RIELITES—FORSOOTH.

The tories are brave a long way off. Those of them who live about Fredericton know well that the result of Friday's liberal convention does not in any wise advance their interests in this constituency, and they have thus far wisely forborne to make any claim of the kind. But in Halifax they have discoved that Mr. Gregory's action implies that Mr. Temple will be unopposed. This is a mistake of the largest size. We do not, however, object to this construction being put upon the matter, because the Halifax Herald has an undoubted right to draw any conclusion it wishes from any premises whatever. The sufficiency of the one or the correctness of the other are between our contemporary and its readers. But we do object, and most strenuously so, against the designation "Rielite" being applied by the Herald to the convention. Yet on one account we are glad that it has been used in this connection. The members of the convention know that the execution of Riel was not mentioned at the meeting; they know that not a single individual intimated even in the most remote manner that the liberals ought to take any action whatever in consequence of that execution; they know that the idea of sympathy for the unfortunate man or indignation at his death never entered the mind of any one of them, and they knew that appellation "Rielite" to a York county liberal is a base libel. Hence it is that we are in one sense pleased that the term has been applied to the convention. Who applied it? A prominent tory journal. Was there anything in the conduct of the convention to justify the appellation? Unquestionably there was not. Then as the use of the term by the tory organ was gratuitous and absolutely unfounded, it follows that the organ employed it for some purpose of its own, and not in the interest of truth and fair play. The Herald's reason is not far to seek. Every tory of them knows that without the corpse of Riel as a bulwark the Macdonald government would be absolutely defenceless. Charge them with extravagance and they cry out, "We hanged a half crazy half-breed." Charge them with corruption and they point to the mouldering body of the half-breed leader. Charge them with misgoverning the Northwest and they reply, "We redressed some of the grievances after hanging the leader of the aggrieved." The burden of their song is the hangman's dirge. They are sweeping the Dominion with the hangman's noose, as with a lassoo, in the hope of catching votes with the ignoble cord. True they hanged Riel, but if all accounts are correct they should have kept the gallows busy for a while longer. The official wretches who poisoned their Indian wards with diseased food and told them to "die and be d——d," these and others like them would have adorned, if not the Regina scaffold, at least the Kingston penitentiary. To-day they stand in high places, rich in Tory favor, powerful with Tory influence. They rule the third of a continent as suits their own sweet will and they curse with disloyal epithets those who do not bow the knee to them. They join hands around the scaffold where their misguided victim hangs, and hope that the editying spectacle will draw the eyes of the country from the rest of their miserable record. "Rielites" is it? The true Rielites are the men who think, as the Toronto Globe puts it, that their political sins have been washed out by the blood of Riel, that a wretched half-breed swinging on a gallows is sufficient atonement for all the crimes a government can commit. The blood of our school boys boil when they read the story of Warren Hastings' misdeeds as told by Burke, but when the truth is told of Tory misrule and official business on the plains of the Northwest, Canada will execrate the memory of those who have committed such crimes in her name.

NEW BRUNSWICK WOODS.

On the 19th ultimo a meeting of the British "Institute of Carriage Manufacturers" was held at Westminster town hall, and during the course of the discussions :—

"Professor Macoun said that although his remarks would chiefly refer to woods used in carriage building, he would give a rapid sketch of the lumbering business and of the localities where it was chiefly carried on. New Brunswick, Quebec, and Ontario were the chief seats of the timber trade. In northern New Brunswick there were still extensive forests of maple, beech, ash, basswood, birch, oak, poplar, and elm of very great size, besides large tracts covered with hemlock, black and white spruce, red and white pine, as well as swamps of larch and cedar. Owing to their positions these forests remained untouched, and when a projected line of railway was built large supplies of timber for every branch of business would be laid open to commerce. He particularized this region because it was nearer the seaboard than any other untouched locality."

