A. H. Price, the C. P. R. librarian, is mysteriously missing from Winnipeg.

Frank Restorick, of Walford, Ont., shipped fifty-eight very fine horses to England.

The individual seats that are to be placed in the new Main street Baptist church have arrived from Toronto.

Mark Cheney, aged 25, son of Mrs. Urania Cheney of Grand Harbor, Grand Manan, was drowned in Crystal lake, near South Gardiner, Mass., recently.

Ald. Frank Maguire, a guest at the Queen's Hotel, at St. Catharines, Ont., was found dead in his room, having taken an overdose of laudanum because of sleeplessness.

The Dominion Line Company has contracted with Messrs. Harland & Wolff, of Belfast, to build them another new steamer, which is to be called the Canada. This will be the largest and finest steamer that has yet been constructed for the Canadian trade.

Ottawa Journal: It is said that Mr. C. H. Masters will be promoted to the office of reporter of the Supreme Court, made vacant by the death of Mr. Duval. Rumor has named Mr. C. T. Delanaudiere of the Quebec bar for the position of assistant reporter.

The contract for the erection of the drill shed at Halifax has been awarded to J. E. Askwith, Ottawa, for $195,000. The tender of Mr. G. Keefe, Halifax, was $196,000. A stone building is to be put up. Tenders for a brick and stone building were asked for, and Mr. Askwith's tender was $190,000, while Mr. Keefe's was $187,000. All the other tenders were over $200,000.

Clarence Fleming was shot in the breast, but fortunately not seriously injured, by a companion named Thomas Smith, at Halifax on Monday night. Fleming was drinking in Barrett's resort, when Smith asked him to treat and on refusing he shot him. Fortunately the bullet struck the breast bone and glanced to one side. Smith escaped. He has already served three years in Dorchester.

It is generally believed that the fine new steamer purchased in England by the Dominion Atlantic Railway Company will be put on the route between Boston and Yarmouth. Many, however, think that the boat will be used on the Bay. It is most likely the former will be her route and that the purchase of the Monticello by the same corporation will soon be announced. Indeed, many believe the sale has already been completed, although the Monticello's owners deny it.—Globe.

The names of Dean Partridge, Archdeacon Brigstocke and Canon Roberts and G. R. Parker are among those of persons suggested as president of King's college, Windsor, N. S.

J. A. Tucker, the editor of Varsity, who was expelled from the Toronto University, has been presented with $500 by his late fellow students, to aid him in taking a course elsewhere.

Young St. Onge, accused of obtaining money under false pretences at Quebec, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. He is the party that passed himself off as private secretary to Lieut. Governor Chapleau, and masqueraded under other prominent people's names.

Lee Spragg, a young man about 20 years of age, son of A. B. Spragg, of Springfield, Kings county, is supposed to have been drowned Monday night. He was out in a canoe. Tuesday morning his upturned canoe was found on some rocks, but nothing has been seen or heard of the young man.

Sir Roger Goldsworth, formerly Governor of British Honduras, will probably be the successor of Governor O'Brien, of Newfoundland, who leaves for England the end of the month. The Legislature of Newfoundland will meet to-morrow, when, it is expected other retrenchments and loan announcement will be made.

A convention was held in the Baptist church at Salmon Creek, Queens county, recently, when a Sabbath School Association was formed, and the following officers were elected: W. C. King, president; J. C. Fraser, vice president; Mrs. H. B. Hay, secretary. Miss May Baird and W. R. Demmons were chosen to act in conjunction with the above officers as an executive committee.

DEATHS.

HENDERSON.—At North River, June 10th, of scarlet fever, Frank Elver, only son of Barrett and Janie Henderson, aged 18 months—a bright and promising child. His loss is deeply felt. May the Lord comfort the bereaved parents in this their hour of sore affliction.

MERRITT.—At Clementsport, Annapolis Co., N. S., June 7, at the home of her son, Eliza, widow of the late William Merritt, aged 86 years. Our aged sister was much comforted in her sickness which was long and painful. She rejoiced in God and died in peace; was a member of the Clementsport Baptist church and left a good record. May the Lord comfort the mourners and raise up others with the same vigorous type of piety.

