actual tonnage of the vessels that are to carry provisions and other goods on account of the King to Canada. Folio 35, 1 page.

April 22. The same to the same. Relating to the settlement of the dates of payment of the bills of exchange. Folio 36, 1 page.

April 23. The same to the same. This letter will be sent to him by the Sr. de Plazentia, commanding the Spanish vessel La Ville de Bilbao chartered to carry a cargo of provision from Bordeaux to Quebec. Folio 36½, ½ page.

April 24. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Passage on the vessels that are to sail from Dunkerque has been granted to several Alsatian families who who are going to settle in Canada. The intention of the King is that they be placed near the towns and given land, seed and tools. Folio 37, 1 page.

May 9. The same to M. Bigot. Will grant the Compagnie des Indes withdrawal of the seizure of paintings it sent to Canada last year for the trade of the post of Chouëguen. Relating to the freight due by this company for 200 bales of beaver carried on the King's vessels. Folio 38, 1½ pages.

May 22. The same to the same. Respecting the measures taken to arrest and convict the authors of the theft from the King's chest at Montreal. Folio 39, 1 page.

May 30. Circular from M. de Moras, announcing his retirement and that it is M. de Marriac who will succeed him in the position of Secretary of the Department of Marine. Folio 39, ¼ page.

June 10. Circular announcing the appointment of M. le Normant to the position of Intendant General of the Navy and the Colonies. Folio 39½, ¼ page.

June 4. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Learns with pleasure by the schooner La Monette that near Newfoundland she met two vessels sailing with a good wind for the St. Lawrence. Hopes that they have made port safely as well as the others that left shortly after them. Folio 40, 2 pages.

June 24. The same to M. Bigot. If the expences, as he says, will show an increase of three or four millions over last year, he does not see how it can be met. It is only by extraordinary efforts that the bills of exchange have been paid up to the present time. Observations. Folio 41, 2 pages.

1758. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has learned with pleasure the advantages gained by the parties of Canadians and Indians during the winter in all parts of the colony from Belle River to Acadia. The success of the party of the Sr. de Bellestre in punishing the Palatins, destroying their village and rasing the forts that covered them, must have given the Indians a just idea of the firmness of his sentiments and the necessity of paying attention to what he says to them. Can but praise his conduct and the bravery and activity of the Sr. de Bellestre, but sees with regret that they were unable to carry away for the subsistence of the troops the considerable stores of provisions in this village. It would seem that the 500 horses taken from the Palatins should have sufficed for transport. Fears that the insufficiency of provisions may impede their operations in the spring. The expedition of the Sr. de La Durantaye shows nevertheless that he neglects nothing that is calculated to destroy the enemy and to maintain the advantages continually gained by him up to the present. The King desires to testify by some favour his satisfaction with the Sr. de La Durantaye for the bravery and ability he displayed in deceiving Robert Rogers and leading him to leave the advantageous position that he occupied on the mountain. Will do the same for the Srs. de Richarville and de La Chevotière, who formed part of the expedition. The loss the English sustained by the defeat of Robert Rogers must have been considerable, since, in the account they have given of this expedition they claim he escaped after losing many of his officers. They have no others with the Indians except Colonel Johnson, and is glad to learn that the two Nontagués prevented him from carrying out the plan he had formed of going to their village with provisions to secure their adherence to his side. The supplies that he must have received by the vessels met near Newfoundland should place him at his ease with respect to the Indians who left him at the instigation of the English and the scarcity of supplies in our storehouses prevented his retaining. Our successes should make an impression on the Iroquois. The pillage of the village of the Palatins could but confirm that impression. Hopes that the Sr. de Boishébert would have been able to reach Ile Royale with his detachment of soldiers and Canadians before the arrival of the enemy. Does not say if he was with the 50 Acadians who after having been in the neighbourhood of Port Royal were pursued by a detachment of 200 English, of whom they killed 26, obliging the rest to retire, with a loss of two wounded only. Folio 42, 3 pages.

August 7. The same to the same. Has seen with pleasure by his last letter the arrangements he has made to ward off the various attacks that the enemy has planned this year towards Belle Rivière and the Lakes. Notwithstanding his circumstantial reports of the forces that the English are to put in movement, does not believe they will be so considerable as stated. In any case is very glad that he was informed soon enough to send M. de Lévis in the direction of Carillon. Seems to have some disquietude as to Fort Duquesne, seeing that the convoy sent from Illinois was waited for by the English at Belle Rivière. Soon learned that this convoy arrived safely at the fort. Is likely to find resources with the Iroquois, whose disposition towards us appears to be good. The provisions sent by the Sr. Gradis, and which he should have received, ought to enable him to win their attachment and to cement the alliance with the Loups. Has learned that the neighbouring nations of Ohio, particularly the Chéraquis, have renounced all connection with the English. Might, at the time when he wrote (May) have thought he would be reduced to the defensive for want of food, but if he has received the greater part of what has been sent him, he should have found himself more at his ease and the confidence of the colony should have been renewed. The King has the greatest confidence in him and in the willingness of the troops and the Canadians. Awaits day by day news of 1758. the besieging of Louisbourg. Has learned of the arrival at Port Lajoie of Captain de Boishébert with his detachment. Counts on his having reached Louisbourg. Folio 44, 2½ pages.

August 7. The same to M. Bigot. Has been touched by the sad picture he draws of the condition of the colony. Has ground to hope the assistance since received will have given relief. The vessels destined for Ile Royale have orders to proceed to Quebec, if they find Louisbourg blockaded, and all carry victualling. Sees with extreme pain the excessive expences caused by the operations of the war and scarcity of food. Begs him in the autumn to give him the most exact information on the situation in the colony, the condition of the storehouses and that of the finances, leaving him in ignorance of nothing relating to the administration of the colony. Folio 45, 2 pages.

August 7. The same to M. de Montcalm. On the situation in the colony with regard to victualling. On the battalionising of the troops. Folio 46, 1½ pages.

August 7. The same to M. de Lévis. Has been informed of the command given him in the Carillon district. Will make the most of his services with the King. P.S.—Mde. la Marec'.ale, Duchesse de Mirépoix, solicits his return to France. Will do all that he thinks will be best for him. Folio 47, ½ page.

August 7. The same to M. Doreil. The creditable accounts given of his zeal by the chiefs of the colony have inspired every confidence in him. Folio 47, ½ page.

August 31. The same to M. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Concerning the Sr. Antoine Le Tailleur de St. Antoine, on leave in France. Folio 47½, ½ page.

August 26. (In cipher.) The same to the same. Has received no news from Louisbourg, but the English announce its capture in so positive a manner, has thought it his duty to send them a corvette to p'ace them in possession of the observations that this grievous occurrence requires his communicating to them. The season is too advanced to allow the English to undertake anything against Quebec, but in the meantime their attention will probably be given to the establishment of posts as far as Gaspé, as much to gain the Indians as to procure safe places for their privateers to put into. Is persuaded that M. de Vaudreuil will do everything necessary to prevent that, without which it will be difficult to victual and help the colony next year, when the entrance to the St. Lawrence will be blockaded. Even this year, under less difficult circumstances, our shipments to Canada have met with heavy losses. Folio 47, bis, 2½ pages.

August 26. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Although the season is well advanced, has had a corvette despatched to him, hoping he may gain some anchorage in the river from which the despatches she carries can be forwarded. Folio 48, 1 page.

September 11. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The Sr. Chomel, who had been appointed King's physician in Canada, being dead, the King has appointed in his place the Sr. Le Beau who had been presented by the Sr. Boyer. Folio 48, bis, ½ page.

August 26. (In cipher). The same to M. de Montcalm. There can be no doubt of the fall of Louisbourg. Will omit nothing to help with M. de Vaudreuil in keeping up the zeal and ardour of the troops. Folio 48, bis, 1 page.

September 23. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Could not have furnished a more agreeable account to the King than that of the brilliant action fought on the 8th of July below Fort Carillon with General Abercromby. Relies on his neglecting nothing to resist the efforts that will be made to penetrate again into Canada. His joy is, however, much diminished by the details he has given of all that has passed between him and M. de Montcalm. Nothing could happen more unfortunately under existing circumstances than the 1758. diversity of opinion which exists between them, and it is with actual pain that he sees M. de Montcalm determined to demand his recall and that he desires it. In awaiting the decision of the King, recommends him to show every regard for M. de Montcalm that the good of the service permits. M. de Montcalm in his last letter appeared disposed to a reconciliation with him and to seek his confidence again. Knows that he has authorized M. Bougainville to make efforts to this effect. Hopes they will both discard all counsels and private feelings that might be an obstacle to the good understanding that ought to exist between them. Folio 49, 2 pages.

September 23. (In cipher). The same to M. de Montcalm. Concerning the slight coolness that a difference of opinion has produced between him and M. de Vaudreuil. Will take counsel with M. le Maréchal de Belleisle on the subject of his demand to be recalled. Folio 50, 1 page.

The same to M. de Lévis. M. de Montcalm has acquainted him better than his own modesty has allowed him to do, with the part he took in the days operations on the 8th of July. The King has charged him to express his satisfaction to him. Folio 50½, ½ page.

September 23. The same to M. Bigot. Has received his letters by the frigate La Valeur, arrived at Brest. Relating to the victualling and the accounts of his administration. Recommends him to give his care and attention to the maintenance of harmony between MM. de Vaudreuil and de Montcalm. Folio 51, 1 page.

September 27. The same to M. de Montcalm. Had already been made aware, by the news from England, of his victory of the 8th of July. M. Péan, major of Quebec, has confirmed it. To have repulsed and defeated an army of 25,000 men with a much inferior corps of troops, can have been due only to the valour, the activity and the zeal of the officers of the various corps, and above all to MM. de Lévis and de Bourlamarque, and to the wise dispositions that he had made. It is only with the greatest regret that he finds himself required to speak to the King of his return. Folio 51, 1 page.

September 23. The same to M. Doreil. Profits by a small vessel sailing from Brest to acknowledge the receipt of his letter of the 28th of July. Thanks him for the details he has given of the affair of the 8th of July. Is busy with the recruiting. Folio 52, 1½ pages.

September 23. The same to M. de Bourlamarque. Has placed before the King the proofs of zeal he has given in his service. Has learned with sorrow that he has been dangerously wounded. Folio 52, ½ page.

September 23. (In cipher). The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Defers until later his replies to all their despatches received by La Valeur. Is unable to conceal from them the extent to which he has been struck by the excessive expenses of the colony, particularly those of this year, which M. Bigot says may reach twenty millions, besides another million expenses defrayed for the Indians of the upper country occasioned by the ravages of small-pox. It is not possible, notwithstanding the dearness of food and the consumption caused by the war, that the expenses should rise to such an exhorbitant sum unless there has been negligence or abuse. The King has shown the greatest surprise and a dissatisfaction that he knew not how to express. In fine, it cannot be denied that the expenses of Canada have grown beyond all kinds of bounds and reached a point which it is not possible any longer to provide for. Folio 53, 1½ pages.

September 23. The same to M. de Bougainville. Is charmed to learn of his journey to Montreal, believing that his wound was the sole motive. After the services that he rendered in the affair of the 8th of July he could do nothing better than to seek to reconcile divergent minds. His return to the army leads him to presume he has recovered from his wound. Should have received his service letters for the rank of quartermaster. Folio 54, 1 page.

September 7. Circular from M. Berryer, announcing that he succeeds M. de Marriac in the Ministry of Marine. Folio 54½ ¼ page.

September 25. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Sends him a copy of a letter containing information that may be useful to him. Execution of the plans mentioned appears to him difficult and perhaps even impracticable, but is very glad to inform him of everything, so that he may judge better what is best to do. Folio 55, 1 page.

September 25. The same to M. Bigot. Relating to the vessel La Toison d'Or, disarmed and condemned at Quebec. Folio 55, ½ page.

ILE ROYALE.

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

Versailles, January 11. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Is sending six Religuieuses for the needs of the hospital at Louisbourg, with six hospital attendants. One of them, Brother Potentien Bernand, is to replace the Superior, who is dead. Folio — 1 page.

January 11. The same to the same. Provisions sent and to be sent. If all arrive without accident, the storehouses will be found amply provided for. Folio 2, 2 pages.

January 14. The same to the same. M. de Beaussier, who was to command the first division bound for Ile Royale, being ill, he cannot proceed to his destination. He will be replaced by M. de La Villéon. Has learned that the frigates taking the first convoy were attacked by a squadron of the enemy 100 leagues from the coast but were able to escape pursuit and make port, but it is to be feared that two or three vessels in the convoy may have been taken. Will have the second convoy sent in two or three divisions. The enemy is making preparations to attack Louisbourg. The attack is decided on. Has no news of L'Aigle or L'Eveillé. Folio 3, 1½ pages.

February 11. The same to M. Prévost. Awaits impatiently news of the arrival at Louisbourg of L'Aigle and L'Eveillé, the cargoes of which are important. Approves his having sent Le Charmant to Quebec. Has learned that this brigantine had been taken on returning to France, which deprives him of the despatches she would have brought. Does not approve the conduct of the officers with regard to the prizes. Relating to the damage caused to the English fleet and French vessels by the hurricane of the 25th of September. Will defer the exchange of the Sr. John Tane, first lieutenant of the vessel Le Tilbury, which is wrecked on the coast, seeing that he appears to be talented and is well acquainted with Ile Royale. Is satisfied with the details supplied with regard to Gauthier, sent by him to the vicinity of Halifax to enquire into the position of the English. Folio 7, 3 pages.

February 11. The same to the same. Gives him a proof of his esteem by informing him of the talk more or less founded in circulation about him since the return of the squadron of M. Dubois de Lamotte to Brest. It is said that he permits games of chance in his house and that the military and civil officers lost as much as between 15,000 to 20,000 livres during the time the squadron was at Louisbourg. This is contrary to the ordinances, to good example and to good administration. Folio 8, 1 page.

February 11. The same to the same. Relating to the account of expences. Can but approve his having taken means to send word to Quebec of the presence of the English squadron at Ile d'Aix. Folio 9, 1 page.

February 11. The same to M. de Drucour. The King has listened favourably to the various applications he has made on behalf of the officers of the colony, 1758. with the exception of those for increasing their emoluments. Promotions. The Sr. Du Hayet died on his arrival in France. Folio 10, 1½ pages.

February 11. The same to M. de La Grive. Has granted him a gratuity of 3,000 livres for the losses he sustained by the capture of the vessel in which he sailed for Ile Royale. Folio 9½, ½ page.

Februrry 11. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Relating to provisions. Some of the vessels sent to Ile Royale have been captured, among them Le Merlin and Le Paroli. Folio 11, 1½ pages.

February 11. The same to M. Drucour. Has seen with pleasure the various dispositions he has made at Louisbourg and its environs to place them in a condition to repulse the English. The intention certainly was to attack Louisbourg, and it was only the superiority of M. de Lamotte's squadron that led them to give up the attempt. The King feels the necessity of maintaining a strong naval force always at the port of Louisbourg. Will inform him of the arrangements made in that direction. Is very glad that he has granted to one Gauthier an order to act as captain at Ile St. Jean, as a reward for his services as scout, but it would perhaps be more useful to continue employing him in that capacity than as captain of the port. Understands how difficult it must be to hold the Indians and make them march with so little to give them in the way of provisions and presents. Is surprised to learn that the recruits sent him are of such an inferior quality. Does well to send all suspected persons out of the colony. Folio 12, 3 pages.

February 14. The same to MM. Drucour and Prévost. Has approved their recommendation to form a new company of cannoneers—bombardiers, as well as his having taken 40 soldiers from the squadron for artillery exercise during the winter. Will receive the ten gunners he has asked for. Folio 13½, 1 page.

February 14. The same to the same. In accordance with their demand, the King will increase the number of troops in Ile Royale by two battalions, and he has chosen the Cambise, and the Royal of the foreign volunteers. Folio 14, 2 pages.

February 14. The same to the same. Concerning the Srs. de Villejoin and Charly. The last named remains in Canada at the request of M. de Vaudreuil. Folio 15, 1 page.

February 14. The same to M. de Drucour. Is disposed to grant retirement to the Sr. Dolaborats, captain of the port at Louisbourg, in view of his bad health. Folio 15½, 1 page.

Ordinance of the King for the establishment of a second company of bombardiers at Ile Royale. Folio 16, 1½ pages.

February 15. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Drucour. Sends him a Cross of St. Louis for M. de Boishébert, in recognition of his distinguished services. Folio 17, ½ page.

February 18. The same to the same. Sends him 18 medals for the Indians to replace those that were taken last year on Le Merlin. Folio 17, ¼ page.

February 18. The same to M. Prévost. Le Cerf Volant, which he sent to France with 60 convalescent sailors from M. de Lamotte's squadron, is ready to sail again, with a cargo of flour. The quarter of rice that he will give to the soldiers in place of half a pound of flour, seems to be sufficient. Is not surprised that he has had trouble to convince them the change was good for their health. Sends him his commission as Commissary General of the Navy. Folio 18, 1½ pages.

February 18. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prevost. Is very glad to learn of the cessation of mortality among the sick left by M. Dubois de Lamotte's squadron; but it is distressing that the sickness has spread to the inhabitants. Hopes he will inform him of continued successes of the privateers. Folio 19, 1½ pages.

February 18. The same to the same. Has learned with pleasure the arrival of L'Aigle at Louisbourg. Hopes L'Eveillé will not be far behind. Will hold all the Indian corn and rice the privateers may bring to Louisbourg during the winter. Folio 20, 1½ pages.

February 18. The same to M. Drucour. Relating to the officers. Sees from the statement by the deserter from Annapolis Royale that the English will fortify themselves at Beausejour, which they are now call Cumberland. Folio 20½, 1 page.

February 20. The same to M. de Villejouin. Is occupied with sending provisions and seed to the Ile St. Jean. Should recommend the refugee inhabitants to devote themselves as much as possible to the cultivation of the land, and not to settle at too great a distance from one another. Fears the English intend to attack the island. Folio 22, 1½ pages.

February 20. The same to M. Prévost. Has received the record of the settlement and liquidation of the brigantine Le Descay, taken from the English by Le Bizarre. Will make use of his observations with regard to the too heavy costs of the Admirality of Ile Royale. Relating to the Sr. Pourtrait, who asks to serve in the ports of France. Folio 23, 1½ pages.

February 20. The same to M. de Drucour. The vessel L'Aigle has arrived at Brest. Has received the despatches. Folio 23½, ¼ page.

February 20. The same to the same. Has received the memorial of the Sr. de Carvoisin, lieutenant of the troops. His affair is one of ordinary justice, and he cannot interfere. All he has to do is to employ someone for his defence in France. Folio 23½, ½ page.

March 6. The same to M. Prévot. Le Jacques and Le Chasseur carry 240 barrels of flour to Ile Royale. Folio 24, 1 page.

March 10. The same to the same. Approves his sending Le Jacques aad Le Chasseur to Martinique for syrup and molasses, but does not approve the agreement made with the owners, as it would pay them better to be taken by the enemy than to deliver their cargo at Louisbourg. Folio 25, 1½ pages.

March 10. The same to the same. Desires explanations of the expences of the hospital at Louisbourg. The officers who are cared for at the hospital should not be waited on by their own servants, when there are attendants for that purpose. Folio 26, 1½ pages

March 10. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. Has procured gratuities for the Srs. Dangeac and Joubert, captains. Necessity for economy. Folio 27, 1 page.

March 10. The same to M. Prévost. Has procured a gratuity of 150 livres for the Sr L'Escalier, Surgeon-Adjutant of the second battallion de Bourgogne, for his zeal in caring for the sick of M. Dubois de Lamotte's squadron. Has procured a warrant as chief King's scrivener for his brother. Folio 27½, ½ page.

March 11. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. The necessity for sending early succour to Ile Royale, and anticipating the English, has decided him to despatch the division of the King's vessels commanded by M. Béaussier at the earliest possible time from Brest. Enumeration of the vessels to leave from various ports, to gather at Louisbourg. Cannot too strongly recommend them to reflect well on the importance of the colony. On the issue of this campaign that of the war principally depends. The English will neglect nothing to effect the conquest of the colony. Admiral Boscawen left Portsmouth with four vessels only. It is said he put in to Plymouth, and the Gazette of Holland states he sailed thence with four more ships. Is still in doubt. L'Invincible, forming part of his squadron, was lost in leaving Portsmouth The Spanish are fitting out 18 vessels. The object is unknown to them, but the English are uneasy, as well as at the orders for fitting out 21 vessel of the line at Brest and Rochefort. Work on this will be actively carried on after the sailing of the vessels in-1758. tended more particularly for the defence of Louisbourg. Folio 27 bis, 3½ pages.

The same to the same. The Sr. Marchesseau, lieutenant of frigate, commanding La Mutine, will fill the place of Captain at Louisbourg until peace. Has procured the Cross of St. Louis for the Sr. Dolabarats. Folio 28 bis, 1 page.

March 23. The same to the same. Has forwarded the appointment of King's Attorney to the Bailliwick and Admiralty at Louisbourg that they have asked for the Sr. Pascaud. Folio 29, ½ page.

March 25. The same to the same. Notifies him that the convoy of frigates and storeships that sailed from Rochefort, the 9th of this month, under the protection of the vessels Le Prudent and Le Raisonnable, having been driven on Cape Ortegal, the storeship Le Messager was lost, in collision with Le Raisonnable. The last named had to return to Port Louis, and the others continued their voyage to Ile Royale. Folio 29, 1 page.

March 31. Order of the King confiding the command of the troops of Ile Royale under the orders of M. de Drucour to the Sr. de la Houlière. Folio 30, 1 page.

March 28. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Drucour. Advises him of the appointment of M. de la Houlière to the command-in-chief of the troops of Ile Royale. Folio 30½, 1 page.

March 30. The same to M. Franquet. Same subject. Folio 31, 1 page.

April 4. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Has granted a gratuity of 300 livres to the Sr. de Carvoisin. Folio 30½, ¼ page.

April 10. The same to the same. M. de Blénac is to proceed to Louisbourg in Le Formidable to command the squadron that will be collected there, to the number of nine vessels instead of thirteen, for the reason that a squadron of the enemy is before Rochefort. Fears also, for this reason, he cannot send the Cambise battalion. The battalion of the foreign volunteers has been embarked in the division of M. de Beaussier. Notwithstanding the contretemps, hopes that M. de Blénac will be in a condition to provide efficaciously for the defence of Louisbourg. Folio 31, bis, 2 pages.

April 10. Order of the King, confiding to M. de Blénac the general command of the land troops, as well as those of the colony, in Ile Royale. Folio 32, 1 page.

April 10. Letter from the King to M. de Blénac. Same subject. Folio 32½, 1 page.

April 10. The President of the Navy Board to M. de la Houlière. Same subject. Folio 32, bis, ½ page.

April 14. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Has granted to the Srs. Daubertin and Doumet warrants as engineers. Folio 32½ bis, ½ page.

April 14. The same to the same. Sends them the estimates of the King for this year's expenses at Ile Royale. Folio 33, ½ page.

April 14. (In cipher.) The same to the same. The presence for three days of an English squadron in the roadstead of Ile d'Aix having retarded the despatch of the vessels destined for Canada, has decided to have powder and firearms loaded at Brest on Le Bizarre, L'Echo and L'Aréthuse. Will have these munitions forwarded to Quebec on their arrival. Folio 33, ½ page.

April 22. The same to M. Prévost. Concerning the acquittance of the bills of exchange. Folio 34, 1 page.

April 28. The same to MM. Drucour and Prévost. Is satisfied with their administration. As they have not been able to receive all his letters, he reports what they contained: M. de Bonnaventure will continue to receive his extraordinary gratuity. Might augment the emoluments of the councillors another year. Will propose to the King a gratuity for the Sisters of the Congregation. May reimburse the Sr. Maillard for the expences he has defrayed for the construction of a church and a presbytery to settle the Indians at Ile Royale. The Sr. Marchesson should perform the functions 1758. of Captain of the Port until the Sr. Le Large can reach Ile Royale. Folio 35, 3 pages.

April 30. The same to the same. Has taken measures to stop the lack of subordination on the part of MM. de St. Julhien and de la Grive. The Maréchal de Bellisle is to write to them on the subject. Folio 37, 1 page.

June 24. The same to the same. Has learned with pleasure the arrival at Louisbourg of the vessels L'Apollon, Le Prudent and the storeship La Chèvre, of the division commanded by M. Beaussier, and the putting in at Port Dauphin of the frigate La Fidèle. Awaits with impatience the arrival of the other vessels bound for the same destination. Is satisfied with the disposition made for placing detachments at points open to a descent by the enemy. Has approved the decision to forward all the youthful Acadians from Ile St. Jean to Ile Royale with M. de Boishébert and his detatchment of Canadians. Proposed to send back the schooner they despatched to him with their packages, but the presence of an English squadron before Brest prevents it for the present. Approves M. Prévost having sent salted meats, flour, Indian corn and codfish to Canada. Folio 39, 3 pages.

June 30. The same to the same. Has received their letters by which they inform him of the descent of the English on the Baie de Gabarus. It is regrettable that they had not taken sufficient precautions at the point where they landed. The garrison of Louisbourg is increased by the Cambise battalion. The King approves the decision of the Council to retain in the port the six warships at anchor there. There should be no question of sending them away, unless they are in danger there or they can no longer hope to save the place. Have done well to send Le Bizarre and L'Echo to Quebec. It would have been desirable if the division commanded by M. Duchafauld, which put in at Port Dauphin, could have entered Louisbourg. The junction with the other vessels might have allowed some advantageous operation by sea. Hopes that Le Formidable has been able to make good her entrance into Louisbourg, and that they will exhaust every resource to prevent the capture of that place. Folio 41, 2½ pages.

June 30. The same to M. de Drucour. Exhorts him to put everything in motion to repulse the enemy. Folio 42, 1 page.

June 30. The same to M. le Marquis Desgouttes. Has given an account of his letter to the King. It appeared to him that his proposal and that of the captains of the other vessels of the King to leave the port of Louisbourg immediately after the descent of the English by the Anse de la Cormandière, was premature and dangerous for the preservation of the place. Hopes they will compel the army of the enemy to re-embark. Folio 43, 1½ pages.

June 30. The same to M. De la Houlière. The proofs of valour that the troops have given in the defence of the retrenchments leave no room for question as to those they will continue to give. The King regrets the loss of the two captains of the companies of grenadiers d'Artois and Bourgogne and the two lieutenants of these companies. Folio 44, 1½ pages.

June 30. The same to M. de Blénac. Hopes he has been able to reach Louisbourg notwithstanding the descent of the English on the Baie de Gabarus. The King has approved the decision of the Council of War to hold in the port of Louisbourg, despite the opposition of M. Desgouttes, the vessels that are there. Counts much on his zeal and experience to utilize all the resources possible for defence. Folio 45, 2 pages.

The same to M. Franquet. Has received all the details that he has given of the descent of the English at the Baie de Gabarus. Has been as much surprised that reliance could not be placed, after all the recommendations made, on the necessary precautions being taken for assurance against a descent, as that a descent should have been effected in a locality so near the 1758. town and the entrenchments. Notwithstanding the state of the fortifications the King flatters himself that the enemy can be repulsed and the place saved. Folio 46, 1 page.

February 11. The same to M. de Paulmy. M. Bigot, having learned that a second War Commissary is to be sent to Canada, appears to be very uneasy as to the results of this arrangement. He fears that M. Doreil will take advantage of it to request permission to return to France. He asks that the latter be left at Quebec until the end of the war. Has reason to believe M. de Montcalm would be annoyed if M. Doreil left the colony. Folio 33, 1 page.

February 26. The same to M. de Rostan. Notwithstanding the insult to the Spanish flag, it is convenient to use it seeing that it will be more respected. It will also be well that only a small number of French sailors serve on board these vessels, so as to give less occasion to the English to detain them. Folio 59, 2 pages.

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

YEAR 1759.

1759. Versailles. January 8. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. On the increase of emoluments given to the officers of the battalions, as well as to those of the colony, during winter quarters only. Extraordinary gratuities to the officers of the general staffs. Folio 1, 2½ pages.

Jauuary 8. The same to M. de Montcalm. On the increase of emoluments to officers. Payment will be made in the money of the colony, the risk of sending specie being too great. Folio 2, 1½ pages.

January 8. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Concerning the officers of artillery and engineers sent to Canada last year. They will continue their services in the colony without being attached there, and their pay will be the same as it was in France. Places to be filled in the company of cannoneers.

January 8. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The filling of vacancies in the two companies of cannoneers is suspended until next year, in order that should any officers in France desire to settle in Canada they can be given the preference for said vacancies. Sends four new engineers. Order for the appointment of the Sr. Dauseville to the lieutenancy of the cannoneers, as well as of some cadets to places as subalterns. As to the account of the Sr. de Lusignan. Folio 4, 1½ pages.

January 8. The same to M. de Montcalm. Respecting the arrangements made for the officers of artillery and engineers who have left France for Canada. Folio 5, 1½ pages.

January 8. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. On the small number of persons composing the Superior Council, the difficulty of replacing those who are wanting and on the dislike shown by natives of the colony to taking upon themselves the condition of Councillor. Regrets the death of the Sr. Le Verrier, whom it is difficult to replace as Procureur Général. Approves the Sr. Perthius performing the duties of this office. Information required to place him in a position to make the choice in France of a person for the place. The Sr. De L'Isle can perform the functions of Procureur du Roi at Montreal in place of the Sr. Foucher who is not to return to Canada. Folio 6, 2 pages.

January 8. The same to M. Bigot. On the various representations made by the Compagnie des Indes. Price of ecarlatines. Freight on the King's vessels. Has made known to the Company that it was useless, for want of a market, to send linen prints. Folio 7, 1 page.

January 19. The same to the same. Has received the proces verbal of the sale of the English snow La Marie which was taken to Quebec by the frigates La Valeur and La Mignonne. Has seen with regret that he allowed certain supplies to be sold to individuals which he might have bought advantageously for the account of the King, such as bacon, salted beef, flour, candles, 1759. butter and biscuit. All these articles were sold at less than half the currect price. Then there is worse than that still, in the sale of the cargo of the English vessel the Britannia, captured by a privateer from St. Malo and taken to Quebec, since he himself stated that the goods comprising the cargo of this vessel were sold in gross for 800,000 livres, that those who bought them would make more than two millions of profit and that he had bought to the extent of a million, Quebec price, himself. Can anything be imagined more opposed to the welfare of the colony and more injurious to the King's interests than this transaction, since he must buy the same descriptions of goods in France and transport them at heavy cost, and at great risk. Nothing excuses him for having bought at second hand what he could have purchased at the selling price. Is all the more surprised at such a method of administration when he sees the colony drained and its expences so exhorbitant. Is annoyed at having to make such observations to him, but the evil has reached a point at which it is impossible not to seek the causes and apply a remedy to them. Folio 8, 3 pages.

January 19. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The enormous expences shown in the finances of Canada have led him to seek for the abuses that must be the cause of the fabulous increase. Has been able to see that those abuses come from the negligence with which the victualling is done and from the liberty given to dispose of the property of the King, whether in the warehouse or on the market. Will not conceal from M. Bigot that he knows of many abuses that are committed; that purchases have been made at the trading posts from individuals of goods and merchandize at excessive prices which are often those the King had sent to Canada; that individuals have made fortunes too rapidly not to be suspected, that abuses will never be diminished until those committing them are displaced and even made examples of. Another fact capable of producing great abuses consists in supplying the deficiency in the card money, amounting to a million in all, by the payment of the expenses by printed notes signed by the Intendent and sent to the Clerk to the Treasurers who submits them to the Controller's office and delivers to the public in proportion to the expenses. This production of notes, contrary to all law, throws into the hands of the Treasurer a prodigious amount of funds which circulates in the colony without the approval of the King and without any authority. Thereby, the Intendant becomes the manufacturer of the money and the Treasurer is the master without other security being required from him than receipts for the quantity supplied without examination as to the manner in which it is employed and without verification of its conversion into bills of exchange. He can make any use of it that he thinks best. This is so true that in the month of November when M. Bigot renders his account of the year's expences he only shows in the neighbourhood of the total they amount to. His report is relied on and the next and succeeding years there is a very heavy excess, which increases the embarassment here. Various instructions for the better control of these printed notes until the end of the war. Folio 10, 3 pages.

January 19. The same to M. Bigot. Will not enter with him into the details of the different chapters of the expenditures contained in his estimates. It would be quite useless, since they do not cover a quarter of the expenses that are being incurred. Besides, it is not in these estimates that abuses exist; it is in the employment of the funds, it is in the hands of those who have the details that they must be looked for. Expenditure goes on without management, without order, without regard for the interests of the King. How is it possible that the small-pox among the Indians can have occasioned a million of extraordinary expenditures. By whom was this expense incurred? Was it by the officers at the trading posts, the store-keepers? Everyone, then, is free to distribute the effects of the King and all they have to do is to charge them to expenses. How can be reconcile the enormous demands he 1759. has made this year for goods on the pretext of general scarcity, when, by his other letters, in referring to the capture of Fort Frontenac, he tells him that the King lost in that fort a prodigious quantity of food and merchandise? This fort was, nevertheless, not the depot for the posts of lakes Ontario and Erie and of Belle Rivière. Besides, since the million was expended for the posts of the west, how came it there was such an accumulation in that of Frontenac. Sees with surprise that independently of the immense supplies received last year in Canada, and which would have been sufficient for all the trading posts, considerable quantities of merchandise were purchased from individuals even at the posts themselves. Must think, from the transactions, that the property of the King, sufficient to be rapidly consumed on its arrival is in reality sold back to the King at excessive prices. Is no longer astonished at the immense fortunes that are seen in Canada. Liberty to dispose of everything to suit oneself is the true cause, particularly when the certificates of presents pretended to have been made to the Indians are accepted without examination, or, when, like the Sr. Dauterive, Clerk to the Treasurer at Montreal, one is quits by retiring from the service. The legal enquiry that is to be made into his office prevents his being made an example of. His precipitate departure from the colony confirms all suspicions. Understands that he cannot be everywhere and look after all the details, but he can select men of integrity and act severely towards delinquents. Production of treasury notes. Instructions in this respect. It is certain that the colony will become an insupportable burden, if the expences continue to increase as they have done since 1755. Folio 12, 5 pages.

January 20. The same to M. De Vaudreuil. In view of his age and infirmities, the King has granted retirement to M. de Noyan, the King's Lieutenant at Three Rivers. His place has been given up to M. de Noyelle, Major of the same town. On his recommendation, the King has created a Major-General Inspector of the troops, and three adjutants This majority has been given to the Sr. Dumas, and the three adjutancies to the Srs. Des Melaises, at Quebec, De Charly at Montreal and de Longueuil, jr., at Three Rivers. The places left vacant by the Srs. Dumas and De Noyelles have been given to the Sr. Le Verrier at Quebec and de Sabrevois at Three Rivers. Other promotions. Folio 15, 2 pages.

January 20. The same to the same. Sees, from the details of his letters, he has done all that he believes advisable to assure the fidelity of the Indians, but that events have not responded as much as he hoped to the cares he had bestowed. What he says of the Indians at the affair of Carillon shows how little they can be counted on. Knows them too well, particularly the Iroquois, not to feel assured that they will never lose sight of the principles by which they have always guided themselves. Notwithstanding that they promise much and fulfil little, that their interest alone moves them, and that they receive presents from the English as they do ours, they have not the less observed an exact neutrality. Their conduct now is the same as in the preceding war. Believes they have been treated too prodigally with presents, unless presents have been made use of as a pretext to embezzle the King's property. May discover whether these presents have really been made. It is not possible, as is frequently said, that the English treat the Indians better than we do, if it is true that the expenses we have defrayed have been equally large. Leaves all this to him but will see that the expenditures incurred for them do not serve as a pretext for embezzlement. Folio 16, 2 pages.

January 20. The same to the same. Has granted the Cross of St. Louis to the persons recommended by him, to wit: the Srs. Herbin, St. Ours, Des Chaillons, Chev. de Bonne, De Lorimier, La Pérade de La Naudière, Beaujeu de Villemonde, La Corne St. Luc, De Lery, and de Bellestre. Has granted a pension of 1,200 livres to M. de Noyan, another of 1,200

1759. to M. de Longueuil, Governor of Trois-Rivières, in consideration of his former services and numerous family, 400 to M. de la Valterie, the oldest captain of troops in Canada, and 300 to the Sr. de Raymond, who distinguished himself at Carillon. Has granted extraordinary gratuities to the Srs. de St. Ours, de Corbière, Des Melaises, De Langy and Montegron, who distinguished themselves in various actions. Folio 17, 1½ pages.

January 20. The same to M. Bigot. Can only approve the assistance he has sent to the Acadians at Miramichi and the river St. Jean, as well as to the Micmacs in the vicinity of Acadia. The expences defrayed on their account have been enormous and without much benefit. Their continual transmigration from Acadia to the river St. Jean and the interior of Canada has only served to multiply the expences and to the loss of many persons. In the condition in which things are, too much attention cannot be paid to getting these people to settle on the shores of the river (St. Lawrence) where the largest number have taken refuge. The havoc committed by the English, both in the Gaspé district, and that of Mont Louis, makes the necessity felt of reuniting them so that they may maintain themselves by their own efforts and make a stand against the enemy. Folio 18, 1½ pages.

The same to M. Herbin. Has granted him the Cross of St. Louis Id. to the Srs. de St. Ours, Des Chaillons, &c., &c. Folio 19, 1 page.

January 20. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. A sum of 12,000 livres has been granted for distribution among the officers of the troops of the colony and the battalions. Folio 19½, ½ page.

January 20. The same to the same. Will enquire whether it will suit to increase the emoluments of the Admiralty officers. Folio 20, ½ page.

January 20. The same to the same. Will send the two statements for the expences, in conformity with their proposals Folio 20, ¼ page.

The same to M. le Chev. Le Mercier. Has received the statement that he sent of the artillery munitions and utensils required for Canada. He should not make such demands without submitting them to M. Bigot. It would have been more pleasing if he had so communicated them before sending them to France. Folio 20½, 1 page.

January 25. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King leaves it to him to decide as to the choice of the Major Inspector and his three aides. He will also leave to him the regulations to be made defining their functions. Some observations on the subject. Folio 21, 2 pages.

January 26. The same to M. Bigot. Has reported to the King the discussions raised between the Directors of the Domaine in Canada, the Jesuits, the Hotel Dieu of Quebec and some individuals respecting the cens et rentes in the censive of Quebec. The King has approved the judgment he rendered on the 15th of May last. Observations. Folio 22, 1½ pages.

January 26. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has shown his confidence in him by accepting all his recommendations in regard to the promotions, and has no doubt he has acted without favour as without prejudice. M. D'Aillebout, Lieutenant of the King at Montreal, has represented that M. de Longueuil had been made Governor of Three Rivers to his prejudice. It is true that both have been Lieutenants since 1749, but M. Longueuil entered the service of Canada only in 1726, while M. D'Aillebout has served since 1712, and rendered services before and during the siege of Louisbourg in 1745, and since that in Canada. Does not blame him for having preferred M. de Longueuil, but wishes him to be placed in possession of M. D'Aillebout's representations. Begs him to send on information the subject. Folio 23, 1 page.

January 26. The same to M. de Longueuil. The King has granted him a pension of 1,200 livres on the Royal Treasury. Id. to Mdes. de la Valterie and de Raymond. Folio 23½, ½ page.

1759. January 26. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King is so satisfied with the services of M. de Rigaud that he has granted the request he made for the concession for life of the post of the Bay. The King, in granting him this favour, has departed from the rule that he established in the colony to have all the posts leased and to make no further grants to anyone. Folio 24, 1 page.

January 26. The same to M. Rigaud de Vaudreuil. Same subject. Folio 24, 1 page.

January 26. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has examined the reasons for suppressing the gratuity of 6,000 livres that the King gave to the Seminary of St. Sulpice. When it was granted, it was to induce the priests of St. Sulpice to give education to the children of the Indians of the mission at the Lake of the Two Mountains. This cause no longer existing, the gratuity should cease. When the Seminary obtained this concession, the 27th of April, 1718, it took upon itself the care of this Mission purely and simply. If subsequently the Mission became more extensive, the concession benefitted in proportion. Folio 25, 1 page.

January 26. The same to M. de Noyelle. Has granted him the place of Lieutenant of the King at Three Rivers. Folio 26, ½ page.

January 26. The same to M. Dumas. Has been chosen as Major General Inspector of the troops in Canada. Folio 26, ½ page.

January 26. The same to M. de Montcalm. Has made the most of his demands in favour of certain officers and widows who are in need of help, with the King. Folio 27, 1½ pages.

January 26. The same to the same. His first care, in coming to the ministry of marine, was to make himself acquainted with all that had occured in Canada. Has seen with pleasure the successes he had gained, particularly on the glorious 8th of July last. Is happy to know of the harmony existing between him and M. de Vandreuil, which M. de Bougainville has just confirmed. Folio 28, 1½ pages.

January 26. The same to M. de Vandreuil. Is quite disposed to grant the favours he may ask for those in whom he is interested, but there has been so little method in the manner of giving warrants to those who are employed in the colony, that before taking action in filling any more positions, desires to be minutely informed on the number of persons required in each part of the service, etc., etc. Will remember the good report he gives of the Sr. de St. Sauveur, for whom he has asked the position of inspector of store-houses. Grants a gratuity of 250 livres to the Sr. de Monrepos, Lieutenant General of the jurisdiction of Montreal. Folio 29, 1 page.

January 26. The same to MM. de Vandreuil and Bigot. Respecting the pensions and gratuities. Folio 30½, 1 page.

January 26. The same to the same. Relating to the misdeeds committed by the Esquimaux on the coast of Labrador. The Sr. de Brouague, who is old and worn out, should be replaced by another in the command of that coast. Folio 30, 2 pages.

January 26. The same to M. Bigot. Concerning the passengers and freight on the King's vessels returning to France. Observations as to the vessels that have been dismantled. Folio 31, 2 pages.

January 26. The same to M. Bigot. Has not availed himself of his recommendations in favour of the Srs. de Vienne and Deschenaux for warrants as Chief King's scriveners, and Foucher for that of King's scrivener. Before doing so it will be well to settle the number of persons necessary for the service of the colony. Folio 32, 1½ pages.

January 26. The same to M. de Vandreuil. Approves his granting passage on the King's vessels to the Srs. de la Bretèche, Charmont, Lassaulx, de Frichengen, Granderin and La Houssaye, officers of the battalions serving in Canada, as well as to the Sr. Péan, adjutant of Quebec. Militia. Folio 33, 1½ pages.

1759. January 26. The same to M. Bigot. Concerning the two foreign ships sent to Quebec by the Srs. Boncasse and Dufresne, merchants of La Rochelle. Folio 34, ½ page.

February 3. The same to the same. Cannot under present circumstances, accede to his reiterated requests to be allowed to return to France. Should postpone his return until next year; in the interval, he will look for a person capable of filling so important an Intendance, and make arrangements for filling the places connected with it. In the meantime he has limited himself to asking from M. Hocquart a good worker suitable for assisting at Quebec. He has recommended the Sr. Querdisien, who is to go to Quebec on the frigate La Pomone. He will be in charge of the bureau des fonds, which is the buisiest and calls most for method. Folio 34, 1½ pages.

February 3. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The abuses he has pointed out are not the only ones existing. Is informed that theworks on the fortifications carried on under contract are let to persons under borrowed names, and that most of the officers who by their position are expected to look after the economy and solidity of construction are nearly always the contractors. If that is so, as there can be little room to question, it is not surprising that the fortifications cost so much and last so short a time. On the one hand, the engineers, who should be the controllers, are the contractors for the works, and abuses such as those they have allowed up to the present time can only be looked for; on the other, when the works are being carried on by day labour for the King this method also becomes a still further source of abuse, by means of the certificates that the engineers deliver for payment and which are cashed on presentation. No matter how it is done in Canada they are so thoroughly accustomed to turn everything to personal profit that the King is wronged in all. Measures suitable to be taken to put an end of these abuses. Folio 35, 2 pages.

February 3. The same to M. de Pontleroy. Relating to his emoluments. M. de Vaudreuil will acquaint him with the abuses committed in connection with the works on the fortifications, and hopes he will employ himself in causing them to cease. Folio 36, 1½ pages.

February 3. The same to M. Bigot. Sends him a package containing important matters which should not be opened except in case of the death of M. de Montcalm. Will deal with it as with the one the Keeper of the Seals addressed to him on the 15th of March, 1756, and will keep it secret. Folio 36½, ¼ page.

February 3. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. On the distribution of the bills of exchange for the battalions of troops and the troops of the colony. Folio 37, 1 page.

February 3. The same to the same. All that relates to grants of land ought to be done by them in common. Has confirmed the grant asked by M. de Vaudreuil for the Sr. de Guir, dit Des Roziers, captain of militia. Folio 37½, 1 page.

February 3. Warrant ratifying grant of land in favour of the Sr. Joseph de Guir, et Des Roziers, captain in the militia of Canada. Grant made by M. de la Jonquière, the 4th September, 1751, on the river St. Francis. Folio 38, 2 pages.

February 3. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Vaudreuil. Relating to the representations made by the family of the Sr. Béranger, Lieutenant in the troops of Canada, for his promotion to the rank of Captain. Folio 39, 1 page.

List of the officers of engineers and artillery who have left France for Canada, and statement of the emoluments settled for them. De Pontlery, De Montbeillard, Louvieon, D'Espinassy, Duverney, Bonnafons. Folio 39, 1 page.

February 9. The same to M. the Bishop of Quebec. Has every ground to hope that some arrangement will be made this year by M. the Bishop of Orleans to procure him the assistance he requires. Folio 40, 1 page.

