HILL ON CROPS.

Washington, D.C., May 13.—James J. Hill, in a Washington interview, stated that the seeding along the Great Northern country had been retarded by heavy snows in the spring. He did not expect a big crop, but a fair one. Mr. Hill expressed himself as anxious that the tariff agitation be settled, so that the wheels of commerce might begin to turn more quickly.

SCHOOL FOR MOTHERS

Mail and Empire.

There is probably room in Toronto for a school like that started by a man named George H. T. Schroder near New York it is called "Caroline Rest," and its function is to teach young mothers how to tend their children, and how to keep house. Realizing the number of factory girls, who enter matrimony with none of the training that their more fortunate sisters have, and that want and unhappiness are often caused through their inability to make a comfortable home on a small wage, Mr. Schroder conceived the idea of selecting a few of these young married women and educating them for their work. He began two years ago, with ten ex-factory girls, whom he domiciled in a little cottage. Now he has built a place that will accommodate thirty, and finds that he could easily fill a large hotel with anxious young mothers if he could finance the enterprise.

Doctors figure out that 5,000 babies are killed annually in New York by ignorance of their parents. The little mites are starved or poisoned, or frozen or smothered to death, simply because thousands of tenement brides do not know that meat is bad for babies, that pure milk is essential, and that the bath is almost as necessary as fresh air. One young mother at present in the institution is only 14 years old. Another, 39 years old, has nine children, the youngest a baby of six months, and six others under working age. The family had outgrown the husband's earnings, and the mother had worked herself to the verge of physical collapse trying to make both ends meet. She will learn in the Schroder college how to get as much nourishment out of groceries that will cost her 25 cents as she has been spending 40 cents to obtain.

Where there are seven little mouths to fill, and the earning capacity of the man is strictly limited, a scientific system of household economy that will save only a dime a day may make all the differences in the world between health and disease. The aim of the cook instructor at Schroder home is not to show the tenement wives how they can tickle the jaded palate of a stuffed husband, but rather how they can keep their little family thriving on a food allowance which in ordinary circumstances would mean slow starvation. In New England there are plenty of domestic science schools before the "Caroline Rest" was established. Their defect, so far as the wives of the tenements is concerned, is that it is not grimly practical. The menu there prepared for a "few cents a day" has not much more relation to the food that these women have to work with—and the number who have to be nourished by it—than the figure in the fashion plate have to do with men and women in real life.

Mr. Schroder's original plan was to give a fair start to the young factory girl who had passed from the factory to married life on short allowances, and was grappling with the problem of caring for her first baby. It was soon found that there were equally ignorant and equally deserving women who were the mothers of several children. So it happens that running about "Caroline Rest" are many little tots of different ages, whom the mothers could not leave behind. There are other women being taught who, for one reason or another, are not able to leave their own homes. They are visited by nurses, who provide them with proper outfits of clothing for their new born babies, and give them instruction in household hygiene and domestic science. Their lessons are just as valuable as those given at "Caroline Rest," the only difference being that for mothers in the city the struggle is too fierce for even a fortnight's truce. The average stay at the shelter is about three weeks, but there is no time limit set, and some of the 215 mothers who passed through the institution last year remained for three months.

It is probable that Caroline Rest is merely the pioneer of a system of education that the tendency of the times may make almost universal. A generation or two ago, practically every young woman who got married had received some preparation, some training for the new life she was entering into. She had either been brought up in her parents' home, under her mother's guidance, or had been grounded in housework somewhere else. She therefore was a cook, a needlewoman, and a more or less competent housewife generally. Conditions have remarkably changed in the past thirty years or so. Women are entering occupations that do nothing to fit them for the duties of married life. Their work, while it unfits them for housekeeping, does not have the tendency of destroying their desire for marriage, and so they plunge into it with no preparation. Where the family purse is of goodly size, the use of money can mitigate the penalty of so much rashness; but the average man when he gets married has little but weekly wages that hitherto have only been sufficient to support himself.