STUBBERT.—At North Sydney, C. B., June 10, after three months illness, James A. Stubbert, aged 40 years. Bro. Stubbert was a member of the Baptist church of North Sydney, having made a profession of religion a number of years ago. It is not much over a year since his dear wife was called away from the present life. He leaves a sad home of nine children to mourn the loss of a kind father. May the good Lord bless them and guide them to the home on high.

ADAMS.—At Tracy Mills, on April 25, 1895, of paralysis, James H. Adams, aged 72 years. He was baptised thirty six years ago, by Rev. William Harris, and remained a consistent member of the Centreville Baptist church, until death. He was a kind and affectionate husband, and leaves behind him a wife and many relatives to mourn their great loss. Our brother was afflicted for years but grace was his stay and support, and now we feel he is where the inhabitants never say I am sick.

We Are Veterinary Surgeons.

In other words our business is the relief and cure of all forms of of disease in Horses, Cattle, and other domestic animals. A thorough education in the business, at the leading Veterinary College in America, and a long and extensive practice since, has given us the knowledge necessary to compound medicine useful in the treatment of the many diseases to which our domestic animals are subject. This is the principal reason why Manchester's Veterinary Remedies are looked upon by all reputable dealers as standard articles.

Keep the Above In Mind and when you require a Condition Powder, Liniment, etc., take no other than MANCHESTER'S, even though your dealer says it is just as good. Remember, he is deceiving you for the sake of larger profits on the inferior article.

HOW THEY PROSPERED

THE REASONS WHY OAK HALL WAS A BUSINESS SUCCESS.

A whole lot of Advice to Young Men from a Member of the Firm of Scovil Bros. & Co.

THE WAY TO DO, SECURE TRADE AND KEEP IT.

Some of the Modes of Advertising which Bring Remuneration.

What makes a successful business man?

Very many have tried to answer that question but only a man who has been successful can satisfactorily do it. There are thousands of ways to bring business but how many of the millions who have started out on a voyage to prosperity have attained what they sought? We have read and know of many men who began life without a penny and by energy and cleverness have won fortunes, but they will not all tell you how they did it.

I talked with a business man the other day about his success. He has been successful and wonderfully so, but when I asked him how he made so much money his only answer was, "By attending to my business young man." There is the secret of the whole thing, but there are lots of people who don't know what attending to business is. They have vague ideas of long hours and hard work, but it isn't the man who works the longest and the hardest who makes the money. It is the man who knows a good thing when he sees it and has the knack of letting the public know he has a good thing which they want. I am of a curious mind, and the other day decided to go and talk business with some one whom I thought had a thorough knowledge of it. I looked about the principal streets and finally saw the big Oak Hall building, on the corner of King and Germain streets. St. John citizens anyway will remember a few years ago when Messrs. Scovil, Fraser & Co. began business there. They didn't thrust an immense establishment on the public at first, but it grew gradually, until now, in charge of its new proprietors, Messrs. Scovil Bros. it is one of the finest clothing houses in the Dominion of Canada, and Messrs. Scovil Bros. know how to get business and how to keep it and that is the reason I went to them.

"Will I tell you something about business? said one member of the firm Well yes if you will tell me what you want to know."

"You would like me to give you some advice for young men and I will. When a young man is growing up a great deal depends on the clothes he wears. A well dressed young man is a credit to himself and all his friends think he is to them. A young man who is careless about his clothes is, in nine cases out of ten, careless in other ways and will never make a shrewd business man. He don't take an interest in himself and how can he in anything else?"

"A story is told of a number of boys who went to apply for a position in a mercantile office. Applicant after applicant filed in but they were all stood aside until finally a bright looking and neatly dressed young fellow walked in, hat in hand, nearly everyone else wore more expensive clothes than he, but his were tidy and clean. He answered all the proprietors questions satisfactorily and was given the position. It was noticed afterwards that he never looked shabby and he was asked one day how it was that he could dress so well on a small salary?" "Why," he replied, "I know where to buy my clothes."

"That is one of the things every young fellow should know, for you can readily understand that economy helps you along the road to prosperity. A young man when he first treads upon the verge of a business life should carefully watch his footsteps. He should always remember the old proverb, "you should learn to creep before you walk." We did it, and to day you can see the result.

