Not A Village In All Canada.

BUT CAN TELL OF GENUINE CURES BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Dunnet, Ont., Man Tells How Quickly they Built Him Up and Brought Him Back to Perfect Health.

Dunnet, Ont., Mar. 28.—(Special.)—That there is not a village or post-office in Canada that cannot provide a genuine cure by Ddod's Kidney Pills has been shown again and again. In this little village many people bear grateful testimony to the wonderful curative powers of this simple remedy. Mr. Alex. Roy is one of these "I used Dodd's Kidney Pills for a run-down system," Mr. Roy states. "My head ached, my limbs were heavy, my skin had a harsh dry feeling, and would itch and burn at night. Three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills simply cure the kidneys. The work of the kidneys is to strain all the waste matter out of the blood. If the kidneys are out of order they fail to do their work, the waste matter remains in the blood, putrifies and causes serious diseases. The natural cure is to make the kidneys do their work. Dodd's Kidney Pills always do this.

Silks of all kinds are the prevailing fabrics this spring. They are apparently taking the place of voiles and linens to a great extent.

Fashions and Fads.

Cotton voile embroidered with small beads makes a very pretty gown for summer.

Evening gowns grow more elaborate, much cloth of gold and bugle trimming being worn.

The Bulgarian blouses are so new and so beautiful that they will be enthusiastically received.

All the ribbons are as filmy as the materials they adorn, being of gauze with satin borders.

When pleats are used on skirts they are stitched down to avoid extra fullness above the feet.

Many walking costumes have wire girdles, which extend even below the natural waist line.

Ostrich feathers made into fancy shapes have taken the place of aigrettes on the new millinery.

Brilliant colored hose and low dress shoes will be a feature of extreme luxury this coming season.

Cordelieres and tassels are used extensively as a trimming on evening mantles, toilettes and day gowns.

Little turnover collars of different colored laces, suggestive of Joseph's coat, are making their appearance.

The prettiest nightgowns are the simple kimono style with French, slightly fitted backs and rounded necks.

Sulphur yellow is a very popular new shade; for one who prefers a less somber coloring, the raisin shade is good.

Poplins, a combination of silk and wool, will be very popular. It is of softer and more supple make than heretofore.

Charming Persian turbans of swathed white straw, trimmed with long, antennae-like peacock plumes, are very smart.

Evening boots are made to match the color of the gown. Some are of deep rose and gold brocade with small butons of gold.

A pretty little novelty is the hat-pin with a ball, which, when opened, is found to hold a few drops of some fashionable perfume.

Long gloves promise much popularity, as many of the smart little boleros and short coats have short and three-quarter sleeves.

Happy Accidents.

Trifles Which Have Made Fortunes For the Quick-Witted.

When ever we now hear of some wonderful invention we usually regard it as a great conception of its inventor, yet it is a most remarkable fact that some of the greatest discoveries arose from the most simple and often trivial sources.

The discovery of the cheap durable glaze which is one of the chief causes of prosperity in the Staffordshire potteries, for instance, was due entirely to the blunder of a servant girl employed on a farm near Burslem. She was engaged one day in heating a solution of common salt to be used for the curing of pork, and during her temporary absence the liquid boiled over. The result was that the strong brine acting on the almost red-hot surface of the unglazed cooking vessel produced a coating of enamel which did not peel off when cold, and which experiment proved to be impervious to water. The discovery brought neither profit nor honor to the poor girl—only a severe scolding. But it created what was practically a new industry, provided permanent employment to tens of thousands of artisans, and put millions into the pockets of the master-potters.

Even from the flimsiest notion some great thing may arise. Graham Bell was led to invention of his telephone from watching the vibrations of a reed on an instrument he had made for the inter-comunication of the deaf; Sir Isaac Newton was led from the falling of an apple to the laws which govern the falling of moons and stars and suns; and Brunel was able to burrow his tunnel under the Thames from watching how a worm pushed its way through wooden furniture. The most common incidents have also given rise to great inventions. Sir Hiram Maxim, when he was fighting in the great Civil War of America, was struck by the force with which his gun "kicked" into him when he fired. "The energy which is wasted in that kick could well be turned to the placing of another cartridge in position," he said, and so he experimented on those lines, with the result that he produced the famous Maxim gun.

The Tabloid Co.

