COUNTY PUPILS' FEES STILL BIG PROBLEM FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Placing of Fee On Collegiate May Send Pupils to Technical School, Is Latest Claim Made.

While the question of fees to be charged county pupils attending the Collegiate Institute here will be definitely decided at the next meeting of the board of education, officials declare that similar action will be also necessary with regard to the Technical School, which now includes the high school course on its curriculum. With this end in view, A. W. Tanner, secretary of the board of education, has written to the department of education at Toronto to ascertain "just how the situation stands with regard to charging county pupils fees for attendance at the Technical School here."

Decide Next Tuesday.

Fees for county pupils attending high school here will be definitely decided at the regular meeting of the board of education to be held next Tuesday. There are two courses open to the board under the high schools act of the province. The first is to collect 80 per cent of the cost of educating county pupils at the high school from the county, and this method has been in force here for some time, with the city losing the 20 per cent.

The second, most recent and preferable course is to levy directly on individual county pupils fees equivalent to the cost of educating them in the Collegiate Institute, which are estimated to total $120 per year. This course is legal, following a recent amendment to the act.

City Solicitor Meredith will submit his interpretation of the high schools act, prior to the meeting, and City Treasurer Bell has been instructed to prepare a statement on costs of educating pupils in high school here, so that fees may be correspondingly adjusted for county pupils.

Separate Regulations.

Some authorities point out that according to their interpretations of regulations the board of education is prohibited from charging county pupils fees for attendance at the Technical School. They explain that technical schools in Ontario are necessarily confined to urban centers, and for this reason substantial grants toward their maintenance are made by the department of education. In view of such grants, which are made up of taxes from rural as well as urban communities of respective counties, they hold that to charge fees will endanger the possibility of future grants.

Check for $11,250.

More than $23,000 annually is granted to the local board of education as the Provincial Government's confribution towards the maintenance fund of the London Technical School. A few days ago, Secretary Tanner received a check from the department of education at Toronto for $11,250.41, which amount is the half-yearly Technical School grant for the period January 1 to June 30, 1921. As $687 had been deducted from the grant at Toronto for London public school teachers' superannuation fees, the half-yearly grant is $11,871.28.

Aid Evening Classes.

In addition to this grant the department offer $360.83 per half-year as its share to maintain the commercial evening classes at the Technical School. It is generally accepted here that in view of such liberality on the part of the provincial educational authorities, day classes at the Technical School should be free to county and city pupils, and to settle the problem Secretary Tanner is consulting the department of education.

Transfer to Tech.

If the department rules that no fees are to be charged, in all probability many county pupils now in attendance at the Collegiate Institute here, where a fee of $10 per month is under consideration, will endeavor to transfer to the Technical School for the remainder of their high school course, and thus escape the tariff issue. However, while it is understood that county pupils at present on the rolls of the Technical School will not be charged fees, steps will likely be taken to prevent high school students here deliberately transfering to Technical School in an effort to cut down expenses.

Secretary Tanner hopes to receive a reply from the department of education before the next meeting of the board of education, and the ruling of the provincial officers will likely settle the question. In the meantime he "is up in the air," and unable to answer the many inquiries on this problem which are being addressed to him daily.

WINTER SPORTS.

Days spent in snowshoe tramps through primitive forests where every leaf and bough bears its weight of glistening crystals, in the breathless flight of the toboggan or ski, and in the ring of steel against the icy covering of some lake, together with evenings spent in social converse in the cosy warmth of an old-fashioned log fire—these slip away unnoticed; but those who have once experienced them return to their avocations with renewed energies, with hardened muscles, and a grateful memory of Algonquin Park. The Grand Trunk have decided to keep open the Highland Inn, the largest of the park hotels, for the winter season from December 15, 1921, to March 15, 1922. A handsomely illustrated booklet has been issued, and a free copy may be had on application to Grand Trunk agents, or to the manager, Highland Inn., Algonquin Park Station, Ont. Make your reservations early, as accommodation is limited. b

OVER 130 STUDENTS ALREADY ENROLLED

Next Week To See Largest Attendance in History of Western University.

With an advance enrollment of 61 freshmen students in arts, over 50 in medicine, and over 20 in public health, the Western University will open next week with the largest attendance in its history. With the medical school course lengthening out to six years, students in this department remaining longer than in previous years, and also a promising enrollment for the new departments of science, commerce and economics, and journalism and many special courses, there is little possibility of the total attendance this year will be under 800. Last year the total enrollment was about 600.

