"Brace Up"

Is a tantalizing admonition to those who at this season feel all tired out, weak, without appetite and discouraged. But the way in which Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the tired frame and gives a good appetite, is really wonderful. So we say, "Take Hood's and it will brace you up."

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend HOOD'S PILLS. f

A Cruel Corporal.

BERLIN, June 6.—Three soldiers deserted a week ago from the Eleventh Regiment, garrisoned in Freiburg, Baden, because they could not endure longer the abusive language and blows to which their corporal subjected them. One of them was found hanged by the neck to a tree in the forest outside the city. The second was captured yesterday, and he said that the third one had drowned himself. The corporal is under arrest.

Swallowed a Phonograph, Perhaps.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 6.—From Irkutsk, the capital of Eastern Siberia, comes a very interesting story of a dog, now seven months old, which has suddenly developed an ability to give utterance to sounds so entirely like those of a human being that, when the listener is in an adjoining room, the deception is complete. While the dog seems to have no comprehension of the words he uses, he very readily repeats anything that is said to him in a rather shrill, boyish-sounding voice. At times this ability to imitate the human voice lapses, but eventually comes back again in all its astounding strangeness.

Bellicose Billy.

BERLIN, June 6.—It has now become known that the Kaiser made a remarkable speech at Dantzig the other day when he breakfasted with the hussars. In replying to the toast of the commander of the regiment, the Emperor said: "I drink to the army and navy, which are the fundaments of the State, and I fully indorse the principle of my granduncle, the late cavalry general, Prince Frederick Charles, that the battle field offers the best drill grounds." It is also said that the Kaiser on this occasion intimated that the Government proposed to cover the expenses of the Army Bill by a new tax on betting and bookmaking generally.

Canadian Cattle in England.

LONDON, June 6.—The suspected case of disease among the Canadian cattle which arrived on the steamer Lake Winnipeg is still under inquiry, and the result will probably not be known for several days, but that there is reason to hope that the disease, though resembling pleuro-pneumonia, will be found non-contagious. Every facility is being given for the experts appointed by Canada to assist in the examination with the board of agriculture officials. Some 1,200 Canadian beasts at the Scotch markets met with slightly improved trade at an advance of 10s per head. At Deptford trade is slow, top values for Canadian animals being 3s 10d to 4s per eight pounds; second quality, 3s 8d.

Good for the Gout.

LONDON, June 6.—Some two years ago an Austrian physician advanced the remarkable theory that persons who have been stung by bees enjoy an immunity from the effects of bee stings for varying periods, and that, moreover, a variety of the bee sting is an infallible remedy for acute rheumatism. The latter part of the theory, according to the Mediterranean Naturalist, has received most unquestionable confirmation from a custom of the country people in Malta. Bees are plentiful in the islands, and bee stings are in such repute as a cure for rheumatism that resort to this primitive method of inoculation has been a common practice in severe cases for generations, the result, it is said, having been most satisfactory to the patients.

Simon Says So.

PARIS, June 6.—M. Jules Simon, statesman and author, said in an interview with a reporter: "Emperor William told me three years ago that he would make every effort to keep the peace. The equality of the French and German armies, he said, was the best guarantee that nobody would risk war. The consequences of the first shot, he said, would be so utterly beyond calculation that no sovereign or statesman with a conscience would dare to plunge his country into such a vortex of uncertainty." M. Simon added that M. Carnot desires peace, not from conviction but from policy. Despite the cries of the fire-eaters, the vast majority of the French people wanted only peace. The Chauvinists were weaker than when the ex-Empress Eugenie was paying them to shout "On to Berlin!" In a few years they would be an extinct party. Even the generals in the army were strongly opposed to anything like an aggressive policy.

THE OPEN FORUM.

The Carters' Grievance.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Would you kindly allow me to make a few remarks regarding the removal of the carters' stand. First, in regard to the disturbance they are supposed to make, I have only this to say, that within two minutes' walk of the stand there is no less than twelve taverns to which they have access and serious disturbances have not occurred on an average of once a year, which I think speaks well for us. Then as regards the smell, Mr. O'Mara I think is the chief complainant, while he has horses, and I believe cows, under his own roof and nearer his own windows than the carters' stand is, and if the carters' stand was paved as it should be the men would be glad to keep it clean, and as we are individually working each for himself and have not the benefit of the telephone as yet, it is absolutely necessary we should be as near the business center as possible, as well as the station. As the carters have more or less families dependent upon them for support (I myself having two blind brothers to find a home for), we are justly entitled to some consideration. Hoping that I have not trespassed on your time too long, and believing you will give us this chance to speak for ourselves, I remain yours respectfully,

A Fatal Collision.

CORTLAND, N. Y., June 6.—The through night express to New York on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad due here at 11:20 o'clock collided with a runaway engine on the iron bridge three quarters of a mile north of this station. The engineer, Isaac Wallace, was killed instantly. Fireman Bert Sherwood died a few hours after. Both men lived in Syracuse. None of the passengers were injured.

Salvation Army Troubles.

TORONTO, June 6.—The officers' list of the Salvation Army still continues to decrease. Staff-Captains Boulton and McCardy withdrew a few days ago, and on Saturday Staff-Captain Southall, editor of the War Cry, sent in his resignation. They all express disapproval of Commandant Booth's plan of operations as the cause of their withdrawal. It is said that three more resignations will follow shortly, and that then there will be scarcely a Canadian in any position of importance in the army.