February 9. The same to M. Bigot. The warrant as Store-Keeper at Quebec that he has asked for the Sr. de Vienne, who has performed the duties for several years was sent him, but as he has not received it, sends him a duplicate. Folio 40, ¼ page.

The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has approved the arrangement that he made for the Sr. de St. Rome. Has granted the Cross of St. Louis for the Sr. de Boishébert. It could be wished that the detachment he took to Ile Royale had been larger. Has seen with pleasure his different expeditions towards St. George and Fort Brunswick after his return to Canada. Received his letter from the Miramichi camp announcing the sending of a memorandum and a map of Acadia. When the question of a general arrangement comes up, might give the place of Intendant Commissary at Montreal to the Sr. Martel whose probity and good conduct he praises. Folio 41, 1½ pages.

February 9. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. It will be well to grant supplementary pay in the form of a gratuity to the Sr. Pellegrin, second Captain of the port. Folio 41½, ½ page.

February 9. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has seen by his letters to General Abercromby and the latter's replies, that he has done all in his power to induce him not only to execute the articles of capitulation of Fort William but also the exchange of prisoners. The conduct of this general is the same as that followed by England with us in Europe, seeking to confound with the prisoners of war persons arrested before the declaration of war. Irregular as this conduct may be, it is nothing in comparison with the action of General Abercromby in annulling the capitulation of Fort William Henry. Military engagements of this description have always been observed by the nations and it is the English alone who evade the obligations they contract. The only way to constrain them would be to gain numerous advantages over them. Conduct he should observe with regard to the exchange of February 9. prisoners. Folio 42, 2 pages.

The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Will make arrangements to place the Sr. Levasseur, ship-builder, and Cressé, assistant ship-buider, in France, when they are no longer necessary in the colony. They might perhaps be useful in establishing the navy on the lakes which he in concert with M. de Montcalm, has considered it necessary to construct there. Has

February 9. approved what they did in having 21,000 livres in card-money, the imprints on which were effaced, burned. Folio 43, 1 page.

The same to M. Bigot. On the subject of the shipment of provisions. Has approved the passage to France granted to the Sr. Da Lino, Chief February 16. Commissioner of Roads. The St. Maurice forges. Folio 43, 2 pages.

The same to M. D'Aillebout. Has written to M. de Vaudreuil respecting his representations as to the preference given to M. de Longueuil in February 16. the government of Three Rivers. Folio 45, ½ page.

(In cipher). The same to M. de Vaudreuil. General Wolfe is designated to undertake the siege of Quebec. He is to leave England with 8,000 men who are to be joined at Halifax by other English troops. Will concert with M. de Montcalm for the defence of the place. Has nothing to direct; but, in the meantime, it seems fitting that the English prisoners who are there should be sent away. Attaches a copy of the signals that are to be used this year by the vessels of the King that go to Canada.

February 16. Folio 45, 1½ pages.

The same to the same. Respecting the effects left by the Sr. Bourgas, captain in the Royal Roussillon regiment, deceased at Quebec in the month of September, 1756. Folio 46, 1 page.

February 17. The same to M. Bigot. It has not been found possible to send him the whole of the supplies that he asked for. Folio 47, 1 page.

The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and de Montcalm. Respecting the Sr. Morin de Vaucoret who is to go to Louisiana or Canada to serve in the troops there. Folio 48, 1 page.

February 16. The same to M. Bigot. As to the effects that the Sr. Doreil has left in Canada in the charge of his secretary, M. de Rochette. Folio 48, ½ page.

February 16. The same to M. de Montcalm. The emoluments accompanying his new rank as Lieutenant General of the army, is 48,000 livres per annum which includes his two aides de camp. Folio 49, ½ page.

February 16. The same to M. de Levis. His emoluments as Major General will 24,000 livres per annum, including an aide de camp. Folio 49, ½ page.

February 16. Thd same to M. de Bourlamarque. His emoluments as Brigadier General will be 18,000 livres per annum. Folio 49½, ½ page.

February 16. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Sends him the Ensignia of the Honorary Grand Cross of St. Louis, with his compliments. Folio 49½ ¼ page.

August 29. The same to M. de Lévis. Profits by the departure of the vessels belonging to the merchants of Bordeaux to acknowledge the receipt of the letters he sent him by the schooner L'Extravagante and the vessel Le Héros. August 29. The same to M. de Bourlamarque. Has learned with pleasure that his health is sufficiently restored to allow him to take the command that has been entrusted to him at Carillon. Folio 56½, ½ page.

August 29. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Profits by the vessels that the Srs. Descloux are sending from Bordeaux to answer his letters by L'Extravagante and Le Héros. See that he has received all his despatches and that he has made all his dispositions for a good defence on the St. Lawrence as well as on the side of Belle Rivière, Lake Ontario and Lake St. Sacrement. Cannot enter into any explanation. When this despatch reaches him, the fate of Canada will have been decided. The presence of the English in the St. Lawrence has no doubt prevented his sending out any vessel to inform him of what has occurred since the month of May. As the English had at that time already made their arrangements for attacking Fort Carillon, is surprised at not having learned anything by way of England of what had been done in that direction. The King counts on his zeal and the bravery of the Canadians. Well knows that his numerous occupations prevent his closely following the question of the expenses, but hopes he will be able to do so when the operations of the year are ended. Folio 57, 2 pages.

August 29. The same to M. de Montcalm. Is not without uneasiness as to the fate of Canada. At this moment even, it is about decided. What suprises him most is that not one English vessel has arrived with news of any action in the direction of Canada. The King has been informed of all his plans and of those of M. de Vaudreuil, and has seen with pleasure their reciprocal firmness and the confidence that the troops and inhabitants have in their concerted action. Can rely, if he effects the repulse of the English, that every measure will be taken to assist the colony in the spring. Folio 58, 1½ pages.

August 29. The same to M. Bigot. Has learned with pleasure of the safe arrival at Quebec of the greater part of the Commissary's vessels and the storeships L'Atalante, La Pomone, L'Amélie and La Marie. Has made him aware of the reasons that prevented his sending greater assistance. Will not reply in detail to the observations he has made to justify the excessive expences that have been incurred. His bad administration is sufficiently proved by his own letters. It is quite true that the expences are immense, that he does not know the use to which they are put, that he pays them without examination, that he follows the run of the expences so little that when they are made he is still unaware of half the amounts, and that after they are made he finds an error in his cash of 3,600,000 livres. Can greater confusion be imagined, and can it be conceived that an Intendant is ignorant of his position to such an extent? It is none the less true, and his reply confirms it, that he bought for 812,000 livres the fourth or the third of a cargo the whole of which he could have had for 800,000 and on the balance of which the Commissary, who purchased it, made more than a million. What a difference, for the King's interests, between the loss or profit on such a transaction! It is useless for him to pretend to justify, by means of trade, the fortunes that are made in Canada. Trading is prohibited to all persons in office. They are placed there only to protect it, not to carry on even the most legitimate, and for the strongest reasons should abstain from dealing in concessions and monopolies that they ought to prevent with all their power. For three or four years, has there been the slightest liberty of commerce that would render it legitimate? Has heard nothing, and seen noth-

1759. ing, in the letters he has received, but continued jobbing in provisions and goods; or he who sells goods to the King, or to individuals at last hand, does so at ten times more than they cost in France. In the first case, what infidelity in the administration, by the expenses the King is made to defray! And in the second, what exactions from a people already sufficiently unfortunate through the war. Thus it is not a question, as his misplaced observation puts it, that even gentlemen may follow trade in Canada. What is certain is, that, no matter how that which has been carried on in the colony, since the war, is looked at, it can only be regarded as criminal on the part of all those who have taken part in it or those who have favoured it or even tolerated it, and above all for persons employed in the service, and it would be very grievous if the heads of the colony had given their permission or an example. There are important points in his administration, suspected, or neglected, or not perceived, and well capable of exciting regrets for all that has passed up to the present. Is sufficiently warned by the letters he has written him this year. Exhorts him, for the last time, to give them his serious attention, for they will not escape his own. Folio 59, 3 pages.

August 29. The same to M. Kanon. Is very glad to learn of his arrival at Quebec, with the greater part of the vessels of his convoy. Folio 60½, ½ page.

August 29. The same to M. Bigot. Replies to his two letters of December 3, 1758, and April 15, 1759, concerning the expences. In the first, he says that, instead of 16 millions of bills of exchange drawn to the end of 1758, they will amount to 24 millions, of which a part is for expences of the preceeding year that were not known and paid off until 1758. In the second, he says he expects the drawing of the bills of exchange for 1759 will amount to 31 to 33 millions. Believes there has never been an example of so enormous an expenditure nor of the easy manner in which he announces it, as though he supposed such heavy sums could be had without trouble, notwithstanding the expences of the other colonies and the multiplicity of those the King is obliged to provide for in the midst of a general war. There are, then, no limits to those of Canada, the progress of which, with the same number of persons, and the same objects of expenditures, doubles nearly every year, without appearing to attract any other attention than that of their payment. Does he think such an administration can be approved by the King and that it is sufficient to say that he has ordered 33 millions for payment to take such immense sums from the Royal Treasury, and that too for expences incurred without sanction and often without necessity, always without economy, of which it is enough to overcharge but a small portion to make a considerable fortune, and where the matter is to him of such minor importance, that, after believing himself clear for 16 millions he find two months afterwards the total has amounted to 24 millions. Charged with the administration of Canada, in regard to the expenditures, the payment of which has been made easy for him, perhaps very much too easy in allowing him to draw bills of exchange, does he think the confusion that reigns is justified by saying that everything is dearer and prices have reached an excessive point, that it is no longer possible to meet the expences of the trading posts, that at the least retrenchment the troops complain and the Indians menace, that most of the expences are made without his knowledge and that there are great abuses? What measures has he taken to diminish these expences! What representations has he made to M. de Vaudreuil for the suppression of those that might be overlooked, where are the letters written to him or his predecessors to detail the abuses, to name the authors, to indicate the means for supplying remedies? Sees in his correspondence nothing but general phrases from which much negligence and tolerance on his part can alone be inferred. Here is the evil that he suffered to exist, here is what is attributed to him, of having restrained the commerce in the 1759. free victualling of the colony, of having charged with the provisioning one individual only who, under the name of Commissary General, made himself master of all and gave to all the price he desired, of having purchased for the account of the King at second and third hand what he could have procured at first and at half the prices paid, of having made the fortunes of persons who had relations with him by the interest he gave them in those purchases or in other transactions, of having himself maintained the most splendid state, on the most extensive footing, in the midst of public misery. All the letters from the colony unite in attributing the situation to his bad administration and in taxing M. de Vaudreuil with weakness in not taking upon himself the work of reform. As it would perhaps be useless to hope for this, and as it is of the last importance to the Kingdom to put a stop to the stream of bills of exchange that he announces for the end of this year, the intention of the King, to whom he has reported, is, that he is absolutely not to draw except for the pay and subsistance of the land troops and troops of the colony and indispensable expences concerning the military service, on which the King recommends him to bring to bear the greatest economy. Will give attention to showing on the title or on the margin of the bills of exchange that he issues the nature of the expenses for which they are drawn. Warns him that in default of this precaution these bills will not be honoured in France. P.S. Begs him to reflect most seriously on the manner in which the administration confided to him has been conducted up to the present. That is more important than perhaps he thinks. Folio 61, 2½ pages.

August 29. The same to M. de Bougainville. Nothing could be added to the diligence he has shown in reaching Quebec. Has been closely followed by the greater part of the vessels that sailed from Bordeaux, Brest and Rochefort. Is persuaded of his attention in communicating the intentions of the King for the defense of the colony to MM. de Vaudreuil and Montcalm. Their replies prove it. Folio 62, ½ page.

August 29. The same to M. de Pontleroy. Is thankful to him for his observations as to the works on the fortifications. Recommends him not only to verify exactly the certificates that have been or may be given to the workmen for their labour; and, moreover, to absolutely refuse to accept all receipts which he may find to be fraudulent. Relies also on his reporting exactly and circumstantially on all the abuses that are practiced in the colony. Must see to it. His position gives him the power and the means. Folio 63, 1 page,

August 29. The same to M. Kerdisien. Has been pleased to learn of his arrival at Quebec and of his promptitude in getting to work on the matters with which he has been charged under M. Bigot. Hopes he will neglect nothing

February 3. to meet his views and justify his selection for the duty. Folio 63, ½ page.

The same to M. de Montcalm. Has received his cipher letter on the situation in Canada. However trying this may be, the King counts on his doing everything, in concert with M. de Vaudreuil, to continue to defend the colony during the coming campaign, or at the least to preserve an essential part, in order later on to be able to recover the whole. Has recommended M. de Vaudreuil to consult him in all operations and believes he will not fail to do so, seeing that he had learned with pleasure there was no longer any question between them of the small misunderstandings that at first prevailed. It is a question of saving the colony and that should suffice for a general and a citizen so zealous as he is. The number of troops will be less than he asked, but it is all that circumstances allow. M. de Bougainville, who has acquitted himself well of the commission with which he was entrusted, will tell him of the impossibility of doing more. The remarkable success he has gained over an army much superior to his own, leads him to hope that with such brave troops he will be able to stop 1759. the progress of the enemy and render most of their enterprises useless. Folio 64, 1 page.

February 3. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Recommends concord with M. de Montcalm and forgetfulness of the small subjects of dispute he formerly had with him. Should not appear in the campaign except it becomes a question of a decisive operation and of marching all the militia for the general defence of the colony. Could do so, after having consulted with M. de Montcalm, if necessary to confirm the confidence that the Canadians have in him, for it is certain their courage would be greatly stimulated if they saw him at their head under difficult circumstances in which the facts of the colony were in peril. Outside such necessity, he should not quit the centre of the colony. Would do well to show himself in the country, to encourage the old men and the women to work the land. The Sr. Péan, whom he has sent with M. de Bougainville, has gone to Bordeaux to hasten the departure of the shipments of the Commissary, and M. de Bougainville will lose no time in embarking for his return to Canada, after having performed the object of his mission. He is very zealous for the colony and appears to be particularly attached to him. Folio 64½, 1 page.

February 3. The same to MM. Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has received all the cipher letters they addressed to him, to the end of the last campaign, on the necessity for succour. The King has proved by shipments of every description and by the exactitude with which he has paid the prodigious mass of the bills of exchange, drawn with such little discretion, how much he has at heart the preservation of Canada, and the relief of the faithful inhabitants and the brave troops employed in its defence. Would be disposed to send the same assistance, but the continuation of the war in Europe, the too great dangers of the sea and the necessity of uniting the naval forces, do not allow their separation and hazarding a part to procure them uncertain help that will be employed more usefully for the State and the relief of Canada in more prompt and decisive expeditions. It is for these conclusive reasons that it has been decided to reduce the outfitting of transports to be sent to Quebec this spring, to two frigates, armed as storeships, and four privately owned vessels, half from Brest and half from Rochefort, in order to divide the risks. All that these vessels can carry, in munitions, artillery, clothing, merchandize for trading and for the King's storehouses will be embarked. With regard to provisions, the supply is assured by several expeditions that will sail in February or March from various ports in the Kingdom and from foreign countries under neutral flag. Has also believed advantage should be taken of the offers of several English vessels for the same work. The correspondents of the Commissary are arranging on their part to have their vessels on the way at an early date. Counts on there being sent by these various vessels and by two of the King's frigates that merchants are fitting out on a fifth-share at Dunkerque, about 160,000 pounds of powder. Will send by the Commissary's vessels about 500 recruits. Will forward about 30 persons, engineers, designers, cannoneers, miners and workmen. If the efforts made in regard to Canada are less than previously, it is because we are forced to it by larger operations in which they should acquiesce all the more willingly that they are the result of the previous efforts made to help Canada. What is proposed to be done tends to free Canada from greater part of the forces she has to fight. In this way the colony may arrive at the same results with less help. M. de Montcalm ought to be consulted not only on all operations but on all parts of the administration that relate to the defence and preservation of the colony. Folio 65, 3 pages.

February 3. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Montcalm. Should not hope for peace before the opening of the campaign, and should make every preparation 1759. to carry on the war in holding to the simplest defensive, if there is no ground for doing otherwise, to ensure the King the preservation of Canada or at least the greater portion of it. The King hopes they will concentrate their forces for the purpose of preserving the principal part. Gives them no precise instructions ; relies on them. The important point is, not to have lost the whole of the colony when the time arrives to negotiate for peace.

February 3. The King places at their disposal the two frigates that he sent to Quebec, Could usefully employ the Srs. Levasseur, Pellegrin and Vauguelin if the English attack Quebec by the river. The last named has given proofs of bravery and intelligence at Louisbourg. If they see a prospect of any particular success by the use of spies, they are authorized to expend 200,000 livres for this purpose, and if the services of these spies should be in the nature of rendering the efforts of the enemy during the campaign useless, they might employ as much as 500,000 livres and mo re. Will if the circumstances require it, march every man in a condition to bear arms. The King is occupied with more efficacious aid for them, not only by fresh succours but by operations capable of bringing about diversions that will leave them less force to cope with. The King will make more out of their services on the defensive to which they are reduced, than of succeses gained under more favourable circumstances. The important point is to preserve part of the colony in order to recover the rest at the conclusion of peace. Folio 66½, 3 pages.

Seeing their small number and that they are destined to return to America, it is proper to grant them the dispensations they may need, else they will be obliged to contract alliances with the families of the country, which would disincline them from returning to their own land. As Vicar General of the Bishopric of Quebec, it belongs to him to make the best at Rome of the reasons that should allow a relaxation of the rigours of the marriage license. Folio 33, 2 pages.

ORDERS OF THE KING AND MINUTES OF LETTERS.

Years 1760 And 1761.

Series B., Vol. 111.

CANADA (3rd. Part.)

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

1760. Versailles. February 8. The President of the Navy Board to M. Bigot. Was justified in making known to him, last year, the grievous consequences that would result from the financial administration of Canada. Foresaw, at that time, the necessity that would arise for suspending payment of the bills of exchange; and that course has been resolved on. The suspension is limited and the unpaid bills of exchange bear interest until they are registered. The King has restricted the objects for which the bills of exchange can be drawn, and the total is fixed at 2,400,000 livres. The bills of exchange this year, must not exceed that sum, under any pretext; or they will not be paid. On the other hand, arrangements having been made for meeting them, the King wills that the 2,400,000 livres be paid in the course of the year 1761. All the bills of exchange to be drawn should be charged to that fiscal year, the payments being spread over the last nine months. Should apply himself to calming the alarm that this suspension will create in the minds of the people. The fidelity and zeal of Canadians are too well known to him to doubt their readiness to submit to this necessity. The King reserves to himself the hearing of disputes that may arise between creditors and debtors, as the result of the suspension. Various instructions in this regard. Folio 1, 4 pages.

February 8. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Sends him the list of promotions that the King has accepted for filling the vacancies in the troops of Canada. Has followed nearly all his recommendations. Has left over until the end of the year the granting of pensions and gratuities to those whom he has recommended, which will be done without his having to renew the demand. The King has nevertheless granted from the present time pensions to the widows of officers who have been killed. Has accorded the Cross of St. Louis to the officers for whom he has asked it. Folio 3, 2 pages.

February 22. The same to M. Bigot. The correspondents of the Commissary of Canada not finding themselves in a position to undertake the supply of provisions, the purchase has been made for the account of the King. The Srs. Desclaux, Bethumau and Imbert have been charged with procuring them and with furnishing the vessels necessary for the operation. Will not have to concern himself with the payment, but only with the quantity and quality of the goods received. Four hundred men, and officers to command them, will be sent over by the vessels. The Commissary will have nothing to see to in the distribution of the provisions that are to be sent. He alone will have the duty of making the distribution, and to close the door against all abuses. Folio 4, 2 pages.

1760. February 22. The same to M. the Bishop of Quebec. Begs him to use all diligence and zeal, in concert with MM. de Vaudreuil, Bigot and de Lévis, to calm the uneasiness of the Canadians with regard to the suspension of the bills of exchange.

February 22. The same to M. Bigot. Begs him to send a detailed statement of payments made on account of their pay to the officers and soldiers who returned France, after the capitulation of Quebec. Folio 6, 1 page.

February 22. The same to M. de Boulamarque. Has not received news from him, direct, but has none the less been informed by post of the confidence he commands and of the manner in which he has carried out his orders and the intentions of M. de Vaudreuil. Exhorts him to redouble his zeal and his efforts. Folio 6½, ½ page.

February 22. The same to M. de Lévis. M. de Vaudreuil has informed him, in the greatest detail, of the easiness he has experienced on all occasions on which he had to deal with him and on the perfect harmony existing between them. Does not doubt that this harmony, so essential in the critical circumstances of the colony, will be maintained. Folio 7, 2 pages.

February 22. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Will not enter into any of the details of the observations contained in the letter delivered to him by the Sr. Kanon. His cipher despatch will make him acquainted with the intentions of the King respecting the operations of the present year. They form the only object with which he will have to occupy himself. Reserves his reply until next year to the various matters with which he has dealt. For the moment he will give his attention only to the suspension of payment of the bills of exchange. The Decree of the Council in this regard will enable him to understand the necessity under which they found themselves and the means that have been adopted. It only remains for him to calm the uneasiness that this measure will give birth to in the minds of the inhabitants. Various instructions. Folio 8, 2 pages.

February 22. The same to the same. The King has granted pensions of 300 livres each to the widows of Captains de Céleron, Major of Detroit, De Lignéris, de Laperriere and de St. Ours, dead of their wounds, last year. There is a question of establishing the militia on a different footing, but the arrangement he has proposed could only be made under more favourable circumstances. In the meantime, the militia officers can do duty under the commissions that he will deliver to them and which the King will confirm. Folio 9, 1½ pages.

February 22. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot The family of M. de Montcalm have represented that he owed somewhat considerable sums to the Treasury of Canada which made advances to him, they ask that the King, in consideration of the services rendered by M. de Montcalm and of the short time he enjoyed the emoluments allowed him last year, would be pleased to grant the remission of this indebtedness. The King is disposed to favour this family as much as circumstances permit, but before doing so desires to know the amount that M. de Montcalm owes. Folio 9½, ½ page.

February 22. The same to M. the Bishop of Quebec. Has not lost sight of his personal situation in that of his diocese. The King has granted him a pension of 3,000 livres and 10,000 as alms for the poor. Sends him the letter that M. the Bishop of Orleans writes to him on the subject. Folio 10, ½ page.

February 22. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Will see by the list of officers, chosen among the troops from Ile Royale to command the 400 men who are to embark at Bordeaux, the ranks they are to have. Folio 10, ½ page.

February 22. The same to M. Bigot. Has received his letter in which he complains of indiscretions committed by M. de Bougainville in spreading in the colony the reproaches he has made to him on the enormous expences of the colony and the fortunes made there. Has left no one in ignorance of the facts.

1760. The complaints were too general and too well founded to avoid speaking of them and making known the intentions of the King. With regard to the reasons he gives to justify the considerable augmentation of his fortune by successful commerce that he has engaged in and which gave him more than 600,000 livres of profits in the year 1759 alone, they appear to him as singular as the assurance with which he regards such profits as legitimate, above all on the part of the Intendant. Can only defer to another time a reply to him on this point, which requires the closest attention on his part and the most serious examination in order to report specially on it to the King. Folio 10½, 1 page.

February 22. The same to the same. On the application of the Sr. Bernier, Commissary, three surgeon's assistants will be embarked, for duty in the hospitals, and, afterwards, with the battalions, etc. Folio 11, 1 page.

February 22. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has just been informed by M. le Maréchal de Bellisle that on the report he has rendered to the King of the services of the battalion officers who are in Canada, His Majesty has been pleased to grant the rank of Brigadier General to M. de Roquemaure, commanding the battalion of the La Reyne regiment formerly having the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, and an order to M. le Chev. de Lapouze, Captain, Adjutant of the Guyenne regiment, to perform the duties of Assistant Quarter-Master General in Canada. Folio 11, ½ page.

August 24. The same to M. le Vicomte de Vaudreuil. Has received his letter in favor of the Abbé de Lotbinière. Would be charmed, on his recommendation, to do something for this Abbé, but the short time he was in Canada in the position of missionary, and the various experiences through which he has passed, do not permit him to propose the extension of favours to him by the King. Folio 203, ½ page.

August 24. The same to M. de la Marquise de la Lazerne. Greatly regrets being unable to do anything for the Abbé de Lotbinière. What could he do for a man who was only for a short time a missionary in Canada, who has been successively Récollet, Cordelièr, Ecclesiastic, who was captured going to St. Domingo for quite another object to that of the condition of life he had embraced, when he cannot procure the least help for old missionaries, who, devoted wholly to their calling, have suffered all kinds of persecutions on the part of the English rather than abandon the people committed to their care. November 21 The same to the Abbé de L'Isle Dieu. Has received his letter, in which he makes known to him that, the death of the Bishop of Quebec terminating his functions, he believes in view of his great age and his infirmities he should retire. Would be grieved, under the circumstances, if he took this course before the nomination of a new Bishop. Attaches a letter from the King permitting him to continue his duties. Folio 266, 1 page.

Folio 273, 1 page.

December 3. The same to M. de Blénac. Has received his letter, informing him of the arrival at Brest of the English vessel L'Aventure under flag of truce, with 142 passengers from Canada. It seems that, independently of M. le Marquis de Vaudreuil and the other staff officers of the colony, there are two other officers and 30 soldiers on board. Instructions. Folio 278, 1½ pages.

December 3. The same to M. Le Brun. Same subject. Folio 278, 1 page.

December 5. The same to M. le Marquis de Vaudreuil. Has received the letter that he wrote to him on his arrival at Brest, with that of the 10th of September, containing the articles of capitulation of Montreal and of the colony of Canada, with the papers relating thereto. Although the King was aware of the condition of the colony, in default of the reinforcements that it was unable to receive, yet, after the hopes he had given, by his letters in the month of June, of holding out some time longer, and his assurances that the last efforts would be put forth to sustain the honour of the King before yielding, His Majesty did not expect to learn so soon of the surrender of Montreal and of the whole colony. Granting the force of all the reasons which led to the capitulation, the King has nevertheless been considerably surprised, and less satisfied, at having to submit to conditions so little to his honour, especially in the face of the representations which have been made to him by M. de Lèvis on behalf of the military corps in the colony. The King, in reading the memorandum of these representations, that he was unable to avoid placing before him, has seen in it that, notwithstanding the slight hope of success, he was still in a condition, with the diminished resources remaining to him, to attempt an attack or a defense that might have brought the English to grant a capitulation that would have been more honourable for the troops. The King leaves him at liberty to remain at Brest for the time necessary for his health. With regard to the officers who are with him, they can retire to their families or elsewhere. It will be sufficient if he is informed of their place of residence. Folio 280, 1½ pages.

December 5. The same to M. de Rostan. Has just been informed by M. de Vaudreuil, that horseflesh and putrid beef were found to form part of the provisions embarked on the vessels Le Marchault, Le Bienfaisant and Le Marquis de Malauze, which sailed this year for Canada, and that the troops for whom it was intended, being unable to eat it during the voyage, were very badly fed. Is much surprised at this, particularly as regards Le Marchault, the fitting out of which was under his direction, but there is no room to doubt it, the fact having been well proved by the commander of the troops at Restigouche. Folio 283, 1 page.

December 8. The same to M. Bonneau. Respecting the pay of the soldiers from Canada, disembarked at Morlaix. Folio 284, 1 page.

December 19. The same to M. P. Lartigue, merchant, Bordeaux. Will be very glad to have his views in detail on Canada. Folio 295, ¼ page.

December 21. The same to M. le Vicomte de Vaudreuil. Is sorry for the pain caused him by the letter he has written to his brother, but could not avoid making him aware of what the King had stated on the capitulation of Montreal, and it would not have been agreable to his brother to have learned it from others. His letter however, contained nothing that could afflict him. Folio 296½, ½ page.

Sends him a proposed decree to this effect. Folio 244, 1½ pages.

October 29. The same to M. de Fontanieu. Same subject. Folio 245, 2 pages.

October 31. To M. the Archbishop of Narbonne. The King has signified to his subjects his desire to procure peace, in making public the negotiations of MM. de Bussy and Stanley. The concessions offered by the King, considerable as they were, did not prove sufficient to decide a nation so ambitious as England to accept them. For this reason, the King has determined to unite the Department of War with that of the Navy, to oppose all his resources with greater success to the unlimited views of England. The King relies on all his provinces and above all on those forming part of the State, to find the resources that he needs. Would with pleasure see Languedoc give the example, in adding to his navy a vessel of 74 pieces of cannon which would be named Le Languedoc. Begs him to communicate this idea to the Assembly of the States. Folio 246, 2 pages.

November 16. The same to M. the Archbishop of Narbonne. Is not surprised to see that he has understood the importance of his suggestion touching the offer that the States of Languedoc would make to the King of a war vessel. Understands, like him, that the proposition of a considerable outlay in the present conjuncture could weaken the zeal and readiness that would be shown under other circumstances, if it were a matter of an expenditure of 1,500,000 livres, as he supposes, but as the King would himself undertake the rigging and the fitting out of this vessel, it would only be a question for the States of Languedoc of an expence of 400,000 livres. Begs him to proceed with this negotiation. Instructions on the manner of proceeding to ensure success. Folio 267, 2 pages.

November 16. The same to M. le Duc de Fitzjames. Same subject. Folio 267½, 1 page.

MINUTES OF DESPATCHES.

1762. Versailles. August 14. The President of the Navy Board to M. le Chev. de Ternay. Has received by the Srs. de Courval and Blondelas the two letters that he wrote to him from St. Jean. Has informed the king of the conquest he has just procured for him. Has approved the disposition she has made for the preservation of this post, in concert with M. le Comte d'Haussonville. Has equally approved the choice of M. de Bellecombe as commandant of the fort. Will send two vessels to Newfoundland, with 80 infantry, and 50 of the artillery, and provisions, munitions and necessaries for a garrison. One of these vessels is the frigate Le Zéphir, fitted out as a storeship. She will be commanded by the Sr. de Courval, who will sail from Brest; the other will be a privateer from St. Malo, commanded by the Sr. Blondelas, whom the King has made lieutenant of frigate. If these vessels arrive safely at St. Jean, greater help will be forwarded in the spring. The Srs. de Ste. Marie and de Martigny, captains, and de Bellecourt and de Rochebelave, lieutenants, will embark on these two vessels, with all the Canadians not prisoners on p role who can be found. Folio 1, three pages.

August 14. The same to M. de Bellecombe. Sends him the copy of the letter that he has written to the Chev. de Ternay, to keep him advised of his intentions in case the former should have left St. Jean with his vessel. The King is very pleased with his efforts to preserve the conquest for him. Sends him two vessels and some troops and provisions. The vessels will leave from two different points to avoid the relief of which he is in need being entirely lost, in case of serious accident. Can make good use of Le Zéphir to defend the entrance to the port, with the batteries that he will have prepared, in case the English should come and attack him during the winter with a squadron that they are preparing. Their gazettes speak of the despatch of the battalions, but doubts their being employed for the present in a descent towards St. Jean. It is more probable that they will have them pass to Halifax or Plaisance, to be in a better position to make their expedition against St. Jean earlier next spring. For this reason, will send relief at the end of February to reach him at the commencement of April. Folio 2, 2 pages.

August 20. The same to M. de Bellecombe. Begs him to confer the Cross of St. Louis on the Chev. de Repentigny, captain of infantry. Folio $3\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

1762. drawal of the subsistence given by the King to the families who came from Ile St. Jean and other places, it will be continued, nevertheless, during the winter. It would be well, in awaiting this withdrawal, to present to the poorest of these families the idea of passing either to Cayenne or to Martinique, or Ste-Lucie, or Guadeloupe, or St. Domingo, mentioning that in such case the King would continue to grant the same assistance to them independently of some other advantages. Hopes he can decide th se families to accept the King's offer. Folio 333, 2 pages.

Fontainebleau. October 19. The same to M. de Beaussier. M. le Comte d'Estaing will hand him all the orders and instructions from the King relative to the expedition with which he is entrusted, conjointly, with him, for the conquest of Brazil. In case of difference of opinion on the operations, the advice that is the most hazardous but most prompt will be the one that will prevail. Will answer in his name for the execution of this explicit order from the King. However formidable the preparations for the defence of Rio Janeiro may be, the King wills that his squadron attempt the attack, at the risk of its entire loss, and he will show no ill-will for the loss of all his vessels, provided it be well proved they were only lost after having attempted everything humanly and more than humanly possible that could be attempted at all risks for success. Will receive as many marks of satisfaction in failure as in success. Warns him that on his return, success or failure, the King will have an account rendered him by a court-martial on the conduct of each officer and that delinquencies will be punished as severely as courage and valour will be rewarded. If it chances that peace is made after his departure, will secretely dispatch an advice-boat to instruct him, before officially sending a frigate; this first notice would be to bring away from Brazil all in his power before receiving the formal order for the suspension of hostilities.

1762. Will send him a squadron in March. Will keep in mind unceasingly that the loss of vessels in war matters little to the King, and that he will never receive reproaches under this head, provided that the honour and the glory of the flag are preserved. It matters much, however, that the expeditions which the King orders and his navy undertakes should effect results that can be compared with the successes of the enemy. Folio 2, 4 pages.

1763, Versailles, January 29. The President of the Navy Board to M. Bernier. Conditions concluded with the Acadians who are going to Cayenne. Folio 26, 1 page.

February 13. The same to M. de Fraignes, Marseilles. The King proposes to people his colony of Cayenne and to send there a large number of families to make clearings and cultivate the land. This colony being destitute of all methods of amusement, and families being dispersed and left to themselves especially at those moments when they are not occupied, it has appeared to him necessary, in order to prevent melancholy, resulting fron laborious pursuits and reflections on their removal from their native country, which might cause much sickness among these new inhabitants, to procure for them some tambourine players who would have no other occupation than to divert them at the times when they would like to make use of them. This attention for these families, independently of the assistance that will be given them, can only produce a good effect. Begs him to procure six players of this instrument, with whom he will make an engagement for three years. After they h ve consented, will give each one 50 livres and promise them 6 sols a day, in the colony, with rations sufficient for their subsistence. Folio 40, 1½ pages.

February 14. The same to M. le Duc de Penthièvre. Has received his memorandum concerning the formula of licences to be delivered to the captains engaged in the cod fishing. Existing circumstances necessitate particular attention to the clauses of this formula. The King has made a modification which does not make it differ from the old formula except by an explanation adding to the words "the length of the coasts," and the suppression of what relates to the contraband trade in furs taken from Canada, this prohibition having become useless by the cession of Canada. Formula. Clause of the Treaty. Folio 44, 3 pages.

February 14. The same to M. le Duc de Praslin. Begs him to give his advice on various points relative to the fishery on the coasts of Newfoundland, in awaiting the signature of the treaty. Folio 46, 1 page.

Shall procure the papers and vouchers of expenses and receipts of The King's Domain in Canada which the Sr. Imbert, clerk in Canada of the Treasurer General, had placed on board Le Sauvage, at Quebec, on the 29th of October. This vessel was captured by the English and taken to Cork, Ireland. Is informed that these papers have been deposited at the Admiralty, Dublin. Folio 64, ½ page.

March 1. The same to M. de Lucé, Intendant at Strasbourg. Has received his letter, informing him of the great number of persons who offer to proceed to the colonies to settle. Begs him to remember it should be above all a question of foreigners fit for the cultivation of the land, and not of retired officers, and still less of French families, the intention of the King not being to people his colonies at the expense of his provinces. March 11. The same to the same. Hopes he will neglect nothing that will contribute to the reassembling of the Acadians who find themselves distributed among the towns of Liverpool, Southampton, Peryn and Bristol, and to strengthen their attachment to France. The advantage that he will secure for the State, in inducing them to pass to France, will be the more agreeable to the King as he has views for them in reference to a new colony, but even if they preferred to stop in France, the King would not receive with any the less pleasure people so valued. Will consent willingly to leave him free to settle them on the Ile de Bonin, which belongs to him. Will be assisted in the same manner as those who are already in France. Folio 83, 1½ pages.

In order to hasten the departure of Acadians from England, the King authorises the payment of the debts they have contracted, amounting to 13,000 or 14,000 livres. Orders will be given for the payment of the freight on the four vessels that will be used to transport them to France. Will be very glad to be informed, before their arrival in France, of the number of those whom he has destined for the Ile de Bouin; the rest will be distributed among the ports of Brittany. April 4. The same to the Controller. The intention of the King was to have the Acadian families and those from Ile Royale passed to Cayenne, after the conclusion of peace. These people, generally, refuse that course. They represent that, having been born in a cold climate, they would not know how to support the heat of South America. They ask to be placed, in preference, in the provinces of France or given liberty to return to Acadia or Canada. As it is important not to lose these 4,000 persons, and, above all, not to allow the English to profit by them, begs him to study the best use that could be made of them, whether in the cultivation of the land or in manufactures. Folio 117, 1 page.

The same to M. le Duc de Nivernois. Begs him to make representations to the minister of the King of England, M. D'Egremont, on the fact that 17 French vessels, furnished with English passports, have been taken under pretext that the exergue of the seal of the passports was of George II instead of George III. This error not being our fault our people have a right to damages. Folio 132, 1½ pages.

April 18. The same to the Controller General. The inhabitants of the Antilles, finding themselves deprived by the cession of Canada of live stock, poultry, wood, staves, tiles, vehicles and vegetables which they received from that colony, and, at the same time, of a market for their syrups and molasses, have asked permission to draw the same products from foreign colonies and to send their syrups and molasses in exchange, which has been accepted under certain conditions and restrictions. Folio 138, 1½ pages.

April 18. The same to M. de Sartine. Seeing that, from the interrogations to the Sr. de La Borde, it appears that he accuses M. Prévost, former Commissary General in Ile Royale, with having taken from the treasury part of the funds forming the deficit for which he was arrested, and as the reputation of the Sr. Prévost has always been very doubtful, sends an order that the latter be arrested at La Rochelle and his papers seized, and conducted to the Bastille. Recommends a treatment of M. Prévost such as to avoid complaints of the kind made by the other prisoners who have been arrested at La Rochelle in connection with the affair of Canada. Order from the King id. Folio 139, 1 page.

April 19. The same to M. Moreau, King's Attorney at Chatelet. Respecting the appearance at Chatelet of the prisoners detained in the Bastille in the affair of Canada. Folio 147, ½ page.

April 23. The same to M. L'Heritier. The French vessels carrying English passports in American waters have been arrested under the pretext that the passports carried the Seal of George II. They were not aware that the Seal of George III had not yet been struck, and that on the latter's accession to the Crown, a Royal order allowed the use of the Seal of George II. Has just been informed that a certain number of these vessels had been released on the claim of the Governor of St. Domingo. The only question will be that of the damages sustained by the owners. The first point, the most essential, should lead to obtaining the estates of the Catholic priests. Should abstain from writing to London on this question unless it be to solicit the freedom of Abbé Le Loutre or present the claim for the effects of the late M. Maillard, deceased in Acadia. September 2. The same to M. Ribot, Intendant of his domain (the minister's) at Amboise. There are from 3,000 to 4,000 Acadians in the various ports of France. It is desired to settle them in France, seeing they do not wish to proceed to our colonies. These families are composed of people naturally indolent, but very industrious, good cultivators, and in general fit for everything when obliged to do all for themselves in their own country; where they built their own houses, cut down and fashioned the timber and constructed their own fishing vessels. If he thinks they can be made use of and placed on his lands, he can have 200 or more sent for the purpose. Folio 405, ½ page.

October 15. The same to M. Chaulaire. Has done right in refusing passports to the Acadians from Ile St. Jean who are at Boulogne. November 22. The same to the same. M. de La Rochette has just sent him a general enumeration of Acadians dispersed in Georgia, Carolina, Maryland, New York, New England and Nova Scotia. As these persons seem desircus of settling in French colonies, means will be found to send them there, if the English government does not oppose it. Begs him to present this subject to the English minister in an indirect manner in order not to expose himself to a refusal which would prevent our arriving at the same object in taking advantage of the tolerance of the governors of the English colonies. Will ask another, for M. de St. Ours. Folio 107½, ½ page.

March 30. The same to M. Mistral. Acadians must not be forced to go to Cayenne, but should be persuaded by argument of the advantages of the change alone. He has only to leave the 44 who are of noble extraction: the D'Entremonts, the Landrys, are, in fact, the oldest inhabitants of Acadia, and they are, as they say, relatives of the late M. de la Tour, 1764. who was Governor. He will do similarly with respect to the other 26 persons of the same colony who have an absolute repugnance to embarking for Cayenne. Would be glad to be able to send them to Miquelon, as they wish, but there is no room. Will permit those who have relatives at St. Malo to go there. Folio 110, 2 pages.

April 10. The same to M. de Sartine. Is quite persuaded by the report he has made, that the Sr. Prevost was not an accomplice in the malversations of the Sr. La Borde, Treasurer of Ile Royale, but it cannot be denied he was wanting in vigilance, without which the Sr. La Borde would not have been in a position to commit such heavy waste. The King has granted him his liberty, but there can be no question in future of employing him in posts of confidence. As to the Sr. La Borde, he should totally abandon his property until payment of the deficit in his office is made, and awaiting this, he will be kept in prison, as well as his son and son-in-law. April 17. The same to M. Barbel. After having looked into what concerned him in the matter of the depredations committed in Canada, the King has decided to grant him a pension of 400 livres. At the same time he has been selected to perform the duties of Intendant Commissary in the island of St. Pierre and Miquelon. Folio 132, 2 pages.

April 17. The same to M. le Comte de Guerchy. Concerning M. Des Meloises, who goes to Canada to sell his property. He is a very good officer, who has served well, and merits his regard. Folio 133½, ½ page.

May 4. The same to M. Chaulier. Has reported to the King the repugnance of Acadians in his Department to go to Cayenne. Is surprised at their perseverance in an obstinate refusal, notwithstanding the advantageous offers made to them. Will make them understand how much out of place this obstinacy is, since the country to which it is wished to send them is excellent and their compatriots of Cherbourg, Havre and Morlaix make no difficulty in accepting these offers. There are no means of placing them elsewhere, and it will be impossible to continue their subsistence if they persist in doing nothing. Folio 153, ½ page.

May 4. The same to M. Hocquart. Concerning the freighting of a vessel to carry Acadians from Morlaix to Guyana. Folio 154, ½ page.

May 4. The same to M. Chaulaire. Representations to be made to Acadians at Boulogne to decide them pass to Guyana. The idea they have formed of insalubrity of the climate is without foundation. Folio 157, ½ page.

On the subject of the proposition of the Sr. Gibraltar to settle, in the various parts of the kingdom, 6,000 and even, 60,000 foreign families who ask this favour. May 9. The same to M. le Comte de Guerchy. Is quite astonished at the article which appeared in the "Gazetteer" of the 23rd of April last, throwing suspicion on the fitting out of L'Amphion and La Licorne. Will confer with the Minister so that he may correct this assertion in the next issue of the Gazette. Folio 164, ½ page.

May 13. The same to M. Bodelschwing. It is difficult to send to Cayenne the 1200 or 1500 German families who have gathered on the banks of the Rhine, and insist on going to Rochefort. Will explain to them that the King cannot grant their demand at present, and that they must wait until next year. Folio 168, 2 pages.

May 13. The same to M. le Vice Chancelor. Importance of promptly liquidating the estates of Bigot, Varin and others, so as to pay the debts contracted in Canada. Folio 171, ½ page.

May 20. The same to M. de Longueuil. His stay in France will not prevent his obtaining employment when occasion offers. He must continue to discharge the duties allotted to him, and this will help him to obtain the Cross of St. Louis. Folio 174, ½ page.

May 20. The same to M. le Juge de Landivisiau. The King desires to know all the details connected with the homicide committed by the Sr. Courtin, surgeon, who, it appears, has only acted in self-defence; besides, he is related to all the Acadian families of Morlaix, who deserve the greatest consideration for their attachment to the King and to his service. Desclaux, merchants of Bordeaux, who ask leave to pay, in bills of exchange of Canada which they hold, the sum of 140,994 livres owing to the Srs. Descheneaux, Maurin and Penissault, condemned to make restitution to the King. Folio 178, ½ page.

May 23. The same to M. de Vaudésir. On the subject of the surrender which the Sr. De La Borde, agent of the Treasurers General at Ile Royale, consents to make, as restitution for his defalcations. Folio 178, ½ page.

June 16. The same to M. le Duc de Praslin. The claims of the court of England with regard to the cannon at Mobile and the other posts in Louisiana, ceded to her, are indefensible. The English cannot complain as everything has been done to pacify the Illinois Indians. Folio 201, 1½ pages.

June 18. The same to M. Hocquart. Respecting the chartering of the vessel Le Postillon to transport the 24 Acadian families at Morlaix, going to Guyana. The decision of the Sr. Coquart, who was their missionary in Acadia, to go there may determine others to do likewise. Folio 204, 1 page.

Compiègne.
June 26. The same to M. le Duc de Praslin. Forwards a letter from M. D'Abbadie and 17 documents which show that, notwithstanding the care and trouble which M. D'Abbadie has taken to assist the English in taking possession of that part of Louisiana which was ceded to them, the English officers claim that all the opposition which the Indians offer, comes from the insinuations of M. D'Abbadie and the other French officers. Shall communicate all the details contained in these documents to M. le Comte d'Hereford in order that he may be cognizant of the truth and the sincerity of our proceedings. It would be most disagreeable to the King to learn that, after having given the most positive orders to act towards the English 1764. commandants with the utmost good-will and aid them in every possible way, orders which he knows have been executed with the greatest punctuality, some petty English officers would attribute to the French commandants actions of the Indians which it is impossible for them to prevent, the ungenial character of whom England has had many opportunities to learn, even at those posts where nobody could suspect.