Supplemental examinations commenced in the arts department this morning, and will continue until the end of the week. The arts department will reopen for the new session on Tuesday, October 4. The medical school registration day is one day earlier, on Monday, with commencement of classes on Tuesday.

Public Health Courses.

In the public health courses for nurses, seventeen have already registered, the largest registration since the opening of the Institute of Public Health. There are four other students pursuing coudses in the public health department of the university.

Honor chemistry courses will be given in the new science department, temporarily located in the old medical school building. Dr. Sturdevant, associate professor of chemistry, returned to London Saturday, and is busy today preparing for a very large science enrollment assured for his department. Honor chemistry will be taught in both first, second and third years during this session. Last year only first-year work in honor chemistry was taught.

Problems of accommodation for the largely increased attendance this year are just now the chief concern of the university authorities. Additional temporary premises will be secured before next Tuesday, and a special effort will be made to accommodate all who desire to enter the Western University this year.

With still a full week before the opening of the arts department Dr. K. P. R. Neville stated today that a total enrollment in the first year arts course of at least 100 is confidently expected.

The death of Thomas Flin of concession A, London Township, took place on Sunday afternoon following a short illness. He was born in Scotland 78 years ago and moved to Ontario when 13 years of age. He has been a resident of London for a great many years and was well known to most of the citizens of London. He conducted a truck farm on Hamilton road and was a regular visitor to the market square with products each Saturday morning until his illness a short time ago. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 to Woodland Cemetery. Service will be conducted at 2 o'clock by Rev. M. Cree of Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church.

STILL TALK STRIKE.—For fear some of the aldermen may get softhearted and acquiesce in the proposal to make public the salaries of the different city hall employees, the staff at the hall continues to sound its whispering warning that a strike will follow such action. This threat has been dormant for some days, but it was going the rounds again this morning. No one could tell where it sprung from and no one could tell where it went.

LONDON LABOR IS FOR NEW MOVEMENT

Have Sent Application to Ottawa for C. L. P. Charter.

London trades unionists will unite with the Canadian Labor party in preparation for the coming fight. The Advertiser was informed today by those officially identified with the Labor element. Following the recent joint meeting of the delegates of the Labor Representation Committee and the Independent Labor party it was definitely decided to apply to the headquarters of the new party in Ottawa for a charter. This will mean, it is advised, that the L. R. C., upon the receipt of the charter, will automatically cease to exist.

Discussing this important move with The Advertiser today, a prominent representative of the Labor party explained that this decision came after a strenuous appeal had been made to the delegates from all branches of the labor movement. "The members are clamoring for unity and action," he said, "and we are applying for a charter with the Canadian Labor Party ,not only in London, but in Woodstock, Sarnia, St. Thomas and other principal points throughout Western Ontario. The same can be said of the remainder of the Dominion."

"Labor is determined to make a supreme effort in the coming election, and we believe that with proper organization we can emerge victors with comparative ease under the present circumstances."

Provisional officers of the new branch of the Canadian party have been selected and these will be confirmed no doubt following the arrival of the charter. The fourth Friday of October has been set as the date for the big rally in London, for which the cards are now being sent out among all the locals. At that time, it is intimated, it is fully expected that the candidate to contest London will be chosen.

MAJOR MARY BOOTH SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY

Major Mary Booth, daughter of General Bramwell Booth of the Salvation Army, will arrive in the city Sunday, October 23, and will address a meeting of all the army workers in the city on Salvation Army industry.

Miss Booth, who was in charge of the hospital visitation and grave decorations in Boulogne, and also connected in other ways with the S. A. work in France and Belgium, and is in a position to give a good account of the work performed by the organization.

It is expected that Colonel J. McMillan of Toronto and Adjutant Whittaker, who acted as her aide de camp in France, will accompany her.

She will go to Windsor Tuesday, October 25, addressing the various corps there on the same subject.

INSTALL WATERWORKS IN TOWN OF FOREST

FOREST, Sept. 22.—At a special meeting of the Forest Town Council, held last evening, a resolution was unanimously passed accepting the order of the Provincial Board of Health to immediately proceed to install an up-to-date system of waterworks in the town.

There is much gratification in town over this beneficial move, which is the result of a two-years' campaign for waterworks.

The council will proceed with the work at once, as there is a penalty of $100 per day for every day of neglect to go on with it.

CELTS IN AUSTRALIA OPPOSE IRISH REPUBLIC

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 25.—The Celtic Club has decided by a large majority to continue to support home rule for Ireland, believing the Irish problem can best be settled by a compromise, without the establishment of a republic.

