THE DAYS TO COME.

WHEN WALKER FURNISHES US.

"The days to come, long summer days,
With lilacs by the garden walk;
The hills grown purple dim with haze
Where little wild birds sing and talk;
And shall we suffer on, my dear,
And covet other peoples' bliss?
Shall we be still nail'd to this here,
No better home to show than this?

"My cousin Dan one spring declared
He would not of his misery speak;
Now that he has with Walker squared,
Although he pay him by the week).
No wonder, Mary, Dan's good mate
Looks ten years younger, fresher grown;
he rest they made, although quite late,
Is just as fine as o'er was known.

Such pretty alcoves—portiere hid—
A spare room where the rugs are spread;
A cunning desk with dropping lid,
You'd never guess that folding bed.
Rich carpets sprinkled o'er with moss,
And roses! curtains' filmy lace;
All new and shining with a gloss,
Which happiness brings to the place.

"Oh, what a calm and sweet content
Comes when at night they gather round
The lamp light when the day is spent,
And home's true luxuries are found.
Then let us quickly do like Dan.
Provide such comforts while we may
With Walker's new instalment plan
All bills we'll find not hard to pay."

Sensible conclusions: What can you do better each week but put your money into the home you seek for wife and little ones? Baby carriages are so cheap—get one. Carpets are of finer designs and cheaper than ever—get a new one for the parlor. Who would be without a first-class parlor suite or chamber set when they can be had on such easy terms. Everything new and the latest improved at