May 23. The same to M. Chaulair. May proceed to fit out the vessel which he intends to transport the Acadian families at Boulogne and the Germans at Samers to Guyana. Folio 182, ½ page.

June 5. The same to M. Mistral. Same subject. Folio 193½, ½ page.

June 10. The same to M. the Comptroller General. If, as he claims, it is impossible to take a sum of 56,000 livres from the royal chest, to indemnify the States General of Brittany, for the non-possession of the domain of Belle-isle, it will be impossible to settle the Acadians on this island. This would be regrettable, as the greater part of them only came from England to France on the promise of the Duc de Nivernois, approved by the King, that they would be placed in France, and enabled to earn their subsistence. When they arrived in France, M. Bertin, his predecessor, proposed to employ them in the mines. This proposal was rejected, because it would have been cruel for people used to live well, and who have sacrificed everything through zeal and attachment for France, to submit them to such degradation. At the same time it would have been forfeiting the King's word. Has offered them to go to West Indies, but the greater part of them have a pronounced dislike for these colonies. It would be desirable to find them employment in some part of the kingdom, preferably on the islands on the sea coast, as they are experienced fishermen. These people are sober and industrious, and they cannot be left idle. Folio 195bis, 1½ pages.

June 11. The same to M. le Marquis de Vaudreuil. The court of England has granted him one year to go to Canada to dispose of his property. Instructions have been given to the governor of Quebec. The permission which he asks to publish this memorial, in order to re-establish his reputation, which he claims has been tarnished, by reason of the indifferent treatment meted out to him, cannot be granted. Will represent to the Earl of Hereford that the allowance of one-half of the face value for Canadian bills of exchange, and of one-fourth for the paper money, is equitable and liberal, learns that speculation on these papers has been enormous, and that the holders have very often paid less than one-sixth of their face value. This settlement applies to all, French, Canadian and English holders. Folio 282, 3 pages.

September 19. The same to Abbé Le Loutre, at the Seminary of Foreign Missions, Paris. May positively assure the inhabitants of Ile St. Jean residing at Boulogne, that in proposing to them to form a settlement in Guyana, there was no intention of forcing them to go. It is true that their prejudices as to the unhealthiness of the climate of that colony are without foundation, and though M. Chaulair has combated the n with persistence, the thought of forcing them to go was never entertained. The King leaves them free to choose any colony except that of St. Pierre and Miquelon which are not susceptible to receiving any more inhabitants, they may even stay in France if they prefer it. Folio 305½, 1 page.

September 19. The same to M. le Duc de Praslin. Respecting the treatment of the French on the coasts of Newfoundland. Mr. Palliser, the governor of Newfoundland, is on very good terms with M. Dangeac; if he acted with rigour, it is because Parliament thought he showed too much consideration, and he wanted it to see that he had mended his ways. With regard to the idea of the Duke of Grafton, respecting the exchange of St. Pierre and Miquelon for two other islands, such as Belleisle and another which he did not name, much might be said. His object can only be to remove us from the Gulf of St. Lawrence so that we can never return there and, by this means, prevent our keeping war ships in that region. Although the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon are a very small possession for us, they offer many advantages on account of their position. Much more useful objects would be required to decide us to make an exchange, and Belleisle is of no use to the English. Folio 307, 1 page.

M. de Querdisien has informed him that the suggestion made by M. de Tréville to give to the Germans and Acadians settled at the Môle St. Nicolas, a certain number of cows, which would permit of the diminution of the rations, had been examined by a committee, and that on the advice of M. le Comte d'Estaing, it had been deemed preferable for the King to bear the expense of the purchase of cows, but, that this could not be done at present, owing to the lack of funds of the Colony. Folio 158½, 1 page.

ST. PIERRE ET MIQUELON.

YEAR 1766. (7TH PART.)

Versailles. May 9. The President of the Navy Board to M. Dangeac. The Sr. Pierre Gauthier has been appointed captain of the port at St. Pierre et Miquelon, without salary. Folio 4, ½ page.

August 1. The same to MM. Dangeac and Beaudéduit. Has submitted to the King all that they wrote to him about the Acadians. It appears that, in order to escape from English rule, these inhabitants take all the means to go to their colony. Is far from blaming them for the compassion they showed them on their arrival, but, as it is impossible to keep them in a country which offers no resources, either in the cultivation of the soil which is not suited for that purpose, or in the fisheries, of which they know nothing, it is indispensable to stop the considerable expenses they occasion. The King leaves them free to return to Acadia or to come to France. If they come to France, lands and rations for one year will be granted to them. They will be treated as kindly as the other Acadians. Desires to know whether they have vessels and provisions necessary to take them to Acadia, the number of those who wish to return there, and the number of those who desire to come to France. Shall notify these people that none but fishermen can be admitted to those islands. Folio 8, 2 pages.

He asks to be exempted from the reduction which is made in the redemption of the paper money of Canada. This officer has served with distinction in the war of Canada, and, it appears that owing to his honest conduct in the midst of abuses and malversations the decree which reduced the value of the paper money of that colony has caused him embarrassment. Would be pleased to see his demand granted by the commissioners. Folio 287, ½ page.

September 13. The President of the Navy Board to M. Mistral. Has received his letter and a copy of that of the Sr. Saunier, an Acadian settled in Louisiana, addressed to his father who resides at Havre. It appears that this letter which speaks in glowing terms of the soil, climate and other advantages of Louisiana, has awakened among the Acadians at Havre a desire to emigrate to that colony and that they ask to be transported there at the King's expense. It is impossible to grant that demand, as this colony no longer belongs to France; besides, the King is devising means to place in the Kingdom all the families who came from North America. ST. PIERRE ET MIQUELON. (5TH PART).

1768. Versailles. March 11. The President of the Navy Board to MM. Dangeac and Beaudéduit. Has received their letter in which they say that the Acadians are in great consternation at the idea of going from St. Pierre et Miquelon to France; that quite a number had built boats which will be a complete loss if they emigrate. It is only on his reiterated representation that the King has determined to send them to France, as it could not be his intention to expatriate them against their will. Those who came to France ask indemnities for the schooners and boats which they were forced to abandon, and the King can hardly refuse this. Many ask to go back and the permission has been granted them, at the King's expense, on the condition that the subsistence money shall be suppressed. Will send to France only such as cannot do without assistance. Folio 4, 1½ pages.

March 30. The same to the same. Forwards a memoir on the utility of keeping the Acadians at St. Pierre et Miquelon. August 26. The same to M. the Comptroller General. Renews his earnest entreaties to see without delay to the settlement of 400 or 500 Acadian families, forming about 2,400 persons, dispersed on our coasts. Has thought proper to accede to the demand of the Srs. Rice, who ask that the forest of Brix, situated near Cherbourg, the property of the King, be granted to them. They offer to settle as many Acadians on this domain as can be placed on it. It contains about 13,000 arpents, 4,000 of which yield nothing, and the rest produce such poor wood that the entire forest does not yield 12,000 livres annually. It seems possible to settle nearly all the Acadians there, by granting this tract under a lease for a long term of years without asking either the principal or any yearly dues, but under the condition of undergoing the costs of the settlement of the Acadians, in such numbers as the extent will allow, and for such an amount as the forest and the unwooded land may be estimated to be worth. Besides rendering justice to the Acadians, the state will be discharged of the cost of their maintenance, which amounts yearly to more than 200,000 livres. The Srs. Rice, Irish Catholics, promise to introduce into France the art of beef packing by establishing a manufacture similar to that which they have just left at Cork, and bringing their best workmen. The decree which has been passed for the re-afforestation of the forest of Brix would occasion a heavy expenditure, and would only yield profits at a very distant date; besides, it is not at all sure that it would be possible to produce in a place so exposed to the winds, timber fit for the needs of the navy. All searches to find another place fit for that object have failed. This proposition deserves to be treated as an affair of state, and not as an ordinary piece of finance. Folio 272, bis, 4 pages.

Versailles. October 4. The same to M. de Sabrevois, major commanding the officers of the troops formerly serving in Canada, at Tours. The King has been pleased to grant to the Sr. de Clapiers, late an officer in Canada, the permission to marry the young lady in question, residing at Loudun. Folio 300, ¼ page.

Fontainebleau. October 26. The same to M. le Duc de Choiseul. The position of governor of Désirade having been abolished, M. Rousseau de Villejoin, who held the appointment, returned to France, where he enjoys a pension of 4,000 livres. This officer who has distinguished himself very much at Ile Royale as well as in the naval battle of M. de la Jonquière, asks the rank of brigadier. Believes that this favour ought to be granted him. Folio 304, 1 page.

1768. October 28. The same to M. d'Invault, Comptroller General. On the urgency of seeing without delay to the settlement of 400 or 500 Acadian families. Folio 314, ½ page.

November 11. The same to M. de Clugny. The King approves that the Acadians settled at Belleisle receive the allowance of 6 sols a day for subsistence until the first of January 1769 only. Folio 329, ¼ page.

November 11. The same to M. the Comptroller General. The Sr. Victor Forest, Acadian of St. Malo, has been condemned to three years on the galleys for having sold tobacco without a license. As he is the father of 7 children, and was only incited to do this through poverty and the impossibility of sustaining his family, all the Acadians ask for his pardon. This poor devil has given proofs, at Ile Royale and in Canada, of his bravery and his zeal. Believes that he should be granted a pardon. Folio 331, 1½ pages.

CAYENNE (3RD PART.)

1770. Versailles. March 26. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Fiedmont. Has submitted to the King letters in which he says that many Canadians, who had remained under the English domination, now wish to settle at Cayenne, and ask for the aid usually granted to new settlers. The King being assured that reiterated experiments have shown that the climate prevents the white population from becoming settlers, believes that capitalists only should be allowed to contribute to the prosperity of that colony. May however grant lands to these Canadians if they have the means of cultivating them, but no succor will be given them. Folio 9, 1 page.

With regard to the first memorial, he has written, conformably to her desire, to MM. de Vallière and de Vaivre. Has had a report on her memorial asking for the reversion in her favour of the pension of 200 livres granted to each of her sisters who remained in Canada. This demand, which she had already formulated in 1770, was rejected for the reason that, when the late King granted succors to the widows and children of the Canadian officers, he had expressly denied it to those who had remained in Canada, as not needing it. This decision based on equity would have become illusive if the pensions granted to persons in Canada could have been transferred to relatives who have returned to France. However, if the late King was good enough to grant her a pension of 300 livres, on account of her situation, the present state of the finances does not warrant increaseing it. Folio 432, ½ page.

November 21. The same to M. Prévost de la Croix. Commissary General of the Navy at Lorient. Same subject. Folio 432½, 1 page.

November 21. The same to M. de la Chauvignerie. Knows how he is situated. Will try to obtain assistance for him. Folio 434, ½ page.

Folio 450½, 1 page.

December 12. The same to Mde Robineau, Rue des Moineaux, care of M. Fagard, Paris. Is moved by her sad situation, but cannot grant her, as a Canadian, the subsistence allowed to the families of Ile Royale and Acadia. Folio 473, ½ page.

December 12. The same to M. Dumas. The King has been pleased to restore his salary of 1200 livres, which was granted to him upon his return to France; he has even added an extra gratuity of 6,000 livres, this shows that the King has no bad impression of his recall from Ile de France. Folio 474½, ½ page.

His name has not been put on the list of Acadians, on account of his having gone first to the Malouines Islands and thence to Miquelon before coming to France. Folio 486½, ½ page.

December 29. The same to M. Sabrevois de Sermonville. Would have been glad to procure him some aid on account of his old services and the loss which he suffered on paper money of Canada, but has been unable to do so. Folio 496, ½ page.

December 29. The same to M. D'Estimauville. Regrets his inability to increase his pension. Folio 496½, ½ page.

Has examined his memorial in which he states that he has lost 80,000 livres of Canada paper money, by the wreck of the vessel on which he was coming to Europe, and that this sum was the proceeds of supplies furnished for the King's account in Canada, and praying for an indemnity. Can only pity him, as he has produced no vouchers to prove his loss. Folio 497, 1 page.

This is impossible. It has been thought that the wish of the founder would be best carried on by applying this bequest to some pious institution in the colonies. Folio 139, ½ page.

January 18. The same to M. Budet, at Château Goutier. Has received his letter asking for a pension for each of the children of the Sr. Mezière de L'Epervanche. Has searched the registers of the troops of Canada, and could not find the name of Mézière de L'Epervanche, but, there are three officers of that name, to wit : the Chev. de L'Epervanche, Eustache de L'Epervanche, and Tardet de L'Epervanche. Shall find out which of the three is the father of these children. Folio 23, ½ page.

January 18. The same to M. Charest, Chevalier of St. Louis, at Loches. His demand for a pension on account of his services and his losses in Canada cannot be granted. His services in the militia were rewarded by the Cross of St. Louis. Folio 24, ½ page.

January 30. The same to the Abbé de Lisle-Dieu. The King has granted him permission to retire from the service. Will enjoy a pension of 4,500 livres, in consideration of the services he has rendered to religion and the State. Has received the diary of the Procureur des Missions du Canada which he has sent. Prays he will send all possible information on the estates which the Jesuits possessed in Canada as missionaries of the colonies. Prays he will confer on the subject with M. Guieau de Reverseaux. Folio 51, 1 page.

January 30. The same to Mde. de Beaumont. Has not forgotten the demand of the Marquise de Lévis, but he cannot grant it. Bad subjects, especially vicious ecclesiastics, cannot be sent to the colonies, as they would be even more dangerous than in France. Folio 51, ½ page.

February 6. The same to M. the Comptroller General. Receives numerous memorials from the Acadian refuges at St. Servan respecting the restoration of the subsistence. These people who have sacrificed everthing have claims on the King's bounty. Renews his demands in their favour. Folio 55½, ½ page.

February 12. The same to Md. de Gannes, at Loches. The King has granted her a gratuity. Folio 60½, ½ page.

February 12. The same to M. Budet, at Château Goutiers. Has submitted to the King the request for a pension which he sent in favour of the children of the Sr. de L'Epervanche. It has been decided that they had no right to it as their father had remained in Canada and had not died in the service. Folio 63½, ½ page.

February 26. The same to M. the Comptroller General. Has ascertained that besides the 130 or 140 inhabitants of Ile Royale who are at St. Malo, there were at St. Servan and in the neighbourhood from 4 to 500 Acadians who have passed, since the 1st of Oct. 1773, under the management of the department of Finance. The subdelegate of the Intendancy has taken care of them and has caused them to be paid 6 sols per day until the 31st of Dec. 1774. It is this interrupted allowance which these poor people have been claiming for more than one year. Prays he will apply to Abbé Terray for fuller information. Folio 91, 1 page.

March 4. The same to M. Budet. Has received the certificates which prove that the Sr. de L'Epervanche came to France in 1761 and remained there until his death. Knew this, but the reason why he answered as he did, was to conceal the real motives of the retirement of this officer without a pension: he was condemned as a defaulter by the commission of the Canada affair, under suspicion of malversation in his capacity of commandant of fort Machault. Under these circumstances his children have no right to the King's favours. Folio 102½, 1 page.

March 18. The same to M. Daubenton. Will arrange for the passage to Guadeloupe of M. de Repentigny, colonel of the regiment of this colony, his wife and three servants. Folio 134, ½ page.

March 24. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. We have nothing to fear from the expedition which the Congress of the English colonies intend to make against the English fishing settlements on the coast of Newfoundland. Our rights are well enough known to prevent our fishermen being molested. Folio 234 bis, 2½ pages.

April 15. The same to M. le Marquis de Vaudreuil at Paris. Forwards the certificate of death of Mde de Rigaud which the administrators of San Domingo have sent to him. Folio 170, ¼ page.

April 29. The same to M. Duprè de St. Maur. The King has granted a pension of 600 livres to the widow of the Sr. Benoist, late an officer in Canada. Folio 187½, ½ page.

April 29. The same to Mde de Feltz, at the Luxembourg, Paris. Will submit her demand, to receive half of the pension which her husband enjoyed for his services in Canada, in his capacity of surgeon to the King. Folio 188, ½ page.

April 29. The same to M. Guillot, at St. Malo. Having regard to his representations in favour of certain families of North America settled in his department, the King has been pleased to put them on the list of those who are to receive allowances out of the available funds. Folio 189, 1 page.

April 29. The same to M. Daubenton. Same subject. Folio 189½, 1 page, List of persons from North America to whom pensions have been granted out of the funds coming from the 50,000 livres. Folio 190, 1½ pages.

May 24. The same to M. Daubenton. Prays he will examine the request of Joseph Devaux, an Acadian, who represents that Abbé de Lisle-Dieu having taken care of him while he was young, he has never received the subsistence allowed to Acadian children. Folio 219½, ½ page.

May 26. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. England being at war with her colonies of North America, our vessels cannot, when in the open sea, refuse the visit which the captains of the English warships may exact, and they 1776. must, for this purpose, lower their sails upon the first summons. Folio 226, 1½ pages.

May 27. The same to the same. Forwards the letters which he asked in favour of M. de Lotbiniere for the Commissary of the Navy at St. Malo and the Administrators of St. Pierre and Miquelon. Folio 228, ½ page.

May 27. The same to M. Guillot. M. de Lotbinère desiring to return to Canada by way of St. Pierre and Miquelon, he shall procure a passage and give him all the facilities in his power. Folio 228, ½ page.

May 31. The same to MM. Doyard and de la Porte, Commissary General of the Navy, intendants at Nantes and Bordeaux. Notifies them that the King's intentions are that no munitions of war are to be supplied by his subjects to the rebels of America. Folio 234, 1 page.

June 16. The same to M. de la Rue, Comptroller General of the Excise of Paris, Rue du Bac. Has received his letter in which he says that he refused to deliver to Father Colomban three rescripts from Rome which he found among the papers of Abbé de Lisle-Dieu, with a few memoirs against this Apostolic Prefect, which he would certainly have forwarded if he had not become sick. Folio 253½, ½ page.

June 20. The same to M. de la Touche. Has received the journal of M. de Montazeaud, in which it is seen that he met, not far from San Domingo, an English fleet commanded by Admiral Parker. It is true that his presence in these regions might cause some uneasiness, but there is no doubt that this admiral was carried away to the south by incidents of his navigation and that he was really going to Virginia or Carolina, as the English officer who went on board the vessel of M. de Montazeaud declared, and there is very little to fear for San Domingo, as this fleet which had sailed from Cork only conveyed a few Irish regiments. Cannot understand how the officers of this squadron could know that 6,000 Hessians had gone into England's pay, to serve against the English colonies, as this arrangement could not be known in Ireland when this squadron sailed. Folio 259, 1 page.

June 21. The same to M. Duplessis Fabert, formerly an officer in Canada, at Châteauneuf. Cannot make the pension which he enjoys reversible to his wife. Folio 273, ½ page.

June 28. The same to M. de Figuiery, formerly an officer of infantry at Castel Sarazin in Languedoc. Has received the memorial of his wife asking for a pension of 400 livres, as a Canadian as well as in consideration of the services of her ancestors. Her memorial does not contain the details of these services and they are not known in his office. Besides the state of the finances does not permit to grant her request. Folio 266½, ½ page.

June 28. The same to M. the Comptroller General. It had been decided that the Acadians would be settled on the estates of M. de Pérusse, and that the subsistence would be continued to those unable to work. In consequence, a census has been taken of these families who number 2523 persons, the settlement, maintenance, and subsistence of whom have, on the 1st of July 1773, come under the charge of the Finance department. Has been informed that the settlements on the estates of M. de Pérusse have not been successful and that the Acadians have remained dispersed in the ports. The Finance department has only paid the subsistence until Dec. 31, 1774. These unfortunate beings do not cease to claim it from him. Could only transmit their demands to M. Turgot. Has answered that measures were being taken to restore the allowance. The representations of the Acadians are touching and well founded. Prays he will attend to this and inform him of what he shall do in their favour. Folio 267, 1½ pages.

June 28. The same to M. Lombard. Prays he will forward him a statement of the claim of Dlle Fizel, an inhabitant of Louisbourg, who asks for a pension. Folio 273½, ½ page.

1776. July 5. The same to M. de Céloron, at Tours. Has procured an extra gratuity for the Sr. de la Noue. Folio 278, ½ page.

July 5. The same to M. the Archbishop of Paris. Cannot grant to Mde. de Courtemanche the pension of 400 livres enjoyed by her father, however sad may be her situation. But owing to his high protection, she will be recommended to the King for an extra gratuity. Folio 280½, ½ page.

July 5. The same to M. D'Aguesseau. Cannot grant the pension asked for by the Sr. de Clovignac. He went to Louisbourg in 1748 simply as a settler and never was in the employ of the Marine department. Folio 281, ½ page.

July 10. The same to M Daubenton. It has been decided by an edict of June last to establish a depot at Versailles where all the registers and deeds passed in the colonies will be deposited, and to unite that which is at Rochefort to it. Shall send all the papers of the Rochefort depot. Folio 287, 1 page.

July 25. The same to M. Gimel. It is true that the pension of 4,000 livres granted to Mde. Varin in 1766 is reversible to her three children at the rate of 1,000 livres each, but it is not cumulative. Folio 305½, ¼ page.

August 4. The same to M. Meulan D'Ablois. Has received the memorial of Dlle. Herpin, an Acadian, in whom he is interested. Refers him to M. Daubenton, who is specially charged with the distribution of the fund destined for that object. Folio 325, ½ page.

August 18. The same to M. Daubenton. Sees by his letter that the papers accumulated at Rochefort form a considerable mass, the transfer of which would be very expensive. As the greater part come from Canada, Ile Royale and Louisiana, the government has no reason to transfer them to Versailles, besides, the inhabitants of these colonies having nearly all settled in the neighbourhood of Rochefort, it will be best to leave them where they are. Folio 340, 1 page.

September 14. The same to M. de la Chauvignerie, officer from Canada, Rue St. Honoré, in front of the Opéra. Has granted him an extraordinary gratuity of 300 livres. Folio 381½, ½ page.

September 14. The same to M. Matis, Place du Petit Marché St. Jacques, care of Widow Vernier, Paris. Has received his memorial concerning the estate of his brother, curé of Montreal, who died 4 or 5 years ago. Cannot give him any information. Folio 382, ½ page.

September 20. The same to Mde. de la Boularderie, at Tours. Has received her letter asking for a gratuity to enable her to pay her debts, and go to Normandy. Can add nothing to the favours already granted her by the King. Folio 390½, ½ page.

September 28. The same to M. Daubenton. Will report whether the Dlles. Fizel who ask assistance as Acadians have a right to do so. Folio 404, ½ page.

September 28. The same to M. Doyard. Has read with interest the news given him by Captain Robert Kennedy, from Philadelphia. Folio 406½, ½ page.

September 28. The same to M. Baudard de St. James, Treasurer General of Martinique and the Colonies, at Paris. The King has judged advisable to grant to the missions of Cayenne, the capital and arrears of a rent of 1,600 livres bequeathed to the Nuns of the Congregation of Louisbourg. Is authorized to call upon the widow of the Sr. du Pénil to account for the proceeds of this rent, which her husband has received for a number of years in virtue of a power of attorney from these religieuses. Folio 412, 1 page.

Fontainebleau. October 21. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. Shall make vigorous representations to the Court of London and demand satisfaction for the outrage committed by the English governor in causing many French vessels to be 1776. seized on the African coast within the dependency of Gorée. Folio 437, 1½ pages.

October 27. The same to the same. Same subject. Shall first demand from the Court of London the recall and punishment of the English governor of Sénégal, Mr. Macnemara, and all indemnities which are justly due. Folio 448, 2 pages.

November 10. The same to M. Doyard. The rumours current at Nantes that four English frigates were cruising along our coasts to intercept the American vessels bound for France do not appear well founded. Folio 465, ½ pages.

November 12. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. Has examined the report containing the details of the capture by the English of the vessel commanded by Louis Borelly. A voyage to New England in the present state of affairs looks very suspicious, and it is not surprising that the captain of the English frigate would not listen to the story concocted by the French captain. A judgment cannot however be based on appearances and if the report of the officers of the English frigate does not refute the facts alleged by the crew of the French vessel, the Court of London cannot refuse to restore the prize. It is best to make moderate representations. Folio 469, 1 page.

November 12. The same to M. de Vergennes. On the subject of the capture of French vessels off the coast of Gorée. Instructions as to the manner of proceeding. Folio 469½, 2 pages.

Versailles. November 30. The same to the same. Has learnt with pleasure that the English cabinet has disavowed the conduct of M. de Macnemara, governor of Sénégal, and has recalled him. Must seize this occasion to reach a definite understanding as to the extent of our settlements in these regions. Folio 489, 1½ pages.

December 20. The same to M. the Comptroller General. Will see by the memorial which he forwards that the settlement of the Acadians on the estates of M. le Marquis de Pérusse has not been a success, and that these Acadians to the number of 1400 have sought a refuge at Nantes. Can grant no assistance out of the funds of his department. Can only pray him to enquire into their situation and to procure for those entitled to receive aid, that which was promised them at the time of the peace. Folio 523, 1 page.

End of Vol. 158.

May 16. The same to M. de Voltaire. Even though the person in whom he is interested were the nephew of the Sr. Valentin, the latters will and the condition of the estate leave no hope for his protégé. Folio 185½, ½ page.

The same to M. Lombard de Sagnes. Has received both his letters, one containing the declaration of Captain Praille, who met, off the coast of Martinique, the English vessel Le Monarque flying the French flag; the other announcing the arrival at Bordeaux of the brigantine Le Pelly from Philadelphia, which met Le Falmouth which he captured after a fight of two hours. The commander of Le Pelly has sent Le Falmouth, with her cargo, 1777. estimated at 35,000 or 40,000 pounds sterling, to an American port. Folio 187, 1½ pages.

June 6. The same to M. the Archbishop of Tours. Has obtained for the widow of the Sr. de Courtemanche, formerly officer in Canada, an extraordinary gratuity of 300 livres while waiting for a pension. Folio 214, ½ page.

June 6. The same to Mde D'Aillebout. It is impossible to increase the pension of 1400 livres which she enjoys. Folio 214½, ½ page.

Has written to the governor of that colony to keep watch on the privateers which might be fitted out at Martinique under the pretext of making French expeditions. Folio 231, ½ page.

June 22. The same to the same. Same subject. Folio 243, 1½ pages.

June 22. The same to the same. Respecting the capture of a French vessel by the English sloop of war La Diligence, under the pretext that she came from the English colonies, recaptured by commandant L'Archantel, commanding the frigate L'Indiscrète and taken to San Domingo. It is possible that the English will not claim this vessel captured under mere suspicion. Will communicate the information in the possession of the government of San Domingo. Folio 244, 1½ pages.

July 4. The same to M. Lombard. On the subject of the search and capture of several French vessels returning from San Domingo, by English ships. Folio 257½, ½ page.

July 2. Circulars to the Chambers of Commerce. Must stop alarm which may be created from rumors spread to the effect that an understanding has been reached between the Courts of France and England permitting the English to seize on the French vessels, all the goods made or grown in New England, which they may find on board, and that these cargoes and vessels will be reckoned as good prizes. This rumour is without found ation and the governor of San Domingo cannot have spoken in that strain. Folio 258 bis, 1 page.

July 7. The same to M. le Marquis de Paulmy. Is sorry to be unable to grant Mde de Gannes's request for aid to go to Martinique, whence she is to sail for Grenada, to join one of her relatives Folio 259½, ½ page.

July 25. The same to M. D'Aguesseau, Councillor of State. Has submitted to the King the memorial of the Dlles de Covignac asking for the reversion to them of the pension enjoyed by their mother out of the funds of Ile Royale. The King was pleased to grant them this favour. Folio 279½, ½ page.

August 8. The same to Mde la Duchesse de Mailly. Has examined the memorial in which the Sr. Charles François Ferdinand Dupont du Chambon asks for a pension in consideration of his services in America. The King has granted his demand. Folio 293½, ½ page.

September 28. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. Forwards a memorial from the Sr. Aussenac, of San Domingo, in which he clearly proves that his vessel, captured by the English frigate La Winchelsea, on the San Domingo coast, was on her way to Martinique; that she carried no munitions considered contraband; that she belongs to a French subject; and that her route was unequivocal. This capture is undoubtedly illegal, and no doubt that the Court of London will order the restoration and grant suitable damages. Folio 405, 1 page.

September 28. The same to MM. Guy and Company, merchants of Marseilles. Has received the documents concerning the vessel Le Huron, which was captured on the 26th May last by two corsairs while returning from Charleston. He was not authorized to sell his cargo at Charleston nor to bring back produce from that country. The intention of the King is indeed to allow the vessels from New England to take from the ports of France cargoes of merchandise admitted, save munitions of war, but he is surprised to see intelligent merchants infer from this that it is permitted to sell and buy in the ports of New England. Folio 412, 1 page.

October 6. The same to M. de Vergennes. On the subject of the English vessel Le Champion, captured by Amerrican corsiars near the Island of Tobago and taken, it is said, to one of the French islands. The report is very vague. Folio 421, 2 pages.

His ship having been captured while on the way to a New England port, he will have to prove by the aid of documents and in a satisfactory manner, that he was forced to stop there. Folio 426½, ½ page.

October 17. The same to M. le Comte d'Aranda, Ambassador of Spain. Prays he will inform him whether he has any objection to tbe settlement in Louisiana of two Acadian families composed of 22 persons, and whether his government would undertake to procure them a passage. They wish to join brothers and relatives who offer to help them. Folio 429, ½ page.

October 24. The same to the Chamber of Commerce of Bordeaux. Has examined the documents concerning the capture by the English of the ship Le Fier, which left Martinique for St. Pierre and Miquelon. It appears from the enquiry that the sentence was based on sufficient evidence, as it was found that her primitive name was La Betty, that she belonged to Eglishmen, that she was captured by Anglo-Americans and taken to Martinique, &c., &c. If she was purchased by a Frenchman the acquisition was illegal and the English have a right to claim her, besides there is ground to believe that she has remained the property of Anglo-Americans. The government cannot meddle in such an equivocal affair. Folio 441, 1½ pages.

October 24. The same to M. Mistral. Respecting the assistance asked in favour of Charlotte La Lime, a Canadian. Folio 541½, ½ page.

December 26. The same to M. Guillot. Has received his letter in which he informs him that the schooner La Notre Dame was met on the Newfoundland banks by an American corsair who obliged the captain to take on board ten English prisoners whom he has landed at St. Pierre. Folio 524½, ½ page.

December 26. The same to M. Marchais. Respecting subsistance to the families of North America. Folio 531, 1½ pages.

COLONIES.

CORRESPONDENCE.

YEAR 1778.

Series B. Vol. 162.

SAN DOMINGO.

1778. Versailles. January 1ᵉ. The President of the Navy Board to M. D'Argout. The clouds which seemed to accumulate during the summer between the Courts of France and England have dispersed. The advantage gained since by the American insurgents might bring about a change against which it is well to be prepared. Folio 6, 1½ pages.

March 20. Circular to the governors of the Colonies of America. Notifies them that the King has concluded a treaty of peace and amity with the United States of America, who are in full possession of their independence pronounced by the Act of the 4th of July 1776. Has notified the Court of London of this treaty, declaring that no special privileges had been accorded to the French nation. Notwithstanding this declaration, which contained new proofs of the sincere dispositions of His Majesty toward peace, the English ambassador has received orders to retire without taking leave and M. le Marquis de Noailles was consequently recalled. In this state of affairs, war may be declared at any moment. If war is declared, they will open their ports to the neutrals and will retaliate against the English. Folio 39, 3 pages.

April 30. Circulars to the governors of the French colonies in America. The King having recognized the independence of the United States of America, they will treat them with the honours due to free states. This only applies to warships, for if they were merely corsairs they would fall in the category of private ships of other nations which are not saluted. Folio 59, 1 page.

May 4. Circular to the governors of the French colonies in America. It is the King's wish that the United States corsairs be treated with the greatest friendship. Shall tolerate, but without a formal authorization, the sale of prizes which they may bring into their ports. Folio 54, 1 page.

May 9. The President of the Navy Board to MM. D'Argout and de Vaivre. Approves of the exact neutrality which they have observed towards the English and American ships. Can but approve of the orders they have given for the dismantling of the vessel La Liberté, carrying 16 guns which the Sr. Lavaud had fitted out under a commission from the Congress. Shall take care that such abuses do not occur again. P.S. The order of things is changed by the Treaty of Commerce and Amity concluded with the United States. Will comply with his orders on that subject. Folio 67, 1 page.

June 26. Circular of the King to the governors of the French colonies in America. The insult offered to his flag on board of the frigate La Belle Poule, by the English; the seizure of his frigates La Licorne and La Pallas, and of his lugger Le Coureur by an English squadron in contempt of the law of nations; the seizure on the open sea and the confiscation of vessels belonging to his subjects, in contravention 1778. of the treaties, the continued trouble and damage done to his maritime commerce, either by war vessels of this power or by corsairs authorized and incited by it, have forced him to put an end to his moderation and make reprizals. Instructions in consequence. Folio 87, 2 pages.

June 28. Circular Instructions. Folio 87 bis, 3 pages.

June 28. Circular Instructions on the subject of admission of neutrals respecting the troops, and the prizes. Folio 88 bis. 2 pages.

August 6. The same to M. D'Argout. Has received his letter and that of the commandant of St. Augustine, in Florida, acquainting him of the forwarding of many French prisoners, who had been arrested by the English while going to New England. This commandant having asked him to sell the ship which conveyed the French prisoners, and to forward the proceeds to England, he did well to execute his desire. It is true that this vessel belonged to the Sr. Aguilar, that it had been seized by the English, and that, under ordinary circumstances he would have been entitled to take his property where he found it, but, as this vessel had come under a flag of truce, in good faith, to carry French prisoners, he could not do otherwise. Folio 105, 1½ pages.

The same to the same. Has received with his letter a copy of that of the Chev. de Cuverville, commander of the frigate L'Inconstante, in which he reports the capture of the French snow La Marie Marianne by an English boat, within one league from his frigate, and near our coasts. Did well not to ask for reparation for this insult as he knew that this snow sent to Miquelon, was bound to New England, and that the Captain was in collusion with the English to effect its capture. Folio 108, ½ page.

August 18 The same to MM. D'Argout and de Vaivre. Desires that a position be procured for the Chev. de Queux, formerly captain in the navy, who distinguished himself on various occasions, particularly at the siege of Louisbourg in 1758. Folio 110, 1 page.

October 13. Circular to the governors of the colonies of America. Upon the representations of the merchants of the Kingdom that they could victual the colonies during the war, it has been resolved that neutral ships will not be admitted in our colonies unless in cases of urgent necessity. They will be the judges of this necessity. Convoys shall accompany our vessels both going and returning. Folio 125, 1½ pages.

Marly. October 19. Circular Do. Supplementary instructions. Many of our ships have been captured by the English notwithstanding the precautions taken to protect them when making land. Folio 126, 2 pages.

December 19. Circular from the King to the governors of the American Colonies. The Queen, his dear wife and companion, has given him to day a great proof of her love, in giving birth to a daughter. This visible mark of the protection of Providence, leads him to hope for the accomplishment of his wishes and those of all his people: the birth of a dauphin. Instructions for a Te Deum. Folio 151, 1 page.

MARTINIQUE.

Versailles. November 7. The President of the Navy Board. On the subject of the capture of the Island of Dominica. Has seen with pleasure the advantages which he did not hesitate to grant to the inhabitants of this island. Approves that they preserve their civil government, laws and customs, Folio 61, 2 pages.

GUADELOUPE.

February 28. The President of the Navy Board to M. de La Saulais. M. D'Arbaud the governor, has complained that he had deviated from the principles of neutrality by openly favouring the Anglo-Americans. Was forced to 1778. disavow his conduct by ordering the restitution of the schooner Le Glocester, which was claimed by the government of Antigua. Prays he will be

March 20. cautious. Folio 13, ½ page.

The same to M. D'Arbaud. Has received the copy of his correspondence with M. Burth, Governor of Antigua, respecting the enterprises of an English frigate which ran an American vessel aground on the coast of Guadeloupe and then landed men to pursue the crew. Has transmitted to M. de Vergennes the details of this violation of territory and the conduct of the English governor. Folio 18, ½ page.

MIQUELON.

Versailles. February 28. The President of the Navy Board to M. le Baron de l'Espérance. Thanks for his attention in sending information as to what happens in the United States. Is glad that he should have given proofs of his good understanding with M. de Montaigu, the English Admiral, by sending back the English prisoners whom the Americans had landed at St. Pierre. Hopes that the rupture, which the English who were released at St. Pierre, announced as near, between the two nations, will not materialize. If war is declared, he will resist as long as his means will allow, and try to obtain the best terms
November 7. possible. Folio 3, 1 page.

The same to the same. Has received his letters in which he announced that he had been obliged to capitulate and surrender to an English squadron. May remain at Lorient to regain his health, but prays he will send a detailed November 16. statement of the affair. Folio 13, 1 page.

The same to the same. Hopes that he will soon come to Versailles to give information on the destruction of the fishing settlements and on the way the English treated the inhabitants. Is not surprised that they seized the vessels, goods, cod, and effects of the Frenchmen of Europe, but it appears that they have not treated the settlers any better, who were to keep the ownership of their movables, effects of all kinds, and particularly the cod, which could not but be considered as the crops of farmers. Folio 14, 1 page.

Enumeration of the Indians of the Mississipi basin, and of the Great Lakes. Folio 38, 16 pages.

1703. May 20. Official report signed by de Bienville, de la Salle, de Boisbrillant, the Chev. de Bécancourt, Henry de Tonty, Le Vasseur, Russanel, stating that having received no succour from France, and being reduced to the last extremity, it had been judged proper to send La Précieuse to Vera Crux, to ask for provisions for the garrison. Folio 46, 1 page.

1704. September 6. De Bienville to the Minister. Narrative of his expedition against the Alibamons. The Coroas who killed a missionary and three Frenchmen, have been exterminated by the Akansas, our allies. There are still several voyageurs in small bands of 7 or 8, in the Mississipi and Missouri country, and the Indians still kill some. If they took the precaution to assemsemble all together to trade, this would not happen. Has sent an order to them to come back and forbidding them to trade in beaver skins. They are all good men, well suited for this country. They number altogether 110, counting the 20 men at Ouabache, whom the Sr. Juchereau has assembled. The latter died last fall. They have sold about 9,000 skins of oxen and calves at the fort on the Mississipi. These voyageurs will not be able to settle here comfortably if they can not take skins. The 27 women who who came here were all married on their arrival, to Canadians and others who could maintain them, a short time after their arrival. The vessel which 1704. came from Havana brought the plague and 45 persons have died. Ships should not stop at Havana. The want of fresh meat is the cause of much mortality, a flute should be employed to carry cattle from Havana, she could also bring here, in one trip, many settlers. The climate is as good as that of France. Two Indians who came from the Chicachas country report that four Englishmen have brought a lot of merchandise there to thwart the effect of the presents which we had given them. The fort of the Mississipi has not been transferred as d'Iberville had ordered it, as it was found after his departure that all the lands were not covered with water. M. de St. Denis is in command and has 15 Canadians with him. He is a very good officer and has much control over the Canadians, and even over the Indians. The Spaniards of Pensacola are very unhappy. They are reduced to eat Indian corn most of the time. If we had not helped them several times, they would have been obliged to abandon their settlement. The garrison is 200 strong, 100 of whom are mulatto convicts. The Apalaches have been exterminated by the English and their Indian allies. They have made 32 Spaniards of the garrison prisoners and have burnt 17 of them, including 3 Cordelier fathers. They have killed or made prisoners 6 or 7,000 Apalaches, and have captured 6,000 head of cattle, horses and sheep. After burning their fort, the Spaniards retired to St. Augustin. Only about 400 Apalaches have escaped and taken refuge on our river. 200 Chactas, who were settled near Pensacola, have also taken refuge with us. It is said that they intend going to St. Augustin to destroy that fort, after which they will come and attack Mobile. They will not have an easy victory if they come, but he doubts whether they will come. A fort is needed at Ile au Massacre, to protect Mobile. Has sent the passage boat to Vera Cruz at the solicitation of the Governor of Pensacola, and at the same time, to fetch provisions. The Sr. de Becancour died during the voyage. Two other officers have also died : The Srs. Le Vasseur and de Tonty, Canadians. Folio 47, 12 pages. Say 16 pages.

Fort of Louisiana. 1708. February 25. Report of M. D'Artaguette on what he has been able to learn concerning the instructions of the late M. de Muy, governer of fort of Louisiana. The river Mobile can only be ascended as far as the Chicachas country in small canoes. The fort the erection of which had been proposed, on the territory of that nation, was to prevent the English from going to our Indians settled further north. They receive French and English equally, and turn away those who came first when the others arrive, so as to prevent disorders. Between them and ourselves are the Chactas. The English go there daily to make slaves whom they exchange for negroes of Carolina, or sell as slaves. M. de Bienville tried to make peace between the Chactas and the Chicachas. It only lasted one year. We are not strong enough to punish those who broke the treaty. They see and speak to each other when here and kill each other when at a distance. A fort can only be erected on the Chicachas territory when we are stronger. If a tannery was built here, the skins of oxen would only cost one pistole each. The vice-roy of Mexico has written to the governor of Pensacola not to dispute our boundaries which extend to the River Verdide. Folio 53, 3 pages.

1709. Extract from the Report of the Sr. Mandeville, ensign in the company of Vauzelard in Louisiana. Respecting Louisiana. Description of the country. It would be expedient to grant peace to the Alibamons who sue for it. The other nations are friendly, and those who trade with the English are neutral. Ascending the Mississipi, many nations are met, composed of good, industrious, and peace-loving people. The soil is good. Going further up the Mississipi, one comes to the Ouabache 300 leagues from the mouth of the former. The valley of this river is very fertile, and hunting is good, especially that of oxen. It is the finest country in the world. Above this river, in the country of the Caskakias, is a mission of the Jesuits and near 1709. it is a plumbago mine which is very rich. Between this mission and the Ouabache, there are a salt mine and one of copper. Ascending further, one reaches the Missouri. Oxen are there in such abundance, that it surpasses imagination. These oxen grow hair and wool according to seasons. The Mississipi has been ascended to its source. Coming down is very easy. There is also an iron mine on the Mississipi. As nearly all the walnut trees are dead in France, those of the Mississipi might be used to make oil. They are very numerous. It is absolutely necessary to live in peace with all the Indian nations of this vast region. Folio 55, 4 pages.

1710. May 13. Extract from the King's memorandum to M. La Mothe de Cadillac. As the Spaniards are trying to attract the Indians who formerly lived near Pensacola, to settle there again, he will do all he can to dissuade them from going without, however, using force. Folio 57, ½ page.

May 13. Extract do. Will discuss with MM. de Bienville and d' Artagnette on the question of erecting a fort on Ile au Massacre. Folio 58, ½ page.

May 13. Extract do. Asks for a detailed report on the country. Folio 59, ½ page.

May 13. Extract do. Prays he will examine as to the best way of establishing a trade in the skins of Illinois oxen at Mobile. Folio 60, 1 page.

1713. Memorandum in answer to the instructions sent by M. le Comte de Pontchartrain to the Sr. Duclos, Intendant Commissary of the Navy in Louisiana. Missonaries. There are no Christians among the Indians yet, except among the Apalaches, who were formerly neighbours of the Spaniards. The indigo-plant grows very well, and up to now, without being cultivated. It is said that three crops can be obtained yearly. Mulberry trees are very abundant. The introduction of silk worms would be very advantageous. Believes that the inhabitants would take kindly to this industry, as the facility of gathering of the crops, which can be done in the shade, and without any fatigue, would just suit the laziness of the inhabitants. Tobacco grows very well, but there is a worm which eats it as soon as it comes out of the ground, this is due, he believes the proximity of the forest which contains all sorts of insects. The clearing of the land would overcome this difficulty, which is common to all sown crops, even Indian corn. The inhabitants are not very industrious and are consequently poor, They keep a good number of cows as they cost no trouble to nourish. Twelve girls have been sent to Bayou La Fourche. They have been sent from Port Louis by M. de Clairambault, but they are so ugly and so ill-shaped, that the inhabitants of this country, especially the Canadians, show very little eagerness for them. However, two have married. In making a choice, it would be preferable to send nice looking girls rather than virtuous ones. The Canadians and the voyageurs, who are fine men, are not scrupulous about the past of the girls they marry. Not finding them to their taste, they went back saying that they still preferred squaws. It is likely that they would have settled here if the women had appealed to their tastes. Folio 61, 18 pages.

1714. February 20. M. de la Mothe Cadillac to the Minister. Officers appointed to the Superior Council. Nearly all have two positions, and have no idea of their functions. Account of the comical proceedings of the first sitting. Folio 71, 4 pages.

Fort St. Louis. 1716. January 5. Copy of additional instructions to the memorandum of the King, dated Dec. 17, 1714, given by M. de la Mothe, Governor of the Province of Louisiana, to M. de Bienville, Commandant of Rozalie. Having been apprized that the Natchez had killed four Frenchmen who were going to Illinois, he gives orders to M. de Bienville to join M. Du Tisnet, who is on the road to Rozalie, without delay. Shall go as far as the Tonicas country, where the Sr. Daniou, missionary, is. If the murder of the four Frenchmen has been committed without the knowledge of the Nachez nation, he 1716. will conclude peace with them, after they have made proper reparation. Folio 73, 1 page.

