THE GUESTS OF KING EDWARD

Eight Hundred Feasts Sufficed For 800,000 People.

Thirteen Waiters from Royalty, and at the Tables Many of the Classes Waited on the Masses in Literal Fashion—The Total Cost Was $150,000—A Memorable Day—The Queen Thanks God—King's Recovery Is Assured.

London, July 7.—About one-tenth of the population of metropolitan London enjoyed the King's hospitality, and at least eighty thousand attendants waited upon them at eight hundred feasts in the twenty-nine boroughs.

The statistics of this unexampled bounty to the London poor might be extended to the mileage of the tables, the tonnage of the provision consumed and many other details; but the spirit of loyalty and affection of the classes for their Sovereign could not be summed up in cold figures, nor could the perfection of the organization with which the general scheme of the entertainment has been worked out be disclosed in this way.

Every onlooker at these dinners was impressed with the heartiness with which the King's health was drunk and his special message received and with which the National Anthem was sung. The King, in consequence of his illness, command without doubt the sympathy of the masses to an exceptional degree.

The largest company of diners at any one place was at Fulham, where the Bishop of London said grace and the Prince and Princess of Wales were spectators. The greatest number under a single roof was 10,500 at the factory of the London General Omnibus Company, where Princess Christian was warmly welcomed. Thirteen members of the royal family were indefatigable in visiting as many dining places as possible.

Two Course Dinners.

The same general order was followed at the eight hundred dinners. There were two courses, one with a choice of four or five kinds of meat and vegetables and plum pudding for a sweet, and ale, beer, cider and ginger ale were served, and every guest had a little smoking. There were presented to the women and children a quarter of a pound of chocolate and a souvenir coronation mug. Thousands of well-to-do women waited on them, and eighteen hundred musicians, singers, reciters and other artists entertained them. To every man was presented a package of cigarettes and another of tobacco, but there was entertainments at more than half the dinners, Arthur Roberts leading the way at the great hall of the Law Courts and the grounds of London Hospital, and nearly all the concert singers and music hall artists of London offering their professional services. Most of the professional performers had the good taste to appear handsomely dressed, as though they were entertaining West End drawing-rooms instead of the poorest people of London.

Masses and Classes in Touch.

The entertainments provided for the King's six hundred thousand guests were enjoyed even more heartily than the excellent dinners, and masses and classes were brought into sympathetic touch at the close of the interrupted coronation festivities.

King's Message.

At every gathering was read a message from the King to the poor, sent through the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, as follows:

"Buckingham Palace, 11.20 a.m.

"I am commanded by the King to inform Your Lordship that His Majesty and the Queen had intended visiting some of his coronation dinners to-day, and he deeply regrets that his illness prevents their doing so. The King deputed members of his family to represent him at as many of these dinners as possible. I are further commanded by the King to express his hope that his guests are enjoying themselves and passing a happy day. (Signed) Knollys."

QUEEN THANKS GOD.

The King Grateful For Sympathy and Getting on Very Favorable Now—The Latest Bulletins Issued.

Washington, July 5.—The President has received the following cablegram from Queen Alexandra:

"London, July 4.— The President, Washington:

"The King is most grateful for kind sympathy. He is, thank God, getting on very favorably now.

(Signed.) ALEXANDRA."

London, July 5. (10.12 a.m.)—The following bulletin regarding King Edward's condition was posted at Buckingham Palace at 10 o'clock this morning: His Majesty had another excellent night. He is cheerful and feels much stronger. We are glad to be able to state that we consider the King now out of danger. The evening bulletins will, therefore, be discontinued. (Signed.) Treves, Laking, Barlow."

Recovery Assured.

Lodnon, July 6.—The following bulletin was posted at 9 o'clock this morning at Buckingham Palace: "The King's progress continues to be in every way satisfactory. (Signed.) Treves, Laking, Barlow."

The King's recovery, which is now assured since yesterday's bulletin said he was out of danger, implies a great increase of his popularity among all classes, whose hearts have been touched by his struggle for life. What the coronation ritual described as his "inthronization" has been accomplished in the sick room without the blare of trumpets or the manifestations of titled homage.

Good Progress Sunday.

