THREE SERVICES HELD SUNDAY FOR SOLDIERS AT CARLING HEIGHTS

Two Protestant Church Parades and Catholic Service at St. Michael's.

There were two Protestant church parades held yesterday morning at Carling Heights for the troops in training here. The first parade was held at 9 a.m., and the second one at 9:45 a.m. Owing to the large number of soldiers in camp it was necessary to have two services, there being 2,600 men from the Western Ontario Regiment alone on parade. The services were held on the parade ground under the large tree, and they were in charge of the camp chaplains.

The Roman Catholic soldiers in camp paraded for service to St. Michael's Church under their own officers, and Capt. W. Corcoran, Roman Catholic chaplain for this district, officiated at the church. About 450 soldiers from Carling Heights were present at this service.

The church parades yesterday were not as large as those of the preceding Sunday, owing to the fact that there are about 1,000 men absent from camp on week-end leave.

DRAFTED SOLDIER TAKES OWN LIFE AT CARLING CAMP

Body of Wellington County Man Found in Lavatory.

PARENTS IN ON SUNDAY

No Motive Yet Discovered For Act—Court of Inquiry Called.

Pte. John Elkerton (3136057), a member of F. Company, 1st Depot Battalion, Western Ontario Regiment, committed suicide by hanging himself in a lavatory at Carling Heights camp some time during Sunday night. The body was discovered at 4:30 a.m. by Pte. W. H. Girvin, one of the battalion cooks, who immediately notified R. S. M. Whitfield.

Lieut. C. W. Pennecott, medical officer of the battalion, was summoned, but life was extinct, and rigor mortis had commenced to set in. It is believed that Pte. Elkerton had been dead three or four hours when discovered. The body was suspended from a water pipe by a short piece of rope.

Pte. Elkerton was a drafted man, 23 years of age, and prior to being called up resided in Wellington County, R. R. No. 1, near the village of Arris, with his parents. The latter were in to see their son Sunday, and were today notified of his death by the military authorities. No motive for the occurrence has as yet been discovered. A court of inquiry into the circumstances leading to Pte. Elkerton's death.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed, pending the arrival of the dead soldier's parents.

RAISED TO STATUS OF PROVINCE WITH NEW HEADQUARTERS

Redemptorist Order Church Here Affected by Change.

Important changes affecting the Redemptorist Order in Canada have been announced by the headquarters of the order, according to instructions received by the Redemptorist Fathers at St. Patrick's Church, East London.

The members and institutions of the order in Canada have been, up to the present, classed as a vice-province, under the supervision of the province of the United States. Both French and English members of the order were directed from the United States through the Canadian headquarters in Montreal. This arrangement has been changed, and the Canadian branch, being now fully equipped, has been raised to the rank of a separate province, with headquarters in Toronto. The Canadian branch has now under construction a college and seminary at Brockville, and will, it is expected, be equipped for educational work in September.

The French branch of the order in Canada has its headquarters now at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que.

Rev. Patrick J. Mulhall, C. S. S. R., is now head of the Canadian province, with headquarters at Toronto. Rev. P. N. Doyle has been reappointed for the next three years as rector of St. Patrick's in this city. One of his assistants, Rev. John Barry, has been reappointed here, and the other, Rev. George Mylett, has been transferred to Montreal, where he will be rector of St. Anne's Church. He will succeeded as assistant here by Rev. Jos. McLaughlin of St. Patrick's Church, Toronto.

Several other changes are also announced to take place in Quebec and Western Canada.

LONDONER ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT OF G. T. R. FEDERATION

Federation of shop crafts of the G. T. R. was completed at a meeting held in Toronto on Sunday. George Barnaby, one of the local delegates, was chosen vice-president of the federation. Joseph Corbett, of the Carpenters' Union; William Stinson, of the Boilermakers' and Charles Warren, of the Machinists, were the other London representatives to the meeting.

Every G. T. R. employee, other than the office staffs, freight men, train men, and station men is represented in this federation. Questions pertaining to the different trades will be dealt with by this body.

There was nothing of importance discussed Sunday, the delegates report.