Ile Dauphin. May 30. Copy of the order given by M. de Bienville to M. de Richebourg. Copy of the letter written by M. de Bienville, from Fort S. Joseph, to M. de la Mothe, on the 15th of April, 1716. Observations made by M. de La Mothe on the order, letter and journal handed to him by the Sr. de Richebourg sent on a mission to Rozalie with M. de Bienville. Memoir that the Sr. de Richebourg, captain of a company, sent from Tonicas by M. de Bienville, has orders from M. de Bienville to represent to M. de la Mothe Cadillac after informing him of what happened since his departure from Ile Dauphine. Observations made by M. de la Mothe on the report of the Sr. de Richebourg. Copy of the clauses of the letter of M. Derbane, clerk in the King's stores, and of the Company, who made a voyage to the country of the Natchez. 27 April 1715. Remarks by M. de la Mothe on the above clauses of the letter of the Sr. Derbane. M. de Bienville is strongly blamed for his rigour toward the Natchez who were suing for peace. Folio 73, 15 pages.

1715. Description of the River St. Louis or Mississippi and of the River Mobile, by M. de Remonville. Ends with suggestions for the peopling of the colony and citing the example of Canada:—"Canada," says he, "furnishes a fine proof with 10,000 men of splendid physique and brave as Cæsars, produced by the Carignan regiment in a country which amounted to nothing before the arrival of that regiment." Folio 81, 15 pages.

1716. May 10. Memorandum which the Sr. de Richebourg, captain of a company, sent fromthe Tonicas country to Fort Louis, by M. de Bienville, was ordered to represent to M. de la Mothe Cadillac, after informing him of what happened since his departure from Ile Dauphine. Folio 89, 18 pages.

November 26. MM. de Vaudreuil and Le Normant to the Minister. Account of a voyage of exploration to the mouths of the Mississippi, with a view to determine the depth of water in the several passages and to fix the most favourable spot to establish a battery. It has been judged that the "Détour aux Anglais" was the best place for that battery. Folio 98, 7 pages.

1718. Narrative of the wreck and adventures of the Sr. de St. Simarde de Belle Isle, son of the doyon de l'élection de Fontenay Le Comte. Sailed from La Rochelle in 1718 on board Le Maréchal d'Estrées, bound to New Orleans, with a brevet of second lieutenant. Owing to a false manœuvre of the captain, the Sr. de Belle Isle and four other officers were obliged to escape in a boat. They landed on an uninhabited shore where all but the Sr. de Belle Isle died from hunger and fatigue. At the end of three months the Sr. de Belle Isle saw some men who kept him for 15 months as a slave, after which time he succeeded in escaping. He went, naked, to M. de Bienville, at New Orleans. He has served in the conquest of Missouri under M. de Bourmont. He is a real soldier, tall, well made, and of fine bearing. Folio 102, 2 pages.

Fort Louis. 1718. June 12. M. de Bienville to the Minister. Is now working on the settlement of New Orleans. Has taken possession of the Baie de St. Joseph, 50 leagues east of Ile Dauphine, on the Gulf of Mexico, and caused a small fort to be built. According to what his brother, the Chev. de Chateaugué, says, he does not believe that it will be easy to maintain this fort, owing to the impossibility of protecting the entrance of the bay. There is enough water, but no shelter for ships from the wind. The Spaniards had a small fort there 18 years ago. The roadstead of the Ile aux Vaisseaux appears infinitely superior and much nearer Mobile and the Mississippi. The port of Ile Dauphine is always in the same state, and he does not think that any improvement is to be expected. Has had soundings taken at the en-1718. trance of the Mississippi, below the bar which separates it from the sea. Remarks on this subject. Folio, 103, 3 pages.

September 25. The same to the same. The Indians knowing that the Cross of St. Louis is a reward for valour, he thinks that it would be wise to grant it to MM. de Boisbriand and de Chateaugué, who deserve it by their services in Canada, France, and Louisiana. The Superior Council of Louisiana has decided that the post of Baie St. Joseph should be abandoned. Reasons in support. The title of Commandant General is very fine, but he would prefer that of Governor. His position as commandant and King's lieutenant, a position which he has filled for more than 20 years in the colony, besides his services in France in the navy, entitles him to ask for this favour. Moreover, the Spaniards will think more of this title, which may be useful at times. Folio 105, 4 pages.

1719. May 15. Articles of capitulation of Pensacola proposed by Don Juan Pedro de Matamoros de Isla. In the margin the articles which MM. de Bienville, de Sèrigny and Larcebausse accept or refuse are marked Folio 107, 3 pages.

Pensacola. 1719. June 20. De Serigny, formerly lieutenant in the Navy, Commandant General in the province of Louisiana to His Royal Highness..... ..Since his departure from France, he has done all he could to reach Louisiana as soon as possible with the two frigates of the Compagnie d'Occident. While passing along the Island of Cuba, he met two ships full of people, which attacked him under Spanish colours. After a serious resistance, the Spaniards or pirates, took to flight. He drove them ashore, and would have captured the two vessels if the wind had not died down. Then he continued his route to Ile Dauphine, where he arrived on the 19th of April. Communicated the declaration of war against Spain and his orders. It was resolved to go and attack Pensacola, which is the finest harbour of the whole Gulf of Mexico. Took, with his brother, all the necessary precautions to get ahead of the English. Embarked 200 men of landing troops in three frigates, and his brother de Bienville followed his ships with 4 boats and 80 men. It was understood that his brother de Chateaugue would join them ashore with 3 or 400 Indians of Mobile. His brother captured the battery of the Island of Ste. Rose, which forms the entrance to that port, after which he himself entered the port without a pilot, as he knew it, having been there 21 years before. After an exchange of shots, the Spaniards lowered their flag and desired a parley. Details on this subject. Has no doubt that the Vice-Roy of Mexico will make an effort to retake this fort. As soon as the Spanish garrison has left for Havana, he will go to the entrance of the Mississippi, to see whether it is possible to improve the channel of this river to allow frigates to enter it. Can assure him that if he does not succeed in the execution of his orders no one will. Has undertaken this expedition merely to please His Royal Highness. Would have wished the brevet of post captain before his departure, in consideration of his long services, and his having left all his family and considerable estates His Highness having asked him to obey blindly, he has done so. Retires on the promise he made. Folio 109, 6 pages.

Ile Dauphin. 1719. October 26. The same to the same. Continues his account of the events which took place during his campaign. After the capture of Pensacola, 56 of our soldiers have deserted in one batch, the greater part being forcibly enrolled. Having lost their way, they sent one of their number to ask for pardon this was granted to all except two of them who were knocked on the head in sight of the Spanish garrison. Eleven more have deserted since. Nearly all the rest of the garrison has plotted to desert, capture a frigate, and escape to Vera Crux. The attempt was foiled. He anchored at Ile Dauphine on the 26th of July. Was getting ready, on the first of August, to leave for the mouth of the Mississipi when he was informed that 1719. a fleet was at the entrance of the Bay of Pensacola. Went by land to Pensacola, with a small detachment. Ascertained that the Spaniards had recaptured the place. Having no provisions, and not doubting that the enemy would attempt to capture Mobile, he came back to Ile Dauphine. Arrival of the Spanish fleet at Mobile. Summons to the commander to surrender. Account of various fights. Raising the siege, and departure of the Spanish fleet. Importance of fortifying Ile Dauphine. It is the key to the whole country. Is sorry to be unable to retake Pensacola, for want of provisions. Intends to go to the mouth of the Mississipi and even to ascend that river as far as Illinois. Discovered, in the afternoon of the 31st of August, two vessels and three large boats about the point of Mobile. Thought the Spaniards were coming back. Was happy to learn that it was M. de Champonélin who had convoyed the two vessels of the Company. A council of war was held and it was decided that M. de Bienville would leave within ten days with 4 or 500 Indians to invest Pensacola while waiting for the squadron to go there. Account of the Pensacola expedition. Conditions of the surrender of Pensacola. Capture ofa Spanish vessel which was coming to victual the place. Preparations at Vera Crux to attack Mobile. Folio 112, 32 pages.

August 13. Summons of the Spanish commander to the commandant of Mobile. Folio 129, 1 page.

October 20. De Bienville to the Minister. Detailed account of the events at Pensacola and at Mobile since the arrival of M. de Sérigny up to the departure for France of M. de Champmélin. Complaints concerning the abandonment of the country, &c., &c. Hopes he will be appointed governor of the colony, a favour which he deserves as he has discovered the country with his brother d'Iberville, that he has settled it since the beginning and that he has preserved it with a garrison of 100 men against the efforts of the English, thanks to the confidence he has inspired in the natives of the country. M. de Boisbriand, whom he sent to the Illinois country last winter with 100 men, soldiers as well as miners, has discovered a silver mine near the Illinois country, which is very valuable. Folio 130, 9 pages.

November 8. Instructions for the Sr. Le Blond de la Tour, chief engineer of Louisiana, Pauger and de Boispinel, second engineers, and Franquet de Chaville, also engineer. Folio 136, 4 pages.

November 28. Memorandum of M. Hubert on the settlement of Pensacola, that of Ile aux Vaisseaux, and on the use of Ile Dauphine. Folio 138, 4 pages.

1722. Memorandum on the settlement of New Orleans (unsigned). The port of Ile Dauphine having been filled with sand in 1717, the Compagnie d'Occident has resolved to form their main settlement on the Mississipi at a place which has been called Nouvelle-Orléans. Forts of Bilox and of Ile Balize at the entrance of the Mississipi. Folio 140, 2 pages.

Louisiana. 1722. June 17. Translation of the speeches of the chiefs of two Indian villages (Kaskakias) who came to the number of 30 to the Illinois country to ask for a pardon for the Sr. Périllard, who had killed a Frenchman, and answer of M. de Boisbriand, leaving the matter in the hands of the King. Folio 141, 8 pages.

1723. Memorandum on the rivers, lands and Indians of the Missouri (unsigned). Beauty and fertility of the country. Wheat grows just as well as in France. Fine timber is found everywhere, such as oak, ash, lianas, walnuts of every description, and mulberry-trees as fine as those in France. There are many kinds of round nuts and walnuts. There are vines, on the prairies as well as near the rivers, which produce grapes in abundance. There are three kinds which make good wine, one especially. Very good fruits are also found, such as the chimini which grows on a tree as large as a man's leg. This fruit has the appearance of a moderately sized cucumber, it is good to eat from the month of September. Some 1723. fall and others remain on the tree until the month of March. Those which remain on the tree become preserved and do not rot. They are much better than those which fall when ripe. The piaquemini is a sweet fruit and exactly like a medlar of France. There are apple trees and plum trees. Filberts are finer than those of France. There is a great quantity of other unknown fruits. The Indians have very remarkable remedies for wounds, and serpents' bites. For confined women, they use herbs, roots, and seeds of fruits, which heal in a very short time and do no harm. These remedies are very sweet. Climate, oxen, horses, salt-mines, hard and soft maples, wild beasts, game, metals, Indians, &c., &c. Folio 145, 6 pages.

Account of the punishment of the Natchez. Expedition of M. de Bienville. Peace concluded with the Natchez, on the condition that they will deliver the chiefs of the villages of la Pomme and des Noyers. Destruction of these two villages. Imprisonment of nine Frenchmen accused of having robbed some Indians. Return of M. de Bienville to New Orleans. Folio 149, 12 pages.

June 17. Another account of what happened at Fort Chartres, on the 29th of April, 1723, when 30 Kaskakias Indians to sue for pardon of the Sr. Périllard to MM. de Boisbriand, Diron, de la Loire, D'Artagnette and de Lisle. Folio 157, 10 pages. Say 15.

1724. July —. Country of the Illinois. Situation of the forts and villages. Census of the white population. The first settlement which one meets in ascending the Mississippi is the Kaskakias village, situated on the right bank of that river, three leagues from it, on a small river. The second is Fort Chartres, situated on the bank of the Mississippi, on one's right going up, opposite an island, six leagues from Kaskakias. The third is the place where the same Indians are found on the small river Maramek, which is about 12 leagues from Fort Chartres, on the left side going up. The fourth is the village of the Koakias or Tamarois, situated on the bank of the river on the right side going up, at about 14 or 15 leagues from Fort Chartres. Census made by M. Diron, in June 1723, of the inhabitants settled in these posts.

Louisiana. 1727. November 15. M. Périer to the minister. Extract from his report on the works at the embankment in front of New Orleans. When this work is completed, he will begin the canal from the town to the St. Jean, bayou which empties into Lake Pontchartrain. This work being done communication with the sea will be had both by the river and the lake. This work is considerable, but it will be complet·d in a few years through the contract made with the inhabitants, to the effect that they are guaranteed the life of the negroes which we will give them, for the first month, in consideration of which they bind themselves to supply 30 days' work for each negro thus delivered to them. Folio 164, 2 pages.

Mobile. 1728. December 9. Report of the Sr. Diron, lieutenant of the King, to the minister, concerning the country of Louisiana. Fort Condé at Mobile. The lands which border the river Chicachas are of a better quality than those of Mobile. There are very fine cedar bushes, prairies, fine quarries, mineral waters, mines of tin and plumbago, and a great number of wild beasts. The Indian nations settled on this river number about 17,000 men. That of the Chactas comprises about 10,000 men. This nation will some day be either the ruin or the maintainer of this colony, because the other can-1728. not resist them. They have no religion, but believe in a good and an evil spirit. They do not offer prayers to the good, because he is always resting and is incapable of doing them harm. They, on every occasion, address themselves to the evil one, and pray him not to do them any harm. Efforts of the English to render themselves favourable to this nation. The expenses which this ambitious nation incurs daily to propitiate them and drive us away is inconceivable. Necessity of establishing a large trading settlement at Mobile. Various information. Folio 165, 6 pages.

December 9. Account by M. Périer of the massacre made by the Natchez on the 28th of November, 1729. Folio 169, 16 pages.

1729. November 28. Statement of the situation resulting from the massacre by the Natchez. It is difficult to wage war alone against the Natchez, for, as soon as we make a move, they seek refuge with the Chicachas, who live 80 leagues from the Natchez: however, we can fight them with our present forces if the Chactas do not join them. If we could get them on our side, a thing which will be difficult, as they trade with the English, we could easily overcome the Natchez and the Chicachas united, in the contrary event, the colony can only be saved by receiving from France large reinforcements. Folio 177, 5 pages.

1730. March —. Account of the death of the wife of a Natchez chief, burnt at the stake, at New Orleans, by the Tonicas Indians. Folio 187, 2 pages.

March 20. Another account of the massacre by the Natchez, by the Sr. Diron d'Artaguette, followed by a recital of the operations against that nation, with the help of the Chactas. Have freed the women and the negroes who were prisoners of the Chactas; that is, 51 women and children, two Frenchmen, and 150 negroes. Folio 188, 8 pages.

Unsigned documents addressed to the Minister, reciting the services of the Sr. D'Artagnette in Louisiana, during the last 24 years and the outrageous attempt of M. Périer, the governor, to destroy the great influence which he enjoyed among the Indians, particularly the Chactas. The brother of M. D'Artagnette offers to defray the costs of a commission to be appointed to investigate the matter. Folio 192, 6 pages.

November 7. Letter from M. D'Auteuil de Monceau, dated Quebec, the 7th of Nov. 1730, relative to the destruction of the Fox Indians. Folio 196, 5 pages.

1731. Account by M. Périer of the defeat of the Natchez. After having made sure of the Chactas, and renewed the treaty of commerce and alliance with them, which had been for a long time in existence, he returned to New Orleans, on the 13th of November, where he met his brother, Périer de Salvert, pushing the preparations for war, which he had entrusted to him. Departure on the 9th of Dec. Account of the march. Baron de Crisacy commanded the troops of the colony, and M. de Bénac, the inhabitants; his brother, the bataillon de la Marine. Arrival at the Tonicas. Learnt there that M. de Coulonges, who was in command of a canoe, manned by 20 Indians and free negroes, had lost half of his men, that MM. de la Touche, Beaulieu and Cochart had been killed, and M. de Coulanges, grievously wounded. Investment of the fort of the Natchez, 450 women and children and 45 men surrendered at discretion, the rest took to flight protected by night. Folio 202, 14 pages.

Recapitulation of the number of Natchez killed since the beginning of the war, or, who have been sent as slaves to San Domingo, or, who died of sickness, or are in flight, viz: 18 killed at the time of the general massacre, 60 by the Chactas before the arrival of the French, and before the first siege, 30 at the first siege, 18, the scalps of whom were brought by the Tonicas, 15, brought by the Avoielles, the Colapissas, the Baillagoulas, and the Houmas, 35, in two batches, by the Akansas, 70, during the last siege, 51 sent to San Domingo, 130 others who died from sickness or from misery since the beginning of the war, 2 killed at the attack of the canoe of 1731. M. de Coulanges, 15 who went to the Chicachas with the band of the chief "La Grosse Jambe," 10 who were hunting at the time of the siege, 12 who have escaped from the fort. There probably remains, out of the whole nation of the Natchez, about 37 warriors. Folio 209, 2 pages.

Fort de Condé de la Mobile. January 10. M. Diron D'Artagnette to the Minister. Refutes the accusations formulated against him by M. Périer and blames his way of acting towards the Indians. Folio 211, 18 pages.

La Mobile. March 24. The same to the same. Relates the flight of the Natchez to the Chicachas territory. A greater number than was first thought, must have escaped, as there were only 51 of them captured at the siege of their fort. Believes that there must be at least 200 who escaped. Has thought proper to allow the Chactas to wage war against the Natchez and also against the Chicachas, if the latter continue to help them. Folio 221, 3 pages.

June 24. The same to the same. Relates several attacks made by the Natchez against Frenchmen and Tonicas. The losses sustained by the latter are regrettable, because they are our friends and form a good barrier against our enemies. The Chicachas who are a brave and warlike nation have openly declared for the Natchez and take their defence. M. Périer has commanded him to engage the Chactas to make war against them, but to succeed in this, a great many presents are needed; the Indians will only move if they are interested, and we have nothing to give them. If the Company does not send vessels immediately, everything is to be feared as we have no flour, meat, nor wine. The Chicachas who were summoned by M. Périer to deliver up the Natchez have answered that they had not gone to get them to deliver them up and that they would certainly defend them. We lost this nation in 1729, when we stopped trading with them. Folio 223, 3 pages.

August 20. The same to the same. The report of the massacre of the Tonicas by the Natchez was overcharged. The former sustained a siege of 7 days and the Natchez then retired with the loss of 20 men. The Chactas sent to pursue them did not see them. If M. Périer had had a better knowledge of the character of the Indians, he would not have been caught by the artifice of the Natchez, and we would not, to-day, be threatened with a war with the Chicachas, who are much more numerous and braver. His post, which is very important, because the Chactas trade with us there, lacks everything, this is very regrettable as we are trying to decide them to wage war against the Natchez, and should supply them with what is necessary for that purpose. Has made representations to M. Périer. Relates the conspiracy of 400 negroes who were to massacre all the French on St. Peter's day. Folio 225, 7 pages.

November 2. M. de St. Denis, commandant at the Natchitochas, to M. Salmon. Is sending an officer to apprize him of the flight of the Natchez and of the destitution in which he is owing to the presence of many Indian nations who have come to his help, to the number of 250 men, not counting the Natchitoches whom he has to feed, as well as their women and children, since their village was attacked by the Natchez. He was obliged to kill all the oxen and cows to feed all these people. To make it worse, 100 Cadodaquions. who were notified too late to be of use to us, have just arrived. It is regrettable that the posts are not supplied with all that is necessary.

Blames the Company which is loosing the country by its negligence. If his post had been well provisioned and well supplied, the expence would not have been very great, and the defeat of the Natchez would have been much more complete. Had only 22 Frenchmen and 16 Spanards at the beginning, to make war on the Natchez. Account of the expedition. Capture of the fort of the Natchez, who lost 74 men, killed and prisoners. The rest are wandering, divided into three gangs, along the River Noire; they must be destroyed this winter. Folio 229, 8 pages.

List of the inhabitants who could cultivate indigo, from "Les Cannes Brulées" to "Chaouachas"; The Sr. D'Artagnan's concession, MM. Diron. and D'Artaguette, De Kolly, Lafrenière, Widow Beaulieu, De Léry, Du Breuill, de Chavannes, Bonnaud, de Bélair, D'Alby, Constillas, Trudeau, Dalcourt, Bizophon, De la Tour Marêt, Broutin, Fleurian, the Nuns, Raquet Dausseville, Laliberté, Tisserant, the three Carrièrat, Renault, Alexandre Busson,, Beaupré de Belleisle, Petit de Livilliers, de Ste Thèrese, Larche, de Noyan, Baldik, De la Chaise, Fazinde, Pellerin, Marcilly. Labro, Dumanoir, Le Blanc, Roquigny. Folio 233, 2 pages.

Unsigned memoir concerning the Illinois country. Its situation up the River Mississippi. This settlement consists of quite a considerable number of French inhabitants, who, for the last 25 years, have been cultivating the soil with such success that they have maintained themselves without the help of troops, up to the year 1719, when the company sent garrisons there. Since, the soldiers who obtained their discharge have settled there and live with a number of Canadians, who form two villages, quite considerable in buildings, horned cattle and horses. The village of Cascassias was ceded to the French by the Illinois, about 20 or 22 years ago. They have retired to a distance of a league and a half from the French. This nation numbers about 200 men, some of whom are allied to Frenchmen, who were weak- enough to marry some Illinois women. This is the cause of disorders which are difficult to prevent. These half-breeds are worse than the pure bred Illinois. This village of Cascassias is composed of about 100 families; the Frenchmen have good frame or stone houses, and have good crops of every kind of grain. At certain seasons, traders congregate there. The tribes of the lower Missouri often wage war on more distant ones and sell us the slaves they make. This is as unjust as it is prejudicial to us, seeing that they have never done us any harm, and that this conduct prevents our reaching further inland to join the Spaniards of New Mexico. The settlement of the prairie at the Fort Chartres is six leagues distant from that of Cascassias. The garrison is not strong enough to prevent insults. The French inhabitants number between 70 and 80 men. A stone fort and a garrison of four companies are needed. The English are trying to attract the Indians of these places to their side. A post should also be built at Ouabache; it would guard the River aux Yaux (Ohio), which flows from the east, where the English settlements are. They have, on the upper part of this river, posts which belong to the government of Carolina. Folio 235, 13 pages.

March 27. M. Salmon to the Minister of Marine. Plan for rendering the streets of New Orleans healthy. Folio 243, 3 pages.

March 6. M. Périer to the Minister. Has received the King's letter ordering him to deliver government to M. de Bienville. Complains of the impertinence of the Sr. Macarty, assistant town major of New Orleans, who ordered him in the name of M. de Bienville, to remove his furniture immediately. M. de Bienville, has got up a cabal to show him as a petulant, passionate man, incapable of controlling himself. It appears that M. de Bienville is on the eve of making peace with the Chicachas; this will not be difficult to accomplish, but it will have disastrous consequences. Folio 245, 4 pages.

Fort of Notre Dame aux Adays.
December 19. Copy of the objection of Senior Gonzalès, ensign and lieutenant general of M. de Sandouval, Spanish captain of infantry and Governor of the Provinces of New Philippine to M. de St. Denis, commandant at Natchitoches. Has been ordered to notify him not to erect a fort on the territory of the King of Spain, his master, on the further side of the river, and to suspend the works now going on. Answer of the Sr. Louis de St. Denis, chevalier of St. Louis, commandant of the River Rouge, of its tributaries and of the fort St. Jean Baptiste, at Natchitoches. Will continue the works begun in obedience to the orders which he has received. Will forward his letter to the Governor of Louisiana. Folio 247, 3 pages.

1736. Return of the troops and militia who have made the campaign against the Chicachas. Company of the grenadiers composed of 30 Frenchmen and 15 Swiss; companies of de Lusser, de Castillas, Petit de Livilliers, de Berthet, de Bombelles, de Bénac, de Membrède, Leblanc, the Swiss company, companies of New Orleans and of Mobile, volunteers and voyageurs. In all 544 men, besides the officers. Folio 249, 1 page.

M. de Crémont to the Minister. Relates his voyage, his touching at San Domingo, his arrival at Louisiana. Having arrived two days ago only, he is yet unable to report on the present situation of the Indians. M. de Bienville has told him that it was impossible to march against the Chicachas in less than 18 months. The report that M. D'Artagnette and all his officers had been killed on the battlefield was untrue. Having received three shots, he was taken with some of his officers, also wounded, Father Senat, and a few soldiers and inhabitants; the whole amounting to 19. An Indian Avoyelle, a slave with the Chicachas, having escaped to the Alibamons, M. de Bienville caused her to come here. She has reported that, on the day of the attack, 17 prisoners were thrown into two fires. She asserts that during the tragedy, the French sang, as is the fashion amongst the Indians, who thereby judge of the valour of men. The Chicachas kept two alive, probably to exchange them against the two Chicachas prisoners in the hands of M. de Bienville. This exchange will take place through the medium of the Alibamons. Folio 250, 3 pages.

1739. Account by the Sr. Drouet de Richarville of the engagement between M. D'Artagnette and the Chicachas during the month of March 1736. Having reached Montreal, on the 10th June 1739, by way of Fort St. Frederic, he says that, in that engagement, three of his brothers were killed, that he himself received two shots, in the left arm and in the abdomen and an arrow wound at the wrist; that he was captured in arms by three Chicachas and brought to their village with 22 Frenchmen, 20 of whom were burnt at the stake, besides others: Father Senat, a Jesuit, MM. D'Artaguette, de Vincennes, de Coulanges, de St. Ange junior, Du Tisné, D'Esgly, de Tonty the younger. These gentlemen were burnt together with Father Sénat, on the very day of the battle, between three o'clock in the afternoon and midnight. The other Frenchmen who were burnt were officers and militiamen. The Sr. de Courselas or Coustillas, officer, was burnt three days later near the grand village with an Iroquois of Sault St. Louis. The Sr. de Courselas had been appointed in charge of the powder stores with 35 men. Having lost his way, he went without knowing it to the village of the Chicachas. Has been unable to learn what became of the 35 men he had with him. He was taken to the cabin of the chief of the village of Jantalla, where he was kept in close custody during six months by the young men, after which time he became free and hunted with the Chicachas. After an eighteen months sojourn with them, he escaped with Pierre dit Courte Oreille, a soldier of the garrison of Illinois, through the advice of an English trader who indicated to him the route to be followed. Having made 40 leagues, he met some English traders from Georgia, who took him to Mr. James Ogelthorpe, commander in chief of His Britannic Majesty's troops, who brought him back from the Chicachas, who had come to claim him. He gave him a passport enabling him to pass through Virginia, and thence to Canada. Courte Oreille must have sailed from Georgia to join his parents in Paris. Description of the villages of the Chicachas. These Indians say that they are ready to make peace and deliver the Natchez to M. de Bienville, without his bothering with it. The latter are being treated as slaves. There are about 40 of them. The Chicachas are allied to the Chéraquis. They 1739. say that they know well that the French will eat them, but, they will eat a great number of the Frenchmen before the end comes. They claim that they only lost one man when they attacked M. de Bienville, and 20 killed and 30 wounded at that of M. D'Artagnette. Folio 252, 6 pages.

Unsigned account of the expedition and defeat of M. D'Artagnette, as told by one Parisien. The troop of M. D'Artagnette, which left the Illinois on the 20 February 1736, was composed of 41 regulars, 99 militiamen, 38 Iroquois, brave men who fought bravely, 38 Arkansas, 190 Illinois and Miamis, forming a grand total of 396 men. The Illinois Miamis ran away at the beginning to avenge, they said, the death of one of their chiefs, killed by a Frenchman the preceding summer. M. D'Artagnette, seeing he was to weak to resist to an enemy who was already superior in number, determined to retreat, to join the powder which he had left $\frac{1}{4}$ league behind. He was furiously pursued by the Chicachas who killed from 42 to 45 of our men, to wit: MM. D'Artagnette, de St. Ange junior, de Vincennes, de Coulanges, Lagrancier, de Contigny, 6 cadets; the officers of militia Des Essarts, d'Estaing, Carrier. Made the following prisoners, Father Senat, Du Tisne, La Lanne and 5 or 6 soldiers. The enemy captured the powder, and if it had not been for the rain which lasted from 10 o'clock in the morning until 7 in the evening, not a single Frenchman would have escaped. There were many Englishmen among the enemy, two were killed while trying to capture the French flag. The Sr. Parisien relates that M. de Monchervau was on his way to join M. D'Artagniette, with 60 men, and M. de Grandpré, with 120 Arkansas, when learning the defeat of M. D'Artaguette, they turned back. Folio 256, 3 pages.

Other detailed account of the defeat of M. D'Artagnette. The troop consisted of 27 soldiers, 110 inhabitants, 38 Iroquois, 28 Arkansas, 100 Illinois, 160 Miamis, all together 145 Frenchmen and 326 Indians. M. D'Artagnette left at Illinois, to command in his absence, M. de la Buissonniére, and the Sr. de Montcharvaux, who were to assemble 180 Illinois to bring them at Ecores à Prudhomme, to join M. D'Artagnettte. Being afraid of falling short of provisions, if he awaited the arrival of MM. de Bienville and de Montcharvaux, he decided, upon the advice of the Iroquois, to attack the Chicachas. Account of the fight. Desertion of 250 Indians. The Chicachas, numbering between 5 and 600, emboldened by this desertion, made a furious attack and surrounded the French. Wounded in the hand and high, M. D'Artaguiette leaned against a tree, and continued to direct the fight, refusing to flee on a horse, which was brought to him. While in that position, he was shot through the abdomen and fell dead. M. de St. Ange to command. Nearly all the French were killed near M. D'Artagniette's body. The Iroquois and Arkansas fought with much courage, and it is due to their valour and their pains that 20 wounded soldiers or inhabitants were saved during the retreat. On the next day the remnant of the troop met M. de Montcharvaux who was coming to the assistance of M. Dartaguiette with 180 Illinois, 5 soldiers and 8 inhabitants. A Tonica squaw, released from the hands of the Chicachas, declares that the latter were 1200 in number, comprising 100 Natchez and 80 Chouanons. What mislead the scouts was the fact that the villages of the Chicachas are situated on small hills, surrounded by woods, which mask them one from the other. Complete list of the killed, wounded, and prisoners. It has been learnt since, by the letters of M. de la Buissonniére, that when within a day or twos march from the Chicachas, M. Dartaguiette had received letters in which M. de Noyan, ordered him, in the name of M. de Bienville, to await him so as to strike the Chicachas together. These letters have without doubt fallen into the hands of the Chicachas, after the defeat of M. Dartaguiette, which gives them a clue to the preparations made by M. de Bienville against them. Folio 258, 12 pages.

1748. Louisiana. November 10. M. de Vaudreuil relates a fight which took place near Havanna, on the 13th of September, between the Spanish squadron, under the command of M. de Reggio, and that of the English Admiral..... ...The English, who had superior forces, were victorious. Folio 274, 3 pages.

Remarks on the war with the Chicachas. (Unsigned). The two unhappy engagements which we had with the Chicachas show us that we must not rely too much upon the Indians. In the second one, under the command of M. de Bienville, certain ill-intentioned Chactas chiefs had spread the rumour that our intention was to make peace with the Chicachas in order to destroy the Chactas with the help of the former. This explains why many abandoned us, and that it was even contemplated to turn against us to destroy us. They know we are very brave, but they do not approve of our way of waging war. They saythat we expose ourselves too much, that one must be cunning, and make feints. In fact they are always on the move, while we stand still, and we may easily be killed. The Indian is a good shot and all his shots tell, while on the contary our soldiers do not know how to shoot. They claim that, with all our courage, we would be easier to destroy than they. In a word, our prestige is diminished, the proof of this is in the facilities which Chactas give to the English to trade with them. It is possible that they will not long suffer our fort at Tombecbé. Reasons why it may be preferable to abandon it. To regain our credit, it would be necessary to undertake another expedition against the Chicachas, taking care to insure its success. Otherwise it is possible that the English will succeed in bringing about peace between the Chactas and the Chicachas. The English intimidate the Chactas by letting them understand that if they do not allow them to trade freely with them, they will decide the Cheraquis, with whom the English are allied, to wage war against the Chactas. It is preferable to attack the Chicachas by ascending the Mississippi rather than the Mobile River. The Mississippi is too wide to permit the enemy to ambush us, and we would have on this side the help of the Illinois, of the Akansas, of the Hurons, and of the Iroquois, on whom we can rely more than on the Chactas, Other reasons. Folio 276, 14 pages.

M Diron Dartaguiette to the Minister. Respecting the failure of M. de Bienville's expedition against the Chicachas. Unhappy results which will follow. Efforts of the English to monopolize the trade with the Indian nations who are friendly to France. Our prestige must be regained, and to do this, troops and merchandise are necessary. The Srs. Arnaud, D'Auterive, Develle, St. Pierre, St. Martin, and du Tertre, officers, have behaved with much firmness, experience and presence of mind, at the Chicachas affair. Folio 296, 4 pages.

March 24. The Minister to M. de Bienville. Has laid his letter of the 20th of December last, concerning the Indians, before the King. Has seen with pleasure that the Chactas had kept their promise to march against the Chicachas. The latter must be greatly weakened. not only by their loss in men and that of four of their forts, but more still by the want of provisions. If it be true that, as the Chactas report, the Natchez have abandoned the Chicachas, the expedition which is being prepared against the latter will become easier. Is surprised to learn that the Chicachas prisoners have declared that they had not been molested last year by parties sent from Canada. This does not tally with the reports made by M. de Beauharnois. Folio 311, 3 pages.

1738. Louisiana. May 30. Historical account of Louisiana sent to the Minister. (Unsigned). De la Salle was the first who discovered the Mississipi River. He had been planning a search for it since 1669. Account of the unfortunate events of his second expedition and of his death. What M. de la Salle had vainly attempted, was done 7 or 8 years later by M. d'Iberville, a Canadian gentleman already famous through other undertakings. He died during his third voyage, poisoned it is said, through the intrigues of a celebrated nation, which feared such a neighbor. Company of M. Crozat. Compagnie d'Occident. Reunion to the King's domain by decree of the 23rd of January 1731. Folio 313, 4 pages.

1740 and 1741. Extracts from letters of the commandants of the posts of the Onyatanons and Rivière St. Joseph, written to M. le Marquis de Beauharnois, respecting what the Chicachas have done since M. de Bienville made peace with them. Two Indians have just brought the sad news that Illinois who were coming in six canoes to the post of Vicennes and his own have been defeated. The Chicachas have killed and captured aver 30 Frenchmen at Rivière des Chéraquis, on the south of the Ouabache. 16 bodies, all scalped, were found ; among them a woman. Everything shows that they defended themselves. A negro who escaped says that there were Englishmen among the Chicachas, who made this attack. There were some also in the affair of M. Dartaguiette, and witnesses relate that they excited the Chicachas and went themselves to scalp the French who were tied at the stake. (signed by de St. Vincent). Do. letter from the Sr. Coulon de Villiers Do. two other letters of the Sr. de St. Vincent. Forwards the list of the killed and of the 8 who escaped from the massacre. Folio 315, 4 pages.

1740. Fort Margot. January 15. Fabry de la Bugére————. M. Broutin has found a good road to the Chicachas. Believes he will have to delay the expedition till another season. We go before then and if it is a question of peace as is said, We can better dictate conditions with our arms in our hands, than await an enemy who knows our weakness. Folio 519, 6 pages.

M. Broutin to ———— Has discovered a good road to go to the country of the Chicachas. The letter of M. de Bienville has been taken to the spot where M. Dortaguiette was defeated and attached to a picket. Every thing tends to make us believe that the Chicachas desire peace. The works on the road leading to the Chicachas are begun. Folio 321, 3 pages.

Journal of M. Chaussegros de Léry on the campaign of the detachment from Canada against the Chicachas, in February 1740, consisting of 201 Frenchmen, 337 Indians from Canada, the Illinois, Missouri, &c., &c., and 58 Chactas, makingall together 596 men. Departure from Fort l'Assomption on the 2nd of February 1740. Officers: MM. de Céloron, captain in command, de St Pierre, the Chev. de Villiers de Portneuf, de Richarville, de Villiers, Robineau de Bécancour, de Lignery, de Gaspé. A very detailed daily account of the expedition. Owing to a treachery of the Chicachas towards the Chactas, it is hoped that about 1200 of the latter will join us. Arrival at the Chicachas. Peace negotiations. Folio 323, 29 pages.

Fort of Assomption. Instructions from M. de Bienville to M. de Céloron appointed to command the detachment of Canadians and Indians who are marching against the Chicachas. As the Chicachas have repeatedly sued for peace, he will, on his arrival, try to capture their village where the Natchez have sought refuge. If, for some reason or other, this can not be done, he will call upon the Chicachas to deliver the Natchez and the French prisoners whom they detain. As to the other preliminary conditions for peace, they will be required to send some of their chiefs to Fort Assomption. Leaves the rest to his experience. Folio 339, 2½ pages.

Journal of Antoine Bonnefoy, containing the details of his captivity among the Cherquis, since his departure from New Orleans, in August 1741, in the canoe of the Sr. Chauvin dit Joyeuse, with whom he was hired, until his escape and his arrival at the Alibamons. Among the incidents of his captivity, which he relates, is that of his meeting with a German named Pierre Albert, who offered him to join the society he was forming, the aim of which was the establishment of a republic in this country and, later on, in France; based upon liberty, equality and fraternity, where every one would find all that was necessary for subsistence, and other necessaries of life; where every one would contribute to the welfare of the community according to his capacity, where there would be no superiority, where every thing would be in common, where the women would have the same liberty as the men, where there would be no marriage and where the children would belong to the republic, and be instructed in all they could learn. This republic, to which he had a great number of adherents, among he English of Carolina, would be located between the countries of the Chéraquis and the Alibamons, and would bear the name of the "Kingdom of Paradise." This German said that he had been working on this scheme for 20 years; that having been compelled to leave his country for 1741. having tried to put his project into execution, he had gone to England and thence to Carolina, which he had been obliged to quit for the same reason. That having discovered his place of retreat, the Governor of Carolina had asked the Chéraquis to deliver him over, which they had refused. Folio 361, 22 pages.

Mobile. January 25. M. de Beauchamp, commandant at Mobile to the Minister. Relates the damage and destruction wrought by a wind storm. The wind was so strong that one half of the Ile Dauphine was destroyed by the waves, and a four pounder, lying on the sand, was pushed 18 feet from its place. Quantities of provisions and cattle were destroyed by the inundation which followed. Concerning the Indians. Folio 373, 7 pages.

New Orleans. March —. MM. de Bienville and Salmon to the same. Four Canadians have returned in March last from Santa Fé, capital of New Mexico. They were as surprised as they were glad at this voyage of discovery as it had been undertaken without their knowledge. The Company had been at considerable expense towards gaining a knowledge of these lands; it had even erected a fort on the Missouri. It had procured men and a reward for the Sr. de Bourmont, who had undertaken this exploration but without more success than his predecessors. The same fate had befallen M. de la Harpe who had undertaken it by way of River Rouge and Arkansas. As the journal of these Canadians has not been well kept they have decided to accept the proposition of M. Fabry, clerk in the Marine department, who offers to go there with 8 or 10 Canadians and to make a detailed report of his observations. Folio 377, 4 pages.

Santa Fé. Copy of a certificate given to the 7 Frenchmen by General Jean Paez Hurtado, alcade major and captain of war of the capital city of Santa Fé. Certifies that on the 24th of July 1739, there arrived at Santa Fé 8 Frenchmen named Pierre and Paul Mallet, brothers, Louis Robitaille, Louis Morin, Michel Destot, Joseph Bellecour, Manuel Gatien, creoles from Canada, and Jean David, a native of France. Having received them in his palace, he asked them whence they came; Paul Mallet answered that they came from New France and that they had come with the intention of entering into a trade connection with the Spaniards. While awaiting an answer from the viceroy of Mexico, which took 9 months to come, he lodged them and admitted them to his own table, and they had conducted themselves properly and like christians. He advised them to bring certificates and passports from the Governor of Louisiana, if they came back. Folio 381, 3 pages.

Santa Fé. Copy of the letter written to Father Beaubois by Father Santiago de Roibaldo, vicar and ecclesiastical judge of New Mexico. There are very rich mines of silver in that country, especially that of Chiquagua. The French who have come here have lead him to believe that he could obtain through his agency the merchandise which he needs for his family. Folio 383, 2½ pages.

New Orleans. M. Fabry de la Bruyère to MM. de Bienville and Salmon. The discovery made by the brothers Mallet and their companions is of great importance: 1st. It enables us to extend our frontiers in that direction as far as the Spanish possessions. 2nd. It leads us to hope that mines as rich as those possessed by the Spaniards may be found. 3rd. It opens a way to trade with the Spaniards, who are miserable notwithstanding their mines, on account of their remoteness from the sea. 4th. It will permit us to form alliances with the Indian nations, who are situated between the two countries, and to trade with them without fear that the English will corrupt and arm them against us. Moreover, it will help us to forward with greater chance of success the discovery of the western sea, which has been so long looked for. It now remains to perfect the sketch which these Canadians have made. Offers his services. Will ascend the Arkansas 1741. and explore its tributaries. On reaching the Spanish country, he will offer his mediation to effect peace with Kansas and other allied tribes of France, with whom they are now at war. Will make a study of New Mexico and the country he will travel through in all their aspects. Folio 385, 3½ pages.

Extract from the journal of the voyage made to Sante Fé by the two brothers Pierre and Paul Mallet, Canadians, and the men named Larose, Phillippes, Bellecour, Petit Jean, Gatien and Moreau. They followed the Missouri, but only for a certain distance, instead of ascending higher as had been done before, they then took a south-westerly course, crossed the Platte River and other streams which they believe to be tributaries of the Akansas. They were very well received at Sante Fe. Had to wait nine months for the answer of the Viceroy of Mexico, as the distance is 500 leagues and the voyage is only made once a year in caravans. In his answer the Viceroy tried to persuade them to settle in that country. They believe that his intention was to employ them in exploring a land, which, according to tradition, false or true of the Indians, is at a three months journey inland, where they claim that there are white men, dressed in silk, who inhabit large cities on the sea coast. There are 800 families at Sante Fe, and a number of villiges of resident Indians. There are mines quite near the place which are unworked, and others, further off which are worked on the King's account, the product being forwarded to old Mexico, by caravans. It appears that the governors take possession of all the goods that come there and do whatever little trade there is to be done. The padres and others would like to do this trade. Moreau has married and settle at Sante Fe. Folio 387, 10 pages.

September —. Extracts from letters of the Sr. Fabry concerning the voyage which he has made to Sante Fe. (In the margin : Answer of the travellers. This unproductive voyage has cost 22,609 livres. The Canadians will undertake another at their own expense.) Folio 392, 30 pages.

Folio 447, 2 pages.

1748. October 28. M. de Beauchamp to the Minister. Has received no answer to his letter in which he related his voyage to the Chactas. Is afraid that M. Fleuriau has left it on board Le Chameau, and that it has suffered the fate of that vessel. The Chactas were divided, some were in favour of the English, others of the French, this has resulted in a civil war in the nation. Our

The entrance of the river has changed so much in the last 20 years, that it cannot be recognised. The Ile de la Balize, which was a half a league from the shore, is now a league and a half from it. The post of Balize must be abandoned. In order to follow the caprices of the river, the post destined to defend the entrance of the river and serve as a depot for assistance to navigation, should be a floating one. Folio 471, 7 pages.

DESCRIPTION AND HISTORY.

LOUISIANA.

1756—1806.

Series F.3 Moreau de St. Méry. Vol. 25.

1756. Report on Louisiana (Unsigned). Description of the country, its settlements, rivers, &c., &c. Illinois. Fertility of the soil. This country has supplied over 800 thousand pounds of flour to New Orleans in one single winter. It is said that there is a population of 4,000 souls, composed principally of Canadians, who came from Quebec by way of the Oyo. Rivers Rouge and Arkansas. Silver mines. Cultivation. Trade with San Domingo and the Gulf of Mexico In 1686 many Canadians settled in Louisiana. In 1699, M. d'Iberville brought another colony of Canadians, In order to reach here, they follow the river St. Lawrence as far as the small river which discharges into the Lake Erie From this river a portage is made to the Miamis river which is then descended as far as its confluence with the Oyo and thence to that of the latter with the Mississipi. At the confluence of the Miamis and the Oyo, and at that of the Oyo and the Mississipi, substantial forts should be erected. The capital city should be at Manchac, or about the height of land, whence one can go on horseback as far as the sources of the Mobile, of the Alibamons, and even to that of the Oyo. All the requisite materials, as well as all the necessaries of life, would be found there. Report on Canada, its productions, and disadvantages. Proposes that the Canadians should migrate to Louisiana. Combats the objections raised against this proposal. The Canadians cannot resist without the help of France, and this assistance would even have been useless this year, if the English had not divided their forces in order to capture Louisbourg. The Canadian will not be able to resist another invasion and they will be unable to succour Louisiana. What has saved Canada up to the present was lack of unity in the preparations of the several provinces of New England. Being now exasperated by the ravages of the Indians and the victories of the French, they are vigorously trying to get rid of such unwelcome neighbors. Supposing that France succeeded in restoring her navy to its former state, and repulsed the enemy, could she people both Canada and Louisiana? Why then continue to try to preserve the country which costs most and produces least. Discusses the objectionswhich will be raised by the compagnie des pelleteries, the Seigniors, the clergy, the religious communities. Three years could be taken for the migration of the inhabitnnts. How this ought to be done. If this migration is decided M. de Vaudreuil should be apprised of it. Folio 1, 16 pages.

New Orleans, June 20. Order of M. de Kerlerec, in which, in which, in consideration of the promises made by Guedelonguay, grand chief of Arkansas and Toubamingo, chief of the Offoyoulas, to deliver, in future to the governor, all the deserting soldiers or criminals who may seek refuge with them, he grants pardons to Joseph Luillier, J. Bte. Figuière, Pierre Castellain, Antoine Berry, Antoine Girard, and J. Bte. Bernard, all deserting soldiers from Illinois country, brought back by the said Indian chiefs Folio 9, 3 pages.

1756. September 12. M. de Kerlerec to the Minister. Explains the circumstances which led him to grant pardons to the deserting soldiers. Folio 15, 3 pages.