How did we do it? Well, first we paid the strictest attention, after we started in business, to advertising. We consider the best way to advertise is to sell a man an article and let him tell his friends where he got it. We have always tried to satisfy all purchasers and if you do that you will find that they will send customers to you. In the clothing business this mode of advertising is particularly advantageous. We sell a man a suit of clothes. It fits him perfectly, makes a good looking man out of him whether he is or not. What does he do then? Why he will say to the person who asks him where he got those clothes, "at the Oak Hall" and we will sell another suit.

"Then we can often step out into the market and pick up special goods from the manufacturers that they loose money on, and in those cases our customers get special values. Although we don't make any money in these goods we sell them for the advertising they give us. Another way we have secured our popularity and trade, is by constantly making improvements in our stores for the convenience of customers. We add new rooms occasionally and keep them bright, clean and well lighted. An are light is in the front door so that our wares are displayed while we sleep. We never carry an overstock, at the end of the season we sell cheaply irrespective of what the goods cost when we got them."

"In the short time we have been in business our firm has become known all over Canada, both as wholesale and retail clothiers. This is due to lots of advertising and to being alive and active. A year and a half ago we sent to every school child in the province who applied for it, a scholar's companion. This of course pleased the children, but we sent them to boom ourselves, and we did, for soon we were sending out hundreds of suits of clothes and reaping the benefits of the seeds we had sown. The same year we gave away a bicycle worth $125, which every purchaser at Oak Hall had a chance of securing. At Easter every buyer in our store received a button hole boquet. They didn't cost us so very much but the wearers would all unconsciously advertise us by saying they got them at Oak Hall.

We have been continually adding new facilities for the display of goods. If trade is dull we force it, we don t discharge clerks or decrease expenses. We jump into the market and buy a quantity of goods at close prices, cash or ten days. We take the goods, place them in our windows and sell them for just what we paid for them and not a penny more. In 99 cases out of 100 our store will be crowded with people buying these goods. The clerks are kept busy and these same people will buy other goods and in that way give us actual profit on our day's business.

Without doubt we have three stores of which there are no equals in Canada. The one here in St. John our people have all seen and the other two at Halifax and St. Stephen are equally familiar to the citizens of those places. One secret of our success has been our honesty towards customers.

If anyone purchases an article and it is not satisfactory they can return it and have their money refunded. We don't have many things come back but we always tell a purchaser that he or she has the privilege and it goes a long way towards maintaining the confidence the public has in us. One of the things my partners and I always impress on our clerks is the necessity of courtesy to our patrons.

We never allow a rude or unpleasant word to be said to the smallest child who enters our stores and whether they purchase a cents worth or a dollars worth the same rule is always observed. No one has ever entered any of our establishments who can say other than that the conduct of our clerks has not been that of gentlemen.

A one price business is what we have always conducted. Our goods are always marked in plain figures which any can read for themselves. The prices are never too high but we always sell for the amount marked on the goods. Our windows have been specially constructed for this display of goods. Every day we show in them something new, we believe in variety and in letting people on the street know what we have in the store. Every article in the windows has near it the story of its quality and price, and in that way thousands of patrons have been brought to us. A person will often come in to examine more closely some article he has seen in the windows and he will never leave without buying something."

"During the number of years we have been in business we have never read newspapers or smoked cigars in business hours. We never leave the store unless in cases of necessity, and are always on hand to receive and wait on customers personally. That is the way we keep business moving onward and upward. Our letter order department is increasing every day as it receives the strictest attention. Orders received by mail are attended to the same day.

Customers were getting so numerous, when I had learned this much, that Mr. Scovil was forced to leave me, but I could not leave the establishment until I had seen more of it. With one of the genial clerks as a guide I strolled though the various departments and saw more clothing in a few minutes than I could carry away in six months. In one place was a mass of children's suits, and in another piles for boys. On several counters were handsomely finished men's outfits and in the lower store all sorts of imaginable clothier's goods. The manufacturing room was a scene of bustle and neatness, and I could not tell you how many articles were being made. The foreman said to me, "you should come in and see us some day when we are busy." I won't though, for a human mind can grasp just so much. Were I thrust into a throng of hustling women and men, larger than I saw on this visit, I would become confused and could not tell you about it. When you have read how Oak Hall became what it is you will thank the good natured man who told me of it, and perhaps before long will call on him and his partners and clerks and see and learn for yourself. Then you will have ringing in your ears the words of Suengali with an attraction to suit the occasion.

You shall hear of nothing, see nothing, think of nothing but Oak Hall! Oak Hall!! Oak Hall!!!
