Little Work at Woodbine.

The feature at Woodbine Kark yesterday morning was the performance of the various timber toppers in the field. It being the last day in which owners of jumpers were allowed to "school", many seized the opportunity of giving their horses their final "prep" through the field. Among those that negotiated the jumps were Amos A., Garwood, Merrythought, Muscovite, Eppleworth, Idaho and Dodo, Merrythought being the only one to come to grief, though not at a jump. The mare blundered and fell at the upper turn in the field. Besides the changes to be made in the positions of the "double" and stone-wall, a jump is to be built on the hill just opposite the eastern stand, and probably the "post and rails" will be taken away. Men were at work yesterday afternoon fixing the jumps, and every possible care will be taken of the field from now on.

Yesterday was an off day with trainers, and little fast work was done. Johnny Walker had a set of the younger division o fthe Seagram representatives over from Newmarket. The two-year-olds, Spring, St. Vincent, Pyromis, Donald Dinnie and Athens, worked a half in 54 seconds, while the Plater, Confectioner, breezed the same distance in 57 seconds. Morpheus, who has recovered from his lameness, did slow work.

Foam and Red Cap negotiated a mile in 1.53 1-4, while Armada and Steppingstone, from the same stable, "stepped" three furlongs in 39 seconds.

Rover and Two Lips did a mile and half gallop at a two-minute clip.

Littled Pussie, the Plater who went amiss, has been thrown out of training.

The fast riding on the streets nuisance was discussed, various remedies suggested, but nothing definite done.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 7.—It was a pitcher's battle from start to finish this afternoon between Toronto and Wilkesbarre. Until the sixth innings only 34 men had been at bat. A single by Keenan, Lyttle's double and J. Smith's error on a difficult chance gave the home team enough runs to win the game. Brilliant plays were numerous. Attendance 800. Score:

Incidentally a sketch is introduced of one of the most prominent men in London, in the rather earlier days of his career, the sketch being easily recognized.

The new business received during the year 1894 by the North American Life Assurance Company was over $3,000,000, being the largest in the history of the company. Notwithstanding the procurement of this large volume of new business, and the payment to policy-holders of death claims, matured endowments, profits, etc., of the large sum of $133,426, it increased its reserve and surplus funds for policyholders by $284,000.—Globe, Toronto, Feb. 2, 1895. 246 which was another evidence of national prosperity. (Cheers.)

CARTWRIGHT AND HAGGART.

The industrial census showed also to what extent the country had progressed under protection during the past 10 years. The United States census shows that there were thousands of factories set down as such with only one employe. (Hear, hear.) If Sir Richard Cartwright had really wanted to be fair he would have quoted the great increase in the larger industries, those having over $10,000 capital.

Notwithstanding the decreases in values at the present time, compared with the year 1878, our total trade had grown from $152,000,000 in the latter year to $230,000,000 in the year which has closed. (Cheers.) Look at the inter-provincial trade of Canada. Look at the immense trade which has sprung up in the different provinces of the country, a trade which had increased from less than $2,000,000 in 1867 to $125,000,000 in 1894. (Cheers.) But Sir Richard Cartwright was not content with criticizing the census, and, although he did not refer as much as usual to it in his speech, yet he adopted his old tactics of depreciating and decrying the country in which he lived. Worse still, he was not correct in his statements.

Sir Richard Discredits Statistician Blue.

He said that farming property in the Province of Ontario had decreased in value to the extent of $200,000,000. What should be said of a statement of that kind, when the records showed there had been no decline whatever in that respect; on the contrary, there had been a gain of $95,000,000? (Cheers.) Land had decreased—(Opposition cheers)—but there had been an increase in buildings and implements and live stock. (Hear, hear.) Let him refer Sir Richard to an authority which he would not deny—the authority of Mr. Blue, an officer of the Ontario Government, and Sir Oliver Mowat's statistician.

Sir Richard Cartwright: He is much like your own statistician. (Ministerial oh! oh's.)