1757. October 20. The same to the same. Complains bitterly of the soldiers who compose the 24 companies of Louisiana. Many have deserted, a great number have succumbed to their debauchery, the remainder is more dangerous to the colony than the enemy itself. Relation of facts. Folio 17, 6 pages.

October 21. The same to the same. Sad situation of the country. Everything is wanting. The stores are empty. The Chactas and the Alibamons harass us with their demands and threaten to receive the English in their country. The English are trying to prevent the success of our peace negotiations with the Chéraquis. They have established a permanent patrol at Cap St. Antoine de Cuba to intercept our vessels. Folio 21, 5 pages.

1758. October 4. The same to the same. Complaints against M. de Rochemore. Folio 25, 8 pages.

November 9. The same to the same. Wishes to speak especially of the Chactas and the Alibamons. These two nations form the lower barrier of this colony, and the English neglect nothing, secretly or openly, to attract them to their interest and to detach them from the French. The Chactas have 52 villages and about 4,000 warriors, and the Alibamons, about 3,000. Measures he has taken to keep these nations friendly to France. Has succeeded in thwarting the designs of the English in the Illinois country, Chéraquis. If the country had been sufficiently well off, he would have stirred up the Indians of the south, and the English would have been caught between two fires. Could have raised four times more Indians than those at the disposal of M. de Vaudreuil. The English were well aware of this, and they have done all they could to avert the blow; they have put a price on Frenchmen's heads; have distributed presents largely, and, all they could obtain was their neutrality. It would be very dangerous if the usual presents were not distributed to the Chactas and the Alibamons. Folio 29, 8 pages.

1761. November 29. Detailed account of the state of Louisiana, as given to M. le Marquis d'Ossun by an officer of the Swiss company which the King maintains in this colony, who went to Madrid in the month of Nov. 1761, having crossed from Vera Cruz to Cadix. The number of Frenchmen settled in Louisiana is not more than 5,000 souls. Their settlements are scattered along the right bank of the Mississipi for a distance of 200 leagues. The largest establishment is that of the Jesuits. They have a hospital in the town, where they should keep, according to the Royal Institution, two brothers and one father to send to twelve other religious the assistance necessary for their missions among the Indians, but the contrary has been done, as 12 fathers have taken their residence at New Orleans and only one or two go now and then on missions amongst the Indians. Their establishment is the richest in the colony. It contains 150 negroes and these fathers do an exclusive trade with the nations of the Illinois country. The only product of Louisiana is indigo which is of a superior quality. The Jesuits have begun the cultivation of sugar canes. There are at the most 3,000 negroes. The colony produces indian corn in abundance. There are oxen, deer and other animals. Merchandise would have been altogether wanting since the beginning of the war, if it had not been for some Englishmen, who came to trade some for indigo. When an Indian owns a gun, he becomes quite a person of consideration in his tribe. If the French cannot supply goods to their Indian allies, it is certain that the Engish, who are abundantly supplied, will end by detaching them from us. It is, however, said that, in general, the Indians much prefer the French, to the English, as they look upon the latter as traitors, whose main object is to destroy them little by little, and it is added that this opinion is based on many treacheries which the Indian allies of the English have suffered from them. Fortifications of New Orleans. Folio 158, 5 pages.

1762. January 18. The Minister to M. de Kerlerec. All that has happened at Louisiana is a tissue of insubordination too flagrant not to be punished rigourously. The King has cashiered the Srs. de Belleisle and Derniville who were the main factors of the insubordination. If, upon the arrival of the troops which the King is sending him, the insubordination still subsists, he will make new examples. Folio 162, 2 pages.

January 18. The same to the same. The King has chosen M. D'Abadie, commissary of the Navy, to replace M. de Rochemore. Folio 163, 1 page.

January 18. The same to M. de Rochemore. Has been replaced by M. D'Abadie. Will return to France with his family on one of the vessels which are carrying troops to Louisiana. Folio 164, ½ page.

January 18. The same to M. de Kerlerec. Forwards a general statement of the troops, ammunition and goods which the King sends to Louisiana. The King has chosen the Chev. de Jumilhac, colonel of infantry, to command the troops and militia of the colony under him. Would have liked to appoint an officer from the colony, to act as governor in case he should not be able to act himself, but he sees only M. Magan de Villiers, Major at Illinois, in whom he could repose confidence, and his presence is necessary where he is. Under these circumstances, he has chosen M. de Jumilhac to replace him in case of necessity. Folio 165, 3 pages.

1759. April 24. M. de Kerlerec to the Minister. Has returned to New Orleans from Mobile, where he spent two months distributing presents to the Chactas and the Alibamons. Has found New Orleans in a ferment against M. de Rochemore and Belot his unworthy secretary. The tyranny of the first increases daily and the vexatious acts of the second are such that he is obliged to watch for his safety, while awaiting an opportunity to expel him from the country. If the inhabitants had not been sure of the date of his arrival, there would have been a revolt concerning an English ship of truce sent in the regular way, by the Governor of Jamaica, and charged with flour, provisions, &c., &c., at a time when the colony was in absolute want of everything. Without regard to the inhabitants' misery, M. de Rochemore confiscated this vessel, upon his own authority, and without the ordinary observances. It is while he was at Mobile that he received a petition signed by the principal inhabitants and officers asking for a withdrawal of this confiscation, as the colony suffers from a want of provisions, and that it can sustain itself only through the means of ships of truce and the neutrals. If M. de Rochemore's action was sustained, this would drive away the neutrals from the colony and would leave us in the greatest distress. Will cause the seals affixed by M. de Rochemore to be taken off, and will require him to withdraw his orders. The public believes that this confiscation was made for the benefit of some individuals, and that the profits were divided in advance. Knows that M. de Rochemore complaints loudly of action towards him, but prays he will suspend his judgment until both parties have been heard. Folio 167, 8 pages.

1759. April 26. Secret affidavit made on the 26th of April 1759, by a merchant taken as a prisoner of war on board Le Texel, an English ship of truce, now fast at the wharf of this town, and interested in a part of the cargo. April 30. Order of the same to the Srs. Volant, de Grandpré, de la Houssaye, de Favrot, de Makarty, de Grandmaison, captains, and others to proceed to the King's store to take out the effects taken from the vessel Le Texel, which had been deposited in the said store by order of M. de Rochemore. 1762. June 18. M. de Kerlerec to the Minister. Has taken upon himself, after calling a meeting of the Council, to cause M. le Marquis de Fremeur to be admitted a member thereof, on account of his rank. Has done the same for M. de Chatillon, lieutenant colonel of the Regiment d'Angoumois. Has also presented the Sr. Foucault to the Council to fill the post of commissary in default of M. D'Abadie. Folio 206, 2 pages.

July 25. M. de Kerlerec to the Minister. Represents that he has 43 years' service, 27 campaigns, 4 battles, the last of which was on Le Neptune, in 1747, that he only surrendered the vessel to Admiral Hawke after a fight of 8 hours, having lost 11 officers out of 13, and 375 men and 200 wounded, &c., &c.; that he has not received the treatment he should have had for his services. Wishes to return to France. Folio 207, 4 pages.

Memoir (unsigned and undated) respecting Illinois. This country must not be detached from Louisiana. Fertility and usefulness. Folio 209, 3 pages.

1764. Account of what happened in Illinois when the English attempted to take possession of it by way of the Mississippi. Since the cessation of hostilities MM. de Kerlerec and d'Abadie have not ceased to send word to the Indians to induce them to remain quiet, and to receive the English. The change of government has been very unwelcome to the Indians, who remember their bad treatment by the English on several occasions. Notwithstanding all our efforts, the fire of war from the north has penetrated as far as the nations near New Orleans. The conspiracy seems today general and nothing can stop it. Being unable to reach Illinois by way of Canada, the English have decided to go there by way of the Mississippi. This arrangement was concerted by M. D'Abadie with the English commandant during the latter's stay at Mobile. He did all he could to help the English to procure the means of buying boats at New Orleans. Orders have been given to the commandants of the posts to give them all the assistance possible and to apply themselves to the pacification of the Indians. The English troops numbered 380 men under the command of Mr. Loftus. Notwithstanding severe discipline, there have been 80

1764. desertions. Account of the expedition. Two canoes forming the vanguard, having been attacked by some Indians in ambush, returned without having fired a single shot. The expedition was abandoned and the whole body returned to New Orleans. Far from recognising the handsome behaviour of M. D'Abadie, Mr. Loftus declared that his disaster was due to him. It would be difficult to imagine a blacker and more atrocious calumny. It is no doubt to justify his weakness and the incapacity which he has shown on this occasion, that he uttered it. Folio 211, 5 pages.

January —. Extracts from the letters of M. D'Abadie to the several commandants of the French posts on the Mississipi, in which he enjoins them to render to the English forming the convoys to Illinois, as an act of friendship, all the assistance in their power. Folio 213, 4 pages.

Pointe Coupée. March 14. Extract from the letter of M. Desmazillières, commandant at the post of Pointe Coupée to M. D'Abadie. Gives an account, in question and answer, of an interview with the Indians respecting the attack on the English. Has learnt that the party of Indians which struck the blow was composed of Tonicas, Offagoulas, Chactas and Avoyelles. There were no Arkansas amongst them. They have confessed the fact, saying that they owned the land, and had a right to allow whom they pleased on it and that they would never allow the English to pass ; that the French had never brought them any sickness, but that the English had brought smallpox with them, and had caused nearly all of their children to die. "Be angry if you will," said one of the chiefs, "our duty is to go and await them on the Ecores Blancs, and if they wish to come again we will have the honour of repulsing them once more." In returning to New Orleans, the English were imprudent enough to shoot on the village of the Tonicas ; this caused the latter to pursue the English and kill several of them while they lost no one. Folio 214, 2 pages.

Versailles. March 13. The Minister to M. D'Abadie. Is informed that the Court of Spain is to forward the vessels which are to go and take possession of that part of Louisiana which the King gives to that Kingdom and for the cession of which he has sent him all the necessary orders and instructions. Reckons that by the month of September, he will have terminated all his operations, both for the delivery of the eastern part of the colony to the English and of the western part to the Spaniards. Bills of exchange. The King has judged proper to allow the Spaniards to keep the troops which are in the colony in their pay until such time as they are able to dispense with them, Will induce the officers to continue, for some time, to serve the King of Spain. Folio 219, 2½ pages.

July 15. Copy of the speech of M. D'Abadie, Director General, and commandant for the King at Louisiana to the chiefs and warriors of the Tonicas, assembled in presence of MM. the officers and of Mr. Pittman, English engineer, bound to Illinois. They promise to no longer molest the English. Folio 221, 3 pages.

New Orleans. August 16. Extract from the letter of M. de St. Ange, commandant at Illinois, to M. D'Abadie. The Miamis, Kikapous, Mascoutins, Onyatanons and Peauguichias chiefs came here last month. They protested their attachment to France and asked for assistance, saying that they lacked everything, and if they were not succuored, their wives and children would all perish. Has taken the opportunity to tell them that this was due to the war which they had declared with the English ; if they consented to lay down their arms as M. de Neigon had asked them to do, they would receive all the aid they asked for from their Father as well as from the traders, and if they wished to take this decision, he would help them. They answered that they preferred to die rather than make peace with the English. They are very angry when spoken to about this. It seems clear that they entertain an implacable hatred toward the English.

Could not do otherwise than give them some assistance. Chief Pondiak left here on the first of the month to go to Detroit, after having gained over to his cause (which he says is a common one) the whole of the Illinois nation, and promising to come and see them in the spring. Has learned that all the nations of the Lakes were assembled at Detroit and that they were encamped at the various passes to prevent the English garrison from obtaining succour. Folio 222, 3 pages.

Copy of a letter of M. D'Abadie to Mr. Farmar, commandant for the King of England at Mobile. Makes representations on his refusal to extend the time allowed to Frenchmen to sell their property and leave the country. His order decreeing the arrest of those who have not left the country within the time prescribed is so much the harder from the fact that the arrival of the English troops having been retarded, these people had no chance to sell to British subjects. He also complains that the British sub jects are not allowed to act as agents for the sale of these properties. This means confiscation of their domains pure and simple, and agrees but little with the liberty of trade which was agreed upon between the two colonies. Folio 225, 4 pages.

M. D'Abadie to the Minister. Has received his instructions concerning the cession to Spain of that part of Louisiana which still remained to France. Will comply with them. Will not be able to quit his post as soon as he thinks. The English are not yet in possession of Illinois. The evacuation of our posts in Illinois cannot take place before three months or more, if the Indians create as great difficulty for the Spaniards as they did for the English. Great care will have to be exercised. In order to appease them more easily he has explained that the Spaniards were of the same blood as the French. The Spaniards will have to adopt the French way of governing the Indians. The English think that our departure will help them to gain the friendship of the Indians. All this leads him to sad reflections on humanity. Folio 227, 4 pages.

Copy of the speech of the Chouanon Indian Charlot Kaské to M. D'Abadie. Has come a long distance to see him. Brings a belt with five rows of wampum which he is instructed to hand him. It contains the names of 47 villages which wish to perish attached to France, defending their lands, to the last drop of their blood. Hopes that he will never abandon them. Came here before, then everything was gay, now, everything is sad. Old men, and children are sad, to see the French no longer at home. The English come and say that the land belongs to them, that the French have sold it to them. Have adopted him for their father. Let him send traders and they will pay them well for they are rich in furs. If the French do not abandon them, the English will never obtain possession of their lands. Answer of M. D'Abadie. Exhorts them not to disturb the peace. England has become the friend of France. Must reject as evil the words he has uttered concerning the English. Peace will bring back abudance and the English will promptly grant them what they are in need of. (Enclosed in the letter of M. Aubry of the 25th of February, 1765. Folio 229, 3 pages.

1765. February 24. Speeches delivered by the Chouanon and Illinois chiefs in presence of M. Aubry, the officers of the colony and the English officers. Will shake hands with the English officers who are here, but does not wish them to go and see him for he will not receive them. Loves the French and will never let go their hands. Wishes for nothing else. Speech of the Illinois chief. Is surprised that the country has been ceded to the English. Is master of his body and of his lands. You Englishmen only like to kill people. His heart is sore to see that so many Frenchmen and Indians were killed together. Answer of M. D'Aubry. Is sorry to see that they still persist in their design to spill English blood. Does not intend to en-

1765. slave of them. Let them make peace with the English and abundance will return. He has not given their lands to the English and the latter do not want to take them away from them. Peace has been concluded in order that they may enjoy tranquility. Folio 231, 2 pages.

April 7. Copy of the letter written by M. de St. Ange, commandant of the Illinois country, to M. Aubry. All the Illinois have returned from their winter quarters. They have discussed the peace propositions which he, in concert with Mr. Ross, had made to the Kaskakias. They made answer that they remained in the same resolution to continue the war and not allow the English on their lands. Mr. Ross left for his life was in danger. Folio 233, 2 pages.

April 4. Copy of the minutes of the Council held at the place of M. de St. Ange, captain commandant of Illinois by the Illinois, Missouris and Osages, in presence of Mr. Ross, officer in the troops of H.B.M., sent here by Mr. Farmar, commandant at Mobile, bearer of instructions to endeavour to conclude peace with all the Indian nations of the continent, de Bellestre, Berqueville, officers of the garrison at Illinois, of MM. Lefèvre, sub-delegate of M. D'Abadie in the said country, Louvière, captain in the militia, Dubreuil. First speech of M. de St. Ange. Exhaustive plea to induce the Indians to lay down arms and conclude peace. Answer of Tamarois, chief of the Kaskakias. Has found none among his people who wish to make peace. "All red men have a scale in which are our French Father and the English, whenever it is lifted, the English are always heavier. Why ? Because he is full of wickedness and his heart is not white like that of our Father. Besides we wish to follow the course adopted by our brothers who are now fighting the English. We hear their gunshots. We had assured thee, Father, that we would always act according to thy will, but today, we cannot do so and have to do otherwise. Finally, Father, do not be angry if I say that, after carefully weighing what thou and this English chief hast said, we have unanimously decided to continue the war like our brothers, and never to receive the English on our lands. This is why we ask thee (addressing the English officer) to go as soon as possible to join thy chief and report the determination of the Illinois, which is to wage war against the English, as our brothers are doing, if they come on our lands. Go, leave as soon as thou canst, and apprise the chief of all that thou hast heard ; that we are the children of the French and that they are the only ones whom we wish to have among us ; tell him that these lands here are ours, and let nobody lay claim to them, not even other red men. Why dost thou wish to come here ? Thou dost not know us, we have never seen thee. Tell thy chief to remain on his lands as we will on ours. Take, I repeat it, the first occasion to leave and assure the chief that we want no Englishmen here and that such is the unanimous sentiment of all red men. Depart ! go quietly, fear nothing, no harm shall befall thee. It suffices that thou art in the house of our Father and that thou art seated near him. Go ! and leave us with our French Father. It is he who opened the eyes of our ancestors and who has made us live, so we only want the French. Adieu ! Go away ! and think no more of returning hither, because our warriors who are giddy-brained, might throw thee in the water if thou triest to return." (He ends his speech by saying adieu and shaking hands with him.)

July 31. Other speeches of the Osages and Missouris chiefs. Folio 233, 7 pages.

The Minister to M. le Marquis d'Ossun. The letters which he receives from Louisiana perplex him greatly. They show that the Spaniards have not yet arrived in the colony. This is the cause of much embarrassment to M. Aubry, the commandant, as no provision had been made for the maintenance of the troops, &c., &c. Folio 238, 2 pages.

1765. September 6. The same to M. Duport. Was surprised on receiving a printed copy of the memorial of Mde de Rochemore. Is shocked at this after his prohibition. Has written to M. de Sartine to seize all the copies in the printer's hands. Expects a complaint from M. de Kerlerec, to whom it will be difficult to refuse the permission to print his own defence. If he insists, it will be necessary to control the printing. Folio 238, 1 page.

September 6. The same to M. de Sartine. Same subject. Folio 239, 1 page.

September 24. The same to M. de Kerlerec. The King is pleased that he consents not to publish a printed answer to the memorial of Mde de Rochemore. He has permission to publish the reasons which prevent him from doing so. Folio 240, ½ page.

New Orleans. M. Aubry to the Minister. Informs him of the arrival at La Balise of a Spanish brigantine, with 30 men and 2 officers. M. de Ulloa, sent to take possession of Louisiana, left Havana on the 17th of January on a frigate carrying 60 men. As soon as M. de Ulloa arrives and takes possession, he proposes to sail for France and restore his health, much impaired by the wounds which he received on the head and body, in Europe as well as in America, in various campaigns. Folio 241, 1½ pages.

1766. March 8. Letter from MM. Aubry and Foucault concerning the arrival of Don Ulloa. Folio 242, 1 page.

March 10. M. Foucault to the Minister. The arrival of M. de Ulloa, although expected, has thrown the colony into a state of consternation owing to the loss to France of a colony of such extent, natural resources, and fertility of soil, the number and strength of its inhabitants, and the mildness of its climate. The enormous disrepute into which paper money has fallen, causes ruin and misery. Many soldiers refuse to enter the service of Spain; the same may be said of the officers. Folio 243, 4 pages.

March 12. M. Aubry to the same. Arrival of M. d'Ulloa. Has met with many obstacles from the English, with regard to the cession of the eastern part of Louisiana, as well as from the Indians, who did not want the English to take possession of their lands. Now that everything is over settled with the English, the same difficulties arise about the cession of the western part to the Spaniards. Does not, however, foresee as great difficulties. The Indians are notified, and, although they are not satisfied, it is believed that the Spaniards will not have very much trouble with them if they know how to deal with them. Few soldiers are ready to inter the Spanish service, and it is feared that many will pass over to the English if they do not obtain their discharge. Captain Sterling, who came by way of Fort Duquesne, has taken possession of Illinois, on the 8th October last. The English have built a fort on d'Iberville river, where the Indians had destroyed their stores. Lieut. Colonel Reid of the 34th Regiment, left in January last to take command of the Illinois post. Although the English have taken possession of the lands which we ceded to them, cannot answer for the future. On the surface everything is quiet, but there is great ferment among the northern nations, and the English are in such small numbers, that they may possibly be playing a terrible tragedy. Folio 245, 6 pages.

The same to the same. Has assembled the soldiers to induce them to faithfully serve the King of Spain. Forwards the copy of the speech which he delivered to them. It seemed to him that this speech had had good effect. M. de Ulloa, seing their consternation, preferred to delay taking of possession until he receive further orders from the Court on the subject. Folio 249, 10 pages.

April 2. M. Foucault to the Minister. Can no longer hope that the soldiers who are here will serve the King of Spain. M. Aubry has tried everything to make them change their mind, but all was in vain. While waiting for the orders which he expects, M. d'Ulloa is going with M. Aubry and the 1766. engineers to visit the settlements of the Acadians and Germans at Pointe Coupée and at Natchitoches. The delay in taking of possession by M. de Ulloa will occasion more expenditure to the King. Folio 255, 6 pages.

May 28. While waiting for the formal taking of possession of Louisiana by M. de Ulloa, he governs in concert with him, as if the taking of possession had virtually taken place. Has paid a visit with him to the Acadians, who are established above the Germans on the Mississippi. They are a well deserving people. M. de Ulloa has promised that he would succour them and would put them in such state that they would not regret their change of country. The English are so ambitious and so encroaching that the Spaniards will have much to do to keep them out of their territory. The Indians are well aware of the fate which awaits them on the part of the English, that is the reason why they will sympathize more with the Spaniards, if the latter follow our mode of governing them. Folio 259, 8 pages.

Juiy 9. The same to the same. Has visited the Lakes Borgne, Mauropas and Pontchartrain in company of M de Ulloa. Difficulties which Spain will have to encounter from the English. Folio 265, 5 pages.

September 1. The same to the same. Many Indians have come to New Orleans. Among them were quite a number inhabiting countries ceded to England. Their speeches breathe nothing but war and blood, and it is difficult to persuade them that they must live in peace with the English. Folio 268, 5 pages.

September 6. Order of the French Governor of Louisiana concerning the trade of this colony with the French Antilles. Folio 271, 3 pages.

September 6. Copy of a letter from M. D'Ulloa to M. Aubry. The King of Spain is pleased to allow French vessels from the Antilles to trade with Louisiana until Spain is ready to do this trade herself. To conduct such trade, it will be necessary to obtain permits from the Secretary of State. Conditions required. Folio 273, 3 pages.

September 25. M. Aubry to the Minister. Measures taken in concert with M. D'Ulloa, to supply the provisions immediately necessary to the inhabitants of Louisiana. Folio 275, 4 pages.

September 29. MM. Aubry and Foucaut to the same. The delays of the Spaniards in sending a sufficient number of troops to maintain order in the colony have forced us to prolong our sojourn there and have caused considerable expense to us. Our departure might have grievous consequences, as the Indians are much prejudiced against the Spaniards. The suspension of the payment of bills of exchange has nearly caused serious disturbances. Folio 277, 2 pages.

1767. March 28. M. Foucaut to the Minister. It has been understood with M. D'Ulloa that the expenses incurred while awaiting the final taking of possession of the colony by the Spaniards, are to be borne by them. Has received some money on account from M. D'Ulloa. Folio 278, 2 pages.

Mobile. 1702. November 29. Procès-verbal of the negotiations with, and the succours demanded by, the Spaniards besieged by the English at Fort St. Augustin, in Florida. Assistance given in arms and ammunition. (Signed de Boisbriant, de la Salle, Le Vasseur, Ruessanel, Chev. de Tonty, de Bienville). Folio 279, 2 pages.

1767. M. Aubry to the Minister. Reasons why M. D'Ulloa did not take definite possession of Louisiana. Is afraid that very few soldiers will accept service at San Domingo. They have long ago had a right to their discharge, besides, they are afraid of the climate of that island. Folio 280, 2 pages.

1768. November 28. The same to the same. Has sent information by the vessel of the Sr. Vienne, on the sad revolution which broke out at New Orleans, to which he was unable to oppose any resistance, not having the troops necessary to do so. Far from quieting down the people's frenzy increases. The inhabitants seem determined not to accept Spanish rule. They have just 1768. freighted a vessel from France, on which the Council sends a deputy, the inhabitants another, to throw themselves at the feet of the King and implore his clemency, asking to remain French subjects. Avails himself of this opportunity to send a captain to report on this revolution and expose the deplorable situation in which he is placed. How could he maintain order and tranquillity over such a vast extent of territory, after what has happened, with only 280 soldiers, dispersed throughout it, Everything is upside down, everything is done against his will and by violence. The inhabitants want him to remain commandant, but under the pretext of rendering much homage and respect, they do not obey him. Receiving money neither from France nor Spain, what can he do? Folio 281, 4 pages.

December 28. The same to the same. The fury of the people against the Spaniards is ever increasing. A petition signed by the Syndics of the inhabitants and merchants was presented to the Council on the 14th of December asking the departure of the Spanish frigate. If this is not granted, violence is threatened. Believes that this will soon take place. Shall perish with his officers, rather than allow such an affront to be offered to the King of Spain. Forwards the speech he made in the Council on that occasion. Folio 283, 1 page.

December 14. Speech of M. Aubry in the Council. Folio 285, 2½ pages.

Copy of a letter from M. le Marquis de Grimaldi to M. de Fuentes respecting the disturbances in Louisiana since the cession of that colony by France to Spain. Folio 288, 4 pages.

October 29. Decree of the Council of Louisiana on the complaints of the merchants and inhabitants of the said colony (printed). Folio 290, 21 pages.

Memorial of the inhabitants and merchants of Louisiana concerning the events of the 29th of October, 1768, addressed to M. ———. The Council, seeing the calamities which oppress them, could not refuse to listen to the plaintive cries of a crushed people, the proof of it is in its Order of the 29th of October. Our magistrates did not hesitate a moment to send away the so-called governor. We wish to live under the domination of our beloved king, and it is while crying Vive le Roy that we hoisted the French flag on the day of the revolution. The letter of the King to M. D'Abadie, led us to believe that the latter would give orders to his governor to maintain the French priests, the ordinary judges and the Superior Council in their functions; that justice would be administered according to the laws, customs and usages established; that the inhabitants would be maintained in the possession of their property. This letter of the King was registered by the Council, but M. D'Ulloa did not heed it, although he was received with acclamations, and made great promises. The prosperity of the country depends in a great measure on the fur trade with the Indians. M. D'Ulloa has nearly suppressed it by reserving the privilege to 5 or 6 persons. The exportation of lumber, an industry which benefits directly or indirectly all the inhabitants of the country, has also been restricted. It is the same thing with all of our products; the restrictions which are imposed, force us to sell in Spain only; this is equivalent to taking all markets away from us, for either our products, such as furs, are not needed in that country, or, the market is already amply supplied by other colonies which produce in abundance and a better quality tobacco, cotton, indigo, tar. Spain having no industry, what can we take in exchange for our products, which, besides, she does not need? In accepting the cession of this country, Spain could have none but political views: to make Louisiana the rampart of Mexico. The question may be asked, however, whether this end can be attained by reducing the country to poverty. Decree of M. D'Ulloa and his order of the 6th of September, 1766. It simply tends to reduce all trade and commerce to exclusive privileges The following is a conclusive example. Last year

1768. he forbade the importation of negroes to the colony under the pretext that this competition would hurt an English merchant of Jamaica, who had sent a vessel to M. D'Ulloa to confirm the contract for the importation of slaves. In creating this monopoly, he robbed his new subjects of the means of procuring slaves cheaply, this for the benefit of a foreigner or perhaps for his own, for it might be supposed that vile material interests made him act thus. What a difference between his attitude and that of our governors, who always received our representations with deference and the desire to remedy the evils we complained of. Without hearing us, M. D'Ulloa calls us mutineers and rebels, and threatens us with confiscation. As he acts thus before taking possession of the country, what will he do after? Does he take us for Indians of Peru or Mexico? Spain will draw no benefit from Louisiana, on the country, her interest is that France retain possession of it. This is the real rampart of Mexico, because, the Indians, who are much attached to France, will fight with the French, without asking against whom they fight. It will be altogether different with Spain. Her ways of doing things, which are different from ours, alienates the Indians and throws them on the side of the English. The Genoese, English and Dutch merchants who have witnessed our revolution, will declare that our flag was hoisted without offering any insults to that of Spain; that M. D'Ulloa has embarked with all the liberty possible and without any act on our part which could be looked upon as indecent; that since, we have redoubled our regards and politeness towards the other Spanish officers who have remained here; that during the three days of the revolution, no other cry was heard among the 1,200 militiamen, among the women and children, among the whole people, than that of "Vive le Roi de France. Vive Louis le Bien-Aimé! "We pray the King to take back the colony. Folio 302, 28 pages.

November 8. M. Aubry to the Minister. Thinks it his duty to report to him the tragical events which have just happened at New Orleans, events which he was unable to control, his forces being useless against an armed colony. The refusal of our soldiers to serve under the King of Spain has obliged him to act in concert with M. D'Ulloa in all things necessary for the maintenance of order in the country. Has neglected nothing to give him information and facilitate his task. All was going smoothly, when a general revolt of the inhabitants of the colony suddenly broke out against the Spanish governor and his nation. Petition of the inhabitants. Having but 110 soldiers to oppose to the mutineers and seeing that his authority was no longer recognized, he advised M. D'Ulloa, against whom animosity was great, to retire on board the Spanish frigate. Did his utmost to calm the people, but without success. Went to the Council and protested against its order to M. D'Ulloa to leave within three days, had a presentiment for the last two years that such a thing would happen. Had reported before that M. D'Ulloa, notwithstanding his talents, knowledge, reputation in all the academies of Europe, was not fit to command Frenchmen. Instead of trying to gain hearts, he has done all he could to make himself detested and to create fear of the Spanish government. He seemed to look with disdain upon the chiefs of the Council. He has never said an obliging word to any one. By indiscreet speeches he has given the impression that he did not like our nation. He made threats and led people to believe that they would be despotically governed after his taking possession was completed He has frightened everyone, by his unbecoming conduct, surprising in a man of his wit, he has contributed much to bring upon himself and his nation the events which happened. The captain of the Spanish frigate is preparing to leave but the fury of the populace is such, that he is afraid he will be forced to, if he delays. Since the peace, this country suffers more afflictions than any other; from the uncertain fate of the French paper money, from the slowness 1769. of the payments of the sums due by the King, from the want of currency, from the insolvency of three fourths of the debtors, from the decrease in the value of negroes, from the regret of passing under a foreign domination, foreseeing that they shall alway be unhappy, from the unpopularity of its governor, from the decree which deprives this province of the trade with the Islands and France. All this, added to the extreme destitution which reigns, has reduced the people to despair. Forwards a copy of the letter which M. D'Ulloa has sent to him before going on board. Will see that he gives him the full justice. Provisional arrangements which he has made. The colony is determined not to pass under the Spanish rule happen what may. It is advisable to treat the inhabitants gently, because the proximity of the English might lead them to the gravest consequences. Is too much troubled by recent events to write any more to-day. Folio 318, 8 pages.

August 12. The Minister to MM. Aubry and Foucaut. The King is highly indignant at the outrage perpetrated against the Spanish governor and is well aware that they are the work of the Council. Everything was going on smoothly until the passing of the decree of October 1768 concerning the trade of the colony. Instead of calming the people, the Council was busy exciting them more, by secret intrigues. It is for him to appease the just wrath of the King of Spain by giving proofs of submission to the orders which the King sends to Louisiana. Folio 322, 2½ pages.

October 12. Copy of the ante mortem declaration of the Sr. de Villemont, lieutenant-colonel, to the Sr. Prosper, vicaire of the parish of St. Charles of New Orleans. Folio 234, 2 pages.

September 24. The Minister to M. le Duc de Choiseul. The Gazettier de Monaco having published a libellous article against M. Aubry, his family ask that it be forced to retract it. Knows enough of the wise and prudent conduct of M. Aubry during the disturbances at New Orleans, to do what is needed. Folio 325, ½ page.

January 31. The same to M. de Sartine. Forwards a detailed account of what happened in Louisiana when M. Oreilly, who was appointed governor after the departure of M. D'Ulloa, took possession of that colony. The King's intention is that M. Foucault, who refused to answer the interrogation of M. Aubry, be again interrogated. Meantime, the Sr. Foucault will not be allowed to communicate with any one. Folio 326, 1 page.

July 12. The same to M. de Choiseul. Upon the answers made by the Sr. Foucault to the interrogatory which he underwent at the Bastille, the King has ordered them to be communicated to the Court of Madrid, with a request for clemency towards him, now that the culprits have received exemplary punishments. Folio 327, 1 page.

September 16. The same to M. D'Outremont, Avocat to the Parlement de Paris. Has given account to the King, of the services of his late father M. Aubry, who died off Brodeaux, on board the vessel bringing him back to France. In recognition of there services the King has granted a pension of 1200 livres to each—M. D'Outrement, his son and Mde. Aubray, nephew and neice of M. Aubray. Folio 528, 1 page.

The same to M. the Admiral. Has received his letter concerning the demand of M. de Kerlerec made a few days before his death, for an appeal. There has been neither proceedings nor judgment but only a report, after examination, and it is on this report made to the Council, that he was exiled. His administration has been judgedwith full knowledge of the facts and he cannot see much hope for Mde de Kerlerec. Folio 329, 1 page.

December —. Prospectus of a patriotic association of the inhabitanta of San Domingo to assist the inhabitants of Louisiana who wish to settle at Grande Anse, on that island. Folio 330, 4 pages.

1774. February 3. The Minister to M. le Duc d'Aiguillon. Knows that the cession of Louisiana has caused disturbances, and that many Frenchmen, officers as well as soldiers, suffered capital punishment. M. de Noyan, a captain was among the number. His estates were sequestered. His brother, M. Payen de Noyan, of San Domingo, renews his request to help him to obtain the removal of the sequestration. Folio 332, 1 page.

Port au Prince. 1775. October 14. The Administrators of San Domingo to the Minister on the subject of the assistance to be given to the inhabitants of Louisiana who came and settled on the island. Folio 333, 2 pages.

New Orleans. 1778. March 31. Memorandum of M. de Villars to M. le Duc de Choiseul with the object of giving a description of Louisiana and to examine whether France has not disregarded her true interests by the cession to Spain. Lower Louisiana, products, climate. Upper Louisiana, Mississipi, Indians, return of the exports during the year 1777. The cession to Spain was a fatal mistake, it remains inexplicable to him. The idea of passing from an active and beneficient government to an arbitrary one has discouraged the inhabitants, activity has slackened; industry died, but the fecundity of the soil has upheld the edifice. "This vast and magnificent colony would to day be deserted and unproductive if, by the clauses of the treaty of Paris, the English, first, perhaps, among the trading nations, had not shared the privilege of navigation on the Mississipi, and had not awakened the industry of the discouraged colony." Had he better known Louisiana, he would have colonized it and assisted it, instead of uselessly spending his energy on the ungrateful Cayenne, and to-day, this colony would be in a more flourishing condition than San Domingo. Exagerates nothing, Louisiana had been for 50 years, the bulwark of the Antilles. . . . She had in her day been strong enough to stop and repulse the efforts which the United States of America will surely make later on to increase their territory in that direction, and it might have been able to force them back to the north, and direct their ambition towards Canada, and to push their settlements towards this frozen region, which offers for trade only the furs of animals, which recede and are destroyed by the advance of man. It would have served as a barrier to the Americans on the Mexican side. It would almost have restrained Spain and strengthened her alliance withus, by constantly keeping in check her rich but weak domains in the New World. Such are the true and solid advantages which France might have drawn from the possession of Louisiana, advantages which she alone could enjoy because she was the only power in Europe capable of colonizing such a vast and extensive territory, in 1763. The domains of North America were sufficient for England, exhausting its population. Moreover, an unquiet, dull, restless people, indocile of the restraint of laws, should not try to settle too strong colonies far away. The spirit of independence develops into license and, like the pelican, the children devour the entrails of their mother. What the English need are small islands fertile in commodities of luxury, and wanting in all objects of the first necessity; then need, and the facility of an invasion, hold the colony in a state of dependence, the mind of the settlers become pliant and receives the impressions printed on them by the Motherland. Interesting remarks on the Spanish colonies, the vices of their administration, &c., &c. 300 determined men would suffice to conquer Louisiana, and the Americans will not be long before they become masters of it, and, by degrees, will acquire all the country as far as the Pacific Ocean. During two years, Spain seemed to see her weak points and endeavoured to settle Louisiana, but she will not succeed, because she will not understand that the despotic character of her administration, her restrictions of trade, the tyranny of the tribunal of the Inquisition, will inspire strangers with distrust and avertion. Folio 335, 18 pages.

1780. New Orleans. February 13. M. Favre D'Aunois to the Minister. Has informed him on the 1st of November last, that M. de Galvès had captured the English possessions bordering on the Mississipi, and that he owed this success to the French of Louisiana. The governor left on the 4th instant for La Balize with 2,000 men to go to Mobile, where he will await 4,000 men from Havana. Is informed that he will not receive this reinforcement, as there is a misunderstanding between himself and the governor of Havana. Will undertake the siege of Pensacola which is well fortified. If he fails Louisiana will be at the mercy of the English. The agent of the United States in Louisiana has subdued all the English part of Louisiana comprised between Mobile and the Mississipi, to the rule of his government. The Sr. Piele, a very brave officer, has been entrusted with this expedition with 100 Americans. Has captured an English privateer on Lake Pontchartrain. Folio 345, 2 pages.

May 29. M. de Villars to the same. M. de Galvès, at the head of 900 men, has captured all the English forts on the Mississippi, after which, he went to Mobile, where for a month, he awaited reinforcements which had been promised him. His position had become critical, when he profited by the first regiment sent to him, to attack and capture Mobile. The succour which he expected only arrived in April, one month after the capture of Mobile. He was preparing to attack Pensacola, a strongly fortified place, but the fleet withdrew under the specious pretext that it lacked provisions. This expedition was certainly successful owing to the consternation of the English, produced by the rapidity of the conquests of the Spaniards and the cleverness of the militia, which, in less than two hours had reduced all the English batteries to silence. M. de Galvès has told him that he only owed his success to the courage and the fearlessness of the French at Louisiana. Folio 346, 4 pages.

Speech made by M. de Galvès, governor general of Louisiana, upon the return of his expedition from West Florida, on the 27th of May, 1780, by M. de Villars, one of the Commissaries of H. M. C. M. Folio 348, 3 pages.

1782. May 26. The Minister to M. Joly de Fleury, Minister of Finance. The King of Spain has just allowed trade between France and Louisiana for 10 years. Forwards the memoir of M. Maxent, lieutenant governor of that colony. Folio 350, 1 page.

1778. Detailed account of the irruption of the Americans of the north on the lands of Louisiana, made by M. de Villars. Expedition of Captain Weling entrusted by Congress with the mission of going down the Belle Rivière and the Mississipi to fight the English. Folio 351, 7 pages.

Extract from the Philadelphia Gazette, of the 23rd of February, 1803. The Philadelphia Gazette & Daily Advertiser. Folio 356, 3½ yages.

New Orleans. 1795. March 17. Letter from M. de Maison Rouge, a French knight who emigrated to M... He came from the United States with a view of settling some French emigrants. Conditions upon which Don François Louis Hector, Baron de Carondelet, Governor of Louisiana, permits to the Sr. de Maison Rouge and other French emigrants to settle in the country of the Ouachitas. Description of the country by the Sr. de Maison Rouge. "The climate is very healthy, as is proven by the number of old men one meets. Saw the funeral of Mde. Bidaux, aged 102 years. Another proof of the salubrity of of the country is the freshness and beauty of the women. Their figures are very pleasing, they have magnificent hair, they differ in this from your American ladies, who, as a rule, have narrow shoulders, the chest just as flat as the back, and ugly flat hair which makes them look like drowned persons just out of the the water. In short, does not recollect having seen a greater number together with all the advantages in so small a population, 1686. Versailles. May —. Concession en fief of the Islands of Cape Breton, St. Jean, and la Madelaine to the Sr. Gabriel Gautier, with a view toestablish a seal fishery and to give him the means of increasing the permanent fishery settlement which he has formed at Chedabouctou, and indemnify him for the expenses which he made for the erection of Fort St. Louis at Chedabouctou and the maintenance of the colony which he has established there, amounting, this year, to more than 70 persons. (Printed.) Folio 1, 3 pages.

1713. March 6. The Minister to M. D'Artaguiette. It has been decided to establish a permanent cod fishery on the Island of Cape Breton, and a frigate is being fitted out at Rochefort with this object. Officers, one engineer, and 100 men will be sent from Canada and Plaisance to begin the settlement and put it in a state to receive the garrison of Plaisance and the inhabitants who will go there. Has been chosen commissary. Prays he will go to Rochefort for this purpose, unless he has reasons not to accept that charge. Folio 3, 1 page.

April 10. The same to M. de St. Ovide. Writes to M. de Costebelle to send to Cape Breton, if possible, two of the Recollets who are at Plaisance. Writes at the same time to M. de Vaudreuil to have another sent from Quebec with the detachment which he will despatch. Writes to M. de Vaudreuil that it is absolutely necessary to determine the French and the Indians of Acadia to remove to Cape Breton, and forwards him two letters with regard to this, one for Father Gaulin and the other for Father Justinien. At the same time, he writes to Baron de St. Castin and prays he will remove to Cape Breton. Will communicate his letter to M. L'Hermitte. Folio 4, 3 pages.

April 21. The same to M. Desmaretz. Explains his intentions with respect to Cape Breton. Has been chosen to accompany M. de St. Ovide to Cape Breton and to help him in the choice which is to be made of the most convenient port for trade and fisheries, to form there the chief settlement of the Island. Folio 5, 4 pages.

Fontainebleau. 1713. September 9. Declaration of MM. de St. Ovide, de Lapérelle, Du Cavapre de La Vallière, Péan de Linaudière, La Ronde Denys, Du Vivier, L'Hermitte and Dominique de La Marche, Superior of the missions of Cape Breton, Recollet, concerning the choice which they have made of a port for the projected settlement on Cape Breton Island. Declare and certify that they have found on the said island only one French inhabitant and from 25 to 30 Indian families; that the said island was granted, about 80 years ago, to MM. Denys, of Tours, who had built two forts, one at Baie Ste Anne and the other at Port St. Pierre, near the Strait of Canso, remains of which they have found. After having visited all the ports indicated, they have chosen that of St. Louis, formerly known by name of Havre à l'Anglais, where they have landed the troops under the command of M. L'Hermitte. Folio 8, 1½ pages.

Versailles. 1714. January 26. Extract of the letter from the Minister to M. L'Hermitte. The King has approved the choice of Havre à l'Anglais as the principal settlement of Cape Breton, and has calledi t Louisbourg. Havre Ste Anne will be 1714. known as Port Dauphin. The settlement at Port Dauphin would have been less costly to establish, and there are good lands there as well as hardwood, plaster mines and marble quarries; but the fisheries are too far from it. Instructions concerning the fort and the projected buildings at Louisbourg. Folio 11, 3 pages.

April 9. Letters patent granting the beach and some lands at Ile Royale to inhabitants of Acadia and Newfoundland.

October 24. Regulations for Louisbourg hospital. Folio 23, 5 pagss.

1715. March 17. The Minister to MM. de Costebelle and de Soubras. The King is much annoyed by the expenses which the fortifications of Louisbourg will entail. For the present, only a few batteries can be erected, so as to protect the place from a surprise. It would have been desirable that the bar at Port Toulouse which prevents the entrance of vessels of more than 150 tons burthen did not exist, but, as this port is to be of great usefulness for the fishing trade and the settlement of the Acadians, it is necessary to erect a few batteries there. A garrison, under an adjutant, will be maintained there. As Port Dauphin has many advantages and can be fortified easily, he will make it his principal residence, in company with the general staff and the four companies. May transport the troops there before the arrival of Le Samslack and La Charente. The age and state of health of M. L'Hermitte not permitting him to be as active as is necessary, he will be replaced by M. Berthelot de Beaucours, chief engineer in Canada. Has at the same time appointed him the King's second lieutenant. Will prepare material but will await him for the commencement of operations. Folio 28, 3 pages.

June 4. The same to M. de Costebelle. Shall reside at Port Dauphin but will often visit other ports. Folio 31, ½ page.

June 4. The same to M. de Soubras. Cannot see why the fishermen refuse to pay the tax of one hundred weight of cod to the hospital as they did at Plaisance. The regulations which he made for the administration of the hospital appear good. Folio 32, 2 pages.

Remarks on the three posts of Ile Royale which may be fortified, for the security of the inhabitants and the trade, and on the good points of the lands and of the materials which may be used in the construction of the King's works and the public buildings. May 6. The same to the same. The award for the slaughter-house at Louisbourg has been approved of, but the term of the privilege was reduced to three years. June 30. The Minister to M. Bigot. His decision to establish a slaughter-house for sheep cannot but be approved of, but it would have been advisable to force the contractor to buy a part of these sheep in Canada, as has been done with the horned cattle. Folio 267, 1 page.

1744. April 21. The Minister to M. Duquesnel. Consents to appoint the Sr. Hertel, gate keeper at Louisbourg, but it would have been desirable to have these functions fulfilled by one of the staff officers residing at that place. It is not necessary to appoint a wharfinger. Folio 268, 2 pages.

