A MUSICAL TREAT FOR SYMPHONY CLUB

Mr. W. Caven Barron Played a Number of His Own Composition.

BURWELL TOO GAY WITH A SHOOTER

Flourished Pistol in the Bar of a Local Hotel the Other Night.

WAS REMANDED TO JAIL

Police Magistrate Says the Man Should Get the Whiskey Out of His System.

For having a seven-shooter revolver in his possession and showing it in the Hotel Windsor and for being drunk, Frank Burwell was remanded to jail for a week by Magistrate Love this morning.

Burwell pleaded hard to be allowed to go, and promised to get out of town, but the court thought he would benefit considerably by a week's visit at Castle Carter, and sent him down.

Burwell created considerable amusement by the way he replied to the questions put to him.

An Easy Drinker.

In the box he stated that until about three weeks ago he had not had a drink for a year.

"You have been drinking pretty hard since, haven't you?" asked the court.

"Some people might think so, but it was pretty easy for me," said Burwell.

"How many drinks did you have on Dec. 28?" asked the court.

"Now, you know I never in my life kept track of how many drinks I take," said the prisoner, "but I probably had twenty."

"What do you drink?" asked the magistrate.

"Any old thing that makes me drunk," was the reply.

Burwell explained that he had bought a 22-calibre revolver to give his sister for Christmas. It cost him $7, he said, and the man who sold it gave him two boxes of cartridges. He admitted flourishing the revolver in the barroom of the Hotel Windsor, and said Mr. James had taken it away from him, because James thought he was drunk.

Wasn't Drunk, Though.

Witness did not consider that he was drunk.

Mr. C. C. James, in the box, said that Burwell was showing a revolver in the barroom, and that he had asked him for it and Burwell gave it to him to keep.

"I want to save you from yourself," the court told Burwell. "I fear that some serious results may happen. I fear that you might injure yourself. As your friend, I am going to remand you for a week to get the whiskey out of you."

COL. McNEILL DIES.

A Popular Soldier.

The Huron County Tribune, of Bad Axe, Mich., says:

The article below, copied from the Cable News, Manila, Philippine Islands, of Nov. 5, will convey the first information to the people of Bad Axe of the death of Major McNeil, who was raised in this section, and is still well known in Southern Huron and Northern Sanilac Counties. His father, Mr. James McNeil, now in Lansing, has been a resident of Celtax for many years, and three brothers of deceased, Thomas, Fred and William, now live there, all well-to-do and prosperous farmers.

As noted in the clipping, Major McNeil was a man of fine parts and estimable character, generally liked by acquaintances everywhere. He was a soldier by profession and was a favorite with his army comrades:

"Sergeant-Major McNeil, of Company E, Twelfth Infantry, died at the post hospital at 6 a.m. yesterday, of gastro enteritis and acute nephritis. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The band of the Twelfth played for the funeral, and each company was represented by two commissioned officers and two squads. The Twelfth Cavalry, Seventh Infantry and the artillery were also represented in the procession. The funeral was largely attended by the officers, and a very impressive service was conducted by Chaplain Dallam, of the Twelfth Infantry.

"McNeil's home was at Bad Axe, Michigan, where his father, James McNeil lives. He was born in London, Canada, coming to the United States when a little boy.

Twelve Years in the Army.

"McNeil had twelve years' service in the army, ten years of which were served in the coast artillery, of which arm he was a junior grade sergeant-major. He served in the Spanish-American war, being in the campaigns in Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippine Islands. His age was 35 years.

"McNeil was a finely-built man physically, being over six feet in height, and was often spoken of as being one of the finest-looking soldiers in the regiment. He was well liked by every man in the regiment, and was undoubtedly one of the most deservedly popular men in the organization.

"The men of the company desired to purchase a handsome set piece of flowers, for the funeral, but none could be procured in time. On account of this, two privates were detailed by direction of Captain Reed to visit the officers' quarters and ask for donations of flowers. The officers and their ladies responded liberally, and many beautiful flowers were thus procured for the services.

"Company E was on guard yesterday at the time of the funeral, but as each man requested permission to attend, the company was relieved, in order that they might do so. This shows what a well-liked and popular man McNeil was among the men of his company. All the regiments are very much grieved at losing a good man and most excellent soldier."

MONTREAL ALDERMEN TO THE PRIVY COUNCIL

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—Leave to appeal to the Privy Council was given this morning by Chief Justice Fitzpatrick to the seven Montreal aldermen who were disqualified by a decision of the supreme court last week declaring it had been illegal to pay the expenses of Mayor Payette and Clerk Bauset to the Champlain celebration in France. If the privy council agrees with the Canadian supreme court these seven aldermen who composed the Montreal finance committee will have to make good $3,800, and stand disqualified for two years. The decision this morning gives them their old status in the meantime.
