On the 22nd inst. Mr. J. C. Conner, manager of the Royal opera house, will open his theatre for the season with the emotional actress, Miss Ada Gray, in East Lynne, supported by Geo. Darrell, the great Australian artist, and a finely selected company under the management of Mr. Chas. A. Watkins.

The Pioneers and band of L. O. L. 800 had an excursion to Victoria park yesterday, and an agreeable day was spent. Prof. Lubar's quadrille band kept the dancers lively, and a succession excursion was brought down close by a supper at the Caledonia house.

The Masonic house building has passed into the hands of Mr. W. G. Chewett, whose father owned the ground upon which it stands. The joint stock company which rebuilt the hotel in 1866 is thus dissolved, the shareholders receiving 105 per cent. on the stock from Mr. Chewett, himself one of the largest shareholders in the company.

Why don't the board of public works see that something is done to make St. Andrew's square look a little more cheerful? Some time ago great preparations were made to make this square one in which the people in that vicinity would take pleasure, but all they did was to destroy the grass and tear up things in general, in which state they left it, and now all that is to be seen is two great cairns of stones surrounded by a regiment of Canadian thistles.

Fifteen carloads of Guelphites came down to Toronto yesterday on a joint excursion gotten up by the Guelph encampment of Oddfellows and the mechanics' institute. The train arrived two hours late. A number of the excursionists went over to Niagara, and quite a number went to the island where Hanlan gave an exhibition of the oarsman's art.

The Yonge street block-paving made better headway yesterday. The inspector of the merchants threw out a great many blocks as being dead wood. In fact he handled more blocks than anyone else. What puzzled the public was to tell what the rule was by which he decided that a block was good or bad. What becomes of the rejected blocks? "They come back again in the next load," said a wag standing by.

The second rendering of Uncle Tom's Cabin, by Fred Wren's troupe, drew a large crowd to the gardens last night. This popular play, the most often presented on our modern stage, has an air of freshness which all admire. It finds a key to every heart. The school-girl can listen and behold with delight the jokes and humorous tricks of Topsy; the rigorous man of business the sly tricks of Lawyer Marks; the cruel tyrant the unbending will of the slave-driver; and all, the sad end of Eva and Uncle Tom.

Don't flourish a revolver, or you may have to pay $200 or spend six months in the central prison. At least this was the experience of John Ford, though his was certainly a bad case. It seems he doesn't live with his wife, and while in Chicago wrote her a letter saying that if she and he could not live together they "could not live at all"—a dark hint which he explained as a method of "coaxing" his wife to stay with him. Then he came to Toronto and threatened to "fix her," whereupon she had him arrested, not without some vicious resistance on his part, and on taking him to the police station a revolver was found on him with all the chambers loaded. In defence he said that he never intended any harm, and that whenever he went to see his children he was hunted away by his wife. Besides the penalty above mentioned, he was bound over to keep the peace for the threatening.

—A select stock of Irish serges, light summer tweeds and fancy trouserings, etc., just to hand at J. M. Maloney & Son, merchant tailors, Bay street. Gentlemen requiring fine ordered suits should not fail to see them, as they are decidedly new and must be sold immediately to make room for fall goods.

—During the hot weather nothing is better appreciated than a nice cool place where one may enjoy a good meal. Such a place is kept by Wilkinson, 187 Yonge street. Dinner from full bill of fare 25cts., including all the delicacies of the season.

—Don't buy a sewing machine until you have seen the Wanzer new family "C" and "F," for dressmaking and tailoring purposes; all latest improvements, nickel-plated in all bright parts, simple, durable, noiseless, and guaranteed ten years. 86 King street west, Toronto.

—Albaderma is used by all the ladies of Toronto. It is the right thing for the complexion, and surpasses every other preparation in the market. Try it.

NEGLECTING HIS FAMILY.

A young son of John Kirkwood went into the witness-box yesterday and testified that on the 12th of July last his father neglected to supply him with food, although there were provisions in the house of which prisoner partook himself, and that he (the son) would have got nothing to eat had it not been for the kindness of neighbors. That night Kirkwood turned the boy out of doors, telling him to go to his mother and using some bad language. The mother had gone to live elsewhere on account of prisoner threatening to shoot her. It is said his previous conduct has been very bad, his wife having kept the family for some time. Prisoner was committed for trial, no evidence being taken for the defence, and bail was accepted.

WAS THE BILL FORGED?

Thomas Maloney and Lewis Witkowski appeared in the police court yesterday to answer a charge of knowingly uttering a forged $1 bill. The bill, which was produced, appeared to be issued by the Fontenelle bank, Bellevue, Nebraska, and bore the date 1856. An expert being called could not swear positively that there was no such bank, though he said he would certainly refuse the bill. The magistrate thought the offence could not be proven without stronger evidence on this point, but the case was proceeded with, and it was shown that the boy passed the bill at Mrs. Willey's store, Wellesley street, buying a paper collar and receiving the change. The case was adjourned until Tuesday.