1745. Rochefort. September 2. M. du Chambon to the Minister. On the siege and capture of Louisbourg. Detailed account, day by day, of events. Weakness of the garrison composed of 1,300 men, against 4 or 5,000 enemies. Sent a courier to M. Marin, whom he supposed to be at Bassin des Mines, but, unhappily he was gone, in the direction of Port Royal and was too far to reach Louisbourg in time to be useful. If this mishap had not taken place, the enemy would most likely have been forced to raise the siege. Firm resistance of M. D'Aillebout at Ile de l'Entrée. Of the 400 men who attempted to scale the fort on this island, 250 were killed or drowned, and 119 made prisoners. The 800 who were to support them did not dare approach. Parley for the surrender. Complaint concerning the non-observation of many important clauses of the capitulation. French officers killed during the siege : MM. de la Frézillière, Rousseau de Souvigny and Loppinot junior, a cadet. Among the English officers who took part in the siege were John Blaskrick, of Boston, colonel general of the militia, who had been made a prisoner at Canceau, on the 24th of May preceding by M. Duquesnel with the whole garrison of that post. Having been released on condition of not bearing arms for a year and a day, he failed to keep his word, by taking part in this campaign. Surrendered only when he had no other resource, when powder and ammunition were on the eve of failing him, and the walls were in part demolished. Folio 272, 53 pages.

M. Chassin de Thierry to M. Du Chambon. Thinks it would be advisable to blow up the battery which he commands and to spike the guns, as he is unable to defend it with any chance of success and its preservation would be of great use to the enemy. Prays he will send his orders. Folio 300, 1 page.

Louisbourg. 1745. May 11. Deliberation of the officers of the garrison of Louisbourg on the subject of the abandonment and destruction of the Royal battery, as proposed by Chassin de Thierry, who is in command. Prays he will come immediately to Louisbourg, upon the receipt of this letter, bringing with him all the Canadians and Indians whom he commands. Folio 305, 2 pages.

May 18. Letter of M. Du Chambon to the English Generals in answer to the summons to surrender the town of Louisbourg made to him on the 7th of May (old style) by the Srs. Pepperell and Warren. Can only accept their proposals after the most vigorous attack. Folio 307, 1 page.

On board Le Superbe before Louisbourg. June 6. Letter of M. Warren to M. De Maisonfort, his prisoner. Is informed that English soldiers who fell into the hands of Indian and French scouts were killed and scalped. Informs him that a repetition of such acts of inhumanity may have the most serious consequences. Prays he will make known his determination, by letter, to the commander in chief of Louisbourg. Folio 309, 1 page.

On board Le Vigilant prisoner before Louisbourg. June 18. M. de la Maisonfort, post captain, to M. Du Chambon. Sends a copy of the letter which Mr. Warren has just sent to him On the 30th of May, he was captured by the English squadron, while trying to enter the port.

1745. We are treated not as prisoners, but as friends, and it is but just that we do the same towards the English prisoners. Is persuaded that he had no knowledge of the cruelties which appear to have been committed. Would do well to search out the culprits and make an example. Cannot have too much regard for his prisoners as we are so nobly treated. His compliments to M. Bigot. Folio 311, 1 page.

Louisbourg. June 19. M. du Chambon to Mr. Warren. The report made to him about cruelties committed by Indians and Frenchmen is not correct, at least as far as regards the latter, as no Frenchmen have gone with the Indians in their excursions. It is, however, true that a detachment of Frenchmen who met a party of Indians who had had a brush with the English, found one prisoner in their hands, and they used force to take him away from them. This prisoner was sent to Louisbourg with a few Frenchmen so that he would run no risk. Is ignorant of what happened to them as neither the prisoners nor the Frenchmen have reached Louisbourg. May rest assured that he will neglect nothing to stop the cruelties of the Indians. The English prisoners whom he detains are treated the same as the King's subjects. Folio 313, 2 pages.

June 19. M. du Chambon to M. de la Maisonfort. May feel certain that cruel treatment meted out to English prisoners by Indians were not authorized by him. Learnt only a few days ago what did happen; the chief of a French party apprised him of it, and it is he who rescued the prisoner from the hands of the Indians and had sent him to the town under escort. Believes that the prisoner was recaptured by his nation. Will do all he can to prevent the Indians from committing new cruelties, but it is well to remember that those barbarians do not always obey the orders given to them. There were no Frenchmen among the Indian party which perpetrated the acts of cruelty complained of, and this is to be regretted, as they would not have allowed them. Gives every attention to English prisoners in his power. Folio 315, 2 pages.

Representations of the inhabitants of Louisbourg to M. Du Chambon. Sets forth, that they see with much pain the enemy who keeps the town in a state of blockade since the 15th of March, and who besiege it since 46 days, increase daily in number, by land as well as sea, while the town receives no assistance. Have done all in their power to defend the place. Sees clearly that the town cannot be saved. Prays him to capitulate and not wait till the town be captured by force, as this would entail the total loss of whatever property is left them. The enemy's squadron is composed of 13 warships and about 80 sail, no efficient assistance is possible. Signed: De Lort, Morel, Cœuret, Lannelongue, Joseph Chartier, Dupérier, F. Milly, Martissans, Rodrigue, G. Milly, Labranche, A. Castaing, Iger, Pierre Bellair, Lagoanére, Maillet, Claude Millot, Léonard L'Hermitte, Masson, A. Paris, Baron, B. The unanimous decision was that there was no more hope of receiving assistance, and that we should offer to capitulate. Signed: Le Baron de L'Espérance, de Mésilliac, Dangeac de Merville, de Renou, Chev.

Camp, 8½ p.m June 26. Answer of MM. Warren and Pepperell to M. Du Chambon. Were to make a general attack. Grant a suspension of hostilities until 8 o'clock to-morrow morning. If, within the interval, his garrison surrender as prisoners of war, they may count on an honourable and generous treatment. Folio 324, 1 page.

June 27. M. Du Chambon to the English Generals. Has received the answer to his letter. His terms are too hard, cannot accept them. The officer whom he sends them will hand to them the articles of capitulation which he proposes. He will surrender on those conditions. Folio 326, 1 page.

June 27. Articles of surrender offered by M. Du Chambon to MM Warren and Pepperell together with the answers and modifications in the margin. Folio 328, 10 pages.

June 27. M. Du Chambon to MM. Warren and Pepperell. There is no explanation in their counter-proposals as to the manner in which the garrison is to march out. Cannot consent to let them go out except with the honours of war ; this honour being due to troops which have done their duty. Their arms may be laid aside, on condition of their being returned to them on their landing in France. If this is granted he will accept the other conditions. Sends two officers as hostages in case of acceptance. Folio 334, 1 page.

Camp before Louisbourg. 1745. June 27. MM. Warren and Pepperell to M. Du Chambon. Cannot accept the modifications which he proposes. Consent to grant the following articles. Folio 335, 3 pages.

June 27. M. Pepperell to M. Du Chambon. Has received his letter through the hostage in which he accepts the terms proposed to-day by M. Warren and himself. Yields to his desire to let the troops march out with the honours of war ; their arms shall, however, be confided to the care of the English officers until the arrival of the vessels in France. Sends an hostage to guarantee the fulfilment of these promises. Folio 338, 1 page.

June 27. M. Warren to M. Du Chambon. Grants that his troops march to the vessels with the honours of war, in consideration of their brave conduct, on condition that he immediately deliver over the battery of the Island and all that it at present contains, and that his vessels may enter the port without molestation, beginning to-morrow. Folio 339, 2 pages.

June 28. M. Pepperell to M. Du Chambon. Has received this morning an answer to his letter to M. Warren. He consents to the troops marching to the vessels with the honours of war. Desires that the officers and citizens repair to their houses as soon as possible. Need not fear insults nor bad treatments. Will send Colonel Bradstreet with a detachment at 4 o'clock p.m. to take possession of the town and fort, to whom he desires that the keys and the stores be handed. Prays he will send some one to tell Colonel Bradstreet by which gate to enter. Folio 343, 1 page.

June 27. M. Du Chambon to M. de Gannes. Gives orders to deliver over to the officers sent by M. Warren the Ile de l'Entrée with its artillery and munitions of war and to retire into the town with his troops, arms and baggage. Shall take an inventory of the provisions and liquors which are there. Folio 341, 1 page.

1745. On board Le Superb, harbour of Louisbourg. M. Warren to M. Du Chambon. Has just learnt that a large band of Indians are 8 leagues from Louisbourg. Prays he will send some one to notify them to quit the island and not to come back, without which, he will send a detachment to destroy them and any Frenchmen who may be with him. Folio 347, 1 page.

1745. June 30. June 29. M. Du Chambon to M. Marin, commanding the troops of Canada. Ile Royale has been surrendered to the English. Prays he will commit no act of hostility on this Island, until after its complete evacuation, in 2 or 3 months. Believes that the only thing he can do is to return to Canada. Has sustained the siege for 45 days. Notwithstanding the precarious state in which he was, the want of assistance, the dilapidated state of the place, and the great superiority of the enemy, who had 6,000 men on the sea, and on land, he would not have surrendered had he had any powder left. Could not obtain permisslon for the inhabitants to remain in the colony, nor even that they be allowed to go to Canada. Folio 348, 2 pages.

June 30. The same to M. Warren. No Indians have been seen in the neighbourhood of Louisbourg. Hopes that he will allow the inhabitants of this town to fetch their families in the various neighbouring harbours. Folio 349, 1 page.

July 3. M. du Chambon to MM. Warren and Pepperell. Protests in his own name and that of the officers against the infringements of one clause of the articles of capitulation. This clause provided that the officers, troops and inhabitants, with their families, should be conveyed to France to the port designated by them ; that the English commander at Louisbourg was to furnish the extra ships and victuals required for their transportation. It had just been decided that instead of being conveyed directly to France, they would first be sent to Boston. Protests against this decision ; declares that there are enough ships to convey them to France direct ; this infringement will oblige them to abandon a great part of their goods ; if their just claims are not acceded to, they will have recourse to the Courts of France and England. Folio 352, 2½ pages.

July 3. M. Warren to M. du Chambon. Is obliged to send them to Rochefort by way of Boston, where they can be embarked on better ships and provided with better provisions. Has written to Governor Shirley not to permit the landing of the men, certain officers excepted, of whom he will send a list. If he wishes it, the ships on which they will be embarked will stop at Louisbourg. Folio 353, ½ page.

July 4. M. du Chambon à MM. Warren and Pepperell Thinks it proper that he should send back the ships from Boston to Rochefort as promptly as possible, to avoid the diseases which a long stay would occasion. Folio 353½, ½ page.

July 11. MM. du Chambon and Bigot to MM. Warren and Pepperell. Represents that a ship sailed from Boston, this morning, having French sailors on board pending their sailing for France; that their arms were taken from them contrary to the terms of capitulation. Ask that their arms be shipped direct to France. Submits that the ships provided for their transportation are far from being sufficient ; that there will be 1,300 persons and 500 tons of goods left. They would be severely blamed if they sailed before the inhabitants, for the latter would then be without protection from the insults to which they would be submitted, since they are daily exposed to them from the Boston troops who enter their houses armed to pillage them. Could mention MM. de Beaubassin, Rodrigue, Sautoux, Sanson, Dufourc and Médoux, and Mmé Prévost, wife of the commissioner of war and several other ladies who have been robbed by the troops without being able to obtain justice. The threat is made to the inhabitants that their houses will be captured by force. Asks them, on this account, 1845. to let Le Lainceston, on which the officers are embarked, sail only after all the other transports have sailed. Folio 354, 4 pages.

MM. Warren and Pepperell to MM. Du Chambon and Bigot. They can rest assured that the arms of their men who started to-day for Boston will be shipped to them at the first opportunity. As to their demand that the officers' departure be delayed to protect the inhabitants, they can rest assured that the latter will be treated with all possible humanity and justice, circumstances forbid their demands being granted. Folio 355½, 1 page.

Unsigned letter of a person in the English colonies concerning the capture of Louisbourg. Has received his letter confirming the news of the capture of Cape Breton. Agrees with him that this conquest is of the highest importance. Is satisfied with the measures taken for the preservation of this conquest, otherwise he would fear that it would be recaptured. Hopes that its preservation will be looked after with the same eagerness as that of Gibraltar and of Port Mahon. To secure to this conquest its value and duration it is expedient to expel the French from Canada, which can be done with the greatest facility. That being done, all the fisheries would be ours, as well as the fur trade, which would permit us to live in perpetual friendship with the Indians. This conquest would ruin the French colonies of the Islands by depriving them of the provisions they obtain from Canada. It would also ruin shipbuilding in France. This conquest would be infinetely more advantageous than that of Mexico or Peru, considering the great number of artisans who could be employed and the large fortunes which could be made. Those who would discredit the acquisition of Cape Breton on account of its remoteness show a remarkable ignorance and ignore the importance of this island which has been for several years an inexhaustible source of wealth for France. Folio 357, 4 pages.

June 10. Copy of the letter written by the Sr. Bellefeuille, senior, to M. Hocquart, dated from Pabos, June 9 and 10, 1745. A small brigantine intended for him arrived here, last Saturday; she was pursued by several English privateers near Ile Royale. One of them foundered with all the hands, of about 150 men. The others gave chase up to Ile de Sable. The men have seen 3 big ships anchored before Louisbourg and about 15 other small ships. There arrived here yesterday, from Niganiche, 19 men in 3 boats, who could not reach Louisbourg on account of the enemy. Everything is burned at Niganiche, L'Indienne and Ste. Anne and the great battery of Louisbourg has been abandoned to the enemy. Has neither arms, powder nor shot and can offer no resistance. Folio, 361, 3 pages.

Unsigned letter Complains about the Sr. Agnes, captain of a ship of Grandville, which had been captured in attempting to reach Louisbourg. After the surrender of that town he had refused to part with a portion of his crew for the use of the ships which were conveying the troops and inhabitants to France. Folio 363, 2 pages.

June 10. Letter from Father Lestage, Récollet, missionary at Babos, to M. Hocquart. Profits by the opportunity offered by M. Bellefeuille's going to Quebec to inform him of what is happening in the Gulf concerning the war. Folio 364, 1½ pages.

On board the Lainceston. 1745. August 1.

The same to the same. Apprises him with grief of the surrender of Louisbourg on June 27. The very next day, Mr. Warren took possession of Ile de l'Entrée and of the gates of the city with 600 regulars landed from his ships. Mr. Pepperell also entered it on the same day with 3,000 men of the besieging army They were blockaded by sea since the 14th of March, as he had sent word to him by the ship despatched on May 8. On the 14th of March 5 or 6 ships only of 20 to 30 guns, soon followed by 11 warships were signalled. On the 11th of May a fleet of 90 to 100 sail was seen approaching Gabarus convoyed by 3 warships, one of 60 guns commanded by Mr. Warren and 2 of 40 guns. M. du Chamhon sent M. Morpain with 80 men to reinforce the 40 men who were supposed to be there and to oppose the landing of the enemy. This landing was partially accomplished when he arrived, and his troops had to retreat to the woods after losing 5 or 6 men. The enemy landed 6,000 men and at one o'clock in the afternoon they were in sight near the Royal Battery. M. Thierry who commanded there with 200 men thought that it should be abandoned, as it was open behind and at the sides since last year and it was impossible to prevent its capture. The Council of War was also of that opinion. Besides, these 200 men were needed to defend the town. He thought, as did several officers, that this battery should be blown up, as, in any case, this would be done by the enemy if they were obliged to raise the siege. Fifteen days before the landing of the enemy, he had the women's and children's ration redneed to a quarter of a pound of flour a day and half a pound for the men. Relates the operations of the enemy in bringing their artillery before the town and erecting batteries. Intrenchments thrown up in the town. It was decided, on account of our weakness, not to attempt sorties to disorganize the enemy's operations. Believes, however, that they would have been effective. Have not displayed all the vigour which the courage of the population would warrant on account of the scarcity of powder. Everything was against them : Le Vigilant was captured, and 13 ships at anchor off the port could not put in on account of contrary winds. M. Marin, who was at the Mines with a big party of Canadians, was gone when a despatch was sent him begging him to come to the relief of the town. The walls of the Bastion du Roi et Dauphin, as well as the other walls, were worthless. All the facings were made of round stones in no way bound together. The inside of these walls was filled with sand only, so that more fell from the shock of our own guns than from the enemy's fire. One single shot completely destroyed the breast-work of the wharf and spur. The engineer, to whom he complained of the weakness of the walls, told him that he had built them to resist to musketry only. Had not believed that the King had been put to so much expense for such a trifling result. To all these causes it must be added that they were about to run out of powder and there were only 1,132 men left to defend the town. Believes, in spite of all this, that if the ships of the Compagnie des Indes had not taken away, some time before, 1,000 sailors, fishermen and servants, the colony would still belong to the King. The enemy intended to make a general attack by land and sea, on the morrow, and give up the city to pillage. This had been promised to the Bostonians. Account of the night attack against the fort of Ile de L'Entrée and the defeat of the enemy. Of the 500 men who composed the attacking party, 119 only escaped death by surrendering themselves prisoners. M. D'Aillebout's gallantry on this occasion Must relate the brave deed of M. Lavallière Beaubassin. Seeing that M. Du Chambon ordered no sortie, which, in his opinion, would have been successful, considering the lack of discipline and spirit of the Bostonians, he asked to be allowed to take out 100 men by sea, saying that he would land at Lorembec and would go through the woods to Gabarus to destroy the enemy's stores. Relates this expedition which failed because a deserter of his detachment had warned the enemy. Had to cut his way through an enemy ten times more numerous. Lost 10 or 12 men. The enemy lost 150 men who were buried in M. Boucher's close at Lorembec and counted by the habitans. Some English officers said that 1,200 of their men had been killed during the siege. It is certain that if Le Vigilant had not come, the Bostonians would have raised the siege ; their powder was exhausted and they could receive none from Boston for 15 days. Mr. Warren, who saw that the warships which were to join him did not arrive and who feared a French squadron which merchantmen he had captured had announced to him, wanted to return. He thought that this was a strong squadron which would capture him, burn the transports of the land army and thus compel it to surrender to us. That was told to him by Mr. Warren, but the capture of Le Vigilant quieted the latter. This ship strengthened his squadron and supplied powder to the besiegers until that from Boston arrived. She was captured by 3 English warships, one 60 and two of 40 guns, and two other privateers, one of which had delayed her and driven her to leeward of the port where was the squadron. Had she followed her course, she could have put into port having the weather-gage of the fleet. This ship would have saved the colony for the King by the reinforcement in men and powder she would have given us. The enemy would even have raised the siege, thinking us more numerous and better provided with ammunition than we were."

Sends him copies of the letters exchanged with the English generals, being his representations to them on their possessing themselves of the hospital furniture, although the capitulation provided that only the munitions and implements of war were to be surrendered. Have also seized upon the provisions. Has given his word of honour that the money in the coffers belonged to individuals, or they would have seized upon it. Could give his word of honor as the King owes triple that amount. Could not obtain from the English generals permission for the inhabitants nor even for the Sœurs de la Congregation to go to Canada. Victuals are wanting on board Provision has been made for 500 men for thirty days, and there are 580. M. D'Aillebout has stayed behind. He will accompany the next shipment which will be composed of inhabitants. Folio 368, 29 pages.

Arrived near Louisbourg he learns from a certain Chapuy that there was a truce between the two nations. Doubting the statements of this man, he takes prisoners 10 Englishmen and 2 women who confirm these news. His troubles to prevent the Indians who accompany him from continuing the hostilities. To this effect he has armed the brigantine Le St-François, under the command of the Sr. Vergor, to go to river St-Jean with an extra supply of victuals. He was attacked by an English snow about 10 leagues to the west of Cap de Sable. The schooner he convoyed reached river St. Jean, but no news of the Sr. Vergor have been heard since then. To prevent these attacks he enjoins M. Has learnt with grief that certain Acadians, one Jacob Vignaud dit Maurice particularly, wish to become independent and have refused to take the oath of allegiance to the King of France. They are thus guilty of the worst ingratitude, having been protected and provided with victuals by the King. Folio 467, 1½ pages.

1755. February 17. Certified extract from the registers in the record office of the Superior Council of Louisbourg respecting a suit brought by the Comte de Raymond, at the request of Jean La Borde, Deputy Procureur General, against the Chev. Bogard de la Noue, ensign and commanding officer at the Baie des Gespagnols for having, on the 11th February 1754, married in spite of M. D'Aillebont's refusal. Had applied to the latter for permission to marry an Acadian, the daughter of one Guedry dit Paul Grivois and an Acadian Spanish half-breed Anne d'Entremont. This permission was refused and he was forbidden to return to the Baie des Espagnols. Upon his remarks that this interdiction would be prejudical to the interests he had in that place, the Sr. D'Aillebout gave him permission to go, under his word of honour that he would not marry before having the approbation of the Minister and of his family. In spite of this promise, he wrote to his De Caux, commanding officer at Port Dauphin to ask him to send Sr. chaplain under pretense of assisting one of his brothers seriously ill. This chaplain officiated at the marriage without observing the rules contained in the King's ordinances. The Sr. de la Noue was put in jail and released, hence the suit to annul his marriage. The certificate of marriage declares that after dispensing with 2 bans, Father Hyacinthe Lefevre married the Sr. Jules César Fèlix de la Noue, son of the late high and mighty seigneur Messire Toussaint Marie de la Noue, knight, Seigneur de Bogard, la ville Norme, St. Hermel and other lands, councillor at the Parliment of Brittany and of Dame Marie Madelaine Prassac, native of the parish of Quaissais, bishopric of St Brieux, and Damoiselle Marguerite Guédry, daughter of Paul Guédry and of noble dame Anne d'Entremont, native of the parish of Ste.

1758. Memorandum from M. de Drucourt respecting the stronghold of Louisbourg, its fortifications and the events of the siege. Bad state of the fortifications. Louisbourg, surrounded by heights, was not to be considered as a stronghold. Most of the besieged strongholds are always captured when they are not relieved. The defence was valorous, the soldiers and officers have devoted themselves without murmur and there are no troops who have so well deserved the rewards and favours of the King. Folio 529, 18 pages.

Diary of the siege of Louisbourg, not signed, forming 5 books, in which are minutely related day by day, all the events pertaining to it from March 30 until the departure of the garrison for France. In the French squadron, there were only 5 frigates, under command of Comte Des Gouttes, which could land in the harbour of Louisbourg. M. Du Chaffault, who was in command of the main section of the squadron, could not land on account of headwinds. M. Des Gouttes, seeing that the defense was useless, prayed M. de Drucourt to let him leave the harbour and return to France and thus save his ships from sure ruin. The staff of the garrison having been consulted by M. de Drucourt all were of the opinion that the most important thing was to prolong the resistance, this would be impossible if they were deprived of the troops which were on board of those ships and of the ships themselves. List of these ships.

Miramichi camp. 1758. August 14. Diary of the campaign of M. de Boisbéhert from Quebec to Louisbourg and return. He had, as officers: MM. de Catalogne, de Boucherville, de Céry, de St. Simon, with cadets Des Plaines, D'Amours, de Carqueville, Couillard, de La Durantaye. Embarked on the schooner La Critique of 50 tons, with 70 men, from Quebec, the remainder, with M. de Céry, were on board Le St. Joseph, which was escorting L'Oiseau, loaded with the king's supplies for river St. Jean. Arrived at Miramichi June 9, after going through many storms and having his vessels dispersed; one of them having to put into Quebec. Had only provisions for 20 days which compelled him to put his troops on a short allowance of 4 ounces. Increased his detachment with 70 Acadians and 60 Indians. Sent M. de Niverville to take command at river St. Jean. Did not go to Ile St. Jean, as he proposed, but to Gédaik, for fear the Indians might kill the cattle belonging to Acadians. Learned that M. de Villejoin had sent a detachment of 100 Acadians, commanded by his son. Arrived June 26 at Canseau passage, the 28 at Port Toulouse and July 1 at Miré where he met M. de Villejoin with a detachment of 200 men very badly provided with necessaries. Was obliged to abandon 100 men because they had no shoes. Narration of his skirmishes with the enemy and his return to Miramichi after the capitulation. Sickness increased so much that in 8 days he had 60 patients afflicted with anthrax, which frightened the Indians so much that they all deserted. Made an attack upon an English detachment at Petitcodiac which though stronger than his was obliged to retreat. Lost 15 men during the action. Arrived at Miramichi August 8. Found that post without food. Learned of the victory at Carillon. On the 11th a schooner loaded with beef arrived which enabled him to revictual so as to join M. de Niverville at river St. Jean. Orders given to provide for the needs of the Acadians who would join his detachment or stay at Ile St. Jean. Learned on the 1758. 12th that M. de Villejoin and Rousseau, at Ile St. Jean, were expecting the English packet boat which was to take them, this disappointed him very much because he expected that these officers would not surrender to the enemy, on the contrary that they would serve in his detachment. Left Miramichi on the 13th leaving M. de Catalogne in command. MM. de la Boularderie and de Montarville remained also because they were too sick to venture the campaign. Folio 607, 12 pages.

June 8. Copy of a letter from M. Degouttes to M. de Drucourt. Communicates his opinions which are also those of the captains of his squadron. The enemy will soon be on the side of the beacon since the troops have been removed. Shall be perplexed about the chances of his vessels. With this wind, would be able to sail to-night and go very far before the enemy could know of his departure. Desires his written advice, immediately, and plainly, so as to communicate it in good time to his captains, if not he shall sail to-night. Signed Des gouttes, Beaussier, de Mar lles de Breugnon, Ch[er] de Lorgerie. Dudresnay, Desroches, Chev. de Tourville. Folio 616, 1½ pages.

June 8. Answer from M. de Drucourt. The Minister has always told him that his vessels were purposely for the defense of Louisbourg. It is clear that their departure would show our weakness. To sail to-night would mean introducing the enemy to-morrow. Thinks that being doomed to the same fate, it is proper to run the same risks. Their orders to this effect being the same, thinks that they must not hesitate. Folio 616½, 1 page.

June 21. Representations of the captains commanding the King's vessels at anchor at Louisbourg. The enemy having unmasked a battery of 10 to 11 mortars both on the side of Ross Point and behind the rocks leading towards the beacon and being thereby much exposed to the enemy's fire have inquired from M. de Drucourt with M. Desgouttes whether they could approach their vessels so as to lay under the batteries of the town, which was agreed to. Folio 621, 2 pages.

June 21. Answer of M. de Drucourt. Adheres to the representations of the captains of ships. Folio 622, 1 page.

June 24. Further representations from M. Desgouttes to have a Council of War to decide what course he isto take with regard to his fleet. The only service his has rendered, that he can see, is having prevented the enemy from entering the port. Begs the council to consider the loss of five vessels. They might be destroyed by shells, and then where would he lodge his troops, neither can he see how they could feed them if the loss of his vessels entails the loss of his provisions. His services can only be of small utility. Would be happy to learn how to be really useful, otherwise he wants to leave. The Court has not forseen the strange situation he is in. If so desired he is ready to sink vessels so as to block the entrance to the port. Folio 622½, 3 pages.

June 21. The Council persist in their first decision. Folio 824, ½ page.

On board the Prudent. June 29. Representations from M. Desgouttes. To comply with the wishes of the council of war, but very much against his will, he has sunk vessels so as to obstruct the entrance to the port ; his crews have been withdrawn from his vessels in order to join the land forces. Has called a meeting of his captains, and they were of opinion that unable to keep the powder in their vessels they should be considered as dismantled, and in consequence they would employ their troops in the town, being resolved not to burn nor sink their vessels but as a last resource, they could always go on board, if necessary, to defend the fortress. Folio 624½, 5 pages.

June 30. Answer of M. de Drucourt. If he has repeated his entreaties it is because 2 Councils of War were of the same opinion. Has adopted his reasons for getting his vessels nearer to the town. As he has reason to fear that they might be destroyed by shells, he has done well to take out his powder, and the same thing may be said of his stores. Folio 626½, 2 pages.

1758. July 4. The same to the same. Has pointed out to the Chev. de Courserac, who has came this morning, the place where he should bring the 70 or 80 men he commands. Will please communicate his order to him, not having kept a copy, so as to verify certain points. Folio 627, 2 pages.

July 4. Answer of M. Desgouttes. Regrets that M. de Courserac had not on his person, so as to give him cognizance of it, the order he gave to his captains in consequence of his advice of 30th June. Sends a copy of that order. Movements given to his vessels. His vessels were evacuated only to work in accordance with him, and it was the best thing to do, since the enemy fire red hot shot, and by acting otherwise he would have lost a great many lives. To delay that operation, as he desires would be to revoke orders repeatedly given, and show much indecision. Ha will leave as many men as he thinks proper, to guard the vessels but the more men left on board, so many less will remain to defend the fortress. Has fired all day on the enemy's battery, but cannot have caused much damage, for besides being masked, it is difficult to obtain good results by firing upwards. Folio 627, 4½ pages.

July 8. M. de Drucourt to M. Desgouttes. Requests him to have his officers and his crews serve all the guns along the sea from the guard-house on the beach to the Princess's bastion, etc., to-night. Folio 631, 1 page.

June 28. The same to the same. Respecting his answer to M. de Bellefeuille about the vessels to be sunk in the pass. Those who are detailed to obstruct the entrance to the port, say they cannot do it unless one of the King's vessels is there to silence the enemy's battery. And that door must not be left open. Repeats his remarks on that subject. Will himself do all he can to make that operation practicable. Folio 631, 1½ pages.

July 19. Representations from M. Desgouttes to M. de Drucourt. His captains are all of the opinion that it is better to burn the vessels than to expose them to capture. They are too much damaged to be able to come out and escape. Requests him to advise when it will be expedient to burn the vessels. If we wait till the enemy call upon us to surrender, he will exact, as prime condition, that the vessels be delivered to him and then it will be too late to burn them without risking falling at their mercy. Folio 632, 3 pages.

Answer of M. de Drucourt. Is willing to keep him informed of all that is goingon, but cannot take upon himself to fix the exact time when he will be able to burn his vessels. That concerns himself. Folio 633½, 5½ pages.

On board the packet Le Canadien, Brest. 1759. January 24. Extract from a letter of M. Gerard, formerly missionary at Acadia, and latterly at Ile St. Jean, where he was captured and carried away by the English—to the Abbé de L'Isle-Dieu. Is now at Brest after having been saved from a wreck in which 300 men lost their lives on an English vessel, two from Ile. St. Jean to St. Malo, according to capitulation of Louisbourg. Embarked at Port Lajoie with a good number of the people of his parish. On the 4th of November the vessel was nearly wrecked. The crew escaped and rescued him with 4 inhabitants of whom 2 were married and 2 single. All the others were engulfed in the Channel about 20 or 30 leagues from land. Managed to land in England where they remained one month without help. Embarked for La Rochelle, but the boat called at Brest and is still there. His books, papers and effects a total loss. Has great need of his prayers and of his protection near the Court and the Minister. Folio 639, 2 pages.

January 7. The Minister to M. Hocquart. Instructions concerning people from Ile Royale and Ile St. Jean who will be brought to France by English ships fiying a flag of truce. Folio 640, 2 pages.

May 1. The same to M. de Puis. Concerning the officers and soldiers of Ile Royale who are to be brought to Rochefort. Folio 641, 3½ pages.

1766. June 24. The same to the same. The Sr. de Meyracq, formerly Judge in Admiralty at Louisbourg, has brought back the papers of the jurisdiction of Ile Royale. He is instructed to put them in order with the help of M. Haran who is to be the keeper of these papers. Folio 644, 1½ page.

Order of the King to M. de Puis for the purpose of proceeding in his presence to the examination and inventory of the papers of Louisbourg, brought back by M. de Meyracq. Folio 645, 1 page.

1654. Memorandum, not signed, relating to the abuses of authority of M. de Frontenac. It was to remedy the trouble that M. D'Avaugort had caused to the order which he had found in Canada that, under complaints made to the King, His Majesty instituted, by his edict of 1663, a Supreme Council at Quebec. M. de Frontenac, on his private authority, made innovations opposed to the spirit and letter of this institution. He appointed elective aldermen whom he made police magistrates; he appointed some councillors without consulting the Bishop; alone, he regulated the expenditure of public funds and trade with the Indians; in all the by-laws of the council, he gave himself as high and powerful Seigneur and as Monseigneur. He pretended that the ordinance of 1667 did not affect him; that one could not decline his judgements or blame him in civil or criminal matters. On account of the distance, there seemed to be less inconvenience in allowing his usurpations than to be exposed to his threats and severities. Under his Declaration of 1675, confirmatory of the edict of 1663, the King modified his powers and extended those of the council. In spite of this plain declaration, M. de Frontenac has not changed his pretensions. Amongst other misuses of authority, he has given the Governor of Montreal orders to have the bailiff of this town arrested because, complying with the orders of the Supreme Council, he executed the rulings which were made; that, exasperated at the appeal of the judge on that account, he had him imprisoned; that, having called him to the Chateau, he was sentenced to beg pardon of the Governor of Montreal before six witnesses, and pay a fine of 120 livres; that this judge was kept in jail for two months and was discharged only when his fine was paid. Detailed account of different abuses of authority against the Intendant, and MM. D'Auteuil, de Tilly and de Villeray. Folio 1, 7 pages, say 11 pages.

1674. Factum of the Bishop of Quebec respecting what was done during the dissolution of the Council Sept. 19, 1664, (?) Selection of the Sr. Le Myre as trustee, by M. de Frontenac. Protest of the Councillors. Dissolution of the Council. M. de Charny having asked M. de Frontenac the reason of his refusal to enter on the registers the deliberations of the Council, he got into a jury and said to the whole Council: "I dismiss you, go out; I do not "suspend you only, but I dismiss you, go away from here" threatening "them with injurious words, a stick in his hand, and looking at the "registrar and the Sr. Bourdon, Procureur General, he said: "I dismiss "you also." M. Bourdon retorted: "As to me Sir, I must not consider "myself as dismissed; the decree of the establishment of the Council "does not enact that I may be removed: I ask you, if you please, that "it should be read." Hearing this M. de Frontenac rose up from his "chair, took M. Bourdon by the throat and pulled him out of his place by "force, hit him on the head with his stick, drew out his sword, and hit "him many times, when the Srs. D'Amaurs and D'Auteuil covered him "thus enabling the said Bourdon to retire. He went out. M. de Fron-"tenac followed him outside, hit him again many times with his stick and "with the flat side of his sword and wounded one of his hands, saying: "I "will kill you." Sr. Bourdon retired without saying a word and called "on a surgeon to get his wound dressed." Folio 5, 3 pages.

D'Auteuil, de Tilly and de Villeray. M. D'Auteuil, very sick, could not be allowed to be taken home in spite of the surgeons certifying that he was in danger of death. He was taken to the hospital where he died Nov. 27, 1679. Ill-treatment of M. D'Auteuil junior by M. de Frontenac Perrot affair. Folio 7 $2\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

PROVIDING SUBSTITUTES FOR MILITARY OFFICERS.—LOCAL GOVERNMENTS.

1757. May 1. The death of the Baron de Longueuil in 1755, has created a vacancy in the government of Montreal. The Marquis de Vaudreuil had proposed, to fill that vacancy, the Sr. Rigaud de Vaudreuil his brother, who has enjoyed, for several years the government of Three Rivers, and who, according to the natural course of service in Canada, succeeds to that of Montreal. It was thought proper to represent to His Majesty that the details of the government of Montreal required, in time of war as in time of peace, an officer who possessed a certain amount of information, as well for the negotiations with the Indians as for all the movements which may be made on the frontier; that the Sr. Rigaud de Vaudreuil, who had proved very zealous, who had even distinguished himself on several occasions by his courage, and who, besides shared the consideration which his family had

* This note appears in the copy, but there is no means, at the present moment, of ascertaining whether it is part of the document or a memorandum of the copyist.

1757. enjoyed for such a long time in Canada, did not appear to be qualified to take charge of the government of Montreal, and that it appeared expedient to seize this occasion to place at the head of this government one of the young post captains who might thereby fit themselves to become governor general when the Marquis de Vaudreuill left. His Majesty was impressed with those ideas, but His Majesty was of opinion that, before coming to a final decision, it would be well to communicate them to M. de Vaudreuil himself, which was done with all due deference. From his answer on that subject, he acknowledges naturally and honestly that his brother has not all the qualifications essential in a Governor General. At the same time he represents that the local governors of Canada have always been appointed from the officers of the colony and that they would be disgusted at the appointment of strange officers. He observes, especially, with regard to his brother, that it is so much more necessary during the war that he should have the full confidence of the Canadians and of the Indians. He cites, for instance, the expedition of Choueguen, which success he attributes to the use that his brother made of that confidence. He adds that if His Majesty decides to send a naval officer as governor of Montreal it would be imperative to retire his brother, and in that case, he humbly begs His Majesty to grant him a sufficient subsistence, as he has no means of his own.

Now, the question is this, does His Majesty intend to follow the suggestions submitted to him at first, or will he think proper to accede to the representations of M. de Vaudreuil and give the government of Montreal to his brother, and retire him when the war is over. In the first case it seems just to treat the Sr. Rigaud de Vaudreuil, who will have to rely on His Majesty's good will and to whom he is principally indebted for the capture of Chouegen, as His Majesty was informed at the time favorably.

And secondly, there would be nothing to fear for the general government of the colony supposing that the Marquis de Vaudreuil would fail whilst his brother is Governor of Montreal, since by letters patent transmitted last year, this command is given to the Marquis de Montcalm, an agreement that is kept secret, the letters patent being enclosed in a packet entrusted to the care of the Intendant and which is to be opened only in the case of the death of the Marquis de Vaudreuil.

Other documents.—List of the officers of the detachment of Marine who remained in Canada after the surrender of the 8th Sept., 1760.

List of the officers of the troops of the Detachment of Marine who died in Canada since the departure of the tro ps.

In this volume, occurs the following respecting M. Dumas :

"It seems proper to do something extra for M. Dumas in addition to the pension of 1200 livres allowed to him, and which will remain to be paid out of the funds of the colonies. He is a distinguished officer who knows the military service and who would have been able to reform discipline in Canada if he had been in command there. He was in command in the action of General Braddock, and he also distinguished himself in the battle before Quebec where the Marquis de Montcalm was killed, and where he several times repulsed the enemy to protect the retreat of the others."

General Correspondence.

1678. St-Germain-en-Laye. May 12. The King authorizes the Sr. Robert Cavelier de La Salle to explore the western part of New France. Was pleased to receive the representations made in his behalf to permit him to explore the western part of New France. His greatest desire is the discovery of that country which will undoubtedly help to find a way to Mexico. Permits him to follow that undertaking, to construct forts wherever he judges necessary, on the same footing and conditions as those granted to Frontenac whose letters patent of the 13th May 1675, he confirms, on condition that he achieves that undertaking within 5 years, that he will not trade with the Ottawa Indians and others who bring their furs to Montreal, that he and his company, to which the King has granted the monopoly of the fur trade of Cibola, will defray all expenses. Folio 1, 5 pages.

1695. Paris. December 14. Father Gouye to the Minister. Has received no news from Mississippi. Has nothing to say respecting the conduct of Father Du Ru towards the Commandant. Believes that we cannot count on anything before the return of M. D'Iberville. Folio 21, 2 pages.

1694. Quebec. October 24. Copy of the declaration of Henry de Tonty, governor of Fort St. Louis des Illinois, since 1684, and seignor of the said place with the Sr. de le Foret since 1690. Copy delivered by MM. de Frontenac and de Champigny.

Has assembled the Illinois to-day the 11th April 1694, before the missionary and soldiers to give an exact account of the number of Iroquois they have killed and carried away into slavery since the year 1689 in which M. de Denonville warred with them. Have admitted to having killed and carried away 334 men and young boys and 111 women and young girls. Signed Henry de Tonty, Jacques Granier, Jesuit, Montmidy, de Liette, Laméterie, Bertrand Viau, Acol. Desrosiers, Labriscé. Folio 27, 1 page.

MM. Charles Aubert de la Chesnaye and DeLino to the Minister. The discovery and establishment of Louisiana have rejoiced Canada, but as it has been represented to him in several memoirs, "this establishment will be the ruination of Canada through the desertion of its best men and of all its young people who, without hope of a better fate, have commenced to abandon their relatives, for a change and to go to the said establishment, especially the libertines and coureurs de bois who, forgetting their creditors in Quebec and Montreal have taken all their beaver skins and other furs to M. D'Iberville who has begun to welcome them with their said beavers to the detriment of the colony of Canada, which will lose not only its property but also its most alert youths." Prays that he will so order that M. D'Iberville will no longer buy, neither by himself nor by his servants, any beavers or furs other than those traded in in Canada. Folio 29, 2 pages.

Memorandum from the Quebec Seminary for the missionaries that are in Louisiana, and whom they have to support on the 3,000 livres given yearly by the King to that seminary The sum of 3,000 livres given by the King to the seminary to support missionaries at Louisiana would suffice were it paid in cash, but, as it is otherwise and a depreciation takes place, it results that the seminary receives after all but one-half of that sum, and this is quite insufficient to maintain several missionaries in a country which imports so largely and where the necessities of life cost so much. So long as the colony was worked and managed on behalf of the King, we could rely on the free entry of some tons of merchandise with which the missionaries provided for their wants by exchanges with the Indians; now that this work belongs to M. Crozat's company, we cannot rely on such a favour. The want of means of support will perhaps lead the missionaries to accept furs in exchange to increase their supplies, and this will cause complaints that are to be avoided. Hopes that the King will remedy that state of things. Folio 33, 4 pages.

Memorandum respecting the missionaries who are near the French in Louisiana. In the same sense. Folio 37, 3 pages.

Memorandum, neither signed nor dated, probably from M. D'Iberville, respecting the situation in Louisiana. Folio 47, 16 pages.

1697. Draft of the conditions on which the new company might agree to make the proposed establishment. Folio 63, 7 pages.

Memorandum, neither signed nor dated, respecting the project of establishing a new colony on the Mississippi or Louisiana. It treats of the offers made to the governor by MM. de Remonville and Fouessin. Description of the country, its facilities, and varied resources. Explanation of the project. Folio 71, 11 pages.

1698. (?) Demands made by M. D'Iberville for the establishment of a colony on the Mississippi, and explanation of his intentions. To avert curiosity, we could say that it is about an establishment at Acadia and for that purpose word might be sent to MM. de Bonnaventure and Pachot. Folio 83, 7 pages.

Application by M. D'Iberville for the grant of the lead and other mines situated in the Mississippi district from 38 degrees 10 minutes north to 39°. Prays that he be granted, as help, the return of the vessels sent to the Mississippi by the King, permission to bring negroes from Guinea on a King's vessel, permission to bring to the country ceded to him the Indian nations he might need, the exclusive right to supply to the Compagnie du Canada the beavers it may need if they are scarce throughout Canada, a detachment of 25 soldiers and a warehouse on the lower Mississippi. Exemption from dues on lead. Folio 93, 4 pages.

Application by M. D'Iberville, for a grant erected as a county at Mobile Folio 99, 1 page.

1699, Rochefort. August 11. M. D'Iberville to the Minister. Statement of what he needs for his expedition to the Mississippi. Asks for instructions with respect his conduct towards the Spaniards in certain circumstances. Folio 101, 5 pages.

August 30. The same to the same. Has received the map of the river St. Esprit. Does not know what to think. Might recognize what river it means if the names of the Indian nations inhabiting its course had been put on it. Has never come near the river Oyo. If the river in question discharges itself into the Gulf of Mexico and its mouth at about 80 or 100 leagues East of the Baie du St. Esprit, then in that case it runs into the Baie des Apalaches, and that is the one that Fernand Soto sailed up at the time of the conquest of Florida the accounts of which were so fabulous. If this is the river the English desire to capture, the Spaniards will not allow them to do so. Folio 107, 6 pages.

August 30. The same to the same. Asks what he is to do if he finds the English about to establish themselves at the Rivière des Apalaches. Can he offer his services to the Spaniards, to drive the English out. It is of the utmost importance to prevent them from settling there. The Canadians might be left alone to act in that case, if preferred. Folio 113, 2 pages.

1698-1699. Extracts from the journals of D'Iberville on the several anchorage grounds on the coast of Florida and in the Gulf of Mexico. Folio 115, 14 pages.

1699. Roadsted of Groix. June 23. M. Chateaumorant to the Minister. Account of his voyage from Logoane to Florida with MM. D'Iberville, de Surgere, de Grasse, de Galifet. Folio 129, 17 pages. Say 30 pages.

Account of the same by the Sr. Mouffle. Folio 147, 7 pages. Say 12 pages.

Memorandum, not signed, on the coast of Florida. Remarks on the advantages for France to have a strong colony there. Has consulted all the memorandus he could get, interrogated all those who have some knowledge of the place. The Spaniards founded a trading port at the Apalaches as early as 1564, where there are now from 400 to 500 people living, at the convent of the Recollets and Jacobins. They founded another 13 years ago on a river they call Apalachycoly where a few inhabitants live who work at the Governor's lead mines, and from 30 to 40 soldiers. Description of the Mobile, the Mississippi and other rivers and bays, etc. Folio 167, 10 pages.

Statement of the funds to be remitted to several persons and to M. D'Iberville, for advances made by him. Folio 189, 3 pages.

August —. Statement of the sums to be remitted to M. de la Ranaye, at Rochefort, to pay the salaries of chief officers and the soldiers of the garrison of the Fort de Biloxy. Folio 193, 3 pages.

1699. Rochefort. August 30. Statement of munitions and merchandise required by M. D'Iberville as commodities for the fort of Maurepas on the coast of Florida. Folio 197, 11 pages.

August 25. List of the chief officers, masters of ships of war, soldiers, workmen and cabin boys who were left in garrison by M. D'Iberville at the fort of Maurepas, to whom the following sums are due according to their agreement to commence only from the first, who have exhausted the advances made to them, to the last day of December of this year, 1699. Folio 209, 11 pages.

Do. for the salaries and pay of officers and soldiers of the fort of the Baie de Biloxy. Folio 221, 3 pages.

