St. Andrew's Day at Picton.

Picton, Dec. 2.—St. Andrew's Day was celebrated here by the best concert ever held in the town. Mrs. Caldwell was the star, and made a brilliant success. Piper Leaske of Toronto aroused great enthusiasm by his spirited playing of the pipes and his costume. The local talent is exceptionally good and never succeded better than on this occasion. The hall was crowded.

COUNTY AND SUBURBAN NEWS.

Toronto Junction, Dec. 2.—(Special.)—The Executive Committee of the Town Council met to-night and decided to have a memorial prepared and submitted to the Dominion Government on behalf of the council, asking for better postal facilities, also for the appointment of a customs officer for the town.

Rev. J. J. Rae, pastor of Bowmanville Methodist Church, lectured in Victoria Church to-night on the subject, "Mind Your Own Business." There was a good attendance.

Miss Hattie Mordue, the unfortunate woman who was killed while walking on the track near Brantford last night, was a sister of Mrs. C. Irwin of McMurray-avenue.

Frank Peters, an employ at the Art Goods Manufacturing Company's building, had two of his fingers taken off and his hand cut diagonally by a band saw this morning.

Mr. T. M. Martin, a licentiate of the New Jerusalem Church, will lecture on "The Human Mind, Its Construction and Destiny" in the Campbell Building on Sunday afternoon.

Plowing at Richview.

Rivalry among the plowmen in the fifth and sixth lines of Toronto Gore resulted in a match this week on the farm of Mr. T. Gracey, Richview, when sides were chosen from the respective lines. Messrs. Lutey and Clarkson, judges, decided that the sixth liners turned up the best furrows and declared them the winners. Their names are: Thomas Gracey, Thomas Osborne, J. Osborne, Thomas Peddle, George Andrews and R. Peacock. On Wednesday evening victors and vanquished sat down to a fowl supper at Elmbank at the expense of the losers.

West York Farmers' Institute.

Woodbridge, Dec. 2.—(Special.)—A meeting of the West York Farmers' Institute was held in the Orange Hall here this afternoon. James H. Smith, president of the institute, occupied the chair. Lieut.-Col. D. McCrae of Guelph was the first speaker and, although advertised to speak on "Sheep and Wool," did not touch on the subject, but confined all his remarks to "tuberculosis," a subject with which he was thoroughly familiar, as his frequent answers to queries showed. He said that tuberculosis was most dangerous and prevalent. In cattle it was termed tuberculosis and in man consumption. No wild animals naturally have it, and yet wolves, lions and especially monkeys nearly all die of it when placed in confinement. It is a slow growing disease, and may linger for three or four years in the system without showing any signs that it is there, and then is not necessarily fatal nor incurable.

With this statement the president heartily concurred. A consumptive for 40 years, he is still in good health and attributes it to taking plenty of fresh air.

The Lieut.-Col. continued: It cannot be promulgated by the breath of an infected person, but it is from the expectorated sputa that all danger comes. He instanced a house into which three families moved, all of whom took consumption and were not affected before, which showed that the germs were in the house and that the house was a suitable one for germs to thrive in. A healthy constitution would throw off these germs at any time, but a weak constitution was apt to fall a prey to them. Pure air and sunlight were the best remedies, and warm, dark, damp, badly ventilated places were the hotbeds for development.

The question was put to the lecturer, whether a person would take tuberculosis from eating the flesh of an animal which was known to have it, and he answered decidedly not. The Royal Commission of England, appointed to enquire into the matter, could not find a solitary case where the disease had been contracted from eating the flesh.

The lecturer gave a history of tuberculine, how it is made, and how to use it. That consumption could be contracted from drinking milk from a diseased cow he believed to be quite possible, especially if the person drinking it was constitutionally weak. From butter, he did not think the chance so great, as the germs can not live in fat. He spoke strongly against allowing consumptives to carelessly expectorate in stables, where there are cows.

