—Dr. Angus Graham, of No. 463 King street, recently of Dorchester Station, wishes it understood he is not the medical man figuring in the Kilbourne case.

—The Thanksgiving service held in First Church of Christ (Scientist) proved to be one of the most impressive ever held in the church. David S. Robb, first reader, conducted the service.

—Mr. H. B. Ashplant will lecture tonight at Society Hall, 664 Dundas street, on "International Socialism and its Programme." An enjoyable programme of vocal and instrumental music will precede the lecture.

ARE AT WALKERVILLE.

Mayor Rumball and City Solicitor Meredith are at Walkerville today, conferring with the officials of the L. E. and D. R. R. in reference to the disputed clauses of the proposed lease agreements.

A CALL FROM OSHAWA.

Rev. Charles Smith, formerly pastor of the Colborne Street Methodist Church, and now pastor of the Methodist Church, Meaford, has been extended a unanimous invitation to become the pastor of the Metcalf Street Church in the town of Oshawa for the next pastoral term, commencing July 1, 1902.

MR. COLLINS WAS IRATE.

Mr. Jerry Collins, of South London, was a visitor at the city hall this morning. He had a grievance—in fact, several of them. The engineer, the assessment department and the chairman of No. 2 committee, all came in for a share of his berating. The engineer had promised to fix Railway street for him, and had not done so, and the latter had increased his assessment unjustly. Mr. Collins, after stating freely his opinion of the officials in question, ended by declaring that they were a bad lot all round, and departed with a veiled threat that he would be back, and that things would happen on the occasion of his return.

CONCERT AND LECTURE.

The thanksgiving concert in the Methodist Church, Derwent, Thursday evening, proved to be one of the most successful and enjoyable out-of-town musical events of the season. Among those taking part were Mrs. Leute, London; Mrs. (Dr.) Meldrum, Belmont; Mrs. J. D. Thompson, Rev. Wm. Quance, Fanshawe; Rev. H. D. Moyer, Belmont, and Messrs. J. D. and G. R. Thompson. The programme included excellent vocal solos, duets and quartets and piano duets. Rev. Dr. McCrae, of Wilton Grove, delivered an admirable 30-minute lecture on "Give and Get," which was very highly appreciated, both for the many helpful and inspiring points which it contained and the manner in which it was given.

ST. ANDREW'S DINNER.

The bill of fare for the above dinner, at the Tecumseh House, on Monday night, is not printed in French, but in good honest humorous Scotch, and includes:

"Kail broth, suppit wi' horn spunes;"

"Biled samon fra the Tweed;"

"Ribs o' Heilan stirk, wi' Perthshire sauce;"

"Roastit venison, sent by Andrew Carnegie frae Skibo. Stewed Tammy Taes;"

"Great chieftan o' the puddin' race, wi' bag pipes sauce;"

And much else.

The feast of reason will match the rest. The tickets are going off lively.

MACKINTOSH—MAGEE.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized yesterday at the bride's parents', Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Magee, 528 Dundas street, when Mr. Wm. Mackintosh, manager of the Compensating Pipe Organ Company, of Toronto, was married to Miss Jane Magee, of this city. The contracting parties are well known in this city, Mr. Mackintosh having resided here some years. The service was performed by the Rev. George J. Bishop assisted by the Rev. C. T. Scott, and in the presence only of immediate friends and relations. Although the wedding was of a very quiet nature, the many handsome presents received testified to the number of friends wishing the couple their good-will. Mr. and Mrs. Mackintosh left in the evening for Toronto, where they will reside.

DEATH OF MRS. HENDERSON.

Mrs. Annie Henderson died at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday morning. She had been ill with appendicitis of but a week's duration. Mrs. Henderson was the wife of John Henderson, general merchant and postmaster of Rebecca, West Nissouri, and 53 years of age. She was the second daughter of the late Samuel and Mary Hueston, and is survived by a family of two sons and two daughters, Wesley and Frank, Jennie and Bertha. Mrs. Thos. Blackwell, of Muskoka; Mrs. Richard Fox, of West Nissouri; Mrs. James Fox, of Thorndale, and Mr. John Hueston, of this city, are sisters and brother of deceased. Mrs. Henderson's many friends will learn of her demise with the deepest regret. The funeral will leave the family residence, Rebecca, on Saturday afternoon.

MR. YEIGH'S ILLUSTRATED LECTURE.

