THE Stanley attempted to reach this city on Sunday; but the ice outside the harbor was too thick, and she left for Georgetown. A special train left here for the mails at five o'clock on Sunday afternoon and they were ready for distribution Monday morning.

AT Bangor, Me., on Wednesday last, while the men working at the American Ice Co's houses were placing roof trusses upon an addition being erected, the staging, 45 feet from the ground, broke, and five men fell to the ground. One of the men, Jos. Hammond, was instantly killed and the others badly injured.

THE Grand Jury at Chicago has returned bills of indictment against banker Poppenhusen, whose bank went to the wall a short time ago, and his cashier C. S. Johnson, on charges of embezzlement. The basis of the indictments is the receipt of money from depositors after the insolvency of the bank was apparent.

THE scheme to provide the usual Christmas dinner for the poor of the city is again to be put in operation this year. Each year the amount collected has been on the increase, and we only hope that this one may prove no exception. R. R. Fitzgerald, Esq., who so ably managed all former affairs of this nature, will thankfully receive all subscriptions.

WE have received from Messrs. C. M. Taylor & Co., of Toronto, a beautiful embossed cameo relief of Sir John A. Macdonald, which has been specially prepared for them in Germany. The cameo is an elegant one, clearly delineating the profile of Canada's veteran Premier. A copy can be procured through any bookseller for 50 cents.

IMPORTANT TO TEACHERS AND SCHOOL TRUSTEES.—A circular relating to school holidays is being issued; and should be received by all Trustees Secretaries before the 18th inst. GEORGE MACKERACHE, a pupil, has confessed to having set the Montreal High School on fire. A quantity of paper was placed in a cupboard a match was applied and the work was done. He was the one who actually applied the match, but he implicates several other boys who were concerned in the affair. He is a son of the Presbyterian minister of Howie, Que.

THE schooners Jessie Newel, L. B. Davies, P. L. G., Tarquin and Rustic, coal laden from Pictou, which for some days previous were trying to enter this port, were towed in on Friday evening by Batt's tug. The Jessie Newel's cargo was for parties in Summerside but the ice prevented her from making there. The Rustic had to return in ballast, not being able to obtain her coal. Coal is very scarce in the city, and no doubt will command a high figure before spring arrives.

WHILE cutting down a willow tree near Weymouth, N. S. on Thursday, James Brown discovered in a hollow of it a purse containing $4000 in gold and bank notes. The money is supposed to have been placed there by Mrs. Payson has became mentally deranged by the sudden death of her husband. She died ten years ago and people were surprised at the small sum of money she left, as she was considered wealthy. Two sons of hers are still living. Brown purchased the Payson estate.

BLANCHARD, the murderer of Chas. Calkins, while under the influence of liquor, was executed at Sherbrooke, Que., on Friday. Radcliffe, who hanged Birchall, was the executioner. After the drop fell 34 minutes elapsed before he was pronounced dead, the doctors present saying he died of strangulation. Blanchard was quite resigned to his fate, and said he was glad his sentence was not commuted. Before leaving the jail he went to the cell of Remi LaMontagne, who is to be hanged next Friday, and said, "LaMontagne, farewell. It is my turn to-day and yours will come on Friday next. Prepare yourself well and we will meet in heaven."

OUR OUTSIDE STORY.—Visitors to Montreal find the printing establishment of the Family Herald and Weekly Star to be one of the most interesting sights of the town. On publication days, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, all day long there is the hum of the gigantic lightning presses turning out complete copies of the Family Herald and Weekly Star at the rate of twenty-two thousand copies an hour, printed, cut and folded by automatic machinery, without being touched by hand. Then there is an army of men and women operating the machines that put on the address labels, following which they are turned over to the gangs of wallers preparing the papers for the delivery to the Post Office by mammoth expresses. One of the busiest places in the country is the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal.

A BRAVE SAILOR.

The North Sydney Herald gives a graphic description of the recent storm at Cow Bay, and the drowning of Ambrose Sparks, of the schooner Clarence J. Foote.

One of the crew stood up and tried to catch hold of the breakwater to hold the dory, but all was covered with ice. He then, finding no chance of holding on, shouted to the others to jump and sprang on top himself. One other man also sprang up, but neither had taken the dory's painter and she was immediately swept back by the sea and almost immediately filled and sank. The two men, Philip Bennett and Ambrose Sparks, were thus left adrift at the entrance to the dock. The night was pitch dark and very cold. Bennett got hold of the rope which they had been trying to bring ashore from the vessel. His companion sang out 'My God, we'll be drowned,' but Bennett said 'No, hold on to me or the rope and I'll save you if I'm saved myself.' Sparks caught hold of Bennett's leg and the latter began to work his way back to the vessel, holding on to the end of the line. He had not gone far when Sparks let go and sank. When Bennett got the schooner's side the captain and cook, the only two remaining on board, had great difficulty in getting him hauled up. They accomplished it just in time, however, and when he reached the deck Bennett was unable to stand. Bennett's pluck and manliness in undertaking to save his shipmate may never be much noticed because he failed. All the same there is many a man specially honored of his fellow men whose heart isn't half as big and full of heroism as that which beats beneath the rugged exterior of this Newfoundland sailor who tried to rescue his fellow man when his own life was in such danger.

