PACKERS BREAK HOG PRICE BY BAN ON BUYING

Values for Live Animals Decline Sharply on Local Market.

SOME DEALERS "STUNG"

Unprecedented Rise Leads tn Concerted Acting by Big Houses.

Local hog buyers announced this morning that following a combined movement of big representative packing men of the States and Canada, the price of porkers made a sheer drop of $2.50. This substantial drop lowers the price of hogs to $15.50.

Some days ago it was predicted that porkers would continue their advance toward the $20 mark.

Reached $20 Mark.

Hog prices at Chicago, Detroit and Toronto reached the $20 mark this week, and values of the American cities surpassed this price to the extent of 20c last Monday.

The action of the packers is said to have been born of the refusal of many buyers to take hogs at such prices. W. Johnson of the Wm. Davies Company, stated yesterday that his firm would not give any orders for hogs until the price was around the $16 mark. Other representative packing men of Canada and the States are said to have protested at the values. This resulted in the combined movement of the large packers, and a normal price for hogs will now be offered.

Some Lose Money.

It is said that much money was lost by hog buyers who had bought their animals at the quoted price of $18 yesterday, not foreseeing the present drop.

Dressed hogs will also decline materially as a result of the drop in live hogs, and certain butchers will naturally suffer a considerable loss.

NEW DEPARTMENT FOR Y.M.C.A. JUNIORS FINISHED

The new junior department of the Y. M. C. A. will likely be opened at the end of the month, and the full program well under way by the time school opens.

The whole third floor of the building is being given over to this work. It was formerly occupied by Westervelt's business college, but carpenters have been at work throughout the past month remodeling the rooms, and the work will probably be finished by the end of the week.

The new department is spacious. Offices for the secretary are provided at the head of the stairs. Behind these are a small club room and two large game rooms, one of which will be used by the junior boys and the other by the older ones. Shower baths will be installed, and there will be a gymnasium larger than the present one on the ground floor. Some of the apparatus for this has already been obtained.

It is planned to use a number of the rooms to develop Canadian Standard Efficiency work, which was carried on in several of the churches last year. A room will be set apart which the various groups may use as a meeting place on appointed dates. On these days it is likely arrangements will be made to give them the use of the gymnasium and other Y. M. C. A. privileges whether they are Y. M. C. A. members or not.

The new rooms will give opportunity to increase every branch of Y. M. C. A. work. The space vacated by the juniors on the second floor will now be used by the senior and intermediate department, relieving the overcrowding of the past few years. The fact that all soldiers in uniform and returned men become members of the institution free of charge has been a large factor in causing the changes.

OWNERS OF UNTAGGED DOGS TO BE SUMMONED

There are 1,267 dogs in the city, according to the number of licenses issued by Inspector J. W. McCallum. The average citizen considers the hound population to be about one million.

Mr. McCallum is also of the opinion that there are about 2,000 dogs, and he will issue summons to a number of citizens who have failed to contribute to the city coffers for the privilege of owning one of man's best friends. He has received so far $2,676 from dog men.

Miss Jennie McNaughton, Buffalo, a daughter of Mrs. Margaret McNaughton, 11th concession, London Township, is visiting her home prior to her departure overseas with an American hospital unit.

She is on leave until Monday, and came to bid her relatives good-by. She is a graduate of a hospital in Buffalo, and has been doing private nursing there for some years. When the call came for nurses she volunteered and will leave with a detachment of 66 nurses at once. She is a niece of Harry Merritt at the city hall.

Mary Jane Treats "Gee-It-Was-Fun" Spirit Shown At For Funeral

BY MARY JANE.

This morning, having a few leisure moments, I picked up a paper a day or two old and came across the following, among the Editorial Notes: "Wonder what our friend, Mary Jane, thinks about the people who made a frolic of a local funeral?" She thinks, to put it mildly, that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread." Where the hand of God fell so heavily, how could eyes gaze so lightly? We seem to have with us always the vandals who need must tear to shreds the sacred veil which covers the tragedies, the mysteries, the bitter heartaches of life. Morbidity is as much a disease as insanity; in the medical world, I think, they must be first cousins. People afflicted with this carping curiosity should come out for awhile and live in the sunshine—God's own disinfectant.