No action will be taken concerning increased wages until another conference is held with the Canada War Board. While no definite word has been received from this board, yet it is expected that some action will be taken soon.

JUDGING VACANT LOT PLOTS LIKELY TO START NEXT WEEK

Arrangements Will Be Made for Preliminary Examinations Before Long.

The first examination of the gardens entered in the prize competition of the Vacant Lot Gardening Association will in all probability be made next week. A meeting of the executive will be held the latter part of this week when all the questions in connection with the expense of plowing the lots and other preliminary work will be settled. The judges will make their first round of the gardens within a few days following the meeting.

Gardens may be entered under one, but only one, of the two classes. The first in which one half or more of the lot must be planted with potatoes, and the balance with other vegetables, offers five prizes, as follows: $15, $10, and $5, presented by the Canada Trust Company, and $3 and $2, given by the association.

The second class includes the gardens which have one-third or more of the plot planted with potatoes and the balance with other vegetables. Prizes of $12, $8, $5 and $2 are offered by the gardening association in this class.

The above prizes are presented in each of the four wards for each class. In addition to these prizes others will be given for the best gardens in the whole city cultivated by members of the Vacant Lot Gardening Association and also for the best community gardens.

The following vegetables, being rich in food values, their use is strongly recommended and will count in favor of the gardener in the awarding of prizes: Carrots, turnips, onions, white beans, parsnips, beets and cabbages.

All competitors for the prizes must do all the work in the gardens. No hired help must be used.

The following methods of judging and the points allowed for each will guide the judges in their decision. These are followed in Ottawa, and it is more than probable that they will be adopted here at the meeting this week.

1. Arrangement of crops and method of planting, 20 points.
2. Uniformity of the stand, 10 points.
3. Healthiness and freedom from disease and insect pests, 15 points.
4. Quantity and value of the vegetables grown, 30 points.
5. General neatness of the plot and freedom from weeds, 25 points.

Periodic visits will be made to the gardens during the season by the judges.

The supervision and prizes committee is composed of the following members: Thomas P. Elliott, chairman; Dr. J. F. Bryant, G. L. Torry, R. P. Pearce, Ald. F. E. Harley, J. Kirkpatrick, J. Tanner, Sergt. Dace, W. W. Gammage, Rev. H. B. Ashby and Charles Gilbert.

While it will not be definitely known until all the reports are presented at the meeting what acreage is being cultivated it is said that the number of lots under cultivation is much greater than was at first anticipated. There are a few of the gardeners who have not yet been in to sign the agreement, and these are asked to do so without delay.

The association is well satisfied with the results of its efforts towards greater production, but Gordon Philip, secretary of the board of trade, who is also secretary of the association, is already looking forward to next year's program in anticipation of still better results.

OUR HANDSOME REPORTER GOES OUT TO FIND SOME VAMPIRES, ALL HE GOT WAS "TURN DOWNS"

Liquid-Eyed Maidens May Be Baiting Their Traps For Male Prey, But This Newspaper Chap Must Have Been Out of Luck.

After reading an account of the downfall of girls in dance halls as portrayed by a prominent local clergyman, The Advertiser's most handsome reporter suddenly woke up Saturday evening, and decided to go out into the world and see life. Saturday was pay day, and accordingly the scribe, wishing to be a real sport, boarded a Springbank car, taking particular care to slip into a rear seat beside a member of the fair sex.

"Well," thought he, "if conditions are as bad as stated I am going to pick up a female tonight, dead easy." The young lady sitting next to him "looked pretty fair," so the reporter decided to open a conversation. He produced a cigar (it was pay day), from his pocket, and before proceeding to light up, inquired from the fair one if she objected to him smoking. "No, not in the least," said she, as our hero puffed away.

Gazed Off Into Space.

"So far, so good," he remarked to himself, but he was baffled for the next move, as she persisted in gazing in the direction of the Forest City, and silently said nothing as the car rolled on.

Along about Woodland Cemetery the determined one, again mustering his courage, remarked to her ladyship that the cemetery presented a very pretty view.

