SPORT IN CURLING RINKS.

FLAVELLE FAVORITE IN THE WINNIPEG BONSPIEL.

His Two Hard-Earned Victories of Yesterday—Granites Defeat Prospect Park in a Friendly Match—High-Priced Horseflesh—Local Pointers of Sporting Interest.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.—The Manitoba curling bonspiel opened here to-day. The first event on the program was the competition for the Grand Challenge Cup.

Flavelle of Lindsay got through the second draw, playing two hard matches. He defeated Huffman of the local Thistles in the afternoon and immediately afterwards went on ice against Robinson of Portage la Prairie, winning by 7 shots.

Mark Fortune, the winner of the Grand Challenge prize last year, also won twice. Harstone's famous rink was also successful. Manitoba and Ontario will probably come against each other. Flavelle is favorite.

THE ATHENÆUM CLUB.

Gratifying Statements at the Annual Meeting—New Abode Nearly Ready.

The eighth annual meeting of the Athenæum Club was held last evening in its rooms, so soon to be abandoned. It is expected that the new building will be ready for occupation about March 1. The attendance was the largest in many years. Mr. Charles Pearson, president, occupied the chair.

The annual report and financial statement were submitted. This stated the membership at the present time to be 1000. The pecuniary affairs of the organization are in a flourishing condition. The report also referred to the Athenæum Bicycle Club, 50 members now having been enrolled.

Mr. Arthur Pearson, who has acted zealously, energetically and faithfully in the capacity of secretary for a period of five years, retired, and Mr. J. P. Langley was appointed to fill the vacancy thus occasioned.

The following were elected directors: Messrs. Charles Pearson, Fred Nicholls, J. P. Edwards, R. F. Lord, W. K. McNaught, C. B. Jackes, A. T. Johnston, J. E. Matthews, G. C. Brown, J. J. Higgins, G. W. King and H. J. Hill.

The following officers were elected: President, Frederic Nicholls; vice-president, W. K. McNaught; hon. treasurer, C. B. Jackes.

The Eastern League.

ALBANY, Feb. 9.—Albany, Troy, Lebanon, Buffalo, Binghamton, Elmira, Erie, Pa., Toronto, Providence, New Haven and Rochester were represented at the meeting of the Eastern Baseball League held at Fenimore Hotel in this city to-day.

Applications from the above cities for representation in the circuit of eight clubs, which is to be formed, were received and referred to a committee comprising J. J. Franklin of Buffalo, E. T. Fassett of Albany, and President C. D. White.

This committee will visit the cities which have applied for representation in the circuit and report to a meeting of the league to be called.

The plan of organization for clubs embraces the millennium scheme, which provides for the signing of all players by the secretary of the Eastern League and the allotment of 12 players to each club at a salary limit for each club of $2000 a month.

Provision was also made for a double championship season, the first season to run from about May 1 to July 1 and second from the latter date to the end of the season. A final series of three or five championship games will then have to be played only in event of a different club winning both championship series. Each club is obliged to deposit $1000 as a guarantee fund.

Racing at the Park.

GLOUCESTER, Feb. 9.—First, 6½ furlongs—Templemore, Boodle, Wigwam; 1.32¾. Second, ⅝ mile—Woodbury, Westfarms, Valkyr; 1.09. Third, mile—Umpire Kelly, Embla, Bravo; 1.54¾. Fourth, 6½ furlongs—Can't Tell, Topmast, Little Addie; 1.20¼. Fifth, ⅝ mile—Bonnie Lass, Barthena, Pickidene; 1.07. Sixth, 4½ furlongs—Red Elm, Paroline, Cloverdale; 1.01¼.

The O.J.C. Program.

Mr. Lyndhurst Ogden, secretary of the O.J.C., has just completed the publication of the neat program for the May meeting. It is a clever display of printing and will be a welcome visitor to racing men everywhere in Canada and across the line. All the conditions, regulations, etc., as given last week, are neatly embodied in the book.

The Local Commission Room.

The commission men are progressing to their satisfaction. They will have their tickets out to-day or to-morrow and expect to open up by Saturday. Besides the Morality Department, the O.J.C. and Woodbine Driving Club will object to the business as being a detriment to attendance at their races.

Hamilton's Ice Races.

HAMILTON, Feb. 9.—2.30 class: Collins' Dick Smith won, Stokes' Legatee 2, Goodfellow's Slick 3. Best time 2.30. 2.30 class: Stokes' Billy won, Dixon's Mayflower 2, Brown's Sunday 3. Best time 2.22¾.

Last Night's Recital.

Probably never since the days in which Bellew, Vandenhoff and Mrs. Scott Siddons visited this city have its elocution-loving residents been afforded a better opportunity for gratifying their predilection than was given by the representative Canadian and American readers, Miss Jessie Alexander of Toronto and Mr. Charles Roberts of New York, at their combined recital in the Pavilion last evening. That this species of entertainment, when efficient exponents of the art are the principals, is becomingly increasingly popular was amply evidenced by the large proportions of the audience present. Every seat was occupied and many were forced to stand.

Miss Alexander is too well known to need any extended notice. She was unusually happy in rendering her selections. The reminiscence of an experience while in the West was much enjoyed.

