Poetry.

'WHILE THERE'S LIFE THERE'S HOPE.'

'Tis truly so: while thought remains,
Hope lurks within the heart,
That constant friend will ne'er forsake
Till life itself depart.

In sorrow, how we cling to it,
And hope for happier days;
In poverty, how much of wo
And mis'ry it allays!

In joy it is a constant guest
Within the trusting heart—
Increases all our happiness
And bids each fear depart.

The ship wrecked mariner who has
A plank to rest upon,
Grasps it, nor quits till, overcome,
He sinks, and it is gone.

So it is with us: thus we cling
To Hope when Death stands by;
We hope for life till life is gone,
And all emotions die.

The Christian has another hope—
His thoughts are all above:
His spirit soars above the tomb
Into the land of love.

What'er our aim, whate'er our wish,
What power with this can cope?
Fear may perplex and care annoy,
But 'while there's life there's hope.'

REVIEW OF THE WORK.

Marriage requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil, which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness, be raised and its true source in every instance disclosed, in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Excesses are always injurious; the gift, which when used in moderation is fraught with advantage, becomes, when abused, the prolific source of mischief, and of greater or less injury to the constitution and vital powers. The particular excesses, on the nature and consequences of which this Treatise professes to dilate, are productive of greater misery to the human frame, than any other to which it is subject.

This Work contains an accurate and complete account of the Anatomy and Physiology of the Reproductive Organs, and of their relative conditions in health and disease. Nor are these the sole contents of the Work, the means of escape, as well as the nature of the danger are pointed out in clear and intelligible language. It deservedly requires the closest attention and study, for what subject can be of more importance than the preservation of health, and the physicial capabilities of which every man should be possessed. It unfortunately happens that the unhappy victim of excesses indulgence and vicious habits, whether acquired in early life, or from the follies of advanced age, while suffering from their invariable consequences, unwisely entertains a fear of applying to the qualified physician for relief. Shame and the dread so frequently but erroneously entertained that these complaints are beyond the reach of art, alike restrict him, and prevent his seeking for assistance where alone it can be procured. In acting thus, he forgets that actuate discrimination in ascertaining the causes of disease, sympathy with the sufferer, and above all, secrecy, invariably characterize the intelligent and practical physician, and to the medical man, who can show by his possession of the requisite legal qualification that he is entitled to esteem and respect in his professional pursuits the utmost confidence should be extended. DR. LA'MERT has obtained the highest medical honours, as his diplomas testify, and the great extent of his practice for many years is a guarantee for his professional experience which has reference almost solely to the treatment of these diseases.

The work may be had in St. John, of H. Gates & Co. price 2s 6d, sg.; Halifax, Messrs. Mon on & Co.; Quebec, Mr. Neilson.
