A Long, Long Sigh.

Pope talks about wafting a sigh from Indies to the Pole. A long, long sigh that would be. Talk about sighing, why if all the sighs of the women of the world, for just one day, could be gathered in one sigh, it would be long enough to reach from here to the farthest fixed star. But thousands of women suffer and sigh because the victims of disease. Others would suffer as sorely and sigh as often if they had not been wise enough to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is a wonderful recuperator of wasted strength and of sovereign efficacy in all those derangements and maladies peculiar to their sex, by which the vitality is sapped and the seeds of death are sown.

Dr. R. V. Pierce: Dear Sir—I have taken the "Favorite Prescription" and I can recommend it to any body that suffers with any female disease. I have tried several doctors' prescriptions but none did me the good that yours did. Yours respectfully,

Sickening Sights.

Unearthing the Bodies of the Forest Fire Victims.

Heaps of Charred Trunks Unceremoniously Buried.

Sad Spectacle That Met a Reporter's Eye —The Lives Lost Estimated at 400— Damage in the Millions —Rain Falling.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 3.—Forest fires in this State are hourly increasing in fury, and nothing but heavy rain can prevent widespread ruin. Fires are raging along the entire line of the Michigan Central, from Bay City to Mackinaw. Gagstown is surrounded by flames, and the people are battling to save the town. Gladyn is also threatened with destructoin.

ONE MILLION GONE UP IN SMOKE.

PINE CITY, Minn., Sept. 3.—The loss at Hinckley will reach $1,000,000, over half of which falls upon the Brennan Lumber Company—the largest institution in the place. The loss at Mission Creek is estimated at $120,000.

SOLDIERS TO THE RESCUE.

FORT SNELLING, Minn., Sept. 3.—Company "G" of the Third United States Infantry has left on a special train for Hinckley to furnish tents and blankets to the people. The soldiers are equipped with ammunition, and are to do guard duty protecting property and supplies.

The total loss of life will never be definitely known. There were scattered along the woods settlers' clearings and lumber camps with their watchmen, and many persons were undoubtedly burned there who will never be found.

COUNTED 312 DEAD BODIES.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 3.—A special correspondent investigating the fire in the towns burned on the St. Paul and Duluth road counted 312 dead bodies. There are 217 dead at Hinckley, 17 at Sandstone, 22 at Pine City and 56 between Sandstone and Miller, with the interior to hear from.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 3.—A relief train returned this morning from a run down the St. Paul and Duluth road, bringing about 250 destitute and blistered people from points along the line at Sandstone. Fifty bodies, most of which have been identified, were found. The work of searching for the dead still continues. Another train is being made up here to carry supplies, clothing and doctors.

RAIN FALLING.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 3.—All the stations between here and Rutledge report rain falling, fires dying out, and that no further trouble need be feared, provided a strong wind does not spring up.

HINCKLEY'S AWFUL EXPERIENCE.

HINCKLEY, Minn., Sept. 3.—The first good description of the great fire that swept away this thriving village was secured today. Saturday afternoon the fire approached, fanned by a strong wind. The smoke grew denser as the day advanced and it soon became as dark as night. About 4 o'clock the wind changed and the residents of the doomed town saw that the flames were bearing down upon them. The fire shot across the town and the people fled in all directions. They ran wherever they thought they could find refuge. A large number ran to a pond some three or four acres in extent and three or four feet deep. The largest crowd of people rushed to Grindstone River, a shallow stream, which it was thought would afford protection from the flames. But the water was too low and all miserably perished. There the relief parties found the bodies lying in the water and rudely

TRAMPLED BY THE FLYING CATTLE.

Just as the flames were raging fiercest a train arrived over the Eastern Minnesota and 500 people clambered aboard. It was a godsend to the people, who offered up prayers of thankfulness as the engineer sent the train at a rapid speed away from the burning town and back to safety in Superior.

Another party had rushed for the limited on the St. Paul and Duluth, but as the fire cut off their way in that direction they ran to a shallow pond nearby. There they perished. One hundred and five bodies were removed from the pond by the relief committee.

East of the village there was a stagnant pool of rainwater. Over 100 people sought refuge here, and of these only one man is known to have perished. The immense plant of the Brennan Lumber Company, with saw mills, planing mills, stables, and 28,000,000 feet of pine lumber, was wiped out in almost less time than it takes to write it. With the stables were consumed 90 head of horses. The financial loss to this company alone will reach $500,000, on which there is an insurance of about one-half.

AN AWFUL RIDE.

A United Press reporter boarded the train out of Pine City for Hinckley this evening. Alongside the tracks were scores of boxes filled with bloated and disfigured remains of victims of the fire. The reporter picked his way through the deserted avenues of the village to the cemetery. Rain was pouring down in sheets. At the cemetery, a mile and a half from town, a half dozen men were digging a trench. A heap of bodies lay on a knoll in the middle of the cemetery. There were 96 naked bodies of men, women and children, scorched, blackened, distorted, bowels and brains protuding, hands clutched in their final agonies, hair singed from the heads, old, young and middleaged, all in a promiscuous heap. In another corner of the cemetery were 45 more bodies covered with quilts.

A large majority of those lost were Scandinavians. Reports continue to come in from the vicinity of Skunk Creek of additional discoveries of burned victims. The total in this vicinity will reach fully 400 dead when returns are all in.

BIG FIRES STILL RAGING.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 4.—Trainmen of the Northwestern Railroad from the north report a number of forest fires along the line from Commonwealth to Menominee. At Springville, Mich., a forest fire was raging, and at the time the train came through a portion of the town seemed to be in danger. On the northern section of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, between Ontonegon and Channing, in Michigan, communication is interrupted. No definite reports are received in consequence, but it is believed that many of the lumber camps have suffered greatly. For a distance of 40 miles along the railroad between the points named there are large lumber camps and mills, and it is believed some of them were destroyed.

