THE MARKETS

The business on the market has been pretty brisk during the past week, particularly in hay, straw, and wood. The prices in grain have fallen and still have a downward tendency, and for this reason farmers are holding back their stock in the prospect of a raise. This does not seem possible at present, when we consider the extent of this year's crop, and it seems that the farmer is not destined to reap much from the successful yield. Butter has fallen slightly.

THE SCIENCE OF ACCOUNTS.

DOCTOR JOHNSON, writing on the Science of Accounts, uses the following language, "That science which no condition of life can render useless, which must contribute to the advantage of all who buy or sell, of all that wish to keep or improve their possessions, of all that desire to be rich, and all that desire to be wise."

The evils resulting from imperfect systems of Bookkeeping are great, and terminate in the insolvency and bankruptcy, not only of those who regulate their accounts by them, but also of innocent parties unfortunately connected with those persons who have adopted imperfect systems of Bookkeeping. It is well known that a large proportion of the trading community adopt the old mode of single entry, on the disadvantages of which it is not necessary to enlarge, as it does not possess the means, fallacious as they are in principle, of making the Ledger agree with itself. The system of Double Entry generally in use is well calculated to cover fraudulent entries in the transactions of extensive business, is troublesome to keep and perplexing to balance. Comparatively there are but few mercantile men whose books are carefully balanced. Indeed it would seem that the exact balancing of books is of very secondary importance with the majority, who entirely omit taking any account of stock for the purpose of making an annual settlement of their affairs; and even many thinking men, who keep their books by double entry, find such difficulty in balancing that they very generally pass over small differences, and sometimes large ones, rather than go on forever examining the last twelve months' accounts. It is also common for small errors to be passed over as of no consequence; whereas the difference by the Italian system may be only the balance of numerous errors of uncertain amount, which may be exceedingly injurious, and should never be tolerated, especially in PARTNERSHIP CONCERNS. The question may now be pertinently asked, Why are so many students of Commercial Colleges found upon trial to be unfit for business? The answer is obvious,—the teachers generally are merely theoretic in their teaching—wanting that thorough practical acquaintance with bookkeeping and business customs which actual experience alone can give. How necessary then, is it that the teachers in these institutions (professedly established for the imparting of a practical knowledge of Bookkeeping,) should themselves be practical men. With these facts before us, it is of importance that the many hundreds of young men who are annually coming into business life should have a thorough knowledge of accounts, and especially of that important matter, the BALANCING OF BOOKS. Parents and Guardians should maturely consider this, and take care that the youths who are under their guidance shall study this science, as their services will not only become more valuable at the desks of their employers, but when they commence business for themselves will be more certain of success.

All admit the importance of KEEPING BOOKS simply and correctly, and most young men entering into business are anxious to become well-qualified Book-keepers, but where or how to obtain the requisite training, is the problem.

Let the practical philosophy of these facts be impressed on the young Men of Canada, then shall Commercial Colleges resume their true status among the institutions of our land.

JAMES E. DAY,
Accountant,
Toronto, Sept. 19th 1874. 1440 Day's Commercial College, 82 King St., East.

W. Standley), together with all the valuable manufacturing plant and machinery lying thereon and formerly used by the present occupiers, the Ontario Salt Company, in the manufacture of salt.

This well known and valuable salt property, together with the costly machinery and plant now standing thereon, and consisting of engine, engine house, two evaporating pans and all other machinery usual and necessary for the successful manufacture of salt, is now in the possession of the Ontario Salt Company.

This property is situated on the bank of the River Maitland, near to the Grand Trunk Railway station at Goderich, and considering the advantages of its situation and the richness of its underlying salt deposit, it presents to the capitalist and speculator a most favorable opportunity of commencing the manufacture of salt with the almost certain prospect of a speedy return in the shape of profits for the capital invested.

The above property will be sold under a power of sale contained in a certain indenture of mortgage made by the Ontario Salt Company.

The title deeds and the deed of mortgage containing the power of sale under which the property is now being sold may be inspected at the office of the vendors' solicitors, where all further particulars and permission to inspect the property can be obtained. TERMS, CASH.