These observations are especially interesting because they are almost the first words, specially referring to this province, which we have had from any of the Dominion officials, who usually do not know or do not care anything about us. Mr. Macoun was probably not aware that the Northern & Western railway gives access to hardwood forest, perhaps not as extensive as those further north, yet large enough to supply all the demands of commerce for years to come. There can no longer be any doubt that the manufacture and export of hardwoods is likely to become an important industry. Owing to the steps taken by the local government and the New Brunswick Railway Company to have a proper representation at the Forestry exhibition, the fine exhibit made at the Colonial exhibition and the circulation of the handbook, this department of our resources has been well advertised, and its development may now be left to the commercial community. Doubtless some enterprising men will take hold of the matter and turn to profitable account the great undeveloped resource which the province has in its hardwood forests.

FROM BOSTON.

A Racy Letter from the Hub by a Celestial Boy—Temple's Chestnut Heard Afar off—A Case of Mistaken Identity with the Fredericton Boys.

Oct. 23rd, 1886.—We are in the throes of a political campaign and the consequence is that business has dropped and will probably stay so until after the agony is over. The contest for governor is between Oliver Ames, son of Oakes Ames, of credit mobilier notoriety, a very wealthy man, and John F. Andrew, son of the war governor of this state. There is not a great deal of interest taken as both are good men, but the big fight is for congressmen.

The democratic candidates declare for tariff reform or free trade, while the republicans are high protectionists and throw a good deal of the "jingo" into their speeches.

That prince of demagogues, James G. Blaine, after swinging round the circle in Pennsylvania, ostensibly in the interest of the Republican candidate for governor of that state, but in reality making a big bid for the nomination in '88, is expected here to tell us how much better off we are paying high tariff rates for everything we eat and wear, than we would be if we could buy where we got the cheapest and sell where we could get the most.

Speaking of politics, wasn't there any body in the City Hall to "ring the bell" when Temple got off that chestnut about not wanting to go back, but the people were so urgent that he was forced to accept; he must have felt "pleaseder and pleaseder" after that great effort.

I came across a knot of Fredericton boys standing at the door of the Young Men's Christian Union on Friday evening, and instead of the usual smiling countenances their faces wore a sad and disappointed look. Upon enquiring what the matter was I was informed that one of your citizens, a steady and religious man and a man noted for his temperance principles, having taken advantage of the excursion rates, had arrived in Boston, and after being here but a short time, had yielded to the tempter and fallen from grace. I hesitated about believing this story but my informants were so positive, and having seen cases of men away from home acting differently from what they did by their own firesides, I determined to hunt this case up and render what aid I could.

Going over to Daly's wine parlors, where we were informed the gentleman had been seen, the gentleman that dispenses the beverages told us that such a person had been there "whooping 'em up," and that we would find him in the back room asleep: Sure enough there he was, the same light form, the same dark whiskers tinged with gray that we had so often seen; necktie under left ear, collar unfastened, and generally used up. We roused him up and put his hat on, and called him by name, but, judge our surprise when in a nice rich brogue, he informed us that his name was Dan Lynch from South Boston, and he could knock the four of us out in four rounds.

It was a clear case of mistaken identity, and we afterward found out that our friend from Fredericton had that evening been attending a meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

There is quite a little indignation expressed here at the report that parties from New Brunswick went over and robbed the sufferers from the Eastport fire, and I hope to see it contradicted.

Weather here is delightful.

MONTREAL LIBERALS.

Hon. Mr. Davies, ex-Premier Minister of P. E. I., Meets the Montreal Reformers.

Montreal Star.