It is of the utmost importance both to individuals and to the community that these young mothers should be taught the practical and mechanical arts of making a comfortable home. Schools for the purpose exist here and there, but it is doubtful if any of them reaches the people so successfully as the little institution down at Hartsdale, New York State.

Sunshine grates have maximum strength

Sunshine Furnace has four triangular grate bars, each having three distinct sides. In the single-piece and two-piece grate no such-like provision is made for expansion or contraction, and a waste of coal always follows a shaking.

On the left- and right-hand sides are cotter pins, which when loosened permit the grates to slide out. These four grate bars are made of heavy cast iron, and are finished up with bulldog teeth. The teeth will grind up the toughest clinker; and because the grates are made in sections, not only can nothing but dust and ashes pass through, but after each shaking a different side can be presented to the fire. Also, with the Sunshine grate there is no back-breaking movements attached to the shaking. By gently rocking the lever, first on the left and then on the right, the ashes are released on both sides, and fall through into the pan.

GENERAL NEWS

The Prince Albert Times will commence the publication of a daily paper on June 1st.

Calgary stores will close at five o'clock in the afternoon and nine o'clock Saturday nights.

The accounts in connection with the recent general election have now been practically all paid by Returning Officer F. C. Wright. The elections for this constituency cost about $10,000.—Humboldt Journal.

People who come from the good old province of Ontario claim that they can live cheaper down there. We cannot deny it now for the mental food for their children doesn't cost one-third as much as it does in this province?

Toronto, May 14.—A resolution passed by the Toronto University senate in favor of a separate college for women was today opposed by the undergraduates. Of two hundred and thirty-eight seen, two hundred and thirty were signatories to a petition that "We, women students of the University college have heard with much regret of the vote in the senate, to give us a separate college. We feel that such a step would be very much to the disadvantage of the university, and especially to women."

A draft order of the railway commission has gone into effect which provides for the keeping clean and disinfecting of railway cars, stations and waiting rooms, in order to prevent spread of contageous diseases. Hereafter all railway companies are required to make reports every month showing that all stations, waiting rooms, etc., are kept clean and properly ventilated. Notices must be posted in stations and cars prohibiting spitting, and cuspidors must be provided. Penalties are provided for companies and employees neglecting to obey the order.

STOLE BATTLESHIP PLANS

Boston, Mass., May 14.—Plans and specifications of a United States battleship, to secure which a foreign power would gladly pay a fortune, were stolen from a naval officer at the North station today.

They were recovered, however, by Policeman Augustus Murphy. Myron W. Buchanan, a naval architect, of Washington, D.C. was on his way to the Portsmouth navy yard and stopped to buy a ticket in the North station. As he stood at the ticket window he placed a suit case containing the documents on the floor. When he reached after it the suit case was gone. Murphy arrested a shabbily dressed man with the suit case two minutes later.

PUT THIS IN YOUR BIBLE.

A correspondent of the Springfield Republican some time ago wrote a list of chapters of the bible adapted to special cases:

If you have the blues, read the 27th Psalm.

If your pocket book is empty read the 37th Psalm.

If people seem unkind read the 15th chapter of John.

If you are discouraged about your work, read the 126th Psalm.

If you are out of sorts, read the 12th chapter of Hebrews.

If you are losing confidence in men, read the 13th chapter of First Corinthians.

If you can't have your own way in everything, keep silent, and read the third chapter of James.

JURYMAN'S OPINION

Toronto, May 14.—Attorney General Foy has received the following letter from R. B. Spera, foreman of the Kinrade jury: "I see by the press that you are to take up the Kinrade case early this week with the cabinet. The matter should be given the most searching inquiry in the interests of the city. It is no doubt a difficult task on account of the manner the evidence of the principal witness was given, but I feel as a juror that the verdict was not strong enough. I don't know what the medical report will be, but I feel that if sane, she is a dangerous girl, and as I have said, the tragedy should be followed up. I hope I have not trangressed in taking the liberty of writing you; but it is not a trifling matter."
