TOWN PLANNING COMMITTEE TO SEEK OPINIONS

Will Ask For Views of Other Municipalites As To Amendments.

THEN SEE GOVERNMENT

Ratepayers' Representative On Committee Thinks Council Control Too Great.

The inaugural meeting of the town planning committee appointed by the city council was held last night. Ald. E. R. Seabrook was elected to the chairmanship. The business was confined largely to a review of the town planning act and amendments by the Town Planning Association.

These amendments will be forwarded to other cities which are interested in town planning, and their opinion of them will be sought. The members of the Town Planning Association will be notified that this has been done.

The object of these steps is to secure some general idea as to what changes are needed in the present town planning act. A deputation representing the municipalities and the Town Planning Association will then wait on the provincial secretary and urge that these changes be made. It is felt that more will be obtained in this manner than by having each municipality seek changes according to its own ideas. If a conference with the provincial secretary is arranged, an endeavor will be made to have the representatives of the cities meet immediately previous to this. They will then discuss the changes they wish to make and present a united front to the Government.

Council Representation.

One of the principal amendments desired is to have city councillors represented on town planning commissions. At present no member of a municipal council can be a member of any other commission To obviate this difficulty London has appointed a committee instead of a commission under the act. The mayor and three members of the council are included in the membership of this committee with three ratepayers. This gives the council control of matters.

The Government will not be asked to make town planning compulsory, but merely to pass further permissive legislation.

John Cottam, one of the ratepayers on the new committee, last night stated that he was opposed to too rigid control of the committee by the council. "There are four members of the council on the committee. They can control it," he said. "It seems idle to put the committee in a position where it must go to the council for every little expenditure. I do not think it should be tied hand and foot.

Mayor Little asserted that that would not be the case. "This committee will be along the same lines as the hospital trust and similar bodies," he said. "It will prepare a budget at the beginning of the year. An appropriation will be made for it and all accounts thereafter will be charged to that appropriation."

"We should have power to spend on a building plan to meet any emergency," said Mr. Cottam. "We are more important than the board of education or other independent bodies. We should have lost thousands of dollars. The comings. We have one instance in which the city council refused to provide for securing sewer levels. As a result we has lost thousands of dollars. The committee should have power to prevent situations of this kind.

Largely Educative.

City Clerk Baker, who is vice-president of the Town Planning Association, said the work of the committee must be largely educative. Mr. Cottam thought it would be of little use if it had no other function than this.

Mr. Baker said that while everybody was agreed that a master plan for the city's development should be prepared, one opinion was that this should be kept in the background as much as possible. The plan would be of a general character, and would not hold development down to the sixteenth of an inch. He could state for the Ontario Municipal Association that town planning would be supported by that body with the proposed amendments.

Estimates of the cost of work to be undertaken by the committee will be drawn up soon. Experts in town planning may be asked to come here, and make a survey of the situation, but this will not likely be done until spring.

Action on the establishment of a municipal aerodrome was deferred. George Belton, another representative of the ratepayers on the committee, thought that lands for this purpose should be at a considerable distance from the centre of the city.

Mayor Little suggested that the industrial area recently purchased by the city might prove suitable as a temporary location for such a project. An expert in aerial matters may be asked to survey the situation here.

At The Theaters

AT THE PATRICIA.

Displaying his usual pep and exceptional feats of horsemanship and daredevilry, Tom Mix in "The Speed Maniac" played the usual capacity house which is the direct result of his popularity, at the Patricia Theatre on Monday. Among the thrills in this picture are his rescue of a baby from beneath the hoofs of a runaway team, the saving of a girl who is in the vehicle, which is being drawn at breakneck speed by the maddened horses; his terrible fight with a professional boxer, to provide a home for the small children of this pugilist's opponent, who has been drugged to prevent his participation in the contest, and his daring turn-turtle stunt while driving a racing car at a terrific rate in the classic race at San Francisco.

Vaudeville, which received round after round of applause from the audience, was presented. Billy Hart and his quartet of dancing beauties were the attraction. Billie himself is a scream, imitating in a very amusing manner the bally-hoo faker of the circus. Whenever there is an opportunity to work in a laugh, whether on the stage or among the audience, Billie takes advantage of it. The four girls add much to the enjoyment of the act, dancing and singing in a very accomplished manner. One of them does some toe dancing that was the subject of much favorable comment.

A Century Comedy, with an Oriental known as the Chinese Charlie Chaplin as the principal, and a Fox newsfilm, illustrating many important current events, complete a program which was very satisfactory, and which will be repeated today and on Wednesday.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"The Cup of Fury," featuring Helene Chadwick, attracted a fair audience to the Majestic Theatre last night. The picture shows the system which was used in war time by German agents in American shipyards.