HARD LINES FOR LAUGHING.

Carrie Mathieson was arrested, kept in the cells all night and placed in the dock on a fearfully hot day, together with three other prisoners, where she fainted away twice, the second time knocking her head against the railings. She was one of a number of people charged with committing an assaualt on Jacob Abraham, and when he came to give evidence against her, he coolly informed the court that her offence consisted in laughing at him. The girl was discharged at once and the prosecutor sharply reprimanded.

LEO HARTMANN IN HAMILTON.

Leo Hartmann is said to be in Hamilton. He reached that city a week ago yesterday by the G. W. R. from Buffalo. He stopped at Henderson's Station hotel till a day or two ago, when he left, saying he was going by boat to Toronto, which he did not do, but simply changed his boarding house. He travels under the name of G. Block, and has a friend or two with him. Hartmann keeps his room rather closely, and a friend goes to the post-office and the telegraph office; he himself is kept pretty busy writing and answering communications.

THE SWITZER ARSON CASE.

Mary Waddy's evidence in the police court yesterday was very damaging, and was not shaken by the keen cross-examination of Dr. McMichael. On the other hand, it was shown from the evidence of an insurance agent, that prisoner would have lost $100 by setting fire to his premises. The case was adjourned, and bail in the interim refused.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Yesterday morning, about 11 o'clock, Charles W. Inman, an American, boarding at Mrs. Kent's boarding house, on Hayter street, cut his throat with a razor, but without fatal result. He was married only last Monday to Miss Mary Hall, who had been nurse at the hospital. He was in very low spirits for a day or two after the marriage, but from what cause is not known.

John Bergman of St. Catharines cut from 14 acres this year 471 bushels of wheat nearly 34 bushels to the acre.

A FURTHER REPLY TO "QUERIST."

To the Editor of the Toronto World.

SIR,—It is direct falsification, in a contest between free traders and protectionists, for the former to say there is free trade in the States between fifty millions. We must use words to mean certain things, and he who changes a meaning intending to give a false impression lies. As I stated, the point at issue is free trade or protection. The free trade against which protectionists have striven is the free trade between nations. That, and that only, has been the point at issue between them. Internal free trade is not the free trade they have been speaking of, and has nothing to do with it. It is rather a part of protection, which, indeed, aims to produce it. They are distinct—they are opposed—they are, in fact, mutually destructive. For, grant external free trade in iron between the States and other lands, it would at once kill the internal trade in iron now existing in the States. Free trade, I repeat, in political economy means, as universally accepted, free trade between nations; it does not mean internal trade. To say that the States can trade freely with one another is true; to say that they have free trade is to imply something altogether different. It is to attempt under a false name to defend a false principle; it is the last shift of those driven from all other shifts; it is the last dying gasp of a strangled fallacy—a fallacy permitted to have its day and do its evil; but the day is past.

"Querist" asks if, supposing Canadians can be enriched by duties along the St. Lawrence, Kansas could be by such along the Mississippi. Canada, it must be answered, can only gain by protection as she keeps her autonomy. Her commercial independence forms the opportunity and necessity for protective benefits. Kansas neither is nor can be, while a partner with a number of states, in any such position, Kansas at present expects a share of the gain Massachusetts makes by protection, and not only expects, but gets it. Therefore, it would be utterly from the purpose to draw lines around her own border.

"Querist" asks the same question with reference to Ontario and Quebec. The same answer suffices. These do not protest against one another, because they are not rivals. They are partners. We do not stop imports from Quebec, because we have no objection to large factories, dense populations, much riches, being accumulated by Quebec, for in many ways this would be so much money in our own pockets. We should object to its being accumulated at our expense in a foreign land, because it would do us no good, and might be used to our harm.

"Querist" does not choose analogous subjects. He compares that which cannot be parallel. For instance, it is as if one should ask, "Why, if it be to my advantage, by fair means, to transfer to mine that money which is now in my neighbor's right-hand waistcoat pocket, would it not be equally advantageous for me to transfer that money now in my right-hand pocket to my left?"

R. W. PHIPPS.

LAST NIGHT'S HEAT.

The heat which prevailed in the city during last night was something unbearable. Not a breath of air was stirring, and the atmosphere was at times stifling. Unfortunate individuals who have to earn their bread under the flare of a gas light—for instance, telegraph operators, editors, reporters, compositors, etc.—suffered beyond endurance. Although our whole staff, mechanical and otherwise, were stripped to the waist, a la prize-ring artists, we could not keep cool; and towards 2 o'clock this morning it looked as if we would all have to lay down our cudgels and seek the breezy confines of the bay or the refrigerator. But we stuck it out, and present the World, as usual, brief, bright and breezy.