Mr. J. P. Kiely the enterprising Manager of the Casino and Nickel Theatres, has prepared a rare treat for his patrons for his summer season at the Casino Theatre. After careful consideration of the theatrical field in New York, Mr. Kiely has decided to present tabloid plays as being most popular and calculated to please all classes of patrons. These tabloids are all the vogue in the United States, which can be easily understood when it is realized that with a cast of four men and three women, all the popular plays are presented in condensed form, all superfluous dialogue and characters being eliminated so that the public get the gist of it all in one act plays running from 35 to 50 minutes. Mr. Kiely has selected Mr. George Barr of New York to engage a company and select plays. Mr. Barr was formerly secretary of the Actors' Society of America, also Manager of International Play Bureau. He is an experienced Manager, actor, playwright and stage director. The best results may be expected, as Mr. Barr himself has tabloided all the plays to be presented here. They are of great diversity of style and subject, ranging from the emotional to farce comedy. He warrants each play to be a gem in its way. The company he has selected required considerable forethought as the members must possess versatility as well as special qualifications for their particular lines of business. He wires that he has succeeded beyond his expectations. The season will open on Thursday next.

Zam-Buk Does Cure Piles.

Mrs. C. Hanson, wife of the proprietor of the Commercial Hotel, Poplar, B.C., suffered from piles for years. Went to doctor after doctor in vain. Finally went to Spokane and had an operation. Twelve months afterwards she was as bad again. She says, "One day I read about Zam-Buk and thought I would try it. The first one or two boxes gave me more ease than anything else I had tried, so I went on with the treatment. In a short time I began to feel altogether different and better, and I saw that Zam-Buk was going to cure me. Well, I went on using it, and by the time I had used six boxes I was delighted to find myself entirely cured."

If you suffer from this painful ailment, or from eczema, ulcers or any skin disease, don't waste time. Try Zam-Buk, 50c. all druggists and stores.

"At Home."

The Highlanders "At Home," under the management of the non-com. officers came off in the British Hall last night and the attendance was the largest at any social event yet. At the opening an excellent concert was held in the ballroom. Those who contributed selections were: — Misses Hamlin, Ross, Anderson and Strang and Mr. H. Baird. Dancing commenced at 10 p.m. and continued until 3 this a.m. At midnight a sumptuous supper was served by the lady friends of the brigade. The C. C. C. band furnished the music in their usual style.

DUE THIS AFTERNOON.—The S. S. Prospero is due this afternoon from the westward.

Criticises Judgement.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—You don't hear often from Harbor Main. Not that there is anything of interest to write about, but that it is utterly useless to acquaint the powers that be of the doings of their official bosses in this District. I am now going to give you an account of a trial which took place here lately between a Liberal and Tory, and the circumstances that led up to it. A short time ago Mr. John Lacour, a respectable citizen of this place, made a business run to the city, and returned home the same day. Having detrained at Woodford's, he went to where his horse and driver were in waiting, placed his grip on board and started for home. On the road home, a short distance from the station, a man named Ezekiel held him up and boarded his slide. Mr. Lacour attempted to push him off the slide, and in the struggle that ensued, his grip disappeared, and he himself was battered by his aggressor Ezekiel. Mr. Lacour sought redress by appealing to the court, and after two hearings, by Magistrate O'Toole, the case was dismissed.

Now, Mr. Editor, what are the facts of this case as can be gathered from the report. Mr. Lacour, a respectable and inoffensive citizen, is held up by a drunken man who forces himself on his (Mr. Lacour's) slide, against his will. In the struggle to dislodge his assailant, he gets his face battered and dispossessed of his grip valued at $10.00. He summonses the offender to court, and the judge dismisses the case. The judgment was received with dissatisfaction by the public as the sentiment was that the defendant in the case, should receive punishment. Perhaps there was no political prejudice to the plaintiff, or that the quality of mercy was not strained to the defendant. However, if rum and rowdyism are to be put down in Harbor Main, Morris will have to fit Mr. O'Toole with a bigger boot. In connection with this case, we ask what part did Constable Devine play in trying to bring the offender to justice? Did he find any clue to the missing grip? Not yet! Some outport constables don't worry over such trifles nowadays. The people pay them to conserve law and order. Yet they have to do their own detective work, while the constables act as flunkies for the magistrates or the Reids and their trains. The constable at Harbor Main was once a very vigilant and useful official but alas his day is done. Officers of the law should work hard to run down offenders of the law, yet they seem afraid to grapple with those difficulties and let the people do what they are paid for doing, their own detective work. I have just heard of a fight to a finish between a certain prominent Government official and a village smith, and when I become acquainted with the facts I will send you an account of the fight in rounds.

Yours thankfully,
SPECTATOR.