How Many Kind in Life?

The terrible tragedy which wiped out the For family was the more poignantly heartrending inasmuch as the victims were strangers within our gates. My heart goes out to the brave people who come pioneering in a strange land, among a strange people, whose language even, they know not. As I read of the thousands who visited the home on Maitland street when Death had entered, I wondered how many of them would have extended the hand of fellowship while Life still reigned.

It seems strange that not even "the quiet dead" are immune from the vulgar probings of vulgar minds. The scene at the cemetery, as I have heard it described, with men climbing trees and women shoving, and pushing, and laughing, was not a very fine tribute of reverence and respect to departed souls. I should like to know how the "heathen Chinee" who were present at the dreary burial regard the conduct of Christians (?) at a Christian funeral.

Haven't Enough to Do.

The printed reports describe the crowds as being composed mostly of women and children. There have been times in my life when I have writhed with shame for my own sex. Women in courtrooms, women at morgues to view the aftermath of a gruesome, bloody murder, women in the crowd at a street-brawl. Some women, not too many fortunately, are never happy unless they have their fingers on the pulse of all that is sensational, sordid, and scandal-streaked. Why steep one's soul in such things when there is so much that is beautiful and joyous, ennobling and uplifting in the world. The trouble with a good many people, men as well as women, is that they have not enough to do. "For there is perennial nobleness, and even sacredness in Work," says Carlyle, "in Idleness alone is there perpetual despair." Truer words were never penned.

"Gee It Was Fun!"

On the day of the funeral, I was on a car returning from town when two girls, well dressed and refined-looking, came in and sat just in front of me. I soon discovered from their conversation that they were returning from the cemetery; they discussed the funeral from the time it left the home until all was over and the little family, aliens in a foreign land, were laid in their last resting place. Imagine my dumb amazement when one of them remarked, "Gee, it was fun! But I nearly had my ribs broken."

Tragedy. A masterpiece of tragedy. How may we designate those who interpreted it as melodrama, or even—pitiful thought—as comedy?

TRACTOR PLOWS EACH DAY TURN OVER 120 ACRES

Big Drive in Progress to Insure Bumper Crops of Fall Wheat.

MORE LAND PREPARED

Four Machines Should Plow 1,200 Acres Before the Season Is Closed.

That the acreage of fall wheat in 1918 will greatly exceed that of this year, and will likely surpass the average acreage of this crop is the prediction which travelers throughout the county here making. Already farmers have started to plow the ground for this crop, most of the work being so far confined to districts where the ground is light and sandy.

Within a couple of weeks work on the heavier soil will be well under way. September 15 is generally the latest date at which the work is done. Almost every farmer in the district has announced his intention of putting in a large crop of fall wheat and if circumstances prevent this, substituting spring wheat.

Four of the Government tractors are working at full speed in the county and are plowing on an average 30 acres a day, or a total of 120 acres. With 18 working days between the present date and the middle of September, they should be able to turn over in the neighborhood of 1,200 acres.

The acreage this year was comparatively small and is said by some to have been below the average.

DETERMINED TO RIDE ON FENDER OF CAR

Magistrate Graydon had but one case to deal with at the police station this morning, that of a drunk who pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs. The patrolman who made the arrest testified that the prisoner was taken from the fender of a Richmond street car, having made up his mind to ride there instead of inside. As the motorman could not induce him to vacate his position on the fender, a passing patrolman was signalled and the arrest made.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the summer than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and stomach disorders come without warning and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the home where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will cure the baby. Mrs. has. Anderson, Minda, Alta., says: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine for little ones who are suffering from a weak stomach. They cured my baby when suffering from stomach complaint and have made her a fine healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

STORMY SCENES IN CANADIAN COMMONS AS SOLDIERS' VOTE MEASURE IS PASSED

Those Who Never Lived In Canada Get Ballot.

