Close of the Convention at Chicago.

Formal Statement of the Organization's Sentiments.

Miss Anthony Says the Ballot Only Will Bring the Desired Results—Officers Re-elected.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—With Tuesday night's session the World's Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union came to a close. Lady Henry Somerset again presided at the morning session. Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge, secretary, read the report of the executive committee. The most important item was the nomination of officers for the coming year. There was no change in the old list, and the adoption of the report carried with it the re-election of the ladies named:

Honorary President—Mrs. Mary Clement Leavitt, Boston.

President—Miss Francis E. Willard, Evanston.

Vice-President-at-Large — Lady Henry Somerset, London.

Secretary—Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge, Ravenna, Ohio.

Assistant Secretary—Miss Anna A. Gordon, Evanston.

Treasurer—Mrs. Ella F. M. Williams, Montreal.

The report of Mrs. Edholm, press reporter, showed that there are about 500 temperance papers published in the world, 40 of which are owned and controlled by the W. C. T. U. About 3,000 columns of temperance matter are also published annually in the daily and weekly press.

Miss Lucia F. E. Kimball, superintendent of Sunday school work, presented a report on the work of her department, with encouraging returns from all parts of the world.

Memorial services for Mary Allen West, who died in Japan during the year, were opened with an address by Mrs. Chaka Sakurai, of Japan, who told of Miss West's travels and labors in Japan and paid a tribute to her character.

Susan B. Anthony was introduced in a graceful speech by Lady Henry Somerset, and was received with enthusiasm and applause. Among other things she said:

WOMEN MUST VOTE.

"Archbishop Ireland and Bishop Fallows and a whole train of ministers and philanthropists may come here and speak eloquently for temperance and everybody is glad to hear them. But where are the mayor of the city of Chicago, the governor of the State of Illinois and the President of the United States. The secretary informs me that they all received a special invitation to come, but not one of them is here. Why? Not because they feel the women have no right to an opinion or that their cause is not just. It is simply because the people who are here wear bonnets and bonnet means that you can't vote. Every great reform must pass its 40 years in the wilderness. The temperance women of this country have traveled in the wilderness more than 40 years, and what they need to take them into the promised land is that women's sentiment shall be coined into law and that never can be done until the word 'male' is stricken out of our State constitutions."

"There is not the ghost of a show for the suppression of whisky saloons, houses of ill-fame, gambling houses or other sinks of iniquity until the women of this nation and of the world have the ballot. Then we could speak with power, and every officeholder, from President to mayor, would know that when political demands of women are disobeyed off go their political heads.

"That is the only way to talk about it. You can sentimentalize about woman's moral influence until the crack of doom and what good will it do, it is not worth a snap of the fingers. You may pray, but until you pray with ballots God can never put down these evil places. I am glad to see that this great organization has come to see that women must have material as well as spiritual weapons in their battle."

Miss Anthony was frequently applauded, and when she had finished speaking she was given a rising vote of thanks for her remarks and for the work she had done on behalf of women in the various world's congresses during the summer.

MESSAGE FROM MISS WILLARD.

The chairman read a cable message from Miss Willard in response to the message forwarded to her yesterday. The message was:

"Proverbs xx., 25—As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a foreign country. Love never faileth."

FORMAL SENTIMENTS OF THE CONVENTION.

The report of the committee on resolutions was then adopted, the resolutions embodying these sentiments:

"Reiterating the principles of total abstinence and prohibition; enjoining that special effort be made to extend the membership of the Women's Christian Temperance Union; urging the members to wear the white ribbon constantly, not only as a badge of loyalty but as a means of influence, and that efforts be made to induce church members everywhere to sign the pledge that the whole influence of the church may be thrown on the side of total abstinence; declaring that woman's equal right is the most effectual means of promoting the growth and success of all moral reforms, appealing to Christian women that whenever wars shall threaten they will pray that the curse of war may be averted, and that they will also endeavor to promote peace by petitioning their several governments; approving a proposal for the celebration of the 1900th birthday of Christ by a series of 'world-around' Christian conventions, including a great world's convention of Christian reforms, regretting that the decennial missionary conference of India withdrew the public morals resolution, including resolutions against the opium trade, the liquor traffic and the legalized vice; recognizing the significance and importance of the work of the world-around missionaries; expressing sympathy for Miss Willard in her impaired strength and faith in her recovery; extending thanks to Lady Henry Somerset for her self-sacrificing interest manifested by her coming to the United States and serving the convention as its president and for her manifold kindnesses to Miss Willard and her private secretary, Miss Anna Gordon."

The citizens of Ridgetown are much annoyed at the statement that the natural gas there is failing. They claim the facts are exactly the reverse, and that there is ten times as much gas as there was a year ago. These who know most about it say there is no immediate danger, for an unlimited supply can be had by boring deeper. Wells near the town, varying from 60 to 200 feet deep, have been used for years, and are as good now as the first day they spouted.

ELGIN.

A Vienna correspondent writes: In the second concession of Houghton there died a few days ago an old lady, Mrs. Malinda Sharp, who had reached the great age of 101 years. For over half a century she was a resident of Houghton. Undertaker Foy says this is the third person whom he has buried within a period of about four years who had passed the century line. The other two were Mrs. Metcalf, 100, and Mrs. Warner, 105, both of Bayham.

O, woman, despairing and wretched,
Dreading, yet longing, to die,
Hear the glad chorus that rises,
Filling the dome of the sky:

"Sisters, be glad, there's help to be had;
No longer be miserable, gloomy and sad;
Lost health regain,' rings out the refrain,
'Poor creatures, be healthy and happy again.'