"Yes, it does," she replied, coldly, again resuming her silent vigil.

"I have a grandmother buried there," said the newspaper chap, not in the least discouraged, but when she looked at him in such a manner as to donate "You should be there with her," our Beau Brummel decided to quit this grave subject while the quitting was good. He heaved a sigh of relief when with a brusque "Excuse me," she passed him as she dismounted at the pumphouse.

Right Next to a Peach.

Arriving at Springbank The Advertiser man strutted through the $200 gate in the direction of the dance hall. Finding that the orchestra had not yet reached the scene he wended his way to the roller coaster, where he invested a dime. Luck seemed to be with him this time, for the first car had an empty seat, there being one seemingly lonely maid seated in the centre.

"Room for one," shouted the attendant, and the scribe slipped into the vacant spot. Ahead of him sat a soldier and his lady friend, while beside the scribe sat lonely Sue.

A Roller-Coaster Romance.

After climbing the incline, they gathered speed and away they went. The millionaire in disguise vainly tried to watch the girl in the case, and hang on at the same time, finally giving it up as impossible. However, when they dipped suddenly and she screamed he made up his mind that this was all the introduction required. As the car pulled in on the home stretch he knew that he had found a companion for the evening, and accordingly they left the car together, and the boy in search of adventure strutted along, head in air, quite proud of himself.

After proceeding in this manner for a few yards he condescended to glance at his new acquaintance. Imagine his surprise when he found that his chicken had flown the coop, and the only one escorted was himself. He gazed around and perceived her trying to win a bunch of flowers at the other end of the grounds, along with the soldier boy and his friend, who had sat in front of him on the roller coaster.

No Luck With the Horses.

He did not swear (only editors do that), but was more determined than ever that he was going to make the grade. His next venture was the merry-go-round, and he decided to introduce a little kultur into the affair this time. Perceiving what he took to be a classy bird about to mount a horse (wooden one), he rushed up and seized the bridle, at the same time doffing his cap, just as Douglas Fairbanks of old, and said, "May I hold your horse?" His immediately resented hate, a la Freda Berra, and replied haughtily, "You will be holding your head, if you don't hike." He hiked, and did not stop hiking until he reached the dance hall.

Then for the Dance Hall.

Dancing was about to commence. Of course they did not open with the doxology nor did the orchestra play "Lead, Kindly Light." They played "Moonlight" instead. The reporter, having an eye for beauty, selected his ideal in the crowd, and sidled in her direction. He had a new trick this time. After stalling by her side for a few moments he threw his voice into low gear, and began to chant something about the high cost of living. Then suddenly gazing up in pretended surprise he remarked, "Oh, I beg your pardon, I thought I was speaking to my lady friend, whom I have lost in the crowd."

"I know," said the girl, "I have met your sort before. It's a wonder you wouldn't stay in your own class, and keep away from us decent girls." He blushed several shades of pink after this peroration, and quietly evaporated into the crowd.

She Picks Her Partners.

"Well," thought the spurned youth, after regaining his composure, "there are boys I know down here, and I can meet some nice girls properly." He then spotted a fellow reporter executing a one step with a little fairy, whom he would have dearly loved to meet. With this end in view he accosted his partner in crime after the dance.

"Say, Joe," said Scribe No. 1, "give me an introduction to your lady friend, as I would like to have a dance with her." "All right, I will," replied Joe, "but it's no use, because she won't dance with everyone, you know. "Now ain't that hell," said No. 1, as he hastened to board a car determined to get away from this purity league.

One of These "Different" Girls.

He managed to get a seat in the car and disconsolately settled down for the voyage. Taking note of his surroundings along about Wonderland he perceived a real nice looking girl standing in front of him. He immediately tendered her his seat, and the offer was accepted. Then they talked, and somehow or other she appealed to him as different from the majority of girls. When the conductor made his rounds he took the liberty of paying her fare (it was pay day), and she thanked him for doing so.

And so they talked in quite a friendly way until they reached the city. "Well," asked the hired help, "are you going to allow me to see you home?" "Oh, no," she replied, "I know the way, and besides my husband is sitting just three rows forward there." And with this remark she pointed to a stalwart lad in khaki in the front of the car.