A PLUCKY WOMAN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Particulars of a remarkable sea tale were received in this city yesterday by a South street shipping house, from Melbourne, Australia. It concerns the struggles of a woman, the wife of a sailing master, on a fever stricken vessel, which she brought safely into port, thousands of miles from her starting point, though every one of the crew had died of contagion during the voyage, and her husband, the sole survivor on the ship, besides herself and baby, was so weakened by the disease as to be unable to get on deck.

The heroine of the story is Mrs Tereas Meinderer. With her husband, Capt. Emil Meinderer, she left the port of Mariciins, Peru, on April 3 on the schooner Johanne. The Johanne, besides the captain and his wife and two-year old baby, carried a crew of 10 men. She was a snug little craft, sugar laden and bound for Australian ports, where her owners expected to realize a handsome profit on her cargo.

On April 5, only two days out from port, yellow fever in its most virulent form broke out on board. One after the other the seamen were stricken, and as nothing could be done for them, with the limited provisions that were at hand they died almost as rapidly as the disease attacked them.

In less than as many days nine former pleasant corpses had been thrown overboard to the sharks that followed in the little vessel's wake. Besides the captain and his wife and child not a living soul remained on board except the cook, who was forced to do duty as a seaman. The captain's wife did likewise, and under her husband's instructions was soon able to perform seaman's duty.

It was a trying ordeal for the commander and his wife, but they comforted themselves with the reflection that the worst had come and that in a few weeks they would reach a port. But the worst had hardly been hinted at. The vessel at the time was two months out and prospects were fair when the cook developed fever symptoms.

On June he succeeded to the fate of his companions, and before nightfall his dead body was flung into the sea to feed the sharks which had kept steadily on the schooner's track. With the cook's death came worse difficulties than ever, but the plucky man and wife faced them boldly until June 10, two days after the cook's death, when Capt. Meinderer experienced the first symptoms of the terrible disease that had decimated the ship. On the following day he was in bed, delirious.

The task of working the ship now devolved wholly on the little woman, who had fought so bravely against the most terrible odds. Besides she had also to nurse her husband and look after her baby. Naturally the schooner made but little progress, but the sailor man's wife managed to make some little progress in the proper direction. When it was necessary to go aloft to look after the canvas, or below to attend her delirious husband, or seek a few hours of rest, she would firmly lash the wheel and take her bearings again as soon as she came back on deck.

For a month the captain was confined to his cabin, hovering between life and death. Fortunately the weather was good during most of this time. But when the vessel was within ten miles of the harbor of Fremantle a fierce storm sprang up. The woman worked unflinchingly through the tempest, while the little craft did fair to go to pieces at any moment.

The captain was recovering at the time, and, weak as he was, he left his cabin and helped his wife. But even then their united efforts promised poorly; for, to make matters worse, if possible, than they were already, the vessel sprang a leak and the water began to pour into her at an alarming rate. Two hundred and fifty bags of sugar were jettisoned, and though this lightened the vessel, both husband and wife believed that after their brave struggle they were to die in the end.

Just as they were losing all hope a pilot boat hove in sight and the captain and his wife and child were taken off and into port. Tugs were sent out to find the Johanne, and after a seven-hours search they found and brought her into port. Capt. Meindeer recovered sufficiently three weeks ago to start on the return journey to Peru, and he is at present once more on the Pacific in the Johanne with his plucky wife, bound for the South American port for which he started.

Markets.

BOSTON PRICES, DEC. 13.

POTATOES.—Receipts continue moderate. Demand has been very good and prices have made a sharp advance on all kinds. The best Houlton and Aroostook Hebrons close firm at $1.05 and $1.10, and other kinds are ruling from 10c and 15c higher than a week ago. Chenangoes are quite plenty but most lots are badly affected by dry rot. The market closes firm at quotations, but how long these prices can be sustained is uncertain. Houlton Hebrons per bushel $1.10. Aroostook Rose per bushel 90c. P. E. I. Chenangoes, bulk, 75c and 83c. P. E. I. Chenangoes, in bags, 80c and 83c. New Brunswick Silver Dollars 85c and 90c.