Thanksgiving night was made enjoyable to a large audience in Dundas Street Methodist Church by Mr. Frank Yeigh, of Toronto, with his illustrated lecture on "Scenes in Britain and Brittany." It is rarely that a couple of hours pass as rapidly as in looking and listening with Mr. Yeigh. The views thrown on the canvas were surprisingly clear and graphic. In Mr. Yeigh's tour in Europe during the past summer he had the discrimination and artistic taste to avoid the too well-known and commonplace, managing always to obtain fresh points of view and unhackneyed scenes. Mr. Yeigh's accompanying lecture, or travel-talk, is not only of literary merit, but delivered with satisfactory elocutionary effects. Our contemporaries of the press, elsewhere, will be perfectly safe in recommending their readers not to miss Mr. Yeigh's fine illustrated lecture on "Britain and Brittany."

LATE SPORTING.

ATHLETICS.

'CROSS-COUNTRY RUN.

A 'cross-country and road race was held on Thanksgiving Day by Collegiate Institute students. The course laid out was from the Collegiate Institute to the south gate of the asylum grounds, through the grounds to the corner of Oxford street and the asylum side road, and back to the Collegiate, across Carling's Heights. In the junior race there were twelve contestants, and they made splendid running, Fred Hodges winning in 43½ minutes, followed by Kingsmill, Higgins, Phelps, Dipp, Forsyth, Blair, Craig and Atkins, in the order named.

In the senior race there were five boys running, Chester Rowntree winning in 43½ minutes, Jack Carling and Frank Macarthur coming in second and third A. Dann and L. Woods, two ex-students, also ran, making the course in 42 and 43 minutes. F. Hodges' effort is especially creditable, as the course was considerably over five miles.

Adrian, Mich., Nov. 29.—It is believed now that the last of the bodies recovered from the Wabash wreck near Seneca Wednesday night and brought here, has been identified. Mayor Reynolds today received a telegram dated Sherman, Texas, saying: "Can you advise if Ann Upton, an old lady, with ticket sold here to Chatham, Ont., was injured? (Signed), Wm. Upton."

Mayor Reynolds wired back a description of the woman to Mr. Upton, and it is believed that the remains will be ordered shipped to Texas before the day is over.

All the burned and blackened fragments of what were once human bodies have been placed in caskets and will be buried this afternoon in Oak Grove Cemetery. There are four caskets filled with these pieces. Coroner Hamilton began an inquest this morning.

FIXING THE RESPONSIBILITY.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29.—Conductor J. Martin, of the Wabash eastbound train which was in the collision, said today that the orders given him at Mount Pelier were to pass the west-bound at Seneca. "My orders,' said he, "which I took to Engineer Strong and read over to him, and which agreed with his orders, read: 'No. 4, engine 609, will meet No. 3, engines 88 and 151, at Seneca, and No. 3, engine 623, at Sand Creek."

This bears out Superintendent Burns that Engineer Strong, of the eastbound, either misunderstood or forgot his orders.

When Conductor Martin's statement was repeated to Engineer Strong later, the engineer said: 'If I made an error, I was not alone to blame. The other three members of the crew must have understood as I did or else they would have corrected me."

RESULTS OF THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA

Capt. A. Mahan Says That British Prestige Has Been Increased.

London, Nov. 29.—Capt. A. T. Mahan has a very interesting article in the December National Review on the South African war and British prestige. Upon the whole, he sees abundant room for criticism in detail, but does not find any British military record to cause or warrant loss of prestige. The British army is today a vastly more useful instrument than it would have been two years ago, and this gain will last for at least a decade as a matter of international calculation, just as the disbanded but tempered force of the United States remained after the civil war. Captain Mahan points out that the Boers have much in common with the North American Indians as combatants, and that the British army has been engaged since the fall of Pretoria in a task analogous to that of which the United States army during the past century had so large an experience.

BRITISH EMPIRE STRENGTHENED.

In the development of power, both local and general, Capt. Mahan believes the war has strengthened materially the British Empire and furthered the imperial idea. Loss of prestige, he says, in conclusion, will come when a nation loses heart.

IS MARKS ALIVE?

New York, Nov. 28.—Is "Lary Marks" dead or alive?"

Difference of opinion on this point adds to the mystery of the big frauds on the Liverpool Bank.

Scotland yard still holds firmly to the belief that Marks committed suicide. A detective shadowed him aboard the boat from Boulogne, and on arrival at Folkestone informed Inspector Froest that Marks was sitting on deck, apparently asleep; that he had walked around the boat; that when he returned Marks was gone, and two thorough searches of the boat failed to find him. Inspector Froest maintains positively that Marks did not land at Folkestone.