Miss Laura Rose, instead of speaking on "Cheese-Making for Home Consumption," told how she made "Prize Bread and Butter," and kept the ladies, and some of the gentlemen, too (for she was often questioned), for upwards of 30 minutes greatly interested. Miss Rose has a pleasant manner of imparting the information she is most capable of giving, and deals with her subject thoroughly. She gives this lecture at Weston to-morrow and it is most valuable to the housewife and dairymaid.

"Country Roads" was Major J. Sheppard's subject, and it was dealt with practically.

The meeting of the institute will be continued at Weston to-morrow afternoon and evening. At the afternoon session Lieut.-Col. McCrae will again treat on "Tuberculosis" and "Cattle Breeding"; Major Sheppard will speak on "Forty Years' Experience in Growing Corn," and Miss Rose again speaks on "The Making of Prize Bread and Butter." In the evening Dr. Charlton will take the chair. Lieut.-Col. McCrae lectures on "Our Farm Life," Major Sheppard speaks on "Window Gardening," and Miss Rose on "A Morning in an English Dairy." The program will be interspersed with vocal selections.

North Toronto.

The anniversary concert and supper provided by the Davisville Methodist Church on Tuesday night was fully equal to those given in former years, and was heartily enjoyed by over four hundred persons. The tables provided were excellent, and the thanks of the gathering are due to Mrs. H. McCrae, Mrs. J. Bonnick and Mrs. C. H. Shaver for their efforts in that particular. The entertainment was presided over by the pastor, Rev. E. A. Pearson, and some capital vocal selections were given that received the hearty applause of the audience. Miss Fooks, Miss Rowntree, Mr. Hurdon, Mr. Stafford and the Albert College Glee Club provided the musical program, while enjoyable talks on church fellowship were made by Revs. C. O. Johnston, E. S. Rowe and Mr. Kay.

Yonge-street Methodist Church entertained the Epworth League members of the Davisville and Eglinton Methodist Churches at their rooms on Monday evening.

The iron work of the York Mills bridge has been commenced, and through traffic is expected early next week.

The charge against Ald. Gowanlock and James Baisett for forcible entry on the property of C. P. Robb at York Mills was again considered before Police Magistrate Ellis Wednesday. On agreement between the various parties the case was set down for trial, the preliminary examination being waived.

Thornhill.

A donation of $25 has been made by the Markam Council towards the new library. The rooms were opened for the first time on Friday evening last.

Mr. John Langstaff is anxious to obtain some light manufacturing concern to locate, to utilize the power developed by the dam.

Sixty-two dollars are the net proceeds of the entertainment given by the Ladies' Aid on Thanksgiving. Mrs. C. Ludford and Mrs. J. Martin were the prime movers in the event.

Rev. Thomas Edwards, formerly pastor of the Methodist Church, but now of Barrie, has been staying with Mr. J. H. Francis.

The ladies of the village have interested themselves in the new reading rooms, and Mrs. E. J. Francis, with others, will undertake to provide an entertainment in its behalf on Dec. 17.

Mrs. Reid of Toronto is visiting at the home of Mrs. C. Ludford.

The By-Law Confirmed.

The shareholders of the Land Security Company have confirmed a bylaw authorizing the execution of a trust charge upon the property and assets of the company to secure payments of the debentures and deposits of the company. This enables payment of the sterling debentures of the company to be extended over a period of 10 years instead of 4 years as before.

THE UNIVERSITY VINDICATED.

President Loudon Denies an Incorrect Report Respecting the Ph. D. Courses at Toronto University.

Only a few days ago President Loudon was obliged to challenge an incorrect and damaging news item that had been making the rounds of the United States press, with regard to the attendance of women students, which was wrongly stated to have declined. He is now in pursuit of another damaging paragraph which has appeared in The Montreal Gazette. The Gazette is under the extraordinary delusion that the Ph. D. courses have been given up. Following up this item, the conclusion was drawn that this was proof conclusive that the students had no further desire to learn. Too many gratuitous attacks of this kind have been allowed to pass unnoticed heretofore. The president has apparently decided that it is time to begin the policy of nipping slanders in the bud, and has given the following letter to the press:

Editor Montreal Gazette: Sir,—My attention has been called to the following paragraph which appeared in your issue of the 17th inst.:

"The abandonment of the post-graduate courses at Toronto University for lack of support is a serious reflection on the usefulness of that institution. That out of the hundreds of graduates the university turns out every year only two should think it worth while to continue their studies beyond the limited courses required for a degree seems to indicate a deplorable lack of the desire for knowledge. A diploma does not signify that a man knows everything but that he has been taught how to learn. A university whose students do not want to learn anything more must be set down as a partial failure."