EGGS.—There has been but little change in condition of the market. Receipts are moderate but the high prices ruling have a tendency to curtail the demand, so that the supply offering fairly meets the wants of the trade. The best fresh gathered western bring 27c and 28c, and some small lots of extra Michigan range up to 29c. Eastern extras 30c. Nova Scotia and New Brunswick firsts 28c. Canadian firsts 25c and 26c.

FISH.—The general condition of the market is unchanged. Demand for all lines is slack and the tone is easy, but there are no quotable changes in prices. Cod, dry shores, large, $6. Cod, dry shores, medium, $5. Hake $4.25. Haddock $2.50. Pollock, salt, $2.55. Herring, pickled, Nova Scotia, large split, $5. Herring, pickled, bay shore, gibbed, $3.75. Herring, pickled, bay shore, split, $3.50. Herring, pickled, round shore, $3. Mackerel, extra, per barrel, $19. Mackerel, No. 1, $16 and $19. Mackerel, No. 2, $17. Mackerel, No. 3, large rim, new, $13. Mackerel, No. 3, plain, $13.

LEMON PIE.

Three eggs, a cup and a half of sugar, the pulp and grated rind of two lemons. These are the ingredients for a pie most delicious to the taste. After eating, if the stomach fails to do its duty, indigestion and headache are the result. The digestive organs are never stronger than the body, and if the system is "all run down," by reason of impure or impoverished blood, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is needed to build it up. This medicine purifies the blood, promotes digestion, and makes the weak strong.

MESSRS. C. C. RICHARDS & Co.

Gents,—We consider MINARD'S LINIMENT the best in the market and cheerfully recommend its use.

Nearly all colds are slight at first, but their tendency is to so lower the system that the sufferer becomes a ready victim to any prevalent disease. The use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in the beginning of a cold, would guard against the danger.

When you put your shoulder to the wheel it is well to notice whether you are helping it along or working against it.

Did you ever buy a horse and not have some misgivings as to his price till they were full? Not so with Ayer's Sarsaparilla: you may be sure of it at the start. It never disappoints those who give it a fair and persistent trial.

If one half of the world knew all the mean things said about it by the other half, a vigorous extermination would ensue.

No greater triumph in medicine or chemistry has been recorded than Hall's Hair Renewer, to revivify and restore gray hair to the color of youth.

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

The man who has lost his character needn't mourn, for he wouldn't have lost it if it were not worthless.

Ministers, lawyers, teachers and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and biliousness. One is a dose. Try them.

The men who cause strikes do not always make hits.

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve pain or distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

THE BERMUDA CABLE.—The Bermuda cable now complete, could carry no truer tidings than that Burdock Blood Bitters cures all other remedies in curing diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood. Known everywhere as the perfect blood purifier, curing even the worst cases when all else fails.

A Kentucky farmer lost four daughters in one day—but he gained the same number of healthy sons-in-law.

NEW FIRE FROM PAIN.—Mr. Frank Palmer of Winona, Ont., says: "I have been troubled with lame back for about six months, then thought I would try Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which cured me. Am now free from all pains, and recommend Yellow Oil very highly.

When the pretty old marries rich she has reached the sweet boy and buy.

HERE AND THERE.—Here and there and everywhere may be found persons who have used and now honestly praise Burdock Blood Bitters for its wonderful blood purifying, cleansing and tonic effects in all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood.

When a married moonshiner dies his widow can keep a secret still.

IN THE FAR WEST.—Away West in British Columbia, Hagyard's Yellow Oil is known and valued highly, as at home in Toronto. Miss Eleanor Pope, of Fort Haney, B. C., says: "For sore throat, coughs, croup, bruises, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil is the best thing I have ever used."

A woman forgets when she forgives; a man forgives when he forgets.

A HORRIBLE MURDER.—A horrible murder involving the loss of one life attracts greater attention than the thousands of deaths occurring annually from scrofula and bad blood. We want to attract attention to Burdock Blood Bitters, the proved and popular remedy for these forms of disease. It cures even old chronic obstinate cases which have defied all other treatment.

When a good woman gets as sweet as sugar to ask out for sand.

SINCE CHILDHOOD'S DAYS.—Sirs—I can highly recommend Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It cured my daughter of a cough she had been troubled with since childhood. She is now twelve year old. Mrs. M. Fairchild, Scotland, Ont.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a different person," so they all say, and their husbands say so too.

The correctness of the maxim "nothing succeeds like success" is well exemplified in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The most successful combination of alteratives and tonics, it always succeeds in curing diseases of the blood, and hence its wonderful popularity. Veni, Vidi, Vici. This is true of Hall's Hair Renewer, for it is the great conqueror of gray or faded hair, making it look the same even color of youth.