This Afternoon's Telegrams—Heartrending Details.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Sept. 4.—Near Milacia a family of five took refuge in a well. The fire extended to the woodwork surrounding it and after it was burned off caused the well to cave in and all five perished by drowning.

A farmer named Robert Barnes sent his son to town, a distance of three miles, and shortly afterward he was found dead a mile from his house.

A special from Mora, Minn., state that many of those injured in the Pokegama fire are dying from their wounds, and the number of deaths exceed 50. A carload of merchandise for distribution among the sufferers of Pokegama was sent out from here yesterday afternoon and is being distributed there. A force of men is repairing burned buildings and railroad tracks. Railroad officials are of the opinion that they will not get into Hinckley before Thursday, and relief for Pokegama must be taken there on hand cars.

A heavy rain visited this section of the burning district yesterday afternoon and the flames along the line are fast dying out. No further danger is apprehended at Bridgeman, Milacia or Mora. More relief is being gathered here and will be forwarded tomorrow. Medical aid is needed more than anything else to take care of the wounded and maimed, who are suffering unutterable torture.

NINE TOWNS DESTROYED.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 4.—Another town has fallen a prey to the devouring flames, making nine in all that have been consumed. This time the village of Granite on the Omaha road, 2 miles south of Barette, is the victim. A good share of the town, a saw mill and 5,000,000 feet of lumber were consumed. No lives lost. The mail agent on the Omaha northbound arrived here last evening and stated that the face of the entire country is so completely changed by the disaster that he would not know it was the same country.

HEROIC TELEGRAPH OPERATORS.

C. F. Murray, the Eastern road's operator at Hinckley, has not been found and it is feared that he is dead. Murray was the man who wired here the first report of the disaster, saying that the fires were coming up like magic, that one minute he saw a few flames down the track and a moment later sent word that he must leave the instrument as the flames were on him.

Mr. Bullis, agent of the Eastern Minnesota at Sandstone, arrived here last night. It was thought he had perished. Sandstone station is a mile out of the town of the same name, and Kettle River, crossed by a great bridge, flows between. Bullis was at his instrument when the eastern train, bringing 500 refugees, passed back into Sandstone. He flagged the train in the darkness, went back to his burning office, wired north to stop all south-bound business to give a free road and sent the train back as quickly as possible, knowing that the bridge might be afire any moment. When the train arrived at the 1,500 foot bridge, Flagman Jessemore saw it burning brightly in several places, but he at once decided that the chance of getting over was preferable to suffocation on the track and it went on. Five hundred lives blessed the promptness of these two men. After Jessemore left the bridge he hurried with all speed onward to Sandstone and found the people in the river. They were in the water four or five hours.

Word came in later that 51 bodies were buried at Sandstone yesterday and 12 are still missing. A relief train left here for that place and brought back 50 survivors and 20 or more injured on stretchers.

THE WELCOME RAIN.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 4.—Nearly all those who survived the terrible fires in Northern Minnesota have now been removed to places of safety in Superior and Duluth, and as a very heavy rain has fallen on the flames there will be no further casualties.

THE TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER.

At Sandstone there is not a sign of a body in the town. Around or in the ruins of each house were found several human bodies. The living inhabitants of the town were brought into Superior this morning. Three hundred and twenty-eight bodies were lying in the streets. They are being buried as rapidly as possibly.

At Pokegama, on the Great Northern, there are 28 corpses. They are still lying unburied. At Partridge only two are dead, though not a building is standing. It is impossible to tell where Partridge was, as the whole surrounding country is in ashes. Passenger traffic was resumed on the St. Paul and Duluth Railway today, but Great Northern through trains will not be running for some time.

RAGING IN NEW YORK.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Forest fires are raging in portions of western New York. In Chautauqua county the flames are sweeping through meadows, woods and farms, reducing to waste everything in their path. Pickets are posted to announce the advance of the fire, but its velocity is such that the families have barely time to escape before their property is enveloped in flames. Near Falconer the farmers have had to organize a bucket brigade to keep the flames from burning their houses and barns, but notwithstanding this several farms have been laid waste.

In Erie county, in the vicinity of Windom, a forest fire is raging and unless rain comes soon great damage will be done. The fire started in the underbrush and spread with frightful rapidity. Farmers have turned out in a body to plow the surrounding land and endeavor to check the progress of the flames.

OUT OF THE GRASSHOPPERS INTO THE FIRE.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The fierce forest fires now raging south of here threaten disaster to everything in its path. Already thousands of dollars worth of property has gone up in smoke, and the work of destruction continues unchecked notwithstanding the vigorous efforts of hundreds of men, women and children who are fighting the flames day and night. This morning the flames reached a point just south of Fredonia, and every available man in the village and surrounding country in fighting the fiery demon. The village is practically without fire protection, the water in the reservoir having been nearly exhausted on account of the long continued drought, and should the fire gain headway the entire town would be wiped out.

Farmers are in a terrible predicament. Those who escaped the ravages of the grasshopper plague are now having their season's crops destroyed by fire.

TWO TOWNS WIPED OUT.

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Sept. 4. A forest fire has destroyed Curtis and Cushing, a few miles west of here. The loss at Cushing wat about $35,000; at Curtis the loss was abou $25,000. A great deal of timber was destroyed. One hundred persons are homeless, but no lives were lost.

In Cumberland, Wis., over 50 families are sleeping out of doors. Gov. Peck has ordered the purchase of food and clothing for refugees.