There was quite a Reformers' rally at the Windsor last evening, when the Hon. Mr Davies, ex-premier of P E I, met the leading lights of the liberal party in Montreal. Mr G W Stephens occupied the chair, while amongst those present were Hugh Mackay, Jonathan Hodgson, N W Trenholme, Dennis Barry, P H Roy, J Ferrault, Sydney Fisher, M P, J E Robidoux, M P P, B L Coghlin, W A Weir, James Darling, Edgar Judge, M Hutchinson, Alderman Farrell, S Williamson, Peter White, R A McLachlan, H J Cloran, and others. Mr Davies, being introduced by the chairman, stated that he had just arrived from Ottawa, and he had no hesitation in saying that the government were almost immediately about to bring on the general elections. The capital, he said, was full of wire pullers. Sir John Macdonald was preparing to leave for Toronto to organize for Ontario, and it behoved the liberals of Montreal to be prepared for the fight. The conservatives, he found, were completely disorganized, while the prospects of the liberals were excellent. In the lower provinces they were sure of a majority of four in Prince Edward Island, and two in Nova Scotia, while New Brunswick was not any more friendly to Sir John than at the last elections. He had been told that Principal Grant, of Queen's University, Kingston, a life long Conservative, said Ontario would vote solid for Mr. Blake. A committee was named to suggest the names of candidates for Montreal West and Centre. Those suggested for the West were J. K. Ward, Hugh Mackay, J. Hodgson and Hon. Peter Mitchell. The three latter have refused and the choice will lie between Messrs. J. K. Ward, Hugh Mackay and James Darling, the latter being favored by some of the French Canadian Liberals as he speaks both languages freely. For Montreal Centre, Messrs. J. E. Mullin Ald. Farrell, B. J. Coghlin, D. Barry, and H. J. Cloran. Suggestions were made that if C. J. Coursol, M. P., would support Mr. Blake, he would be elected in Montreal East by acclamation.

A FLAT DENIAL.

Mr. Joly Says He Will Not Be a Candidate.

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—As the New Brunswick Tory papers are misrepresenting the attitude of the ex-premier Joly, of Quebec, towards the Liberal party, the following letter, which will be a powerful weapon in the hands of the Liberals possesses much interest:—

To the Editor of the Montreal Star:—

Sir;—Allow me to say that you are misinformed when you state that I am likely to be the government candidate in the coming dominion elections. Why should I now become the candidate of a government which I have opposed for the last twenty-five years? My disapproval of the Riel agitation is no approval of the government.

(Signed) H. G. JOLY.

Point Platon, Que., Oct. 27th.

The preceding letter is a thunder bolt in the tory camp, as showing that the Dominion government will have to face, in both Ontario and Quebec, a united liberal party strengthened by enormous gains in Quebec and eastern Ontario.

DISASTER ON THE C. P. R.

Details of the Recent Land Slide on the Pacific Coast.

A special despatch of the Victoria, B. C., Times, from Port Moody, Oct. 20, gives the following account of the recent disaster on the C P R. "The land slide on Tuesday morning was three miles of Ashcroft, near Black Canyon. It was very serious but no lives were lost. The engineer was badly scalded and was sent back to Kamloops for medical aid. His left hand and leg were injured. Fifty acres slid out several hundred feet and sank 50 feet, the rails remaining connected in mid-air. The engine tender and baggage car rolled over, but the balance of the train remained on the track; the express goods, and mails, baggage were saved. The accident happened at two o'clock. Passengers were transferred to another train on the west of the slide. Freight traffic will be interrupted for some days. The slide extends about fifteen hundred feet, and the west end is a perpendicular cut of about 50 feet. Supt. Abbott and Engineer Cambie were on the scene in the evening and a large gang of men were immediately put to work to repair the damage. Through passenger traffic will be uninterrupted and in a few days freight traffic will be resumed again. The engineer was found lying on his back, and had to be dug out from the engine which sank in the sand and gravel. The place where the accident happened is quick sand bottom, and probably a new track will have to be built. Passengers knew little of the accident until daylight. The train was moving slowly on an up-grade at the time of the accident, and the engineer had his hand on the throttle applying more steam. When he felt the engine sinking he applied the full strength of the air brakes, thus saving the passengers lives, and the total destruction of the train. A freight train passed an hour before, and the trackmen a few minutes. The train was in charge of Conductor Risteen. All worked like heroes to save lives and property. The west bound passengers were delayed here twelve hours."