The Melbourne Age says that recognition of Southern Ireland as an independent republic would create hostilities throughout the British Empire.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—The utilization of unemployment offices for temporary appointments to civil service positions outside of Ottawa has been suspended, according to an announcement made by the civil service commission to the Dominion command of the G. W. V. A. today.

FORMER LONDONER DIES AT BRIDGEBURG.

BUFFALO, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Esther, Brown, aged 93, a former resident of London and Brantford, died following an extended illness at her home in Bridgeburg. She was born in Hampshire, England, and came to Canada 67 years ago.

HAY FEVER PREVALENT.

A'Choo', A'Choo'. The hay fever victims are still doing it. This is one class of citizenry that are loud in their condemnation of the weatherman for the pare-excellence of his present day efforts For so long as he continues to keep Jack Frost and his chilly blasts in the background just so long will the watery eyes and sneezes of the hay fever sufferer continue. The hay fever is maintaining its attack this year for a much longer period than is usual, and the victims of this more or less harmful, though decidedly uncomfortable, malady are paying the piper.

BLAST KILLS WORKMEN.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Several workmen were killed and considerable damage was caused Friday by an explosion in a saltpetre works at Kleinlaufenburg, near Karlsruhe.

TORONTO, Sept. 25. — Sixty-three boys from the Barnardo Home in England arrived in the city yesterday, and will be sent out from here to homes on farms in Ontario

A GROTESQUE PROCEEDING.

[Toronto Star.]

It would have been different if Mr. Meighen could have ventured to make it so, because he knows as well as anybody that the holding of an election in the census of 1911 after the census of 1921 has actually been taken is an inexcusable proceeding, and a grotesque one, in view of all that has been said on the subject in the past year by his supporters. A year ago they were deferring the election in order to take the census and redistribute representation. Now they have the census, but go to the polls without a redistribution.

SOLDIERS TAKE STEPS TO STOP BELFAST RIOTS

Reprisals For Sunday Night's Bombing Is Feared by Military.

BARRICADES ARE ERECTED

Pickets Are Posted in the Disturbed Sections of Irish City.

Belfast, Sept. 26.—Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, after a conference here with the military and police this afternoon announced that it had been decided to mobilize special constabulary in certain parts of Northern Ireland for the maintenance of order.

Belfast, Sept. 26.—Belfast was quiet this morning, a half dozen shots fired on the Newtonards road being the only outward indications of the excited feeling aroused by the disturbances of Sunday night, in which several bombs were thrown, three persons being killed, and some two score wounded during the rioting. Fears were expressed, however, that there would be action in reprisal for the bombing and the resulting deaths unless the military took vigorous action to suppress disorderly tendencies.

The military during the morning was engaged in erecting barbed wire and sandbag barricades in the Ballymacarrett district. Pickets were posted at the danger points. Little work apparently was being done in the district.

Later in the morning a shop assistant was shot through the jaw in Milady's road in East Belfast, by one of a crowd which dispersed after the shooting without the culprit being apprehended.

A gang of men working on the new football ground on Queen's avenue was attacked and three of the workers were badly beaten.

MURRELLS MAY BE INDICTED BY JURY

liminary hearing that a man whose identity at that time had not been established by witnesses, was implicated in the affir, his case is unlikely to call for any comment in court.

Attempted Murder.

The only criminal case slated to come before hte petit jury is that of Thomas Kechego, a Muncey Indian, who is charged with attempted murder. Officers who arrested him at Springbank a month ago on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place, claim that while he was being brought to London he slashed at them with a razor, cutting one of them. Although he was at first charged with assault, he was later faced with the more serious charge, it being claimed that his intention was murder.

Twenty civil cases have been set down, and so far there is apparently a prospect of only one being settled before court. However, as the session progresses court officials expect negotiations in other cases will be carried on out of court.

Hon. Mr. Justice Logie will preside.

City Briefs

CITY HEALTH EXCELLENT.—The present brand of excellent weather seems to be conducive to good health. Dr. W. S. Downham reports that he is experiencing the slackest period in a long time in calls upon his time. There are three cases of diphtheria in the hospital and none in homes. Scarlet fever holds two victims in the hospitals, while the homes of the city are likewise free of this disease. There is but one case of typhoid, outside of the Hospital for Insane cases, and it was brought to the city by a Londoner from a summer resort up on one of the lakes.

WILL SET THE RATES.

The Dominion Railway Commission will stage a special hearing at Ottawa on October 10 to deal with the rate dispute between the London Railway Commission and the Michigan Central Railway. Since the L. and P. S. started an agreement has been in force whereby the city's line carried M. C. R. business from London to St. Thomas and Port Stanley for $3 and $5 a car. At the end of December, 1920, this agreement expired, and the principals have not been able to get together on a new rate. The result is that the Dominion Railway Board is to take charge of the settlement and will conduct an inquiry.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL THREATENS TORIES

interests of their choice to the last ditch.

