An Enquiry.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—As one of the many who subscribed to the Regulus Fund, I would like to ask the Committee if the said fund will be ready for dsitribution shortly. The idea of giving this money was to show our sympathy with the sufferers and to help them in their trouble, but if this business is going to be "left in the slings," the sympathetic touch will be lost and the good derived from a spontaneous outburst of good feeling destroyed. It is now nearly five months since the terrible disaster and I am told by one of the sufferers that no money has been distributed yet. Why such delay.

Only 11 Babies Born

New York, March 9.—Figures taken from Health Department records, and published here, show that in the so-called fashionable section of 5th Ave., from Washington Square north to 105th street, there were but eleven babies born in 1910, and in 1909 only seven. In contrast, 147 and 154 births in 1909 and 1910, respectively, were recorded in thirty-five blocks above 105th street. For a residence district lower Fifth Avenue's birth record is believed to be the lowest in the world.

According to the wife, Work accumulated 2,033 "jags" during the nineteen years, six months and seventeen days of their married life. Computing on the basis of a quart of whiskey to each intoxication, Work consumed 308 gallons of whiskey, costing him $3,048 at $1.50 a quart.

Only Seventy.

'Twas on a summer's evening,
The skipper's work was done.
Beside a punt upon the beach
He rested in the sun.
He smoked a blackened pipe of clay,
And watched the boats beat in the bay.

I ventured near the aged man,
We talked of wind and wave,
We talked of merchants, price of fish—
And then in accents grave—
We talked of Old Age Pensions and
The scheme proposed for Newfoundland.

I've fished most every place of note,
Said he, around this shore,
I've also fished on George's Banks
And on the Labrador—
I've fished for half a century
But I'm only Seventy.

I've builded many a cod-seine skiff,
I've mastered many a trap,
I've roughed it, too, with a whaling crew,
When I was a youthful chap;
I've raised a sturdy family,
But then I'm only Seventy.

I've gone a-sealing, boy and man,
Since I could swing a "bat";
I've stood in the barrel from dawn to dark
And sought where the "patch" was at;
I'll never sail with the fleet again,
But pensions are for older men.

He had a little money once,
But now, alas, 'tis gone!
Like many another man's it went
The year the crash was on.
And now his lot is poverty,
For he's only Seventy.

And 'ere his years have reached the mark
Where he can claim this dole,
The so-called pension Morris grants
Heav'n shall have claimed his soul;
His bones in Potter's field shall be,
For he is only Seventy.

The King's Waste Paper

New premises are to be built for his Majesty's Stationery Office, on the "other side" of Waterloo Bridge—a large site with one frontage on the east side of the approach to the bridge.

More room is wanted, and it cannot be found on the present site—which is in Prince's-Street, Westminister—and it is no longer necessary for the Stationery Office to be in the middle of the apartments it serves. Telephones and taxicabs have annihilated distance, and the present site has increased in value to such an extent that a more economical use can be found for it. The new site will cost about a tenth of what the old site is worth.

The work of the Stationery Office is not confined to the buildings in the immediate vicinity of Westminister. Besides the Houses of Parliament and the Ministers' Departments, the Stationery Office supplies the King's palaces, the Army, the Navy, and the diplomatic centres all over the world. It does not send pens, ink, and pencils to New Zealand, but it does send stamped official note-paper there, as well as blue-books and other publications. It has to find room for at least an acre of stored blue-books and "white paper," closely packed on shelves ten feet high.

The Stationery Office has to deal with all the waste paper of the Government of England. This is sold under contract to a dealer. To ensure that there shall be no prying into Government secrets, by rummaging through the waste, a representative of the Department is on the contractors premises, and he sees that the ledgers and documents are cut up and the pieces shuffled before being reduced to pulp.

Another safeguard against the leakage of secrets is provided. Departments put certain waste paper into sacks marked 'Absolutely confidental,' and an official of the Stationery Office throws them bodily into a destructor. This applies to the King's private waste paper, to the Prime Minister's, to the Foreign Secretary's—and, in fact, to those of every Minister of the Crown. No complaints are ever raised about secrets extracted from waste paper baskets.

The new premises will be ready in about two years.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPHTHERIA.

The EVENING TELEGRAM.

THE advertiser who puts his Advts. in the EVENING TELEGRAM never complains of results. It is read and believed by the people who buy goods. That is one reason why the TELEGRAM'S advertising columns

Carry More Advertising Than Any Other Newspaper in Newfoundland.

That fact "speaks for itself," and it is not our intention just now to emphasize it further. What we want to do is to bring home to the business men (if there are any who have not availed of our columns in the past) the advantage to be gained through a liberal use of the TELEGRAM, in bringing before the people what they want the public—the greatbuying public—most to know:

The Kind of Goods They Have To Sell, the Quality of the Goods, Prices, &c.

If that is what the shopkeeper wants the public to learn, the TELEGRAM is the right medium through which it can be conveyed, because—

1st. It has the largest circulation, and

2nd. Consequently it is the most widely-read newspaper in Newfoundland;

3rd. Naturally, then, it must be THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM in Newfoundland;

4th. Therefore, the advertiser has everything to gain, and nothing to lose, by availing of the services of the EVENING TELEGRAM during 1911.