Although no more evening bulletins regarding the condition of King Edward are to be issued, it was announced at Buckingham Palace this evening that His Majesty had made good progress since morning, and that he was much gratified with the accounts he received of the successful carrying out of the plans for the dinners for the poor in London. The King received many telegrams of thanks and congratulations from the scene of these festivities, declaring that the pleasure of the occasion was vastly enhanced by the tidings that His Majesty was out of danger.

The Prince's Thanks.

On his arrival at York House this evening, after a long tour of the many dining rendezvous, the Prince of Wales telegraphed to the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, that the program was everywhere carried out without a hitch. The Prince in this despatch commended all the mayors and all others concerned for the excellency of the arrangements for the dinners and thanked the people for the hearty welcomes accorded himself and the Princess.

Sir Thomas Lipton, the general chairman of the feast, has transmitted his thanks to all responsible for the organization of the feasts for their painstaking devotion in carrying out the wishes of the King.

The Queen Creates Enthusiasm.

The appearance of Queen Alexandra as she drove out in an open carriage for an hour this evening, accompanied by some of the royal guests as the palace, occasioned enthusiasm in the park and in the streets which Her Majesty traversed.

Germans Cheer For King.

Travemunde, Germany, July 7.—After awarding the prizes to the winners in the North German Association yacht races here Saturday, Emperor William read a telegram from King Edward's physicians announcing that His Majesty was out of danger and called for three cheers for the King, which were heartily given.

Injured in London.

Belleville, July 7.—Word has been received here of a serious accident to James Johnson, brother of ex-Mayor Johnson. He was knocked down by a cab in London, England, and for a time his life was despaired of. Mr. Johnson was formerly editor of The Ottawa Citizen and The Kingston Daily Whig.

EXPECTS VICTORY SOON.

What President Mitchell of the Miners Says to Them Sunday.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 7.—It is the opinion of mining men that the back bone of the strike is broken, while the leaders of the strike declare vigorously that their ranks are solid.

President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers delivered an address before the striking firemen, who held a meeting in this city yesterday. If President Mitchell's remarks are to be taken as the sentiment at strike headquarters, then there is little probability that the miners are yet willing to give up the strike. Mr. Mitchell said:

"On all the strikes of my recollection, or of any that I have ever participated in, there never was one. I was so confident of winning as this one. And let me tell you that the day is not far away when my words will come true. One thing I wish to impress upon you people, and that is, this great strike will never be settled with my consent only on condition that each and every man that has left his place with us in our battle shall be returned to his former position; otherwise there shall be no settlement that will permit discrimination for taking an active part in our battle."

9,000 to Strike in Chicago.

Chicago, July 7.—The freight handlers, numbering nearly 9,000 men, employed in the different railway warehouses and depots in Chicago at a special meeting last night, decided to go on strike within 48 hours, to enforce their demands for higher wages.

To Fill Strikers' Places.

Winnipeg, July 7.—The Canadian Northern brought in sixty men Saturday night to fill the places of strikers. These men came by boat from Fort William, and the car was switched into Canadian Northern yards, where the company will house and look after them. The strikers are confident that they will induce many of them not to work, and if any have been brought from the States they will likely get the authorities after the company for violating the Alien Labor Act.

Justice Richardson Stricken.

Winnipeg, July 7.—A Regina, N.W.T., despatch says: Justice Richardson has been stricken with apoplexy and lies in a critical condition at his home. Drs. Bell and Graham were at his bedside all night.

The Hon. Hugh Richard on practised law in London and Woodstock, Ont., till 1872. He went to the N.W.T. in 1876. In 1887 he was a judge of the Supreme Court of the N.W.T. He is now chief justice. He presided at the trial of Louis Reil. He is now 76 years of age.

More Immigrants.

Halifax, July 7.—The steamer Assyria arrived from Hamburg with 775 immigrants. They will proceed to points in the Northwest this morning.

Inmates of B.C. Fort Had Week's Seance With Redskins.

Vancouver, B.C., July 5.—The historic Hudson Bay fort, Saint James, British Columbia, was recently attacked by Indians, halfbreeds and thoroughbreds. Some of them were escaped felons. They killed the cook, chased the officials away and made a charge for the storehouse, the only entrance to the fort. They were met by a hail of bullets from the rifles manipulated by the factor board of the fort and a friend of the cook, who wished to avenge his death and had taken his place. The Indians retreated, but for a week made frequent sorties and charges in an attempt to get at the liquor and stores.