1700. Bayogoula. February 26. M. D'Iberville to the Minister. Has rendered an account of his voyage from La Rochelle to the Cap Français. Arrived at the Baie de Biloxi on the 8th January. Next day the Sr. de Sannalli came on board and informed him that an English corvette of 12 guns, commanded by Captain Bank, had entered the river Mississippi about the end of September. His brother, de Bienville, went to tell him that if he did not retire, he would compel him to do so. The captain put out to sea. He learnt from him that he had left London in October, 1688 (?) for the purpose of settling the Mississippi, that he had put back to Carolina from whence he had started with 2 vessels, one of 24 guns, the other of 12 to explore the mouth of the Mississippi, but misled by erroneous information he had found no harbour till 80 leagues further west, at a place where a Spanish settlement existed. That in retracing his route, he had found the mouth of the Mississippi, but only the smallest of his vessels could enter. He declared to M. de Bienville that he would come back with vessels capable of entering the river for the purpose of making a settlement, as the English, had taken possession of that river over 50 years previously. There are many English with the Chicachas where they trade. Account of his explorations in the country with de Tonty and his Canadians. Folio 225, 16 pages.

1700. Paris. February 27. M. Juchereau de St. Denis to the Minister. Has sent the memorandum he asked from him on the advantages of a settlement on the Mississippi. The last clause of his memo will show that general permission to go there is the only thing to ensure its success. If he will please accept his services for that purpose he feels certain of demonstrating that he has not vainly applied himself during 25 years to the study of what can establish and make a flourishing colony. Folio 241, 1 page.

On board La Notre Dame de Rosaire, March 23. The Sr. Andrez Riola to M. D'Iberville. Before answering his letter of the 13th, he is obliged to advise him of two things. The first. that the Scotch who came in the Dariel to settle and fortify themselves here without orders from their King, have retired upon summons when they learnt that a Spanish squadron was coming to expel them. The second thing that he desires to inform him is, that in the month of April of last year, 5 war vessels belonging to the King of Spain had entered the Gulf of Mexico, which belongs to the King of Spain; that those who were on board those vessels landed and began constructing dwellings and entrenching themselves. Had at first believed that these vessels were English, seeing that M. le Marquis de Chateaumorand, commandant of a squadron, has assured him that he came on these coasts for the sole purpose of hunting certain Canadois (sic) who had come to seek a shelter on these coasts, and once that mission accomplished he would return to France. On this declaration, the Comte de Montezuma, Viceroy of New Spain, had sent him to reconnoitre the coast, and he was not a little surprised to see some French settled where he expected to see English, and that they came from the squadron, of M. de Chateaumorand himself. Feels obliged to protest against such an undertaking. As to his offer to aid him in preventing the English from carrying out their plan of taking possession of the river St. Esprit, he thanks him for that favour without accepting it, however, because he does not believe that he needs it for the present. Folio 243, 4 pages.

1700. Fort of Beloxy. May 26. Memorandum from M. D'Iberville concerning what should be done by M. de Sannol at the Mississippi after his departure. Will cause researches to be made for medicinal plants and roots. Will try to get wild horses to corral and break in. Will inquire about places where pearls are found. Will fish for them at all seasons, during the full and waining moon and will classify them accordingly. Will cause timbers to be hewn and put in salt water till the vessels' return, with the view of ascertaining which are the least exposed to be worm-eaten. Will cause the face of this 1700. same timber to be scorched and submerged in water for the same purpose. Does not believe that the Spaniards will undertake anything against our settlements. Will live amicably with them. Will send the Sr. Le Vasseur with 3 or 4 men near the Chaquias, to see what kind of nation it is of which the other Indians speak so much. Will question them about the mines that exist on the river Mobile, its navigability, if it is really the one that passes near the Chicachas, if it is navigable up to there, if there are mulberry trees along the course. Will send the Sr. de St. Denis to complete the discovery of the upper region of the river des Marnes up to the great lake mentioned by the Indians, with instruction to go as far west as possible to make himself acquainted with New Mexico and the Spanish mines. Should he find mines, he is to buy the land from the Indians in the King's name, etc. Does not believe that any European nation would like to occupy the Mississippi, the two shores of which we possess, but if any should come we will inform them of our possession, and will use force if necessary to keep them away. Folio 247, 7 pages.

D'Iberville having expressed the desire to bring with him one of their fathers in order to continue the mission that another had filled for eighteen months, suggests that Father Dongé, be sent on one of the King's vessels. Folio 313, 2 pages.

Has been able to obtain corn from the Indians of Mobile, which has enabled him to maintain the garrison and the colony. Independent spirit of the Canadians. Insolent conduct of Father LeRu. Account of several explorations. Folio 315, 8 pages.

1701. Madrid. July 5. The King of Spain to the King of France. (Copy.) In consequence of what his Secretary of State has written in sending the account of the Sr. D'Iberville's establishment on the Mississippi, and his opinion as to what should be done for the mutual advantage of the two crowns, he has ordered that the question be submitted to his Ministers. Which has been done. After consideration, they submitted to him a statement of the ways and means to maintain these colonies. Hopes that after having examined them he will take the best steps in Spain's interest to which he gives his most particular attention. Folio 325, 2 pages.

1702. November —. Sequel to the Memorandum of M. Iberville respecting Florida. Spain must beware the weakness of her position in Florida. She has, we might say, only St. Augustine to support her, which is very little compared with the English who occupy the neighbourhood, have strong settlements and draw to themselves all the Indians through their trade. Let them capture St. Augustine and then with 50 or 60 brigantines they will be able to form a body of 6,000 Indian warriors who within 24 hours will be before Cuba. This event may be regarded as yet distant, but it will happen for the simple reason that it is possible and easy with the help they could obtain from the Bahamas and Jamaica. Whatever may be said against our enterprise at Mobile, it is in the interest of Spain even since it will serve to keep the English on this side. At the most, if this colony is developed as it should be, it will serve both as a support to our colonies of the West Indies, and at the same time permit us if need be, to ruin the English colonies or at least to relieve Canada and Acadia by forcing the English to divide their forces. Folio 327, 3½ pages.

1701. August 2. Remarks of the Minister on the subject of the memorandum and demands of M. D'Iberville respecting the Mississippi. Folio 331, 2 pages.

Memorandum from M. D'Iberville respecting the English colonies of North America, and the means of checking their attempts at extension. The population of these colonies consists of 60,000 families. England employs 600 vessels in her trade with her colonies of America, and those colonies employ as many vessels. They have until now been kept south of the mountain range starting from Carolina and extending towards the north-east of the continent, the English settlers will soon cross those mountains. Many do so already. Last year a good number left Carolina and Virginia to settle in Akansas, by way of the Wabash and Mississippi. Those who have settled near the Chicachas have supplied them with arms, and together they make raids unto the neighbouring nations, taking prisoners which they sell as slaves at the Islands, if they are adults, and in the adjoining colonies if they are not. Ordinarily they sell them for 3 to 400 livres. They claim that it is not most important to make sure of sea ports, considering that the coasts of the Gulf of Mexico are submerged, that the lands are sandy and dry, but of the interior where the lands are fertile; that it will be always time, when the interior is peopled, to secure of the coasts. In order to thwart those plans, it behoves us to settle permanently at the Mississippi, the Mobile and Illinois, whilst it is not yet too late. The Spaniards will do nothing in that sense, their efforts being made exclusively for the discovery and the working of mines, so that we must either enter into negotiations with them, or drop them altogether. Folio 333, 16 pages.

Remarks on South Carolina. Folio 349, 5 pages.

1702. On board La Renommée. January 1. Answer of M. D'Iberville to the governor of Pensacola. Has received the letter by which he is requested to stop the settlement he is founding by order of the King at the Mobile, and to supply him with a vessel so as 1702. to give notice thereof to the Viceroy of Mexico. Will willingly lend him a vessel if he provides a pilot, for he has none who knows the coast of Vera Cruz, but, as he has only a limited time for the projected works at Mobile, he cannot stop them. The King of France has nothing else in view in that settlement but the joint interest of the two crowns in opposing the efforts of the English to subjugate or destroy all the Indian nations of the interior who are friends or allies of France and Spain. The weakness of the Spanish settlements at those places would render this fate inevitable, for that reason the King of France is obliged to take steps to protect his interests. Is ready to take measures to act conjointly with him in order to foil the plans of the English. Folio 357, 3½ pages.

January 1. Letter from the Governor of Pensecola to M. D'Iberville. (In Spanish.)

M. D'Ibervile to the Minister. Desires to have a grant of land on the river of Mobile, erected as a county bearing his name. In the margin, by the Minister, "good, when it will be worth doing." Folio 363, ½ page.

On the articles of M. D'Iberville concerning the Mississippi and the Mobile, sent back by Monseigneur de Pontchartrain to M. de Champigny. There is no reason to believe that M. D'Iberville can accomplish his suggestion to draw together the Illinois and the Sioux of the lower Mississippi, and even if it were possible it should not be done, because Canada would thus be deprived to a large extent of its trade. It is not surprising that M. D'Iberville should propose Le Sueur for that mission, for that man has married his first cousin and he is one of the most zealous traders in the woods, a business he has carried on for the last 14 years, at first under the pretense of stopping the war between the Foxes and other nations, a mission repeated several times that has had no other result than to bring him many beavers, and secondly, under the pretense of discovering mines. MM. de Callières and de Champigny are convinced that that individual has never had other interest than trade. It is somewhat surprising to hear M. D'Iberville say that there are no more lands left for settlement in Canada; on the contrary, there are enough lands to settle whole monarchies, however, we cannot prevent Canadians from settling at the Mississippi, but it will be well to take measures to prevent them from trading en passant. If it were possible to restrict the Srs. Juchereau and Le Sueur to their tanneries and mines, probably they would give it up, so true is it that those establishments are nothing but pretenses. It would be more judicious to amnisty the coureurs de bois than to allow them to be received at the Mississippi. If guns were exchanged for beavers on the side of the Mississippi it would be the means of increasing the mass of beavers which are already too large, and it would be the ruin of Canada which is not in a condition to buy them. Folio 365, 5 pages.

March 31. Statement of expenses incurred by M. D'Iberville for merchandise and other things necessary to the settlement of the river of Mobile since the 1st January to the 31st March, 1702. Folio 371, 6 pages.

February 27. Proceedings respecting vin coulé (50 barrels). Folio 377, 1 page.

1703. Memorandum from M. D'Iberville to the Minister. Le West, intended for him, is too small a vessel. Cannot accept the favour tendered him to return this vessel on the condition of one fourth. The Srs. de Valesar and de Chateauguay are busy raising 2 companies of soldiers. Believes that the Sr. Le Sueur is able to fill the office of Lieutenant General of Justice at the Mississippi. Before making any advance near the Scioux, it should be agreed whether they would depend on Canada or on Louisiana. The views held about Canada on that subject are so at variance with his own that he does not believe that anything should be proposed now to those Indians by the way of the Mississippi, for it is intimated that they are not to listen to anything coming from the people of the lower Mississippi. There is so much prejudice in Canada against himself and those who are 1703. under him, that this is sufficient to render them open to suspicion. They have gone so far as to recommend the deputies to beware of him and not to see him. Requests him to demand a memorandum from MM. de Riverin and de Champigny in which they would expose their complaints concerning him, after which he would answer it. The insidious language held against him induces him to ask to be relieved from the command in chief of Louisiana, considering that the interests of his brothers and his Canadian friends suffer therefrom. Last year his brother de Maricourt, negotiated peace with the Iroquois. Meantime in spite of the high importance of this service, he is hardly mentioned in ordinary and private letters of the authorities. His brothers complain of the annoyances he causes them. Has received from Vera Cruz a letter from M. de Becancour whom he had sent there to get provisions for the Pensacola garrison and also for Mobile. He says that he is only allowed to bring oxen and rams, but no cows nor wethers. Folio 379, 8 pages.

Mobile. May 20. M. de la Salle to the same. Had informed him that he had sent a vessel to Vera Cruz, both to give notice that the fort of St. Augustine was besieged and that the Governor of that fort was asking help, to obtain provisions in exchange for those he had procured from that Governor. Everything is very dear in the ports of New Spain, and the fishing vessel has all it can do to provision the garrison pending the arrival of vessels from France. The English do all in their power to draw to them the nation of the Chicachas who are a terror to all the others. They hardly like to do it as they are already allied to the French. They often come to see us, but as we have nothing left to give them, they have ceased their visits, and it is to be feared that they will allow themselves to be seduced by the English. It is urgent to send merchandise by the next vessels. Folio 387, 10 pages.

1703. Paris. February 23. Father Goüye to the same. Father DuRu is determined to leave on the first vessel for the Mississippi. Hopes he will be satisfied with him. He is very intelligent, has much courage and is very virtuous, still he has a little temper which virtue will cure. The Bishop of Quebec is in Paris since 8 days. Believes that it is expedient to settle the question of vicariat as proposed by him, otherwise the position would be untenable. The conduct of the grand vicars at Illinois convinces him more than ever of the necessity of the grand vicariat, and of the division of the district without mixture of the several kinds of missionaries. If things cannot be settled so, Father DuRu is authorized to return to France with his brethren, or go to Canada or to the Islands, leaving the Mississippi to the first comer. Folio 397, 5 pages.

Paris. March 9. The same to the same. Thankful for having granted him all he has asked, but greatly fears that the disposition in which he found the Bishop of Quebec will prevent Father DuRu from leaving. He has declared to the latter and to Father de Lamberville, that he would never consent to the grand vicariat he had proposed, and that he would never take a Jesuit for his grand vicar, even though the court should grant a district where there would be no other missionaries than those of their Order. I paid him a visit last Monday; he repeated the same thing with several others it is useless to enumerate. Our Father Provincial, being informed of his sentiments, assembled, on Tuesday, what we call at home the Council of the Province. All the councillors were of the opinion that since M. de Kébec entertained those sentiments it was useless to think of the mission to the Mississippi, that an employment would be given to Father DuRu, that they would immediately recall Father Dongé, who was acting as Chaplain at Mobile where M. D'Iberville could have the Chaplain of the vessel on board of which M. de Bouteville was to return, that Father Dongé could remain at the Islands or at San Domingo, that Father de Limoges would go to the old missions of Canada. When I heard the result of the council,

I represented that I could do nothing in the case without your consent, they answered that was the intention of the Father Provincial and of the council. In consequence I pray you, Monseigneur, to find it good. M. de Kébec is still under the impression that we desire that settlement. You know how it happened that I had the honour to speak of it to you. He said to me that if we were not already at the Mississippi, we could impose what conditions we pleased, but once there, we were no longer masters. This reasoning is very consoling. The Father Provincial went to see him yesterday afternoon, with the view of making him listen to reason. Having failed in this, he informed him of the stand we were taking. I went there this morning, and obtained nothing. I insisted a little on this affair, because if Father Du Ru has to go it must be at the beginning of next week, and if he starts before obtaining from M. de Kebec what is absolutely necessary for the well-being of that mission, we shall never obtain anything from him, in which case we will be obliged for a thousand good reasons to abandon what has caused us much labour and expense to begin. I said to M. de Kebec, most respectfully but at the same time as strongly as possible, that since Louisiana and the lower Mississippi were in his diocese, thus covering more than eighteen hundred leagues from one end to the other, he should have been the first to congratulate and encourage us in taking care of a people with whose instruction and conversion he was charged; that he was the one to act at Court for that settlement; that he should even give us some of his revenues to enable us to work in a country for which he was responsible before God; that we had forewarned him that we asked nothing from him but the means of working in peace and usefully; that he knew the Jesuits to be very docile in the hands of their bishops; that by demanding the Mississippi we were not open to the same reproaches as were used so unjustly to our missionaries in India et China; that I would proclaim everywhere that he did not want us." At these words he got a little excited, even got angry absit verbo injuria. I was little short of getting angry too. We at once calmed down. He was pleased to embrace me and treat me with kindness. We recommenced talking very quietly, and, I dare say, very amicably: "So Monseigneur, you are unwilling to give the Jesuits a district in which they would work alone, without some other missionaries, either regular or secular coming in without an express order of the Court or without being called thereto in case of need by the said people for as long a time as these people will judge convenient to retain them" "This does not depend on me," he answered, "it belongs to the Court to give you this district, and I give my word that I will never send anybody there:—" "Will not Your Grace agree that that Jesuit who is the superior of others in this district be his grand vicar born, it being understood that when he is no longer agreeable to Your Grace, another one would be put in his stead, but in such a way that it would always be a Jesuit?" explained to him the reason why I demanded that grand vicariat— As for that, he said, never will I consent to it never will I grant it, never will I take a Jesuit for my grand vicar. Though I divest myself of my authority, I would preferr being ordered, but they will not order me. I will not enter into conflict with two bodies so considerable in the Church of God: that of the Foreign Missions and that of the Jesuits. I cannot create a grand vicariat attached to our order, and I do not wish to appoint a Jesuit grand vicar, even though there were none but Jesuits under him." I brought to bear many reasons and examples to show that he could and should do it, but these reasons did not seem to convince him, and they did not impress him. He fears the gentlemen of the Rue du Bac and still more those who protect them; he told me so too clearly to doubt it —"All I can do," he said, "is that when the Court has given you a district, and ordered that you will be the sole ones,

I will promise that I will not give authority over you to any gentleman of the Foreign Missions, but I will not put anything in writing." Seeing me smile." Do you doubt me," said he, also laughing. "Not much, monseigneur; an attorney wants deeds and fears the word which crosses the sea: the winds, the seas, the forests create great revolutions in wills as well as in bodies." But after that word, that I suppose inevitable(?) he will call a secular priest with the title of grand vicar, an Archdeacon, that is. — Be so good Monseigner, that we should keep to what the Father Provincial had the honour to say to you. M. de Kébec has wished that I should give you an account of our consultation and of the things which he is writing to bind himself, and which we do not care. I am really sorry because I know that we have that settlement at heart, and I am satisfied that a mission of our company, such as I had the honour to propose, would have been very useful for the salvation of the Indians and for the well-being of that young colony, but the way M. de Kébec takes it, who ill knows his own interests, it would be an everlasting cause of law-suits and disagreements for the missionaries and for me. I beg of you, Monseigneur, through your former kindness towards me, to accept the result of our Council. I will await your orders, unless you think proper that I should wait for them elsewhere, I am etc. Folio 397, 9 pages.

1701. Extracts from the proceedings of the war Council of the Indies and from the memoirs of M. de Pontchartrain and M. D'Iberville who brought it about. M. de Blécourt has transmitted to His Majesty the letter written by M. de Pontchartrain to the Duc d'Harcourt, together with a memoir and map drawn by M. D'Iberville concerning the Mississippi and the designs of the English. He holds that Pensacola or Ste. Marie de Galbe, is not situated so as to resist an attack nor to be the nucleus of a colony, that considering the sentiments of the French at Mobile and on the Mississippi, their relations of friendship and trade with the Indians of the interior, the Spaniards would do better to cede Pensacola to the French. The war junta to which the documents were submitted, are of opinion that Spain must keep Florida and fortify Pensacola. Reasons given. Folio 413, 32 pages.

1703. Plan of M. de la Touche to capture Charleston, the capital of Carolina. Folio 445, 2 pages.

1704. Fort Louis. September 6. M. de Bienville to the Minister. Endeavours to avenge French killed at the Alibamous. Narrative of his expedition for that purpose. All the young women who arrived on Le Pelican have married Canadians. That vessel brought the plague contracted at Havana. A fleet should be maintained to bring cattle from Havana, for ploughing the soil and supply fresh meat to the inhabitants. The English have brought goods to the Chicachas in order to counteract our influence over them. The Sr. de St. Denis, his qualifications. The influence he has over the Canadians and Indians. The Spaniards of Pensacola are very unfortunate with their settlements. Would have been obliged to abandon Pensacola if he had not come to their aid. The Apalaches have been completely destroyed by the English, 32 Spaniards were made prisoners, 17 of whom were to be burnt, including 3 Cordelier fathers, 6,000 or 7,000 Apalaches were made prisoners, and over 6,000 horned cattle were captured, etc. The Spaniards have retreated to St Augustine. Only 400 Apalaches are left, who have taken refuge on our river. The English intend coming back to lay siege to St. Augustine. Suggestions as to what should be done in the interest of the colony. Folio 449, 16 pages.

1704. Enumeration of everything, and state in which the colony of Louisiana is at present, according to the census made by the Sr. De la Salle, acting as Commissary of the Navy by order of the King. Folio 468, 3 pages.

1706. Fort Louis. September 7. M. De la Salle to the Minister. The vessel L'Aigle has brought the supplies intended for the colony, but seeing that on the one hand he has refunded to the Spaniards what he had borrowed from them, and on the other hand that M. de Bienville entertains the Canadians contrary to the orders of the Court, they will not last long. Complaints concerning the expedition of M. de Bienville to the Alibamous. Fort Louis is falling to pieces and should be rebuilt at Ile au Massacre. Asks a grant of land at the Rivière aux Chiens where he could establish his family, a thing which M. de Bienville refused to grant him. Is powerless to struggle to protect the King's interests, for he has against him M. D'Iberville's brothers who act as if all of them had the command. Divers complaints against MM. de Bienville and D'Iberville. Folio 472, 30 pages.

September 14. M. de Bienville to the Minister. The men are getting accustomed to Indian corn, but the women, who are mostly Parisians, scarcely eat any, which makes them grumble against the Bishop of Quebec who had given them to understand that they were coming to a country where provisions were abundant. 50 men from the upper Mississippi have come down to settle here. Report from 2 Canadians arrived from Missouri. Complaints against the curé of Mobile. Expedition of English and Indians against the Chactas. Pretensions of the governor of Pensacala. The Sr. de le Salle, his way of living. Folio 502, 11 pages.

July 28. The same to the same. Bad condition of the supplies brought by L'Aigle. The King will have to assign two vessels for the transport of supplies, otherwise there will always be famine. The Spaniards of Pensacola have fortified themselves well since their fire. Has sent all the Canadians who refused to settle at Mobile back to France. The inhabitants demand negroes to clear the land, and desire to exchange at the Iles the slaves sod to them by the Indians, on account of the many chances of running away; that is what the English do. All the Indians much prefer the French to the English, but for all that we must provide them with the necessaries. Has been unable to construct the fort promised to the Chicachas, though that fort is needed if we wish to maintain peace between them and the Chactas and keep away the English. Has made a bargain for the acquisition of a grist mill. Suffers from sciatic gout and pain in the chest, and asks leave of absence for one year, so as to go to France for treatment. The French Indian allies behave well. The Apalaches have refused to go home with the Spaniards, saying that the French treated their allies far better, and respected the Indian women. Complaints against the curé of Mobile. Among the 20 girls sent to Mobile there is one who is unwilling to marry. She should be compelled, for she has had good offers. The Foreign Missions must be reminded to send none but fathers of presence, because the Indians have little regard for those who are young and of weak appearance. Has given to his brother de Chateaugué, the command of the vessel bound for Very Cruz, in the stead of the Sr. de Becancour, deceased. Folio 514, 31 pages.

August 10. Extract from a letter from the Sr. de la Salle to M. Begons L'Allemand, one of the commissaries of the late M. D'Iberville, has taken passage on L'Aigle with 15,000 livres in piastres. This man has taken what he pleased from the King's stores without hindrance, and by the orders of M. de Bienville. Begs to have him apprehended on his arrival in France. Complaints against M. de Bienville. Le Traversier commanded by M. de Chateaugué, was wrecked at the entrance of the harbour. Folio 566, 3 pages.

1707. Father Granier, a Jesuit, to the Minister. On the advantages of the country and its future. Folio 570, 11 pages.

1706. Divers extracts relating to Father Granier, to the Sr. de la Vente, curé of Mobile, and to M. de Bienville. Folio 582, 7 pages.

1706. Copy of a letter from the Jesuit father, missionary at Cascakias to the Jesuits of Canada. Relates incidents of the attack on Father Granier by an Illinois Indian, his wounds, his sufferings and his voyage to Mobile to undergo treatment by a surgeon. Folio 592, 4 pages.

Vol. 2.

Unsigned memorandum on the advantages France would derive from the possession of Baie du St. Esprit. Twenty-five years ago the Spaniards had projected a settlement there. It would be easy to attract there the French settled in the Carolina. The Indians of these regions have a deep hatred for the Spaniards and a liking for the French. The inhabitants of Vera Cruz fear that the French will take hold of that bay, for they know its advantages. The Spaniards, it is true, are powerful and look upon us as enemies, but the weakness and corruption of the rulers render that undertaking easy, for the governors begin by putting all their goods in their offices and they cannot resist the temptation of the traders who offer them presents. MM. de Beaujeu and de la Salle have made a mistake in their sailing and have missed the Mississippi channel, because they have not reckoned enough with the latitude. The Spaniards have already passed through that channel with their galleys. Has obtained this information from a merchant of Constance named François Encognard, who has made several trips with the Spaniards to Peru and Mexico. He is angry against the Spaniards who have deprived him of a large sum of money under divers pretenses. He is a brother to M. Moissionnier, a captain in the Dauphin regiment. Folio 1, 3 pages.

1699. Unsigned memorandum, giving the King an account of the discovery of the Mississippi. It was in 1684 that M. de la Salle, who had visited the greater part of North America, brought to M. de Seignelay the relation of the discovery of the Mississippi. M. de Seignelay, having apprised the King of that discovery, a man-of-war commanded by M. de Beaujeu, and a storeship, were sent there in 1684. M. de la Salle took passage with M. de Beaujeu, accompanied by the people he had engaged and who were to settle in that country with him. Narrative of that expedition and of the death of M. de la Salle. The survivors turned their steps towards Canada and arrived at Lake Frontenac in July 1688, having been 15 months on the march. The war which broke out in Europe prevented this discovery from being utilised. The war over, a company was formed in London for the purpose of forming a settlement at the Mississippi, composed of French

Protestants who had taken refuge in England, in Holland and in Germany. To frustrate that project, an expedition was organized composed of 2 frigates under the command of M. D'Iberville. On being informed that the English were about to sail with superior forces the King ordered M. le Marquis de Chateaumorand who was going to San Domingo with the vessel Le François to convoy them as far as the coast of Florida. They left San Domingo all together, and reached the Florida coast where they found the Spaniards in possession since the preceding month of October in the Bay of Pensacola. M. de Chateaumorand being no longer of use to M. D'Iberville, the latter proceeded alone to the mouth of the Mississippi and Manilla, at a place called Biloxi. Narrative of the voyage of M. D'Iberville for 100 leagues up the Mississippi. The Indians below the Mississippi call that river Malbauthia. The Indians know the Canadians, and one of them wore a dress of Poitou cloth that M. de Tonty had given him. They had a letter from M. de Tonty for the Sr. de la Salle which had been delivered to them 13 years before. M. D'Iberville before leaving for France, constructed a fort at Biloxi, and appointed M. de Sannolle, governor of the fort, M. de Bienville King's lieutenant, and the Sr. Levasseur, a Canadian major. The question is, are we to abandon that settlement, or develop it. Reasons for and against. It were well to discuss that matter with M. D'Iberville. Folio 11, 19 pages.

JOURNAL of my campaign on the "Formidable," commanded by Monsieur Dubois de la Mothe, Lieutenant General in 1757.

We came to anchor to-day, Thursday April 21st 1757 at 4 P.M. with a W.N.W. wind, rather fresh. M. Dachée, in command of the Zodiaque and the Indian expedition, was anchored there, also the squadron of M. d'Aubigny, composed of the following vessels: Le duc de Bourgogne, M. d'Aubigny ; Le Héros, M. Dechateloger : Le Glorieux, M. de Chavagnac ; Le Dauphin Royal, M. Durtebie ; Le Bizarre, M. de Montalis ; Le Superbe, M. de Choiseul ; Le Belliqueux, M. d'Orvil ier ; Le Célèbre, M. de la Jonquière ; the frigates La Fleur-de-Lys, M. de Tourville ; L'Hermione, M. Dubos. M. Dubois de la Mothe assumed no particular command on this squadron and only hoisted a simple pennant on his own vessel.

Friday, 29th.....

Tuesday, May 3rd.—Light wind E.N.E. We weighed anchor and heaved short at noon. M. Dubois de la Mothe flew a pennant of order and declared himself in command of the squadron of M. d'Aubigny ; he signalled all the vessels and gave the necessary orders for the campaign ; at one o'clock we all hoisted sail, there being very little wind ; at 3.30, when abreast of Berthaume, we lay to and drew aboard our boats ; at 5 o'clock the squadron composed of 9 ships of the line, 2 frigates, set sail ; 2 merchantmen, one of which carries troops to Canada and the other goes to the fisheries at Newfoundland, asked permission to follow us. About half past six we saw 11 vessels to the N.W. They did not all seem to be following the same route, we took them for neutrals, many of them appearing to have only one mast.

Wednesday, 4.....

Monday, 20th June.—Weather calm until 4 o'clock when the wind freshened from the S.W. ; steered S.E. and noticed Gunflint Island N.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. by the compass, and the Eastern extremity of Scatarry Island S.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. $2\frac{1}{2}$ leagues distant ; we were carried south by currents during the night ; at 7.30 o'clock, took the larboard tack ; the two vessels of last evening were running on the starboard ; they seemed to be large ones ; the wind is fresher ; we sail west ; at 11 o'clock Portenove and Louisbourg were seen from the mast-head ; we were making good speed ; when we arrived about $\frac{1}{2}$ a league from the town we came around W. $\frac{1}{4}$ N.W. and then W.N.W. By 3 o'clock we anchored in the roadstead of Louisbourg near the entrance of the channel, the winds being too strong to allow us go to further in. As the sky was becoming overcast, the ships entered in a great hurry without accident. A fog came down suddenly and prevented Le Glorieux from getting in ; it was not more than half a league off. We found in the roadstead the squadron of M. de Beaufremont coming from San Domingo composed of the following vessels : Le Tonnant, commanded by M. le chevalier de Beaufremont, commander of the squadron ; Le Défenseur, Mr. de Blénac, Vice Admiral ; Le Diadème, M. de Rosilly, captain ; L'Eveillé, M. de Merville, captain ; L'Inflexible, M. de St. Laurent de Sartres, captain ; La Brume, a frigate, M. de la Prévalaye, captain. This squadron had arrived on the 31st of May ; there were also 3 vessels from Toulon that had arrived yesterday, L'Hector, commanded by M. du Reveste, captain ; L'Achille, M.

de Pamot, captain ; Le Sage, M. Dabon, captain ; Le Vaillant, commanded by M. de Saurim, captain, which formed part of that squadron, were separated from it just before its arrival ; it is likely that it was that ship we saw outside with the frigate L'Abénaqué, commanded by M. de Macarty, which had been sent to meet this vessel ; there was also in that harbour the frigate, La Comète, M. de Brugnon, captain ; the King's transport La Fortune and two merchant ships bound for Quebec. We had hoisted the flag of vice-admiral before entering, and when we cast anchor M. de Beaufremont hoisted that of lieutenant general. M. de Blénac and M. d'Aubigny hoisted their pennants ; we towed ourselves in three or four cable lengths to pass the night, and then moored across with two anchor cables.

Tuesday 21st.—We towed ourselves further in, and dropped the port anchor to the south west in a depth of ten fathoms ; bottom muddy, the great cable to N. E., in 10 fathoms, muddy bottom ; we have backed the anchor to S. W. The main cable was N. E., causing us to face the S. E. winds which are the most to be feared. All day long we had a very thick fog ; Le Glorieux was not far off, we often heard cannon shots ; took the bearing of the flag staff of the Royal Battery, north west ; the light house tower 4 degrees north, the parish church S. W.

Wednesday 22nd.—Winds from the S. W. fair enough. Le Glorieux anchored at 2.30 ; we were 17 ships, 2 frigates and one transport in the large harbour, it is true that we were in pretty close quarters ; La Comète was alone the only one at the careening place ; orders were given Le Sage and Le Belliqueux to enter.

Saturday 25th.—Le Vaillant and L'Abénaqui and L'Hermione came in the morning, so that now the number is complete if intended to serve under M. Dubois de la Mothe ; on all the vessels efforts were made to put the sick ashore and place them in houses outside the town, these being numerous enough for a considerable number of invalids.

Wednesday 29th.—La Comète left this morning with a wind 4 N. to cruise in the direction of Canceau.

Saturday July 2nd.—Le Bizarre, Le Célèbre, the transport La Fortune, and three merchant ships, left this morning with a N. W. wind, which afterwards shifted to S.W. to transport to Quebec the two battalions of the Berry Regiment which had arrived here on the squadron of M. Dubois de la Mothe.

Tuesday 5th.—S. W. wind, this afternoon there left here 4 vessels, 2 small privateers of 10 cannons, one vessel for France and one for St. Domingo.

Wednesday 6th.—One schooner left for France ; wind S. W. ; 2 Indians and one Acadian, who had been sent by M. de Beaufremont to Halifax to ascertain what was going on there, returned to-day with a young Englishman captured by them in the woods near the town. The Acadian, a man of good sense, reports that he saw in the harbour two 50 gun ships, one of them L'Arc-en-ciel, and also two frigates of 20 guns each ; the young Englishman seemed to speak strait forwardly, saying he wished to take service with us, and he declared that preparations were being made at Halifax for the siege of Louisbourg, that all the garrison were making fascines and gabions, that a convoy of 14 vessels had left a few days before, being, he says, King's ships, but they can only be small ones, to go to Boston and take 2,000 militiamen with General Loudon in command of all the troops in that region, and that they had a conference with Hopson who is in charge of the expedition ; he says they were daily expecting the arrival of the convoy from old England ; that a frigate which arrived recently reported having left it 150 leagues at sea ; that the convoy in question was composed of 14 men of war and 70 transports ; this deposition tallies with many things of which we already had an idea, which leads us to regard it as truthful. On the 1st July, as the Acadian and the 2 Indians were on their way back, and at a distance of 3 or 4 leagues from Halifax, they heard many reports of cannon ; salutes were being fired by way of rejoicing, from which they and also the prisoner, infer that it was on account of the arrival of the squadron.

Thursday 7th.—La Fleur-de-lys, left this morning to cruise around North Cape ; with her, left a small vessel which she is to escort to Port Dauphin ; the winds were changeable, from W. to S., saw a vessel during the afternoon ; it was not acting at all suspiciously and may have been one that did not know the coast.

Sunday 10th.—La Favorite, from Granville, dropped anchor this morning in this roadstead, laden with 10 days, provisions for 8 vessels of the squadron; she had left Rochefort on the 20th of May with 2 other ships carrying supplies for the squadron, and 11 for Canada. There were on board that vessel some provisions for the colony. La Comète, returned this evening without having seen anything during her cruise, it was she that came in sight on the evening of the 7th, she spoke a dogger coming from France which was not able to enter with her. Wind S. W.

Monday 11th.—The dogger which was visible yesterday is at anchor this morning; she had left Rochefort on the 6th of April with 600 barrels of flour and other supplies for the colony; there were 3 vessels with similar cargoes, we have no news of the 2 others. Wind S. W.

Tuesday 12th.—We raised our two anchors to take a position more north; there would be two ships of us to fight the channel in case the English made their appearance; we anchored mooring across N. E., S. E. and S. W. 5 W; the first anchor in 10 fathoms, $\frac{1}{4}$ the second in 11; sand and mud; took the bearing of the light house tower, E$\frac{1}{4}$ S. E. 5 S.; the parish Church; S. W. and 2 S.; wind S. W. A vessel left for La Rochelle; saw a ship this evening, manoeuvring as if trying to reconnoitre the land.

Wednesday 13th.—At 8.30 Le Phaéton, from La Rochelle anchored in the roadstead; she had left Rochefort with La Favorite the 20th May, with 19 days' supplies for 8 vessels, and provisions for the colony; it was she we saw last evening; wind S.W.

Friday 15th.—La Fleur-de-lys returned this morning; she saw nothing during her cruise; winds were S. W. all day. Saw a laden vessel at sunset.

Saturday 16th.—Wind continues S. W.; news received from Port Toulouse that on the 14th, 14 vessels came in sight which hugged the shore as closely as possible, probably a section of the fleet of Holbourne; they were judged to be men of war.

Wednesday 20th.—Five French prisoners who had escaped from Plaisance arrived here; they told us there was a 40 gun frigate in harbour there and very few people in the place; a vessel had arrived there from England recently and reported having sailed most of the way in company with Holbourne's fleet, which, he said, is composed of 17 men of war, 2 fire-ships and 2 galiots, making for Halifax, and destined later to attack Louisbourg; we are advised from Ste Anne's Bay that a vessel from St. Malo with a cargo of supplies, had put into port, and that it was blockaded there by 2 small privateers. Wind S. W. Weather very foggy.

Friday 22nd.—Wind still from S. W. By noon the weather cleared; the fog had lasted from the 16th, making it impossible to see half a league away, even when it was lightest, and these comparatively clear spells never lasted more than 24 or 30 hours. La Brume and La Comète are setting sail to look for the vessel blockaded at Ste Anne. A ship was seen out at sea steering for here; I think she was afraid of the frigates; she anchored near La Baleine. News came from Port Toulouse that a deserter from Halifax had arrived there who reported that up to the 4th of July, Holbourne's squadron had not yet come in.

Sunday 24th. Wind S.W. A ship arrived from St. Jean bringing oxen; she also brought back the Halifax deserter; he had escaped on the 23rd June and not the 4th July; he told us nothing more than had the prisoner taken by the Indians.

Thursday 28th.—Wind from the S.W. ever since the 24th and a great deal of fog. At day-break the weather cleared and the wind shifted to the north. La Brume and La Comète with the St. Malo ship which they went to look after at Ste Anne anchored this morning; a Bordeaux vessel which had been seen on the 22nd and which had afterwards anchored at La Baleine also came in; in the afternoon the wind shifted again to S.W.; since our arrival here we have not had any other wind three times for 24 hours together. Noticed a vessel out at sea shaping her course towards the entrance.

Friday 29th. A vessel from La Rochelle came in this morning with supplies and recruits for the colony. Wind S.W. the whole day.

Wednesday, 3rd August.—A band of ten or twelve Indians arrived to-day from the vicinity of Halifax; on the 27th of last month they attacked some men outside of Fort Laurens; this fort is 4 leagues from Halifax, at the inner end of the Bay, they made 4 prisoners, killed one and brought us 3. These three men could not say anything positive concerning the designs of the English ; they were New England militiamen and had only arrived a short time before ; they said that a good many ships of Holbourne's fleet were not yet in port, that the fleet comprised 17 men of war, that there were two in the harbour that did not belong to the fleet, which agrees with the information received by us from several quarters. These prisoners allege that the fleet can land more than 15,000 landing troops ; two of them said that efforts were being made to prepare for coming here this year, the other stated that the siege had been postponed till next year. Wind S.W. without change since the 29th.

Friday 5th.—Yesterday the wind was S.W.; the whole of to-day it has been N.N.W. and N.W. and pretty fresh ; in the evening it fell off and afterwards went round again to the South ; this afternoon a snow came into port from Quebec in ballast ; it saw Le Bizarre and all its convoy at Isle aux Coudres where it had been at anchor since the 23rd July ; this snow met nothing except two trading ships entering the St. Lawrence.

Saturday 6th.—Wind W. S.W., pretty fresh. The schooner on guard at the channel was lost on Pointe au Fanal by not coming round. This afternoon the wind fell off and went round to the N.W.

Sunday 7th.—Wind variable all morning ; by 10.30 it was blowing pretty fresh from the S.W. ; Gauthier, the Acadian, and 4 Indians arrived this afternoon from Halifax (the Acadian is the one who brought us the prisoner on the 6th of last month) and a Dutchman captured by him $\frac{3}{4}$ of a league from Halifax, trying to escape in a small boat. The Dutchman told us that the English were working hard to prepare their army for coming here, that the expedition was composed of 14 men of war, 6 frigates, two galiots carrying bombs and 16,000 landing troops. The Dutchman was lately at Halifax having come from Antigua, from which place 3 English men of war had arrived to increase the fleet. Gauthier told us the same things about the English forces ; he saw the squadron during several days, but the precautions of the English were such that he had no chance to make a prisoner ; it was on the 22nd July that he met the Dutchman who followed him with pleasure. Gauthier reports that he saw a three-decker and that they were dismasting L'Arc-en-ciel ; he spent a night near a guard in the bush, whom he heard talking a great deal about the siege of Louisbourg ; a battalion of 600 men in 12 companies has been formed from the marines together with a corps of 230 volunteers, in 4 companies, taken from the assistant pilots and pilots' apprentices ; they were landed at Rochefort Point for inspection ; this troop, under two post-captains, will defend the landing of the three creeks at Gautier and of the Grand Laurenbec, which M. Dubois de la Mothe has caused to be entrenched and furnished with two pieces of ordnance at each landing. A merchant ship left for St. Domingo.

Tuesday 9th.—The wind yesterday and to-day was S.W. ; this afternoon two Acadians and two Frenchmen arrived, who had escaped from Halifax on the of last month. They reported that the English were embarking troops and making all preparations to come here ; they said that they have from 15 to 16,000 landing troops, and that they have only 16 ships, one of which cannot come because she has been dismantled, 5 frigates, two galiots and two fire-ships. The 4 men told us that the crews on their vessels were small and that a good deal of bad feeling prevailed amongst the soldiers and seamen. The officers are trying to make them believe that the expedition will not last fifteen days. Many desertions, he says, are taking place ; the English flagship is a three-decker ; they have 5 ships of 74 guns each ; the rest carry 64 and 60. Our soldiers and the volunteers went this morning to camp at their destination.

Monday 15th.—A boat left here for Brest on the 11th. The wind was S.W. from the 9th until last evening, when it changed during the night and blew pretty free from N. E. In the evening it shifted E. S. E., and at 10 o'clock to S.W. A prize was brought in, one of 110 tons made by a privateer of this place ; and an English soldier arrived here who had deserted from Halifax about 3 weeks ago ; he told us just what we had learnt before ; the troops, he said, were to embark the day after his departure.

Wednesday 17th.—The wind has continued S.W. these two last days. An English prize, with a cargo of cod, taken by a privateer from Louisbourg on the Great Bank, was brought in yesterday ; to-day one of the privateers that sailed on the 5th July dropped anchor in this roadstead ; during its cruise it made three prizes of which two are not yet in.

Friday 19th.—The wind continues S. W. and quite fresh. About 2 p.m. couriers arrived from the southern part of the Island to give us notice that many vessels had been seen along the coast ; one hour later from the mastheads several were discovered sailing to the E. and N.E. By 6.30 we counted 20 of them ; they were manœuvring to keep to the windward of Gabarus.

Saturday 20th.—Wind S.W. pretty stiff. At day-break we saw the English squadron running before the wind. At about 8 o'clock, the leading vessels lay to, a little to the windward of Rochefort Point ; the whole of the squadron assembled and lay to ; it looked to me as composed of 15 large vessels, one of which had three decks and several of 70 guns ; only two seemed to be small vessels of 60 guns ; there were also 4 frigates, one of two tiers of guns, and the 3 others carrying 20 to 30 cannon, also a dogger that might be a bomb-ketch, making 20 in all. The flag-ship carried a blue flag at the mizzen, another one carried a blue flag at the fore, and a third one had a kind of red broad pennant at the main mast. They were not more than a league and a half from the land. At about 9.30 the sky having become cloudy with the likelihood of fog, they set sail to the S.E. and appeared to form three columns ; soon after the fog hid them from us ; the fog continued all the day, in the evening we heard several reports of cannon.

Monday 22nd.—The wind was variable all day yesterday with continual and heavy fog ; towards the evening the wind shifted N.W. and blew pretty strong from that quarter ; this morning it went round to the N. and N.E. and in the evening to the East. In the afternoon a prize from Jamaica was brought in, made by one of the privateers of Louisbourg, who knew nothing about the proximity of the English ; he said that it was he who fired the guns which we heard from the roads last evening.

Saturday 27th.—On the 23rd, 24th, 25th the wind kept shifting from W.N.W. to N. ; fine weather ; yesterday the wind went N.E In the morning two English prizes came in, that had been tacking for several days, one laden with tobacco, the other with grain bound from Philadelphia to England. Both were captured by the privateers from here ; the wind has been N.E. and E.N.E. the whole day, pretty fresh with fog. The troops and pilots' apprentices who were encamped at Gautier Creek, re-embarked to-day.

Wednesday 31st.—Wind changeable since the 27th, W.N.W. to N. fairly fresh, without fog. On the 29th a privateer left to go to the gulf to ascertain whether any vessel had passed in. A ship arrived from Canada on the 30th, bringing news of the reduction of Fort George, and to-day the privateer sent to reconnoitre came back ; it had spoken the vessel from Canada which arrived yesterday ; it reported that it had seen nothing in the gulf and the St. Lawrence but French merchant ships.

Sunday, 4th September.—On the 1st, the wind was S. W. on the 2nd and 3rd, N. W. and N., quite fresh. To-day it has been N. and N. E., with much rain. This evening a prize was brought in, made by one of the Louisbourg privateers ; it had a cargo of tobacco from Virginia.

Thursday 8th.—Wind W. N. W. At 5 o'clock this evening two privateers put out. On the 6th the wind changed and by the evening was S. W. A Louisbourg privateer that had left on the 2nd of July returned to-day ; it was chased off Canceaux by a brigantine ; a fishing schooner taken by the privateer came in yesterday. To-day the wind has been from N. to N. E. On the 6th and 7th we saw a schooner which we suspect to be a scout, she appeared to change her track at the entrance, keeping the wind and went away after making observations.

Monday 12th.—On the 9th the wind was from N. to N. E. Very fine weather ; on the 10th it was S. W., also very fine ; on the 11th N. E., in the morning, during the afternoon E. S. E. ; in the evening there was a dead calm, to-day the same ; at 2.30 we had a light breeze La Brume and La Comète set out to escort 5 schooners or bateaux laden with supplies to Ile St. Jean.