Badly Split at Present.

It is fully expected that the coming meeting in this city of the Conservative stalwarts of London and district will clear the air of uncertainty that enshrouds the local camp. At this moment the executives admit themselves to be as much in the dark as the rank and file as to what may evolve. It appears that the Union Government committee, those hardy veterans of the 1917 fracas, is still on the payroll, none of them realizing evidently that, in the opinion of others in the camp, that they have outlived their usefulness.

Then there is the other committee, they who term themselves the real advocates of the Tory ideals, who recently advised that they themselves were at a complete loss to explain the local situation and were unable to advise off-hand just who would formulate plans for the approaching fight.

May Get Together.

In any event, it is realized that should the party manage to get together under one big canvas, the supporters of E. H. Johnston will not encounter smooth sailing. Merely being a close second at a previous convention does not seemingly give one the edge on all other entries. Several others are mentioned, but of course only one can be chosen, and there are they of the Tory element who declare that Ald. Cameron Wilson will be the one.

Equally determined also are they who have for some time past been silently rooting for Ald. H. J. Childs, pointing delightedly at his record in the by-election in Ward 4. Then, as would be anticipated, the dark horses are being withheld from the cynical stare of the public, and are under close cover in the Conservative stable. Reviewing the question "by and large," one may assume that the local Meighen enthusiasts are intent upon staging a little election all their own before they are enabled to pick the one who may stand the better chance to stave off humiliating defeat at the big slaughter some time between now and Christmas.

Will Swing Labor.

"You can take it from me that C. R. Somerville will swing a whole lot of Labor votes in the coming election," stated a prominent Labor official to The Advertiser today.

"I don't know who will be the Labor candidate, but I do know that I am going to vote for Mr. Somerville. He made a mighty fine mayor, and I know that he is the best qualified man in this city today to represent us at Ottawa."

"This is the general feeling among the boys, too. I have talked to a number of them, and they feel the same way about it. Mr. Somerville always gave us a square deal when he was mayor, and if he is elected, and I feel sure he will be, why he will give us the same kind of treatment at Ottawa.

"There isn't a man in the Tory ranks that can hold a candle to Mr. Somerville, and they know it. Mark my words, when the ballots are counted you will find that a good many labor votes will be marked 'Somerville.'

May Be Colbert.

Another prominent Labor man did not think that Ald. Childs would run under the Conservative banner. "He has his eye on the mayor's chair at present, and possibly would consider a parliamentary nomination some time in the future, but I do not think that he would run now," he stated.

"Somerville made a good mayor, and would probably make a good man for London down at Ottawa, but we will have a candidate in the field just the same. However, I for one, am not running away with the idea that it was labor that elected Hughie Stevenson at the last Provincial election. Dr. Stevenson polled a good many Grit votes, the majority of Labor, and not a few Conservative votes.

"I am not in a position to say just who will be the labor candidate, but ex-Ald. John Colbert is a strong possibility."

PRESENTATION TO FR. W. T. FLANNERY

years at St. Peter's Seminary. He was one of the twelve young men ordained to the priesthood by Bishop M. F. Fallon in May.

Earlier in the year his lordship returned from a visit to Rome, and after the ordination stated that he had been asked by the pope to send some of his young priests to Rome to pursue further studies. The professors at the seminary, when asked to nominate the candidates for the honor, selected Fathers Flannery and Ffoulkes. The latter has already started for Rome, intending to visit his parents in England on his way over.

Father Flannery plans to sail from New York to France, and will then go by train to Rome. He expects to continue his studies in Rome for two years and will aspire for honors in dogmatic theology, which carries the degree of D. D.

Postal Services Are Still In State of Disorganization

Word reached London today that John C. Ross, who but recently was appointed superintendent of postal services in the Toronto district, will be replaced in that position by J. Marrs, superintendent of the railway mail service. This announcement comes with even greater surprise to the civil servants of London than the appointment itself.

The trials and tribulations during the last summer of John C. Ross, already well known as the son of George Ross, the Dominion superintendent and next in authority to the deputy postmaster-general, have been many. Following the sweeping recommendations of Griffenhagen and Associates, Chicago efficiency experts and late advisers to the Meighen Government, John Ross, it appears, discovered that his position in the orth Bay postal district was eliminated from the service.

