BIRCHALL'S JAIL LIFE.

New and More Stringent Orders to the Authorities.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 3.—The inspector of prisons evidently thinks that the public are hearing too much of Birchall's jail life. He was in Woodstock on Saturday and left strict orders with the jailer, in consequence of which Mr. Cameron declares that not only will no reporter be allowed to see the prisoner, but not one of them will be allowed to even enter the jail. The jailer is forbidden to allow any manuscript whatever to pass from Birchall to the papers. Another significant order given by the inspector is that hereafter all Birchall's mail matter shall pass through the hands of the crown attorney, Mr. Hall, Q.C., instead of through the hands of Mr. Cameron, the jailer, as has been the case hitherto.

A local paper publishes a letter written in January, 1889, by Birchall (then Somerset) to Mr. T. B. Bolton, of Toronto, in which he makes application for the position of school teacher, and gives his qualifications as follows:

I was educated at the University of Oxford, England. I took a high class in mathematics, including statics, dynamics, trigonometry, etc., etc., and the usual branches. I have good knowledge of French translation and grammar, etc. I also have a thorough knowledge of chemical science, practical and theoretical, and am also well up in classics. I am a Church of England man. I am at present traveling in Canada with my wife, but encumbrance, as I dare say it would be easy to arrange for board or something of that sort. I should be glad to have particulars of salary, etc. I have had some experience of coaching pupils in England.

THE ENGLISH PETITION.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The statements cabled here respecting the petition in Birchall's favor being largely signed by prominent men in England are quite unfounded. The only petition sent from here emanated from Birchall's old friends and neighbors in Lancashire, Berkshire and elsewhere.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Birchall's half-brother has been diligently engaged in securing names to the petition for the murderer's reprieve. He says he has 3,000 signatures.