I may remark that I was very much surprised, not only by the erroneous nature of the statements contained in this paragraph, but also by the very unfriendly nature of the inferences based thereon. With your permission, I desire to refer briefly to the matter in your columns.

1. The regular courses of instruction on the part of our faculty are limited to the work of the undergraduates. Much of this work is, however, of such an advanced character that it corresponds to what is styled post graduate work in many of the universities of this continent.

2. We have quite recently established the degree of Ph. D. for research work. An essential condition for the awarding of this degree is that the candidate shall publish an approved thesis embodying the results of an original investigation. No regular courses of instruction are provided for candidates for this degree, as it is assumed that they will be competent through previous training to proceed with their work, with only occasional advice and assistance from their professors. At least, two years' attendence and study at a university (one of which must be at the University of Toronto) are also required. The standard for the degree is so high that the number of candidates will in all probability not be large.

3. For some years we have had students returning to us after graduation for the purpose of further study, even though we have not had heretofore the inducement of a doctor's degree to offer them. They still come to us, and their numbers are increasing annually. Last year we had fourteen such graduate students. This year we have already in all twenty-nine graduate students. Of these, four have registered for the degree of Ph. D., and are regularly proceeding with their work; fifteen are doing research work which will count for the degree of Ph. D., if they decide to register; whilst ten are taking under graduate courses, thus supplementing the knowledge already required of them at their B. A. examinations.

4. It is but fair also to our graduates and to the university to state that in addition to these twenty-nine graduate students, a large number of our graduates have obtained their Ph. D. at foreign universities, and many are pursuing their studies abroad with this object at present. Last year, to meet a charge similar to the one now being dealt with, I gave to the press a list of about 80 of our graduates who, within the previous three years, had obtained fellowships, scholarships or receiving positions in universities of the United States. Of this list many who held fellowships, etc., were proceeding to the doctor's degree, as indeed many others also were, though not included in the list. In the present year about a dozen of our graduates are taking Ph. D. work in Chicago University alone, and of these seven hold fellowships. The facts of this and the preceding paragraph will afford a sufficient answer to your inference that our graduates are characterized by a lack of the desire for further knowledge.

5. It is almost unnecessary to add that your assumption as to the abandonment of post-graduate courses at this university is entirely without foundation in fact. No such step has been taken, nor is any such step contemplated. Yours faithfully,

(Signed) J. Loudon,
President University of Toronto.

Lecture at Trinity by Dr. Bourinot.

Dr. Bourinot, C.M.G., will lecture to-day (Friday) at 4 p.m. in Convocation Hall on "The Loyalist Makers of Canada, Their Devotion, Sufferings and Influence." The chair will be taken by Hon. G. W. Allan, the Chancellor of Trinity University, and a large audience is expected to be present.

Mgr. Schroeder Will Resign.

Washington, D.C., Dec. 2.—The purposes of Rome concerning the case of Mgr. Schroeder of the Catholic University have been made known to the Catholic authorities in this country. The main desire, it is said, has been to accomplish results with the least possible outward agitation. To that end an understanding has been reached that Mgr. Schroeder will resign within the present scholastic year, and probably at an early day. The resignation will be accepted.

Sensible Thing to Do.

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 2.—After listening for two days to the evidence in the case of Bristol v. News-Record, an action for $10,000 damages for alleged libel, Justice Meredith advised a settlement out of court. This was done to-day, each side paying its own costs.

Usual Rule of Trial Reversed.

Hepworth, Dec. 2.—All the hands in Murphy's mill, at Murphy's Siding, have been discharged, in an attempt to discover who the parties were who had cut all the belting and smashed the knives of the stave jointer and slicer. Those who can establish their innocence will be re-engaged.