The Outcast in Hungary.

The Vienna correspondent of The Standard gives some shocking details of the outcast population of Pesth, the Hungarian capital, where much alarm is felt at an outbreak of cholera. There is really little room for surprise at the appearance of the disease, which is uniformly the offspring of dirt and the systematic neglect of sanitary laws. On Saturday night two hundred persons were found sleeping in an open court. Forty persons of both sexes were found huddled together in a single cellar. In five rooms of one lodging house were crowded one hundred and forty persons, and thirty-four occupied one room in another house. Under such circumstances as these, the wonder is not that cholera has appeared, but that it did not appear sooner. Outcast Pesth is a sanitary and political danger to Austria, even as outcast London is a sanitary and political danger to England. Yet both Austria and England seems alike in devoting attention rather to danger outside their borders than to those within.

The Eastern Question.

LONDON, Nov. 1st.—The cabinet council to-day discussed little except the Bulgarian and Egyptian question. It is believed the government will shortly send a circular to the powers explaining the financial position of Egypt. If Russia refuses to recognize the sobranje's candidate for the Bulgarian throne, England will probably propose a conference to consider the whole question. The ministers are not inclined to call parliament before the middle of January. They will come to a final decision on this question Saturday.

HERE AND THERE.

Some Facts, and a Few Other Good Things.

Buffalo Bill earned his title by killing 4,280 buffaloes, besides several Indians.

At a fancy ball, given in Sydney not long ago, a fat lady of 60 appeared as Mary, Queen of Scots.

A German enromologist declares that spiders destroy more insect enemies of trees than do all the insect-eating birds.

A poet sings: "October's here." It is indeed. October's sere always, but this is not quite so sere as some we remember.

Tobacconists say that there is a marked falling off in the cigarette habit in New York. The pipe is becoming the fashion again.

A son of John Brown, who owns a vineyard at Put-in-Bay, is so pronounced a temperance man that he will not allow a pound of his grapes to be sold for wine making.

Two murderers were guillotined at Paris the other day, and the whole proceeding, taking them separately from their cell and cutting their heads off, occupied only five minutes.

If the Chinese nation were to pass before an observer in single file, the procession would never cease, for a new generation would be coming on the stage as fast as the procession moved.

A pastor in Detroit has on the wall of his study in large, but not too conspicuous, letters, for the benefit of visitors, this scriptural benediction:—"The Lord bless thy goings out."

A bright little 6-year-old girl in a town near by, who was to give a party, remarked to her father on the morning of the eventful day that she thought the children must all be coming, for she hadn't received any "regreterations."

A New York actress, who "stars in the principal cities of the Union," dazzles her provincial audiences with an array of jewels that includes 465 diamonds, 25 emeralds, 19 rubies, 14 sapphires, 4 lapis lazulis, 2 cat's eyes, and 1 large turquoise.

A lady very much given to gadding was suddenly taken ill at home one day and sent her husband in great haste for the doctor. The obedient man ran part of the way, then returned to put this important query: "My dear, where shall I find you when I get back?"

The strength of hand and wrist necessary to the professional prestidigitator was illustrated by Hermann the other day. He took a new pack of ordinary linen-back cards and broke it in two, then broke one of the halves into quarters. If any one thinks that is easy, let him try it.

Amsterdam has a great palace which the king occupies only six days in the year. It is built upon piles, and has cost, all told, five millions of dollars. This palace the king shows to visitors for a consideration. Pay two cents, and you are taken through by a guide in livery.

A rather unusual law question came up at Waterville, Me., the other day. A man owed a sum of money, and an attachment was put upon his watch. The man was shrewd, and said the timepiece could not be taken, as it was his tool whereby he earned a livelihood. He was a watchman.