It is rumored that the handsome reporter is now a woman hater, but one thing is certain, the next time the local clergy issue any dope on London girls The Advertiser man hails from Missouri. Can you blame him? Don't crowd, girls!

DECLARE LONDONERS ARE BRINGING BOOZE INTO PORT STANLEY

ST. THOMAS, June 16.—Following the recent discussion regarding alleged "wide open" conditions at Port Stanley at the London Methodist Conference in Walkerville, the Lord's Day Alliance will ask the attorney-general for a flat, so that persons breaking the law at Port Stanley may be prosecuted. It is stated that the opening guns of the campaign will be directed against the booths on the board walk. There have been some complaints regarding liquor being brought to the lakeside by Londoners, and some attention will be given this also, provided the attorney-general's department issues the necessary orders.

Some residents of Port declare that if an investigation is made that conditions at the village will be found all right. They declare that the statement that Port is "wide open" is somewhat exaggerated.

There was a big crowd at the lakeside today.

CHARGES PILING UP

Two More Counts on Police Blotter Against Mistah Scales.

Charles Scales, colored, who has made the police station a regular weekly calling place for some weeks past, appeared at the Carling street mill of justice this morning, with two charges marked opposite his name.

The one charge, that of obstructing the street at Adelaide and Oxford streets, has been pending for some time; the second, that of assaulting Robert Green, was laid today.

Scales stated to the magistrate that he had removed all obstructions from the boulevard at the corner complained of, but Chief W. T. T. Williams said Scales removed the tables and chairs at night only and placed them back again for business during the daytime. On the assault charge, Scales asked to be allowed to bring witnesses to prove that he was innocent. His request was granted, and the case was adjourned until Wednesday. The magistrate warned Scales if any more complaint was made concerning his "portable cafe" a heavy fine would be imposed.

BILIOUS SPELLS BECOME A HABIT

And It Requires Active Treatment to Break Up the Sluggish, Torpid Condition of the Liver.

Drumbo, June 15.—So often you meet people who are feeling miserable and out of sorts, unable to relish their food and suffering from headaches and indigestion. "It is only one of my bilious spells," they will tell you. "I have had them for years."

In other words, they have allowed this condition to become so established that it is like a habit to them have periodical spells of biliousness.

It is easy to break up such an unfortunate habit by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. By acting directly on the liver they insure the activity of this organ in removing bile from the blood, the action of the bowels is corrected, and the digestive organs resume their natural functions.

Mr. D. C. Maynard, retired farmer, Drumbo, Ont., writes: "I was subject to sick headache and poor appetite. These bilious spells would come on me about every two weeks, and often I would have to go to bed and could not eat. This trouble was overcome by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which aroused the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels and made me feel like a new man.

"As I had also suffered from catarrh for years and was quite deaf, I began using Dr. Chase's Catarrh Powder. This treatment has done wonders for me, clearing the stuffed-up air passages, restoring hearing and overcoming foul breath. It is a pleasure to recommend medicines which have done so much for me."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

JUNE WEDDINGS

WILKIN—BEATTIE.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Lorne Beattie, London Township, when his sister Mayme was united in marriage to Harry John Wilkin, Rev. Mr. Alps of Granton officiating. The ceremony was performed under an arch of pink and white flowers, with a bank of evergreen. Lohengrin's Wedding March was rendered by Miss Jean L. O'Neil, niece of the groom, while little Miss Merna Hodgins, niece of the bride, gracefully performed the part of flower girl. The bride was charming in ivory satin with pearl trimmings. She wore the conventional bridal veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of carnations and fern.

After the ceremony and signing of the register, the wedding party, including only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, sat down to a sumptuous repast.

The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful wrist watch; to the pianist a gold brooch set with turquoise, and to the flower girl a gold ring. The happy couple left on a prettily decorated car, under shower of confetti, for London, Hamilton and Toronto.

On their return they will settle on the groom's farm, 15th concession, London Township, and will be at home to their friends after July 1.