Mr. Haggart: Oh, then, we are able to take the statement of Sir Richard Cartwright with regard to everything that is going on in this country. (Cheers and laughter.) According to him, our statistician is at fault, and so is the statistician of the Government of Ontario, who has taken every means to find out the real facts and who has a staff at his command for the purpose of inquiring into them. Should we not better depend on such statistics than on those furnished by the honorable gentleman? Where are we to go for our statistics if not to duly accredited officials? (Hear, hear.) What means had the honorable gentleman at his command for finding out what the real statistical condition of the country is? (Hear, hear.) Are we to take his ipse dixit as to what the condition of the country is, and are we to reject the statement of the statistician? He was taking evidence, such as was furnished in this country, evidence that could not be controverted and it showed that, instead of a decline in the farming operations and agricultural wealth of the country, it had increased to $979,000,000 in 1892. (Loud cheers.)

Railway Statistics Evidence of Prosperity.

If any other evidence was wanted of the progress of the country, of the commercial development of the country, and of the increased wealth of the country, the railway statistics showed it. There were 6143 miles of railways in operation in the country in 1878, and there are 15,627 at the present day. The train mileage run in 1878 was 19,669,447, and in 1894 it amounted to 43,670,029. (Cheers.) The number of passengers carried in 1878 was 6,443,924, and in 1894 the number amounted to 14,462,498. The tons of freight carried in 1878 was 7,883,472, and in 1894 20,721,116. Earnings of the roads in 1878 amounted to $20,520,078, and the earnings of the roads in 1894 were $49,552,528. The working expenses in 1878 were $16,100,102, and in 1894 they were $35,215,433. (Loud cheers.)

With reference to Sir R. Cartwright's onslaught on the Intercolonial, the Minister claimed that the road was in a greater state of efficiency than it had ever been before, and yet every year for the past three years it had shown a profit. (Loud cheers.) The Chignecto Marine Railway and Hudson Bay Railway schemes were set down by Sir Richard as liabilities of Canada, but whatever policy was adopted by the Government in regard to those projects, Parliament would be fully consulted about them. (Hear, hear.) Sir R. Cartwright's statement that Canada paid 25 to 30 million dollars a year in the shape of interest to foreign investors was a staggerer. He (Mr. Haggart) repeated it to emphasize the absurdity of the figures.

The Farmers' Friend.

Sir Richard had quoted The London Economist as a great authority in support of his views, but probably that paper was a little prejudiced. It had a correspondent in Canada (Cartwright) who affirmed that the Canadian agriculturist was being bled white. (Laughter and cheers.) Sir Richard was a great friend of the farmer. He was so enamored of the Patrons that the was recently an applicant for admission to that society. (Laughter.)

Sir Richard Cartwright: Will Mr. Haggart give his authority?

Mr. Haggart: Does the hon. gentleman deny my statement?

Sir Richard Cartwright: Certainly I do.

Mr. Haggart: Well, I will take the hon. gentleman's denial at present, but what I do say is this, that he was proposed for admission to a Patron lodge and refused admission. (Laughter and Opposition Oh ohs.) Fancy Sir Richard Cartwright seeking admission to a Patron lodge. (Renewed laughter.)

The Minister then dealt with the general expenditure of the country, and asked under which headings the Opposition would apply the pruning knife. On their western trip last summer the Opposition leaders had been profuse in their promises of public works. Amid continuous laughter the speaker read from newspaper reports of Messrs. Laurier and Gibson's speeches at Medicine Hat, Revelstoke, Vancouver and other places, at which direct bids for support of the people were made.

The Minister then proceeded to refer to the growth of certain industries in Canada and concluded an able speech by the declaration that when the Government appealed to the country they would support the policy of the Liberal-Conservative party. The Minister of Railways resumed his seat, amid prolonged applause.

How Paterson Would Economize.

Mr. Paterson (Brant) was the next speaker. He did not see that the Liberals were bound to declare the details of their policy at the present time. One way to economize would be to wipe out the Franchise Act; another would be not to spend $400,000 on building a $200,000 bridge. He protested against the indignity put upon the House by the Finance Minister's refusal to furnish information respecting the Hudson Bay Railway, while the Senate could get full explanations. He condemned the unblushing bribery of constituencies by promises of public works.

Hon. Mr. Dickey moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House adjourned at 11 o'clock.
