The weird, superstitious, and hilarious customs clustering about the evening of the 31st of October are the subject of a clever article by William Sharp in the November Harper's entitled "Halloween: a Threefold Chronicle." Mr. Sharp describes the striking features of that festival universal throughout Great Britain, and relates from personal experience some remarkable instances of its celebration in Ireland, in Scotland, and at sea. His text is richly illustrated by three of the leading English artists, W. Small, R. W. Macbeth, and F. Brewtnall.

The decision was in favor of Home Rule, if Home Rule did not mean separation. A chorus by the members brought the meeting to a close.

FIRE.—Shortly before six o'clock on Tuesday evening an alarm of fire was sounded, the occasion being the burning of the house owned and occupied by Daniel Patterson, near the St. Andrew's ward school. The engine went down in pretty good time, and the flames were subdued before the building was completely destroyed. The lower portion of the house is not much injured by fire. The furniture, etc., was pretty fully saved. There was an insurance of $200 on the furniture and $150 on the house in the Mercantile, of Waterloo. On account of suspicious circumstances attending the fire, constable Yule arrested Patterson, but the evidence was not sufficient to warrant the mayor in allowing the case to come off. An inquiry is spoken of by the insurance company.

A GLIMPSE AT GODERICH.

How the Largest Town in Huron Looks to a Visitor.

The following description of Goderich by a correspondent of the Ottawa Free Press, has some meat in it, although, as usually happens when the writer is unacquainted with local history, there are some discrepancies in point of fact. We give the article in full, so as to set some of our readers athinking:

GODERICH, Ont., Oct. 19.—After a pleasant run up the Grand Trunk railway to Stratford, which, by the way, is now one of the well built up and rapidly growing western cities, and whose progress is mainly owing to its railroad facilities, I drop off, change over to the B. B. and Goderich line, and at 3 p. m., land at the terminus—the ancient town of Goderich. Phew! what a transition, especially after leaving Toronto. It is, as of yore, the old town of Goderich; quiet, quaint, and presenting to the eye of a traveller the appearance of a down east Sunday-go-to-meetin' town ever day in the week. The buildings are of a most substantial nature, the streets clean, clear and wide. In the centre, located in beautiful surroundings and in a circle, stands the court-house. From this the streets radiate. No matter how long or heavy the downpour of rain the streets are clean, being well made of gravel taken from the shore of Lake Huron. Goderich is famous for its salt works. Judging from its purity and the higher price paid for it in the great markets, if salt be the salvation of the earth, Goderich is on this continent, if not in the whole world. Located at the end of the Grand Trunk chain of railroad connections, and being one of the many great harbors on Lake Huron, with its high elevation, which gives to it a strong claim for being one of the healthiest spots in all our Dominion, with a little energy it could and should be made a favorite summer resort. The Scott Act came in force here in May, '85, and some of the dealers in that curse of Canada, better known as fire water, assert that it has killed the business of the town. If this be true—to use a popular western aphorism, let me say—"Let her go to Gallagher." Her resurrection will be all the purer and better for the rising generation. Like the fabled Phœnix she will come up out of her ashes with new life and vigor—a new life from the face of which of the demon-drink will be forever eradicated. The line of rail is well made, the ballast being gravel; the run is very smooth. The prospects indicate that the C P R will tap the town. From Toronto the western extension now runs via Mount Forest and Harriston to Glennanón. From this point, southwest of Wingham, the survey has been completed, and the Whinghamites, who are alive to the importance of railroad, the best, conection with the outer world, have not waited for the calling together of the council, but guaranteed the bonus. The folks up at Kincardine have tried to secure the terminus at that point, but on looking at the map, it will be easily inferred that its direct course will lead it due across the country to Goderich. If the people here will now come to the front, let loose the long tied string in the old sock, and cease to play

THE DOG IN THE MANGER,

it is more than probable that this, best managed, finest equipped, and popular thoroughfare, the Canadian Pacific railroad, will run into the town. It will be sure to give it a great and lasting impetus, and one that will not only add to its now apparent diminishing population, (I judge this to be the case from the numerous empty houses rapidly decaying that are everywhere to be seen on the back streets,) fill up the empty tenements with a thrifty and industrious mechanical population, and in a few years doubly enhance its commercial worth. There is lots of room in the shape of vacant, untilled soil,

NOW SEEMINGLY VALUELESS

that by handing over to the company, free, would afford room for depot freight stores, and work shops of every description. This would attract the great bulk of lake traffic to this point, and bring more prominently before the eyes of the commercial world its importance. If that great and important personage—the mayor—had the right vim in him, here is the chance to come to the front. In such matters the chief magistrate is always looked upon to take the lead in all moves of a public nature, and more especially in one like this that cannot fail not only for the present, but for the future, to be a lasting benefit to property holders and business men of the town and surrounding country. The example is plain before him. Just look at the hundred and more of our interior villages, few indeed possessing the

that in a few years, through their railroad connection, have sprung into existence as towns, several as cities, and of solid commercial import. Such a move would be sure to inject life into its now effete manufactures and natural industries. True to Nature, that good old dame, has in her rough untutored way done much for Goderich. Today, even in the midst of a strong downpour of rain, there was quite a flutter of excitement. One of those most attractive and pleasing of all the events of an eventful life, especially to the youthful, a wedding ceremony was performed, and that too of a highly pleasing nature. I say this much, because all the young people and I might justly say old too, of the female pursuasion, speak in the highest terms of praise of the young lady, and the boys strongly of the lucky boy, as being a real good, young gentleman. At 10, this a.m. 14th inst., North street Methodist church was well filled with the youth and beauty of the town, and the pulpit tastefully decorated with natural flowers. A few moments later the contracting parties entered, and the knot was soon tied, hitching together for weel or woe, Harry D. Arnold and Miss Polly Bonnamy. The hawser being cut, amidst the congratulations of a host of admiring friends, and a strong breeze, they have glided out upon the stream of time. Before and after the ceremony there was an exhibition—free—given, if any proof were wanting that Goderich was still in her infancy—still in swaddling clouts. The unseemly blowing of horns by boys, and some of them great, big lubberly louts too, was disgusting. This indication of backwoods village life should be stamped out. Come, Mr Mayor, whoever you may be, you are the man. On your shoulders falls the mantle, yours is the duty to remedy existing evils. You have a golden opportunity, and the hour to strike the blow is now. Hit, hit out from the shoulder, and hit with a massive sledge, and let it be labelled

INTELLIGENCE AND PROGRESS.