In the meantime, a friendly Indian was despatched to the nearest post for help. Police Officer McLean went from Quesnell alone in disguise, as a posse of police would have been attacked and perhaps murdered. Dressed as an Indian he entered the rear of the fort, and the three brave men of the fort made a night raid and boldly arrested three of the ringleaders. They took their prisoners to civilization to be tried.

BEGIN AT THE BOTTOM.

A successful business man sent his son to college, and when the young man graduates the father called him into his office, relates Boyce's Hustler, and said: "My son, in a few years I wish you to take my place and continue the business I have established. I think all the world of you, and there is nothing I would not sacrifice for your benefit. The first thing necessary for you in conducting the business is experience. If I could buy experience for you I would gladly pay $100,000. I would not hesitate a minute. But since the world began no man has been entitled to start in at the top. If you are to make a success it is necessary for you to give careful attention to every feature of the business you expect to manage. You must begin at the bottom and spend several weeks in each department of every kind of work so as to learn for yourself how to do the things which you tell others to do. No one is fit to manage until he has himself been managed. Whenever you read about a house continuing in prosperous business through several generations you may be sure that the successive proprietors started in at the bottom and learned how to do things they afterwards tolds others to do."

CHURCH NOTES.

Mrs. Bowles, of Leamington, sang a selection at the First church of Christ Scientist, very acceptably on Sunday evening.

Rev. Mr. Bosworth addressed the Baptist congregation in town on Sunday in the interests of the Grande Ligne Mission work.

Mr. C. Harry Boehmer sang a solo during the offertory at the church of St. John the Evangelist last evening, which was a rare treat to those present. He is one of the principal tenors of the Castle Square Opera Co., of New York, and is the fortunate possessor of a magnificent dramatic tenor voice which shows every sign of the highest cultivation. He sings with remarkable ease and sympathetic expression and gives every promise of a brilliant future. Mr Boehmer is another of our rising young artists of whom Berlin may well be proud.

AT TRINITY CHURCH.

Rev. D. W. Snider, the new pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, preached his introductory sermon on Sunday forenoon. There was a large congregation despite the excessive heat, who heard a heart to heart talk, rather than a sermon.

Prayer was his theme, and he expressed his sincere faith in the efficacy of the prayers of God's people. In prayer he and they address God as "Our Father." Thus they are all brethren in the great family of God's redeemed and he expressed the hope that a prayerful, brotherly spirit might always prevail during his sojourn here. Both he and his co-workers in the congregation need prayer. He wanted to be regarded as human and not raised on a pedestal, and as such he required the containing prayers of his flock. He prayed for strength of utterance. That he might be given the power to speak the Truth and preach Jesus Christ and the words that could not be held back by any trusts or combination of interests. He asked them to pray for opportunities to do good, and to seize upon them as well as simply asking for them. He decried the tendency of congregations to lend themselves to harsh and uncharitable criticisms, which always close the door upon opportunities for good doing. He told his flock that he is coming to them across the Bible—the inspired word of God; and with belief in its truths and an implicit faith in its promises, he extended his greetings and the right hand of fellowship between pastor and people. He hoped to see the work of God's Kingdom prosper, and that all the church's agencies for good would work in harmony and in the power of His might.

During the offertory Mrs. Bowles of Leamington, sang with exceeding sweetness and power the solo, "There were Ninety- and Nine."

DRIVEN FROM HOME BY RIVER.

Bow Rose in the Night and Threatens the Dwellings of Calgary.

Calgary, N.W.T., July 5.—Moderate rain fell all day Thursday until about 5 o'clock, when it began to rain very hard, continuing nearly all the night. The Bow River rose rapidly during the night, and when morning dawned the river flats were a waste of swirling, rushing water.

Some people had moved out Thursday night in anticipation of a flood. Other houses were flooded out during the night, and the inhabitants had to be taken out in boats. Crowds of citizens gathered to watch the work of the rescuers. The firemen and mounted police rendered splendid service in this work.

The water is now within fourteen inches of high water mark of the great flood of 1892. People in the vicinity are preparing to move should the river rise higher. The rain has ceased and it is hoped that the river will not rise any higher.