HISTORIC DAYS OF CANADA.

Rarely has there been seen in Canada such a desirable combination of beauty and utility as the calendar, entitled "Historic Days of Canada," which is just issued from the press of William Briggs, Toronto. To Miss Sara Mickle and Mary Agnes Fitzgibbon we are indebted for the careful work of compiling and arranging the historic facts and dates, and to A. H. U. and Percy Kelly for the admirable drawings. It is designed and executed by the Toronto Lithographing Co., and is a very creditable and artistic bit of work.

The calendar proper occupies a space to the right of the pages, and in addition to the days and dates of the month there are appended the interesting events in Canadian history from its beginning. Till these are seen on each of the twelve pages, running through each day of the year, even those familiar with Canadian history must be surprised at the number of notable and important events in the history of this Canada of ours.

The space all about the calendar is most beautifully illuminated, the beaver supporting the shield at the top, and delicate green maple leaves, in a tracery of gold, forming an exquisite border down the right side. To the left, on the clear white enameled surface, are extremely interesting figures of notable Frenchmen and Englishmen, in the quaint and picturesque costumes of the days when they were major men in the new country; and swords, shields and devices of noble houses which played their part in the early history of Canada are reproduced in lovely color and design.

Of especial interest are the old historic points of the country, which are reproduced at the foot of many of the pages—from Port Royal, the first permanent French settlement in Canada, to the famous landing place of the faithful U. E. Loyalists, old Fort Niagara of many memories. The August page has a picture of the first Parliament Buildings, Toronto—two low, one-storeyed buildings connected by a piazza, which in no wise compare with the big brown stone pile in Queen's Park, and still less with the noble buildings in Ottawa, but which nevertheless served their day and generation.

A calendar of this kind, so full of historic interest and information, presented in such beautiful form that the reader loves to linger over its pages, becomes a thing, not only of holiday interest, but of great permanent value. Those familiar with Canada's history will certainly not fail to add one of these to their libraries for reference, while those hitherto careless of their country's romantic story will as certainly have their interest excited by this unique and rarely beautiful calendar for 1898.

"Our Canadian Artists Abroad."

The exhibition of paintings by Mr. W. (St. Thomas) Smith, Mr. W. E. Atkinson and Mr. A. C. Williamson promises to be the most interesting art event of the year. Messrs. C. J. Townsend & Co. expect to have the pictures hung and ready for view early Tuesday morning, the 7th inst., and the collection will remain on exhibition until noon Thursday. The sale will commence promptly at 2.30 p.m. Thursday, the 9th inst.

Judging from the many enquiries already made and the great interest manifested in the work of these gifted artists Toronto's principal art collectors and many who are just beginning to interest themselves in art matters will be out in force, not only to view the pictures, but to mark their catalogues prior to the day of sale.

Mr. Smith's work this year marks him as one of the great marine painters of the present generation, and his many friends in Canada will be pleased to see that he has justified their highest expectations concerning him.

Mr. Atkinson, always poetical, has made splendid progress during his sojourn in foreign lands, and he now paints with a boldness of touch and richness of coloring which add greatly to the beauty and value of his work.

Mr. Williamson is, perhaps, the only American artist whose feeling is in entire sympathy with the pathetic phases of peasant life, and, as a consequence, his paintings are better understood and more highly appreciated by artists and connoisseurs than by the public. This is due to the fact that the ordinary collector of pictures has more regard for what pleases the eye than for the motive or feeling expressed in a painting.

An artist, in order to express sorrow, sympathy and the kindred emotions, must of necessity paint in a low or sombre key. All of the great masters have done so, in fact it would be impossible to do otherwise, as we cannot conceive of anything pathetic or sorrowful being revealed in a burst of sunlight. We, therefore, have to study and live with Mr. Williamson's pictures in order to fully appreciate their high artistic merits. Mr. Williamson's work is destined to live, and, if we are not greatly mistaken, the time is not far distant when his more important pictures will command prices such as are little dreamed of to-day.