At three o'clock this afternoon a regular cyclone a la Wiggins struck us. The night had been windy and the morning thick with cold showers of rain, but at three o'clock the gale struck in from the N. W. Shutters, signs, leaves and even umbrellas filled the air. The general expression was—Why, this is a Wigginser—sure. For a few moments it was of such force as to clear the streets, and in a very few moments all was past, Old Sol popped out from beneath the black threatening clouds, smiled down on us, just as bright and cheerful, and sped on his usual course just as if the past few moments had not threatened death and desolation to one and all. There must be something radically wrong about our mail service, especially regarding the transit of the newspaper. Tuesday, at 11 a.m., the FREE PRESS of Monday, 11th inst., came to hand in Toronto; here its welcome face has not shown up since the arrival of the great double number, which has so markedly shown up Ottawa's progressive spirit. It is pronounced a great success.

THE OLD MAN.

FOOT BALL.

Well-Contested Match Between Clinton and Goderich.

A football match was played on the cricket grounds last Saturday between the Clinton and Goderich teams, resulting in a victory for the home team by one goal to nothing. The game was well contested, and very little rough playing was indulged in. The captain of the Clinton team wished to play only one hour, which was acceded to. Goderich won the toss, and chose to kick in the west gaol. For the first ten minutes the ball was kept flying around in close proximity to the Goderich goal, but the next twenty minutes it was sent down on the visitors goal by the home team. However, the first half-time passed without either side securing a goal. During the whole of the next half time the home team kept the ball continually flying around their opponent's goal, and in fifteen minutes secured a goal by a good play on the part of Wm McLeod. The next fifteen minutes passed without another goal being secured. The teams comprised the following:

CLINTON.

There were not many spectators during the match.

Dunlop.

Mr and Mrs R. H. McDonald visited the former's parents last week. Rob. returned to his post, at Detroit, with a leading wholesale firm in that city, on Monday last. Mrs McDonald will spend several months here for change of air and scene.

HOME RULE.—Weather permitting, many of our local orators are going in tonight to Goderich to be enriched in their views on this question by Dr. Burns's lecture.

W. F. Clark, of Claremont, left last Friday to take his 2nd year's course as a V. S. at the college in Toronto. During recess, he was under the eye of Dr. Aikenhead, V. S., of Goderich.

Leeburn.

E. N. Shaw and J. B. Patton visited relatives at Whitechurch last week.

The apple packing business is booming. The orchards look like cooper yards, judging by the scores of barrels displayed.

Burrows', Crews', and Echlin's steam threshers are tooting, waking the slumbers of the maidens fair in the morn, and finishing up threshing the crops of 1886.

Last spring our cotems in Paramount and Dunlop were very much interested in the feathered tribe, particularly the geese, praising up their good qualities to the edification of the guidwives, and telling some wonderful yarns which were most interesting to the fair sex. Still our hamlet leads. Daniel Carnegie has a goose which brought out a large brood of goslings, and has laid over a round dozen of eggs this month, for a second term for 1886.

The Winnipeg Siftings has once more made its appearance under the guidance of Mr Geo. B. Brooks.

HORSE SOLD.—Mr Ben. Churchill of Hullett sold his fine black driving horse to T. C. Doherty for $175.

Paul Ross, formerly mayor of Walkerton, was found dead at Silver Heights, Man., on the 12th inst. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause.

The German War Office has decided that all sub-officers selected from the Berlin garrison and one hundred from the garrisons at Strasburg and Metz have begun a course of tuition.

Samuel J. McColl, of Owen Sound, accountant for the Grange Trust Insurance Co. (limited), has absconded with some $2,000 of the Company's money. He has gone to the States.

Mr John Reid has bought Mr Wells farm of 100 acres, about 1½ miles from Varna, for $6,900. This is considered a good price as the buildings on it are not very valuable. Mr Wells will likely remove to Missouri.

The Provincial Sabbath School Convention opened at Hamilton yesterday for the 21st annual session, President Crabbe, of St. Mary's, in the chair, and a large attendance. Geo. Rutherford, of Hamilton, was elected President for the ensuing year.

The Kingston Whig has been informed that certain limestone Liberals who do not like its style propose to start another organ in that city. The Whig accepts the proposition philosophically. Newspaper men never pray that their enemy may write a book. Their worst wish is that he may start a third paper in a two-paper town, with the sheriff as prospective managing editor.—Toronto World.

Acheson's New Hall!
during the winter months of 1886-7.

Some of the best available Canadian and American talent has been secured, and the committee are confident of giving entire satisfaction.

Course tickets, consisting of five single coupon tickets are being sold at $1 each. These tickets may be used as the purchaser chooses, e.g., he may go himself to each lecture, or he may take four friends with him to any one lecture, or he may allow his wife to attend three and go himself to two, or he may—use them in any way he pleases. Some liberal souls, knowing the great needs of the church, will take two, three or four, and use them as family tickets; but be sure you buy at least one when the lady canvasser calls upon you.

The nett proceeds will be equitably divided between the two Methodist churches.