DR. EDWARDS STARTS ROW

Member for Frontenac Takes Slam at Dr. Pugsley's Son.

OTTAWA, Aug. 24.—The bill giving votes to soldiers is ready for third reading. It passed from the committee stage tonight after a scene of stormy bitterness. Hon. Dr. Pugsley, the Liberal representative from St. John, New Brunswick, was attacked as disloyal because he offered an amendment denying voting rights in the Canadian general election to Britishers in the Canadian force, who had never lived in Canada.

Dr. Edwards, of Frontenac, and H. B. Morphy, of Perth, two Ontario Conservatives, led the attack against Dr. Pugsley.

His amendment was defeated by 51 to 13. Ten Liberal members voted with the Government: Messrs. Turriff, MacLean (Halifax), Clark (Red Deer), Douglass, Pardee, Buchanan, Neely, McCraney, Carvell and Loggie.

The thirteen Liberal members who voted for the amendment were: Messrs. Copp, Proulx, Lemieux, Knowles, Kyte, MacKenzie, Pugsley, German, Oliver, Murphy, Turgeon, Michaud and Marcil (Bagot). Mr. George Boiven (Liberal of Shefford, Quebec) did not vote.

No Lines Drawn.

To the Hon. Charles Murphy, the minister of justice stated that every person enrolled in the Canadian expeditionary service would have the right to vote, whether man or woman, of age or below, whether ever resident of Canada or not, whether white, red Indian, Japanese, Hindu or any other race.

Dr. Pugsley then moved his amendment, excluding from the voting rights persons who had not been residents of Canada. He argued that it would be improper to give such persons the right to pass on Canadian questions, with which they were not acquainted.

The amendment was seconded by W. M. German of Welland, who declared that for such persons to vote would be unjust to the Canadians in the trenches, as well as to those in Canada.

All Should Vote.

W. S. Middlebro said that when war broke Canadians who had been living in the United States for years threw up lucrative positions to enlist. He held that every man wearing a Canadian uniform should have a Canadian vote.

Col. James Arthurs, Conservative of Parry Sound, said that while Dr. Pugsley wanted to deprive Americans fighting at the front from casting Canadian votes, he had nothing to say against the voting of Americans, who had come to Canada to work in munition factories.

Dr. Edwards said that ever since the beginning of the war, Dr. Pugsley had shown opposition to helping the boys at the front. Before the war a son of Dr. Pugsley had taken out a commission in the militia, but when the war came, and it was a case of fighting, the young man had resigned his commission and started a garage. He preferred running an automobile to a machine gun.

False and Cowardly.

Dr. Pugsley characterized the statements as "false and cowardly." Dr. Edwards appealed to Chairman Bainville for the withdrawal of the words as unparliamentary.

The chairman ruled that the words had been applied to the remarks of Dr. Edwards, and not to Dr. Edwards himself, and therefore were in order.

This started the House boiling. Dr. Edwards retorted by saying that Dr. Pugsley had made statements that were absolutely false and cowardly, and declared he was in a position to prove the statements he had made regarding Mr. Pugsley's son.

Mr. Pugsley interjected again that Dr. Edwards' assertions regarding the young man were absolutely false and cowardly. And added: "Put that in your pipe and smoke it."

The speaker, amid considerable amusement, called upon Mr. Pugsley to withdraw this expression. Mr. Pugsley asked what expression.

The deputy speaker said "that about the pipe and smoking." The doctor did so. Dr. Edwards declared that Dr. Pugsley was now doing the smoking. Picking up a copy of the Militia Gazette he read from it that Lieut. J. A. Pugsley had been given a lieutenant's commission in the 62nd Regiment, St. John Fusiliers, on November 17, 1914. "Is that your son"? he asked Mr. Pugsley.

Would Ignore Edwards.

The member for St. John said he would have nothing to do with the member for Frontenac.