Mr. Roberts has not secured the popularity in this quarter that has waited upon the efforts of his collaborator of last evening, but it may now be safely asserted that he made an impression upon his hearers which will not readily be effaced. The versatility displayed by him in his various selections was surprising. "An Autumnal Reverie" was extremely ludicrous, while immediately following it was Coppee's "Strike in the Forge." The latter calls for the display of high dramatic power, and Mr. Roberts showed himself fully equal to the occasion.

"Pauline Paviovna" and a scene from the "School for Scandal," participated in by the two artists, were exceedingly well acted.

Notes.

The Reilly & Wood's show has made a hit. Miss Florence Miller makes a handsome and dashing colonel of the Red Hussars.

The comedy "Jane" is one of the brightest plays that has been given here for a long time. There will be a matinee this afternoon.

Miss Jarbeau, the favorite of the opera comique school, will be seen at the Grand Opera House next week in the musical farce comedy "Starlight." Mr. J. S. Vernon, business manager, is in the city making preparations for Miss Jarbeau's appearance here.

At the Academy last night Professor O. R. Gleason again delighted a large audience. His exhibitions of what may be literally called "horse-taming" were almost marvelous. There will be no matinee to-day. Further exhibitions of the professor's skill will be given each evening this week.

Paderewski returns to Germany on the ss. Spree on the 22nd. He longs to return to his native land. On Friday at the Pavilion no admission will be allowed during the performance of any number. Special street cars will be run for the convenience of the public.

Discussed Lamartine.

A meeting of the Modern Language Society was held in the hall of Y.M.C.A. of Toronto University. The subject for discussion was Lamartine, respecting whom a very good paper was read in English, sketching the poet's life from his school days to his death, and touching upon his influence on religious and social matters. This was followed by a paper on the same subject in French. Professor Squair then read a very beautiful poem by Lamartine.

DEEPENING THE CANALS.

Interviews With a Number of Toronto's Citizens.

The announcement in yesterday's World of the sudden change in the relative position of the Canadian and American Governments, owing to the expressed desire of the latter for an outlet for their trade on the lakes, led The World to interview a number of vessel owners here concerning the deepening of the St. Lawrence and Welland canals with the following results:

An Old Mariner's Views.

Captain Sylvester said this proposition by the United States was a step in the right direction. It showed that they were alive to their own best interests. The deepening of the St. Lawrence canals would of necessity benefit both countries. Any improvement which tends to cheapen transportation benefits both producer and consumer. The captain could remember when vessel owners charged more to carry freight from Toronto to Montreal than they charge now from Duluth to Montreal. The cause of the reduction was competition and better facilities. The owners made more in those days than they do now. So in the same way the deepening of the canals would probably still further reduce their profits, but it would also help them by allowing the vessels to leave for other waters in times when trade is slack here. It was a proposition far ahead of the times, but it was sure to come some time in the future.

Capt. J. H. Hagarty said there was not a vessel-owner in the country who would go against the proposition. They wanted the canals deepened, no matter who did it. He did not hold the opinions of some people, who seem to think that the deepening of the canals would make every town on the lakes a seaport.

Mr. W. W. Keighley of Smith & Keighley expressed the opinion that this question had appeared at a very lucky time for Canada. The United States were beginning to learn that this country had products and privileges which were very valuable to them. This proposition was doubtless the lever with which Canada could obtain reciprocity of trade.

Mr. W. A. Geddes was glad to see the brighter prospects of the realization of the vessel-owners' hopes. It was just what they had been working for for years. Not that they had ever met with opposition. It had always been Sir John A. Macdonald's desire to improve the canals of the St. Lawrence, and he had assured them it would be done as soon as the money was forthcoming. It would give the inter-provincial trade a great impetus, for vessels carrying flour and grain coming for the Maritime Provinces would be able to bring back coal at a figure far below the Pennsylvania product.

Mr. A. R. Christie was of the opinion that Canada could not accede to the request of the United States, if she would, for the lack of money. He had passed those canals and had some idea, or rather lack of idea, of the amount it would take to make the proposed improvements.

Mr. D. W. Alexander thought that under the circumstances the Canadian deputation at Washington should be able to gain a fair reciprocity. The success of the experiment with the whaleback Whetmore would lead to a whole fleet of similar vessels. The flour trade with the Maritime, would probably decline as the mills of Minnesota would then become powerful competitors. The leather trade would not be affected by the American competition.

Mr. William Ince said the deepening of the canals would encourage the building of larger and better-fitted vessels and as a natural consequence the shipping trade would have to assume greater proportions. It would of course be necessary for the Americans to bid high in order to compense Canada for the immense outlay necessary.

Mr. A. A. Allan also was anxious to see the much-needed improvement carried through. It would cause the establishment of a line of steamers between Chicago and Liverpool, which would call at intervening Canadian ports. The United States should be willing to aid the undertaking financially.

Mr. Frank Polson considered this a most opportune time for the proposition. Canadian shipping would be assisted very materially, but the shipbuilding trade would be brought to a sudden standstill on account of the direct competition of the English builders. It was just possible that the repair work would amount to more than the entire building trade at present.

Mr. James Carruthers looked on the matter from a different standpoint. It was an utter impossibility. The unwieldy ocean vessels could never be taken to the upper lakes.

Mr. John I. Davidson informed The World that this was not the first time the Americans had thought of this plan. It had been discussed for years in Buffalo, Detroit and other ports on the Upper Lakes. The action of Congress would doubtless lead to its fulfilment.