Joseph Palitzer, of the New York World, gave this pointer to a Philadelphia reporter. "It is my pleasure and ambition to revolutionize the salaries of capable journalists. I have six or seven men on my paper who are better paid than cabinet ministers, and a dozen who make $5,000 a year, the salary of a United States senator."

Bob Burdette's Boys.

R. J. Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

"Johnny Smallboy, you naughty, bad, boy! Your teacher was here just now and said you hadn't been at school this afternoon, and here you come home with your clothes damp and your hair wet! Now tell me this minute, where have you been all the afternoon?" "Been down with the boys, ma, jumpin' off Brooklyn bridge." "Well, you go up stairs and put on dry clothes and when your pa comes home you'll get a good trouncing. I've heard him tell a dozen times he'd whip you if you didn't quit jumping off that bridge, and now you'll catch it."

The father of the family stands in a threatening attitude, thoroughly trimming the larger knots off a nice long birchen rod. Before him, trembling, his darling son, never dearer than now, in his twelfth year and but recently in mischief. The son, breaking the silence, which has grown painfully embarrassing, speaks, "Father, the preacher's in the parlor talking to sister Sophie about joining the church, the baby's sound asleep, and mamma's lying down with a headache. Can't we compromise this thing some way for the sake of harmony within the party?" And white winged peace stole softly into that room, and folding her snowy pinions, sat down on a hassock as though she intended to stay there until she hatched out a Turkish lounge.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Use white oilcloth back of the kitchen table and sink and under hooks that hold tinware.

Glaze the bottom crust of fruit pies with white of egg, and they will not be soggy.

If you scorch clothes in ironing, place in the sun to draw the marks out.

Save your cold tea; it is excellent for cleaning grained wood.

Tepid milk and water clean oilcloth without soap.

Vinegar will clean the mica in the stove doors.

A good cement to fasten on lamp tops is melted alum; use as soon as melted, and the lamp is ready for use as soon as the cement is cold.

The most effectual remedy for slimy and greasy drain pipes is copperas dissolved and left to work gradually through the pipe.

Bran or oatmeal water should be used when bathing children suffering with scarlet fever.

Never serve potatoes, boiled or baked whole, in a closely covered dish. They become sodden and clammy. Cover with a folded napkin that allows the steam to escape, or absorbs the moisture.

If, when blackening the stove, a small lump of sugar and some soap be added, it will improve it very much.

Put a piece of charcoal in the pot when boiling cabbage, to prevent it filling the house with the smell.

It is said that the application of a bit of ice or even cold water, to the lobe of the ear will stop hiccoughing.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

Cured

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have used for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, three bottles of this medicine, have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye.—Kendal T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored, and she can now look steadily at a brilliant light without pain. Her cure is complete.—W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.

"Cheap Drugs are the dearest things on Earth."

The Advantages of Morse's Carbolated Cod Liver Oil.

It is believed that the not infrequent and discouraging failures of plain Cod Liver Oil and other tonic and alterative treatment to cure consumption, grow out of the fact that they have no positive power to arrest the decay of the lungs; that while Cod Liver Oil supplies the waste of adipose tissue and vitality that the disease has made, as no other substance can, it does not exercise any controlling power over the disease itself; it only gives Nature a fair chance to work her own cure. Something more is wanted—SOMETHING TO ARREST THE DECAY THAT DESTROYS LIFE—some prompt remedial agent that shall act directly upon the disease to check it while the Cod Liver Oil is building up the system. This important addition we have in Morse's Carbolated Cod Liver Oil. The power of Carbolic Acid—to arrest decay—is something marvelous. The destruction of matter cannot proceed where it is administered. Its disinfectant, purifying and cleansing properties are truly remarkable, and have been of the greatest practical value to medical men.

It is palatable, and now put up in bottles holding a full pint. Price, $1. Formula on every label.