Simulataneously several important positions throughout the country became vacant as civil servants were retired or decapitated in wholesale lots. The story that circulated the routes was to the effect that little difficulty would be encountered in selecting a new stamping ground for John. Postal employees throughout the country emphasized the fact that his father held one of the most important positions in the department, and that it would follow as a natural sequence that the son would be able to pick his own job, irrespective of length of service or executive ability.

Raised Strong Protest.

It was at this juncture that the local office became more or less involved, and civil servants still maintain, upon the strength of first-class authority, that it was the intention of George Ross and his associates, that John C. Ross should fit in nicely in one of the London positions that were vacant at that time. It is common knowledge, however, that following a storm of protest from this city, Ross was eventually asigned to the post in the Toronto district.

Not long since Premier Meighen returned to Ottawa, incidentally intimating that he had been called upon to sraighten out certain involved problems that concerned London, Toronto and Windsor. In all three centers are positions tha have long been vacant. The Windsor postmasership is still without a permanent appointee, while in the local office the position of deputy-postmaster has been without an incumbent since July 1.

It is well known that the situation in Toronto has not been satisfactory to any appreciable degree whatever since the appointment of John Ross directly over the heads, it is fervently claimed, of older employees. That the premier, in view of the approaching general election is devoting unusual efforts to make everything agreeable as possible for all hands seems logical. Needless to say, the tidings that reached London today are just the least bit surprising, to say the least.

LATE MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Sept. 26—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—The strength of rails imparted a steady tone to the stock market at the outset of today's trading, but reactions set in almost immediately on further offerings of foreign oils. Royal Dutch, which unsettled last Saturday's session, opened at a moderate recovery, but soon dropped 1½ points. Mexican Petroleum fell 2⅜, and equipments, motors and shippings, as represented by Baldwin, Pullman, Studebaker and American International, also gave way. A new low record for marks at .875c to .88c, directed renewed attention to Germany's unstable economic status.

1:30 p.m.—Trading shifted to special stocks during the dull mid-session. Corn Products, Food Products, Bosch Magneto, Associated Drygoods and American Ice were 1 to 2 points higher. Leaders displayed further irregularity, with Mexican Petroleum as the center of reaction.

PASTOR USES PAINTINGS TO ILLUSTRATE SERMONS

Egerton Street Baptist Church was the scene of unique services on rally Sunday. At the morning service a large painting, representing the Millennium, painted by the late Rev. J. T. Dowling, was used to illustrate the sermon, "An Open Window," delivered by Rev. A. C. Bingham, pastor of the church.

The sermon aimed at inspiring the people to pray more. "Daniel, who prayed three times a day, was the most prominent man of the political world of his time. Through his loyalty to God, he saved all the Jews from destruction."

Rev. Mr. Bingham made a fervent appeal to his congregation to spend more time at praying. He gave several illustrations as to the benefit received by so doing.

At the afternoon Sunday school services a good deal of enthusiasm was manifested in the classes over the thankoffering, $100 being set as the objective. Upon hearing that $197 was collected, the orchestra played "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

During the afternoon a pageant was given by 15 young members of the congregation. They wore costumes representing different nations who are making an appeal to Canada for the gospel.

At the evening service another painting by the late Rev. Mr. Dowling, the "Belshazzar Feast," was used to illustrate Rev. Mr. Bingham's sermon, "The Strange Handwriting."

STABLE SHORTAGE IS SERIOUS SITUATION

Real Estate Deal Cuts Off Accommodation For 100 Horses.

One would naturally think that with the large number of automobiles on the London market each market day that stable accommodation would be the least of the troubles of farmers who still depend on faithful nags to haul produce to the square, but such is not the case.

Stable room right now is at a premium, with conditions promising to be worse when winter sets in, and farmers are unable to make use of their cars.

The Clyde Hotel stables, which took care of over 100 horses each market day, have been closed, the proprty having been purchased by the London and Western Trusts Company. This has meant that 100 farmers have had to seek elsewhere for "board and lodging" for their horses, and the other stables all had overflow delegations on Saturday.

At the present time there is stable room in the vicinity of the market for about 450 horses, this being the total capacity of three stables.

Shortage Is Serious.

"We will look after our old customers first," said one stable proprietor on Saturday morning, "and then if we have any room we will look after the others. We had to turn them away today after 9:30 o'clock, as our stable was full, and all available yard space was taken up.

"This shortage of space is more serious than the average person imagines, for when winter sets in the combined stables will not be able to look after any more than half the farmers that attend the market. This is bound to mean smaller markets, for the farmers are not going to come in if they have no place to shelter their horses from the cold blasts of winter."