Thursday 15th.—On the 13th the wind was S. W. and S. S. W. the whole day. We saw the two frigates during the afternoon. Strong wind during the night. On the 14th wind S. W.; every day pretty fresh. Our frigates came as far as the entrance conducting two of their schooners which had been damaged during the night. To-day the wind being N. E. and pretty fresh, the vessel sent by M. Dubois de la Mothe on the 5th of July to France arrived; it had touched yesterday at Menadon from which place a number of packets were sent to our generals. This vessel arrived at Brest on the 22nd of July and left there on the 8th of August; this afternoon a snow from La Rochelle came in with a cargo of supplies for the squadron; five of them had left together on the 27th of June.

Friday 16th.—Wind S. W., very cold. At 11.30, we saw the English squadron coming from a southwesterly direction, wind abaft, one man of war and a frigate sailed along the coast at the distance of a cannon shot as far as the island. We fired 7 or 8 shots at them from different batteries; these two ships put their helms hard to starboard; the main body of the squadron sailing with the wind did not come nearer than two leagues or 2½ leagues with the wind and then kept as close to the wind as they could; we saw 23 or 24 of them including a schooner, but as the horizon was thick their forces could not be clearly distinguished.

Monday 19th.—On the 17th the wind was fresh from N. W. the 18th from N. W. to N. N. W.; less wind to-day, but it blew pretty fresh from S. W. A small vessel came in carrying supplies for the squadron, it is one of the 5 which sailed on the 27th of June; this vessel met 18 ships 8 leagues south from here, but could not make out their strength having only seen them from a great distance; two detatched themselves from the main body and gave chase as far as the entrance to the harbour.

Tuesday 20th.—Wind S. W. At sunset we saw the English squadron, but only from the mastheads; from the land 22 were counted. They were to the S. W. more than 3 leagues distant; they went off on the starboard tack.

Wednesday 21st.—Calm weather the whole day. During the evening a vessel was seen in the S.W., which we thought was trying to come in.

Thursday 22nd.—Wind from E. to E.S.E., light during the day; last evening the Acadian, Gautier, and 4 Indians who had left on the 1st of the month for Halifax, returned. Gautier reports that only one man of war remains in the harbour, dismasted of its foremast and far fewer transports than before, when he and his Indians were there, which was shortly after the arrival of the fleet. He said he saw a great number of troops encamped outside the town and observed from the heights surrounding the place that they were building barracks inside the town which would accommodate a large body of troops. The object of the party was to capture prisoners, but they did not succeed in doing so; they only killed two men whom they scalped. Saw to-day the vessel, noticed yesterday, in the neighbourhood of Gabarus, she made a long tack to the N.E., which caused us to believe she was trying to come in.

Friday 23rd.—Wind from E.S.E. to S.E., pretty fresh with heavy sea; weather very cloudy. The vessel noticed during the last few days was seen again, we recognized her positively this morning as an English ship of 60 or 70 guns; she made a stretch to N.E., under a considerable spread of canvas, notwithstanding that it was blowing hard; not being able to double Scatary on that tack she went about. This vessel was in a bad position if the wind had increased; its manoeuvres during the last 3 days make me think that they had landed somebody whom they wished to take on board again, she would not have risked running so close in shore without urgent reason. This evening they lowered the top-masts and dropped the sheet anchor.

Saturday 24th.—The wind continued E., during the day, strong wind and very heavy sea. Weather very cloudy; in the evening the wind increased in violence.

Sunday the 25th.—Wind was blowing very hard from E. to E. ¼E., and constantly increasing. By 3 o'clock it was furious with an awful sea. Le Dauphin Royal dragged anchor and struck Le Tonnant which in trying to get away came very close to us, and forced us to pay out the cable of our own anchor to the north-east. Le Tonnant had her bow-sprit carried away by the stern of Le Dauphin. The two vessels were then lashed together, side by side, and so they remained 6 or 7 hours drifting from time to time and obliging us to pay out the cable of our N.E. anchor. We sustained the brunt of the blast, the anchor being of no use. We approached very near the coast having come to the blade of the S.W. anchor, which with a small cable anchor to the S.E. were the only ones that held. We had only 29 feet of water ; about 11 o'clock one of the cables of Le Tonnant broke, and she got separated from Le Dauphin ; we saw her drifting away to the shoal where she grounded ; they cut away her mizen-mast ; the wind blew from 3 o'clock until 11 o'clock almost without cessation and with equal violence from E. to E.S.E. ; during a squall it shifted to the S.E. and went round finally to S.W. not long after, which saved our 3 vessels. Le Tonnant which only touched lightly once or twice managed to get off ; soon after the wind abated and the sea became less heavy ; at 2.30 some boats came along and we set to work to get away from where we were ; boats were sent those most in need of them ; of the 5 vessels that were opposite the entrance none remained ; 3 of us had been in the greatest danger ; L'Hector and Le Héros had been in equal straits ; the first one grounded several times, and the second had lost two cables ; in a word the wind was so violent that if it had lasted two hours longer, perhaps not one of the King's vessels would have been saved ; seven of them were in evident danger ; L'Abénaqui went aground on a shoal through the snapping of a cable. All the merchant ships and schooners with one or two exceptions, went ashore. The oldest inhabitants have no recollections of so furious a wind or of one of equal duration, coming moreover from a direction which produced a frightful sea. Some men belonging to merchant ships were drowned. Our ships of war lost a few men drowned from the boats that were driven ashore. Le Tonnant suffered much through grounding ; she has a leak near her stern post through which she takes more than 20 inches of water per hour. It is hoped that L'Abénaqui can be saved. The wind blew from S.W. all the afternoon and in the evening pretty fresh, but there was no sea. We have secured ourselves as well as we can for the night. Boats are missing from most of the vessels.

Monday 26th—The wind has been S.W. to W.S.W., but very light. All the vessels were busy making themselves fast again ; there was not one of them that had kept its place. Many had lost their cables by snapping or fraying ; the operation of making these vessels secure took a long time.

Tuesday, 27th. Hardly any wind this morning, and it shifted all round the compass during the afternoon ; it settled W.S.W. and nearly died down. Le Tonnant has been sent to the careening place for repairs ; an attempt was also made, but unsuccessfully as yet, to float L'Abénaqui. Le Superbe is gone to the careening place, not on account of damage but for greater safety.

A vessel arrived this morning from Port Toulouse and reported that yesterday they saw two vessels dismasted. This afternoon a boat from Canceau reports having found a vessel with two tiers of guns aground at St. Esprit, and that they recognized her as English ; they went near to offer help but seeing it was not French they did not care to expose their boat to the risk of capture or of being sunk by taking too many people on board. The prow of the vessel was all that could be seen, on it there were more than 100 men, they saw a good many who had escaped to the shore. 150 soldiers were despatched from Louisbourg to take them prisoners.

Wednesday 28th.—Wind S. W. all day pretty fresh. This morning a boat arrived from the vicinity of St. Esprit having on board the 1st lieutenant of the man of war, the Tilbury 58 guns, lost on that coast on Sunday. He came to ask for help for about 200 men who had escaped from the wreck ; the prisoner and the men who brought him here testify that they saw some other wrecked vessels and many dismasted ; a Council was held this afternoon to decide whether we should go in search of the disabled vessels, which the winds we have had cannot have carried far from land ; the hope of saving Le Tonnant by giving it all the assistance the squadron can afford, prevailed ; and only La Fleur-de-lys was ordered to set out for Canceaux.

Thursday 29th—No wind this morning ; this afternoon it freshened up a little from W. N. W. La Fleur-de-lys got under sail. Le Superbe is through careening.

Friday 30th.—Wind all day W. N. W. just a light breeze. La Fleur-de-lys is anchored this morning outside the roadstead ; she captured yesterday, abreast of the Guion Islands, an English snow the Prince of Wales, 14 guns belonging to the King, and commanded by a man carrying the King's commission. This vessel took La Fleur- de-lys for an English vessel and went within range; we judge, that she was detailed from Halifax to carry dispatches to Holbourne; she had been gone only 30 hours, the captain says he was on his way to protect the fishing on the Great Bank, he did not fire a single shot before surrendering; he says he met nothing on his way.

Saturday 1st October.—La Fleur-de-lys and her prize came in this morning; to-day we had a Council of War to decide what to do with Le Tonnant, and it was agreed unanimously to keel her over upon two merchant ships that have been impressed for the purpose, and to leave her crew; also to leave L'Abénaqui here as we are assured that she will float at the first high tide; the Council also fixed the departure of the squadron for the 8th instant. The wind varied every day from W. N. W. to S. W. Two merchant ships left for St. Domingo; along the south coast the debris of vessels have been found, from which it is believed that two others have been lost.

Sunday 2nd.—Wind has been variable from S.W., to W., gentle breezes.

Monday 3rd.—It has been almost calm all day, any little freshness came from S. W. There was continuous and very thick fog.

Tuesday 4th.—Gentle wind from S. W.; fog very thick until 4.30 p.m. when the weather cleared a little. We saw a small vessel to S.W. pretty close, but owing to the fog it could not be recognized. The fog these two days has been exceptional; it is not usual, after June and July, to see it so dense and of such duration. We have only had it once or twice since then, after having had it almost continually during those two months.

Wednesday 5th.—Gentle breezes from S.W. and S. S.W., fog in the morning; by 10 o'clock the weather cleared; we discovered La Brume and La Comète. These two frigates anchored in the roadstead at noon; they come from Ile St. Jean nothing interesting happened to them since they left here. They felt the gale of the 24th September, but it does not seem to have been so severe with them as with us; an extraordinary thing in connection with that gale is that it was not felt at Port Dauphin, only 12 or 15 leagues from Louisbourg; the vessel seen yesterday did not come to the entrance during the day, from which we infer that she was English; during the evening a small vessel was seen at the Guion Islands which might be the same, it must therefore be a scout in search of the squadron. Yesterday and to-day there arrived a number of prisoners from the Tilbury; 280 men in all were saved; debris are being found continually on the coast; according to the information we possess 3 large vessels and one frigate are lost between St. Esprit and here. The English officers say that on Saturday evening they numbered 8 vessels all assembled at the Cape; it is difficult to believe that the greater part of them were not lost.

Thursday 6th.—Light breeze from S.W., weather clear. This afternoon one of the privateers of the town arrived. She had with it a prize from Boston; she had also captured 2 other vessels, one loaded with supplies, and met on Tuesday the 4th, a coaster going from Mirligueche to Halifax; she put a prize crew on board in sight of seven men of war and two frigates then entering the port. The privateer declares that the vessels which she saw are much shattered; two were seen without top masts, one with the main mast badly disabled; the privateer was chased by the frigates, but only for a short time.

Friday 7th.—Wind S.W.; in the morning almost a calm, but a good breeze in the afternoon, weather clear, a vessel seen in the evening; blew from the N.W. during the night but in squalls and after that it came round to S.W. again.

Saturday 8th.—Wind S.W. clear, fine, all day. They tried this morning to lay Le Tonnant over on her side, the apparatus employed was not strong enough, it has to be made over again; this evening a prize made by a Louisbourg privateer was brought in, one of about 90 tons taken with supplies; she is not that of the privateer that returned on the 6th. This vessel was chased by a schooner up to Gabarus.

Sunday 9th.—The wind was S.W. in the morning, and went round to N.W. in the evening, then to N.E.; fine weather.

Monday 10th.—Wind E. all the morning, a little fresh; at 9 o'clock 3 vessels were seen, one N.E., one E. and one S.W.; the first was L'Apollon laden with supplies for the squadron; she had left Brest on the 1st September. The second a packet-boat from Quebec carrying prisoners to Halifax, the 3rd is, I think, a cruiser which we have seen several times. The weather was quite clear in the morning; by 2.30 the wind shifted S.W. and all at once a very thick fog came up. L'Apollon was forced to anchor in the channel. Le Tonnant was laid on her side this afternoon; it is calculated that the damage on one side will be repaired within 24 hours, and on the other in less time.

Tuesday 11th.—Wind S. W. nice, fresh breeze; continuation of thick fog; weather cleared somewhat at 11 o'clock. Two vessels were seen, one seemed to be trying to come in, the other is the cruiser that has been making her appearance lately. At 1.30 the fog returned as thick as ever.

Wednesday 12th.—Wind S. W. pretty fresh, thick fog almost all the time. In the morning, during a brief lifting of the fog a small English privateer of 6 guns, came in, which had been taken in the Gulf by Le Bizarre and Le Célèbre, who are to join us here. This little vessel is one of those we saw yesterday, she was chased by the other vessel.

Thursday 13th.—Wind variable all day, weather clear. This morning there came in a prize made by one of the Louisbourg privateers; she was carrying supplies, there also arrived, a packet-boat from Quebec for Halifax having a number of English on board. The one we saw last Monday left to-day.

Friday 14th.—Wind changeable from W.N.W. to N.W.W., very cold, rain, heavy squalls. Le Tonnant was put on her other side this morning and thoroughly repaired. By nightfall she was put on her keel again; the packet-boat left.

Saturday 15th.—Wind W. N. W. to N. W., steady and fresh, weather clear. La Fleur-de-lys left to cruise in the direction of Canceaux. Weather very cold and hard yesterday and to-day.

Sunday 16th.—Wind W. N. W., all morning, good fresh breeze; during the afternoon it fell off and went round to N. and afterwards died down in N. E.

Monday 17th.—Wind this morning quite fresh from E. then S. E. and stronger. It continued to increase until 3 o'clock when it became very strong with a very heavy sea. The top masts were lowered and we dropped the sheet anchor.

Tuesday 18th.—Wind continued with the same force until 2 o'clock in the morning, then after a squall it went round to S. W. and subsided a little; we felt it less being in a sheltered position, but the sea continued heavy and the vessel laboured a good deal. Hardly any wind all afternoon. La Fleur-de-lys returned this evening, she encountered the wind at a great distance from the land.

Wednesday 19th.—Wind all day W. S. W. and W. N. W. pretty fresh; fine weather; wind subsided in the evening. L'Abénaqui was laid over to-day on the pontoons of Le Tonnant and was entirely repaired and placed on her keel by the evening.

Thursday 20th.—Wind S. S. W. to S. W. nice, fresh breeze with fine weather. This morning a vessel arrived with 10 days' provisions for the squadron, the remainder of the cargo being for the garrison of the colony; she left Brest on the 19th September. There came in also this evening a small vessel from La Rochelle, loaded with supplies for the colony, she had sailed 7 months before, some accidents which she had sustained in the gulf having forced her to put into port twice on the Spanish coast, whence it took her 65 days to cross. At the beginning of the night an English boat laden with codfish came in as a prize of a Louisbourg privateer. At about 7 o'clock the wind greatly increased; we had a squall during the night.

Friday 21st.—A prize made by one of the Louisbourg privateers came in, a New-England craft.

Saturday 22.—Wind W. S. W. to W., fine weather. This morning there arrived 6 Indians with two Englishmen captured at Halifax, who informed us of the arrival in that port of 14 vessels of Holbourne's squadron, two of them without any masts. They had had information of the loss of the Tilbury and of another large vessel, but seemed to have no news of the rest of the squadron. The admiral nevertheless was spreading the report that 7 vessels were making for Europe; but it appears certain that he had no information regarding them; as the squadron on its first appearance on the 16th September and during the cruise was composed of 20 ships of the line and 6 frigates, 3 were still missing at Halifax; two were said to be at Newfoundland; one of the Louisbourg privateers anchored to-night in the roadstead, she met the gale of the 25th in latitude 37 and narrowly escaped destruction in the blasts of the wind.

Sunday 23. . . . . .

Wednesday October 26.—The wind sprang up from E. to E. S. E., strong and fresh, it varied between those points until 4 o'clock when it went round to N. E. and fell off; during the night it shifted S. W. with fine weather. One of the Louisbourg privateers came in this morning, having left not far from here an English prize of 200 tons loaded with military stores for Boston.

Thursday 27. . . . . .

Sunday October 30.—Light wind from W. N.W., bright moonlight; at 1.30 a.m. we received the signal to weigh anchor and the vessels nearest to the channel were ordered to go out; about the same moment Le Tonnant which was trying to come from the inner end of the bay, went aground, at 6.30 she floated again We waited until she was under sail before the signal was given to start; by 11 o'clock she had her sails set and we set ours, at a distance of $\frac{2}{3}$ of a league we lay to, those remaining in the bay were L'Inflexible, Le Diadème and L'Eveillé, the latter ran aground while hoisting sail, the two others anchored in the channel for want of wind; we saw L'Eveillé floating again and towing herself opposite the channel, the rest of the squadron was outside. L'Apollon fitted as an hospital and destined to follow us, was there also; we put on board that vessel 212 sick persons so as to relieve the colony, of that number, which still left about 500, besides a very great number whom we embarked. The squadron lost 850 men during its sojourn notwithstanding that hospital supplies were not absolutely scarce; they were, however, very dear; the expenditure of the squadron for that item alone amounted to nearly 300,000 livres, the total being 438,000 livres. It is estimated that the repairs to Le Tonnant included in this cost were more than 80,000 livres.

Monday October 31. . . . . .

Monday November 7.—Wind from S. S. W. to S. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. W., smart breeze and fine sea. At 6.30 we bore E. N. E. because the general wished to take his position in latitude 47 in order to look for the squadron which was to rendezvous on that parallel.

Tuesday 8. . . . . .

Wednesday 9th.—At 8 o'clock saw 4 vessels taking the same route; at 10 we lay to and waited for them. At 1 we went ahead under shortened sail; the 4 vessels gave the signal of recognition they were Le Défenseur, Le Diadème, L'Eveillé and L'Inflexible.

Thursday 10th. . . . . .

Sunday 13th.—Were sent to take off L'Apollon 17 Englishmen who attempted a revolt, (but without success) the crew being on their guard. . . . . .

Sunday November 20th.—Saw a vessel without her main top mast, and sails furled on her fore-mast a little to the windward of us; taking her for one of our frigates we made signals: The vessel spread all her sails and was carrying a white flag; we saw it was a large vessel; with the hope of catching up to her soon we decided to give chase; but none of our ships was ready which gave the vessel time to get away. Le Diadème was the first ready and the fastest. She continued to pursue the English vessel; at 1.30 Le Diadème got within range and opened fire on her; several broadsides were exchanged until 3.15 when signals were made to give up the chase. That vessel looked like one of 70 guns. We lay to waiting for our vessels which were far away. L'Inflexible had lost her main mast.

Wednesday November 23rd.—At midnight found 75 fathoms, fine sand reddish; at 7.15 75 fathoms reddish-yellow with small white shells. At 9 o'clock we bore S. E. We saw 3 vessels; le Belliqueux stopped one which was near her which I think was English; we lay to awaiting her and half an hour afterwards we started again, at 10 o'clock we took a course E. S. E. and made sail, lying to again in 68 fathoms grey sandy bottom, with small pointed shells, wind S. W.; the route since yesterday at noon is S. E., 4 degrees south, 24 l. latt. ob. 48—16, 1 minute more north than long 6—50. I find I passed beyond Ouessant, at 1 o'clock; we saw it E. $\frac{1}{4}$ N. E. of the compass at 5 leagues distance. We had made two leagues since noon which puts me in advance of the vessel $13\frac{1}{3}$ leagues.

Historical Journal containing all the most interesting occurrences during the expedition to the Island of St. Domingo and Canada in the year 1757, on board the King's ship L'Inflexible, being part of the squadron of M. le Chevalier De Beaufremont; rear-admiral.

I wish at this moment, monsieur, that my memory were retentive enough to make you acquainted with every detail, and this would be all the more satisfactory to me, as it is my desire to be exact.

I received orders to embark on the said ship on the 10th of December 1756, and sailed for Brest on January 20th, 1757, en route for the Islands of St. Domingo, for which we were first bound, and where we arrived on the 19th of March of said year. As it is my object to make you acquainted with everything which occurred during the voyage, I will begin by the mention of a slight alarm which happened the day we left Brest. Here are the facts: at one o'clock past midnight, a sailor came up in haste to the castle and cried out "Oh my God ; we are sinking." This was enough surely to cause a panic amongst the crew, but noboby believed in anything so serious. On seeking to ascertain where the leak was, we were indeed much surprised to find everything afloat between decks, where there was more than thirty tons of water, which at once slackened the speed of our vessel, without yet knowing the cause ; we made prompt diligence to remedy the evil as you may well imagine. It was found that it came through the hawse holes, the plugs of which had been forced in by the high sea. We immediately used our pumps and buckets, and were not long in taking advantage of the fair winds which had favored us so far and continued until the 2nd (day of February) when they veered to the S.W., where we encountered a hard gale, which towards evening swept away our two top sails and did not abate until the 8th. During this long period we were constantly lying to ; the sea was very heavy, so that our ship was labouring hard at times ; on the 8th the wind dropped and became favourable. On the 22nd we entered the tropics. M. Duvigneau, midshipman, died on the 26th, and on March 3rd we lost our captain, Monsieur De Tilly, whom we honored on the same day with the last rites, by eleven guns and three volleys of musketry. I regretted the latter inasmuch as he was an amiable man and used to treat me most friendlily. The sad situation we were in, made us impatient to see the end of the voyage, considering that we had more than 130 poor sick fellows, who deserved compassion, as they lacked absolutely all refreshments. we cut off . . . . . we even deprived ourselves during a few days of our soup in order to procure them some relief. To complete our distress most of our surgeons were disabled ; we asked the General for the services of some others, and seeing our sad situation he authorised us immediately to take four surgeons from two ships of the squadron. That same day, the General had M. and Mde Bart at his table. M. Bart was going as General to St. Domingo, and during the evening Mde Bart was honored by eleven guns when leaving the ship. On the 16th, we noticed a vessel ahead of us, which we could not very well distinguish on account of the fog; one of our frigates made her out as a man-of-war, and gave chase, meantime signalling her intention; the general issued the order to the whole squadron to join in the chase. We recognised the vessel partly, because of her way of manœuvering, and there was every indication that she was commanded by a man of experience, and in this we made no mistake, because Captain Roddam commanding said vessel (by name Greenwich 50 mounted guns, but with embrasures for 60, with 350 crew) proved himself to be a skilful officer, and only surrendered at 8 o'clock in the evening, after having withstood the fire of several of our ships. M. Deschistierna, a Sweedish officer on board Le Diadème was dangerously wounded in the thigh by a cannon ball, but happily the wound was not fatal. The presumption of the English, that all ships at sea must belong to their people, has contributed somewhat to the loss of the ship; it is singular that notwithstanding several examples of this kind which ought to open their eyes, they persist always in the same manner of thinking. We spent the 17th manning the prize, and distributing the prisoners on our ship; toward evening we continued our route; on the 18th we noticed a privateer in sight of the Cape (Haytien) and the general signalled our frigates to give chase; toward evening we lost sight of the vessel. The next day, the 19th, we anchored in the roadstead of the cape at 5 p. m. The same day M. and Mde Bart went ashore. Le Diadème commanded by M. de Rosilly gave them a salute of 17 guns and the Royal battery fired 21 guns. Upon landing, on the 21st of the said month, M. Bart was received with great pomp at the head of the troops, as commander general of St. Domingo. Indeed greater honour could not have been paid to the Creator. On the 23rd, we received news from our frigates, which we had left on the 18th, chasing the privateer. They had put into port at Port-de-Paix which is on the coast 12 leagues distant from the Cape. La Brume commanded by M. de Prévalaye overtook the privateer and engaged in a brisk fight. Captain Valentin in command, gained the name of a brave man, and only surrendered, when at the last extremity, not solely because he was dismasted, but after two-thirds of his crew had been killed or wounded. The night was very dark, and the sea so rough, that the frigate could not take more than fifty prisoners; they left aboard on the prize a pilot's apprentice with 20 men to navigate the vessel, as it was impossible to follow the frigate, the pilot received orders to put into Port-de-Paix, which was in sight, but they met at the entrance three privateers who captured the vessel. On the 24th Le Sauvage, a frigate, broke her bowsprit, her foremast and main gallant sail, and La Brume, seeing this accident remained to assist her; this obliged them to put into Port-de-Paix, the one vessel to rig out, and the other to repair the damage caused by the fight.

Being informed that there were near 400 prisoners at Jamaica, our general sent, on the 24th, a flag of truce, to propose to the Governor of Jamaica an exchange, as we had more than 700 prisoners. From our situation we were anxious that our proposals should be accepted, although they may not have appeared to our advantage and were made only with a view to please the enemy. We therefore waited with impatience the return of the flag, but to no purpose, as will be seen later on. On the 26th M. de Sérigny second lieutenant commanding the schooner La Levrette sent to bring despatches to our general, had to sustain a fight against a privateer in sight of this Island, which obliged him to put into port at Port Dauphin, whence he came by land on the morning of the 27th to fulfil his mission. La Levrette being thus 14 leagues from here the general sent a frigate on the 28th to escort her, and the 29th they both entered this roadstead. On April 4th I received orders from the general to go on board the Greenwich and disarm her. I was engaged at this work, day and night, as the matter was pressing, having finished on the 17th, I handed all statements to the general. On the 4th we lost a midshipman named Juchereau, a lad of merit, very much regretted. On the 20th the general gave an entertainment on board his ship in honour of Mde Bart, to which all the ladies of the town were invited. The ball commenced at 9 p.m., and only terminated at 8 a.m. On the 22nd a Danish boat arrived from Jamaica, she had been stopped by the English ; she reported that the flag of truce sent by us, was on the eve of being confiscated and considered a fair prize, as they found in the hold three small cannons used for ballast ; this did not surprise us by any means, because they capture in these ports all that comes near them, without excepting any nation. Dutch, Spanish, Danish boats, all are welcome ; such is the real law of pirates ; no more pirates are seen since the English have usurped the trade. We heard often that they feared that we had some design on that Island, and in view of this, they had placed four large ships from their roadstead opposite the entrance. On the 24th the general ordered us, as well as the whole squadron, in this roadstead, (numbering 25 vessels) to get ready to leave at the first signal. On the 3rd of May calm weather prevented us from carrying out this plan, and we were obliged to defer our departure till the next day, the 4th, when we covered 40 leagues from the place of disemboguement, and as it was the intention of the general to escort the merchantmen to this spot and no further he gave the signal agreed upon with them on the evening of the 8th, in order that each could continue her route as desired ; it being of great consequence for us to reach our second destination. Our departure from the Cape caused much talk. During our sojourn there, the strict silence maintained by our general about his designs, gave rise to great speculation. The route we followed after the disemboguement was towards Ile Royale where we anchored, having exercised the utmost diligence, in order to arrive there before the enemy. During the voyage we burned two of their vessels. As we were aware of their design upon that colony we were much surprised in not finding it blockaded by the enemy, so as to intercept all the ships carrying supplies or ammunition. Our arrival created a feeling of ease, as we were awaited with anxiety. M. de Beaufremont seeing the state of the fortifications ordered some detachments from every ship of his squadron to commence work most necessary. On the 11th L'Achille a ship of the squadron of M. Du Revest, arrived alone, being separated in the fog from others, which entered on the 19th ; the squadron of M. Dubois de la Motte arrived on the 20th. This general also expected to find before the place some forces to oppose his entrance and he was much surprised at the conduct of the enemy. The English nation, which had flattered itself to make a second exchange of Louisbourg for Port Mahon, had not acted in such a manner as to succeed this year, while on our side we may be gratified at the happy junction of our squadrons. Immediately after his arrival the general began his inspection of the fortifications of the place, with which he was not satisfied ; his inspection went on all along the coast, on the south side as far as Gabarus, which is the locality where the enemy effected his landing in 1745, and on the north side as far as Laurenbec. Having found in these parts several points suitable for a landing, he immediately ordered detachments from all the ships, with officers, to work the intrenchments, and establish batteries at each point, and no work was stopped until everything was complete. He caused the fortifications to be repaired and increased as well in the interior as on the exterior of the place, where we increased the batteries and levelled a height which commands the grand cavalier of the Dauphin gate, one of the principal batteries of the town. Ile Royale, a place of much renown, required such an inspection in order to be put somewhat in a state of defence. Four companies of the troops of the colony, with a few pickets from the Artois, and the Bourgogne regiments, began to encamp early in June in several entrenchments ; but in the course of said month all the camps were increased. As the general said that the garrison was insufficient to guard all the points where the enemy could attempt a landing, he ordered a detachment from each ship with officers, to form a battalion of 900 men and 4 companies of volunteers of 50 each, taken from amongst the pilots' apprentices, and assistant pilots, fellows who were well disposed. When all arrangements were made he ordered all the troops detailed for this service to land to be inspected by himself. They came in good order, in two lines, and they re-embarked in the same manner, with instructions to keep themselves ready to march, which order they received on the 8th and 9th ; all the troops went to Anse à Gauthier, and Laurenbec which is only half a league distant, and where they pitched their camps ; the camp of the Indians, numbering 600, was at Gabarus. We were quite prepared to receive the enemy at all points. We could have wished that there had been no misunderstanding between General Holbourne and Loudon, and that they had executed their plan, of which we were well informed. Finally Holbourne whom we impatiently expected appeared before the town on the 19th of August, with his squadron composed of twenty-two ships, men of war, as well as frigates, and remained all night side by side, not quite certain whether the convoy followed them, as it did not show itself; all the troops turned out from the town and advanced towards Gabarus where they encamped. The next day, the 20th, there was no indication of any convoy. In the morning Holbourne advanced his squadron and came near enough to make a good reconnaissance, and after his examination went seaward, then made for Halifax, where he remained eight days shut up in his room without speaking to anyone, after which time he ordered all the captains to prepare to sail, each taking a picket of grenadiers on board, as his intention was to attack us if the occasion presented itself.

On the 24th, eve of the festival of St. Louis, the general ordered all the ships to dress and to discharge all their artillery in succession, to be followed by a continued musketry fire, which was performed accordingly. On the 26th, the ships were similarly dressed, and fired each 15 guns, the general firing first. On the 27th, the troops raised the camp and each detachment received orders to re-embark. On the 16th September, Holbourne reappeared before us, and at a certain distance sent a ship from the roadstead and a frigate to make observations, but a few discharges of cannon from the land upset their plans and they rejoined the fleet. The design of Holbourne was to cruise before the port in order to blockade it and intercept all the ships coming to the colony. We had been informed that the 15,000 land troops then at Halifax were to winter there, which I hardly believed, but we learned since that Loudon had taken part of them to Boston; that a large number were distributed throughout New England and a Highland Battalion alone remained at Halifax. A man named Gauthier, resident of Louisbourg, a sworn enemy of the English, did not neglect to tell us what was going on in their ports, although 60 leagues distant. Our general detailed him on several occasions to go there with some Indians, who never returned without bringing scalps and prisoners, secured even at the foot of the ramparts, and I must say that Gauthier received a well deserved reward from the general.

Since the 23rd, the winds in the E. and S.E. parts of the island, were constantly from the S.E. and were fresh enough, with much fog and rain to make us fear a storm, and so it began on the 24th in the afternoon, without much violence at the outset, but at one o'clock in the night it turned into a most terrible hurricane, there was not a single ship of our squadron that did not drift, although each had four anchors under her bows; by daybreak our situation was lamentable. During the night Le Dauphin Royal fired a cannon as signal of distress. In spite of our wish to assist them, we were absolutely unable to do so. The sea was so dreadful that it made us shudder. The cable of Le Dauphin Royal broke, she was instantly thrown on Le Tonnant where she broke her rudder, the whole of the gallery of the poop was destroyed, but these damages were inconsiderable compared with those sustained by Le Tonnant, whose bowsprit was broken, also the figure-head and cut-water; and she was thrown, while thus entangled, on the Royal battery, where she struck with violence. We were even suprised that she could resist the shock, the mizzen-mast was promptly cut away to lighten the stern which was the portion that was suffering most, they staved in the water casks and even 30 large barrels of wine to lighten her, and notwithstanding the rough weather they got her off again. The worst leak did not exceed 38 inches per hour when once things were arranged, which gave hope of saving the vessel. L'Hector, although it struck pretty hard, was fortunately none the worse. If at noon the wind had continued for another hour and not changed to the S. and S.W., nine or ten of our vessels, including that of our general, would have been in imminent danger of being driven ashore. It is impossible to imagine such a dreadful spectacle as that which met our eyes. The frigate La Bénaquise, the cable of which parted, was instantly thrown up on the beach, along with 25 merchantmen, several of them high and dry. More than 80 boats and skiffs of the squadron were tossed by the waves and smashed most of them on the shore, a number of the men on board them perishing. More than 50 schooners and boats met the same fate. By 3 p.m., the hurricane having greatly abated, I went in our boat to help our generals. Sailors, who have been more than 50 years afloat, say that they never saw the sea so awful. The ramparts of the town were thrown down, and the water inundated half of the town, a thing which had never been seen. The sea dashed with such tremendous force on the coast that it reached lakes two leagues inland. It may be said that Louis played a high stake and made six points, but that George, although supported by Holbourne, only scored three, as you will see further on.

During the afternoon of the 27th a boat arrived with a report that whilst passing St. Esprit they saw a large ship lying on the shore with the rear part sunk; they saw a number of people on the shore, and also many others on the prow. Upon this information we sent, next morning, 4 schooners with 60 grenadiers and 100 soldiers, who were forced back by contrary winds, and went by land,. The same day a person of the locality brought in his boat Captain Thems second captain of the said ship who is on board with us, also two sailors. We learn that it was the Tilbury 60 guns, forming part of the Holbourne squadron. The Captain, and the commander of the grenadiers were drowned, as well as half the crew. Our troops had great difficulty in reaching the scene of the wreck, owing to the floods in many localities which the gale had caused the sea to submerge. We were anxious to give the shipwrecked prompt assistance, for fear of the fury of the Indians, who might possibly get there first. This they did but they behaved very well under the circumstances, their conduct surprising us. When a company of Savages, 150 strong, made their appearance, not one of the English, although half dead with hardship, expected to escape, but a chief came forward and reassured them, saying :—"Fear not, since the hurricane has brought you to shore we are coming to your relief, but if you had come to make war upon us, not one of you would be safe, and we would take all your scalps ".

The Indians themselves went on board the ship to help the others get off. The living were not plundered at all, but as the dead arrived on the shore they searched them. As soon as the Captain came ashore he was taken before the General and questioned freely as to the wreck. We expected that this would prove futile because the English are ignorant of anything which is disadvantageous to them, nevertheless in that moment may be in the rush of joy as knowing that he was saved from such great danger, he said that since his ship was lost, he had great apprehension for part of his squadron, from that, questions were useless. Notwithstanding reports received from several persons certifying that masts and remains of vessels were found, I never thought that an exact account of their losses could be obtained except from France; the best news we could obtain was through the reports of five Indians who returned from Halifax on October 22nd. These Indians brought 5 scalps and two prisoners from the squadron. The Indians offered their captives to the General saying " Our Father, accept from us, some more fresh meat, and make use of it." The prisoners being questioned, said that the Tilbury with another ship that they could not name were lost: that 14 ships of Holbourne's squadron reached Halifax, but of these 3 or 4 were so damaged that it was found necessary to leave them there, and besides seven other ships dismasted were missing. Now, will it be a mistake to say that Holbourne is a daring man on the sea and Loudon on the land. With his determination to beat us the first loses the sight of dangers and sacrifices himself, while the second trained his troops at Halifax when the capitulation of Fort George was going on, you must acknowledge that the million they spent to lay siege to Louisbourg and for other undertakings through Canada, were a poor investment, and we must recognise that their projects have failed in this part of the country. The disaster of the 20th March last at Fort George has been a terrible blow; the burning of 300 boats, stores of victuals, and supplies of all kinds, 17 houses located near a fort, an hospital and a large store full of timber, a saw mill, and several houses making a kind of lower town near the fort, two galleys with 30 oars, and more than 300 cords of wood picked up for the heating of the Fort, all reduced to ashes. The loss was so much the more deplorable, that the provisions were stored to be used during the next campaign, also that they thus found themselves in the greatest embarrassment. On the 30th of August last, we learned from Quebec that the trench in front of Fort George was forced between the 4th and 5th of August during the night, and the besieged raised the white flag on the 9th at 6 o'clock A.M. As this is secret information, I will continue the story of the campaign.

On September 28th, the general sent M. de Tourville to inspect the coast and see if he could discover any debris of the Holbourne squadron ; in turning out he met a snow, which was bearing down on him with such confidence that he took it for a French vessel despite its flag. Their (the English) pretentions are so great that they believed the vessel to be of their own nationality. What will surprise you, perhaps, is the fact that this vessel carrying 16 guns, 12 swivel guns, 4 grenade mortars, a crew of 92 men, depatched to Halifax with despatches to Holbourne, surrendered at the first shot from M. de Tourville. Since the accident of Le Tonnant all hands on board are working day and night at the repairs in the hope of saving her. The general neglects nothing that may expedite the work, with a view of bringing her back to France, but in spite of the shortening of rations which he made throughout the fleet, the reserve of stores forced him to decide on leaving before the last moment, and he would do nothing else though the separation was very painful to him.

The happy arrival of L'Appollon however, two days before our intended departure, caused him much pleasure, and he determined to postpone leaving until the work was completed, a time we awaited with patience, being in a roadstead where we had no protection, and where the rough weather caused us several times to apprehend further disaster, but happily none came.

During the time we were waiting there came into port 3 boats and schooners, equipped by the merchants of Louisbourg as privateers, bringing 14 or 15 English vessels. On the 29th when we were all ready to sail, the wind became too strong and we had to defer it till the morrow, the 30th, when the weather was very fine until one o'clock in the afternoon, when we were becalmed.

The squadron started with the exception of L'Eveillé which grounded on a bank, where she remained some time, and then got off happily without accident.

Le Diadème and our own ship had to anchor in the channel, as we found that the wind from the open sea opposed our leaving and at the same time threatened rough weather, we therefore returned to the head of the roadstead ; towards evening fog set in and the wind from the east south-east freshened with very heavy rain during the night. This gave rise to some anxiety concerning our fleet, which was off the coast. They were still in sight at midnight, and remained in the calm. Amongst them was Le Défenseur, and as the currents drove her westwards, she anchored under Portenove, half a league off shore, but the roughness of the weather drove her thence and she had to cut her cable, hoist her sails, and enter the roadstead by 6 a.m. As commandant, I went on board at 7 a.m. to take orders. The wind veered to the east north-east quite fresh with snow in abundance. At noon Le Diadème dragged her anchor, making signals of distress ; we sent her some assistance at once ; for a time it looked as if she would be wrecked on the reefs of the Islet, but happily she recovered herself in spite of the heavy wind which was blowing. The next day, the 1st of November, we sailed from the roadstead for France, at about 10.30 a.m., a long looked for departure, but it was not made without accident for we had nine men wounded by anchor cordage which broke, and we came near being thrown ashore. On the morning of the 9th we sighted a squadron of 13 ships slightly to leeward heading in the same direction as we were. We made towards them, and at noon were about one league and a half, as they answered our signals, we recognized them as some of our own nationality. We joined them, each one taking his own position in the line. On the evening of the 11th, we passed through a gale which became very violent during the night, so that we were obliged to shorten sail until next day, the 12th. About 3 p.m., the wind having calmed down, our general gave the signal to reform ; the sea was very rough and our ship laboured heavily. On the 19th at 10 p.m. a frightful hurricane arose as did the sea also, this obliged us to shorten sail on the mizzen-mast, which was instantly carried away. The following day at 5 a.m. the wind shifted from S.W. to W.N.W. in a frightful squall, but fortunately did not last long and eased the tempest. On the 24th whilst giving chase to an English ship we lost our main top-mast, and immediately set to work to replace it. Le Diadème overtook the chase and attacked her, and for an hour and a half the fight was briskly maintained on both sides. Seeing that the chase led us towards the British Channel, the general gave the signal for us to resume our formation, and we continued our course. The sad condition of the whole fleet made us long to reach France, more than half the crews were sick and the remainder worn out with fatigue, so that we could not manoeuvre.

On the 23rd before one p.m. we sighted Ushant, and at 9.15 we anchored in the roadstead at Brest. We lost during this voyage 5 officers, seven midshipmen, and 2,000 sailors, in addition to bringing back more than 2,400 sick. Such is the end of a sad cruise.

NOTE.—In this genealogy the capital M represents Ste. Marie, Beauce, and 'Cap,' Cap St. Ignace. The italic letters on the left indicates the descending branches, and those on the right the ascending branches to the first ancesters.

PREFACE

The "Genealogy of the Families of La Beauce" printed in this volume will enable the families of that vast district to trace their origin with a degree of certainty. It is the work of a worthy priest, Mesire Charles Beaumont, who devoted years of patient research to the accomplishment of this patriotic service to his country. M. Charles Beaumont was born at Charlesbourg on the 2nd November, 1820, issue of the marriage of Jacques Beaumont and Agathe Pageau. He was educated at Quebec and ordained priest on the 23rd of June, 1844, and became vicar of Ste Anne de Beaupré. In 1849 he was appointed curé of St. Féréol, in 1852 curé of St Etienne, in 1853 curé of St Hénédine, in 1862 curé of St Michel, and, towards the end of the same year, curé of St Joachim. He retired from the ministry and went to reside at Ange Gardien, where he died on the 2nd of September, 1889. He was burried at Charlesbourg, his native parish. We are indebted to the Rev. Edward Carrier, curé of St. Joseph, for permission to publish this volume.

L'Enfant Jésus.—Cette paroisse d'érection très récente est un démembrement de St Joseph et de Ste Marie ; sa colonisation remonte alors à 1740. En 1898 elle était desservie comme mission. Cette même année elle fut érigée canoniquement en paroisse, et l'église paroissiale fut bâtie. Les registres ne remontent qu'au mois de janvier 1899—il n'y en a qu'un volume. Les délibérations de la fabrique commencent en 1900.

Curés de la paroisse depuis sa fondation M. Cléophas Picher depuis 1898 jusqu'en 1899, M. Joseph Jobin depuis 1899—curé actuel. Les Religieuses de St François d'Assise y dirigent une école élémentaire.

Sacré Coeur de Jésus.—Voir liste des Municipalités dans la Province de Québec par C. E. Deschamps 1886.

Les archives de cette paroisse n'ont pas encore été examinées.

Saints-Anges.—En 1843. Les premiers colons s'établirent dans cette paroisse faisant alors partie de Ste Marie et de St Joseph. St-Ephrem.—Les premiers colons de cette paroisse, qui s'y établirent dès avant 1840, étaient Médéric Goulet, Jean Fortin, Charles Gagnon, Narcisse Lapointe, Jean Rouillard, Etienne Pomerleau, Charles Prévost et autres. En 1840, on crut urgent de leur donner la mission (ce qui se continua jusqu'en 1866) desservie par M. Roy, M. Lafontaine et leurs successeurs jusqu'à M. Sirois, actuellement curé du Cap St Ignace. St Ephrem est un démembrement de St Victor, d'une petite partie du canton de Shenley, mais elle est presque totalement formée du canton de Tring. La première chapelle de la mission fut construite en 1852, et l'église actuelle, commencée en 1880, fut finie en 1895.

St-François (Beauceville).—Les commencements de cette paroisse, l'une des plus anciennes de la Beauce, remontent à 1700, et probablement même avant cette date. Dès 1737 elle était déjà desservie comme mission d'abord par le R. P. François Carpentier, Récollet et dans la suite par d'autres missionnaires, dont sept religieux récollets. La paroisse de St-François comprenait dans l'origine toute la seigneurie de Rigaud-Vaudreuil, soit une étendue de 9 milles de front sur 12 de profondeur ; elle fut démembrée dans la suite pour former St-Victor de Tring (1871) et plus tard St-Benjamin. Son érection canonique date du 9 oct. 1835, et l'érection civile du 4 nov. 1850.

La première chapelle fut construite vers 1750 et subsista jusqu'en 1783 ; de 1783 à 1803, les offices eurent lieu dans une chapelle temporaire, qui fut démolie pour faire place à une autre également démolie en 1855 et remplacée par l'église actuelle.

St-Joseph :—La plus ancienne et la plus importante des paroisses de la Beauce. Son établissement remonte presqu'aux temps même du fondateur de Québec, car on trouve que des colons s'y etaient fixés des 1640 ; cependant sa première chapelle ne fut bâtie que près d'un siècle plus tard en 1737. Cette première construction fut remplacée par une nouvelle église construite en bois en 1764. Comme elle menaçait ruine elle fut démolie pour faire place à une autre en 1785 laquelle à son tour fut remplacée par l'église actuelle, magnifique édifice en pierre, construit en 1867.

Dès l'origine St-Joseph fut visité par les missionnaires, à des époques éloignées, jusqu'en 1738 lorsqu'une desserte régulière fut organisée.

St-Ludger—C'est vers 1880 qu'eurent lieu les premiers établissements dans cette région—qui faisait alors partie de la paroisse actuelle de St-Samuel et du Domaine de la Couronne. Elle fut desservie comme mission d'abord en 1885 par M. le curé de St-Sébastien et ensuite par le curé de St-Samuel M. Garon. Il n'y a pas eu d'érection canonique mais par décret la mission fut établie le 19 sept. 1893. La construction de l'église remonte à 1901. Le presbytère actuel bâti en 1895, servit temporairement de chapelle.

Ste-Marie. Cette paroisse, une des plus grandes et des plus importantes de la Beauce a commencé à s'établir dès les premières années du XVIIIe siècle. Elle était déjà desservie comme mission en 1737 et eut son prêtre résident en 1767. Ste-Marie a été la paroisse-mère de plusieurs autres ; de là l'importance qu'il convient de donner à ses registres et aux autres documents précieux qui y sont conservés. Son érection canonique date de 1770 et sa première église paroissiale fut bâtie en 1780. D'autres églises l'ont remplacé dans la suite. Une construite en 1857, et bénite en 1859, c'est l'église actuelle.

Une chapelle dédiée à Ste-Anne, y a été bâtie par la famille de feu Son Éminence le Cardinal Taschereau, comme ex voto, c'est un lieu de pélérinage, le jour de la fête de la Bonne Ste-Anne.