An able cast, evidently selected with great care, offers an example of how convincing a picture can be if the players are exactly suited to their parts. After viewing the "Cup of Fury" one cannot imagine the characters in it being portrayed by any but the people who have the parts. They seem to live and breathe on the screen, so well do they blend with the trend of the story.

Helene Chadwick has one of the most dramatic roles of her career as Mamise. Her sweetness and simplicity win quick sympathy for the girl whose innocent confidence in her foster parents leads her into a trap set by the secret service for a band of German conspirators. As the story reaches its climax Miss Chadwick has an opportunity to bring into play her great versatility, and she makes the most of it. Mamise could not be a more satisfying person whether in her highly emotional scenes or in those which she dominates by strength of character.

Rockcliffe Fellowes combines in Davidge culture and chivalry with manliness and loyalty, and makes him a clean-cut young fellow of pleasing personality whose ire it is not safe to arouse. Davidge's persistent courtship of Mamise and his final success in winning her furnishes the vein of romantic that runs through the story.

Pictures showing scenes in Canada and a comedy flim completed the picture attractions.

The vaudeville did not appear last night, owing to a missed train connection.

The performance will be repeated today and on Wednesday.

AT THE GRAND.

To say the least the feature picture at the Grand Theatre, "When Clouds Roll By," starring Douglas Fairbanks, is decidedly unusual, but in addition it provides a touch of the weird, a great deal of wholesome comedy, all the athletic and acrobatic stunts that Douglas Fairbanks alone is capable of, and stupendous settings, which all together pleased mightily a capacity house at the treatre last night. The program also included five excellent vaudeville acts.

Doug, in the role of a young man named Brown, falls into the hands of a mysterious doctor, who seeks to perform an experiment on a human being, although it means the taking of the victim's life, and Brown is the proposed victim. In a series of experiments worked through innumerable assistants with whom he surrounds his subject, he gradually turns the unsuspecting Brown into a superstitious, worrying wreck, with whom everything goes wrong.

The plan of the doctor almost goes wrong, when Brown falls in love, and is about to be married, his uncle proposing to send him west on a business trip as soon as the ceremony is over. To prevent the marriage and a miscarriage of his plans, the doctor manages to get a former sweetheart of the girl invited to the wedding, while Brown is engaged in straightening out several complex situations, this man lies to the bride-to-be and manages to spirit her away from the house. Brown pursues the couple, and misses the ferry by which they are escaping, by a narrow margin. This seems the last straw, but just as reason seems to be leaving him, Brown sees two wardens from the state asylum arrest the doctor, who have followed him to the dock. He grasps the whole situation in a second, his sense of humor reasserts itself, and he becomes normal, takes up the chase and in the end wins back the girl, although a whole town is destroyed in the doing of it.

Without doubt the best musical vaudeville act to be seen in this city in many months is the Ten Liberty Girls. Ten beautiful girls play at first a medley of Irish folk-songs, and then play many classical and modern numbers. The settings are elaborate and appropriate.

Louis Hall and Ada Brown in "She's a Traveling Man," stage an extremely amusing skit.

Arthur and Leah Bell offer a ventriloquial novelty that highly entertaining. Clayton and Clayton, a man and a woman, paint pictures and sing, and a musician by the name of Lameerti proves to be a master of the xylophone.

Although the feature picture will be shown during the whole week the vaudeville act will be repeated only today and tomorrow.

A 'TEEN-AGE GIRLS' RALLY PLANNED FOR END OF MAY

Week-End Concert, Saturday Banquet, Sunday Rally.

An interesting banquet was held at the Y. M. C. A. last night, when the large co-operative council for girls' work in the city met there to discuss plans for the coming season. The result of the meeting was the determination to hold a great teen age girls' rally in the city towards the end of May. This rally will take the form of a week-end concert, a Saturday banquet and a big rally on Sunday afternoon. At the banquet reports will be read from the different groups of girls in the city, showing that all have worked along the lines of the Canadian Girls in Training standard.

It was also decided to hold a Mothers' and Daughters' Week, preceding Mothers' Sunday, when the various groups of girls in the city will invite their mothers to meet with them.

At the banquet yesterday reports were read from the various groups of girls in the city, some studying under the names of the Girl Guides and others as Canadian Girls in Training. The question of a uniform for all the teen age girls in the city was discussed, and it was decided that the middy and skirt would form the basis of this uniform, the color of the tie to distinguish the different clubs. Mrs. W. R. McIntosh was in the chair.

WANT DAY CHANGED.