Dr. Edwards asserted that he was Mr. Pugsley's son, and that in a month or two he had taken off his uniform and run a garage instead of going to war. Dr. Edwards thought it would be only justice if some of these men at the front got a chance to vote in the city of St. John to show what they thought of the conduct of Mr. Pugsley.

Dr. Pugsley said if there was one gentleman in the House who had showed himself on many occasions unworthy of respect, the inner consciousness of the member for Frontenac would tell him to whom he referred. Mr. Pugsley said he was beyond the years when he could enlist. He had made no boast of what he had done in the way of contribution to the cause, but he was willing to let his record as to assistance be compared with that of any other man in the House. Those in his home constituency knew he had done his part.

Dr. Edwards said that he was above the age limit, and had never been connected with the militia. He had never mentioned in public before, but he would say that his only son was flying over the lines in France, and he was speaking as one interested in that boy and others like him. A ballot should be given to every man who has put on khaki to fight for the cause. He was willing to place the record of his son against the record of the son of the member for St. John. "Let us make it a family record," he added, amidst laughter.

Sir Sam Justifies Bill.

Sir Sam Hughes said that it was a rule of all the ages that all naturalization laws are overruled by the fact that a man dons the uniform and fights for his adopted country. Sir Sam said he had attended the dinner in London when Sir Richard McBride was urging Lloyd George and Bonar Law to allow the British Columbia soldiers to vote. They said that it could not be done, and that they could not give them the right. Gen. Hughes said he asked what the mischief they had to do with their right to vote. Canada, not Great Britain, decided whether Canadian soldiers voted. A few days later the right was granted.

Hon. Frank Oliver said that he did not object so much to the soldiers voting; in fact, there was much to be said for it, but he did object to placing the direction of a large number of votes in the hands of the Government and its friends. For this reason he supported the amendment.

H. B. Morphy wondered if the Liberals were afraid of the soldiers' vote.

Afraid of Counters.

"No, afraid of the Government count," replied Mr. Oliver.

Mr. Morphy said that Mr. Pugsley said he wanted to help the boys at the front, and that he had voted against conscription, which was the only way in which they could be assisted. Dr. Pugsley might be loyal, but he disputed his patriotism. Loyalty he described as a symbol and patriotism was the doing of something.

Dr. Pugsley interposed to say that he had not boasted of his loyalty.

"He had good ground for not boasting of it," was the retort of Mr. Morphy, amid laughter.

R. B. Bennett hoped that Dr. Pugsley would withdraw his amendment. He pointed out that the amendment dealt only with British subjects who had come from the United States and other countries to join the army. They could not vote in the United States as British subjects, and the only way they could vote in regard to the conduct of the war was by this bill.

There were two essential qualifications for voting, residence and citizenship. These men were already British subjects and questions of residence was answered by service. Any man who would serve six months in Flanders had earned his right to vote.

W. M. German said he had no fear of the vote of the soldier, as far as he was concerned, but the point involved was what right had any man or any number of men to say they had a right to vote in Welland, for instance, when they had no legal status in the county.

Wants County-at-Large.

George Boiven of Shefford said he was in favor of British subjects being allowed to vote. He thought it would be better, however, to provide for men who have never resided in Canada a county-at-large. Assuming that there were 35,000 such British subjects in the overseas forces, this would be the equivalent of an additional constituency. By this plan these soldiers would have their own representative in the House.

Dr. Michael Clark asked Mr. Boiven if he would confine the representation to one member.

Mr. Boiven replied that he would give them more if they were of sufficient numbers to warrant it.

The vote was taken, and the amendment defeated.

Mr. German then moved an amendment confining the giving of votes to minors to those not below the age of 18, and providing that it should not apply to minors enrolled in forces other than the C. E. F. subsequent to the passage of the act. This, he said, would prevent the enrollment of battalions of naval cadets on the eve of an election for political purposes.

Hon. C. J. Doherty, in declining to accept the amendment, said there would be no possibility of men holding responsible positions in the navy resorting to this sort of thing.
