FIERCE FIGHT WITH A BEAR

Bare Fists Contend Against Teeth and Claws.

KEEPER TERRIBLY MANGLED

Finally the Man Escaped from the Cage of the Savage Brute.

The Thrilling Battle That Was Witnessed in Lincoln Park Menagerie in Chicago on Monday—Keeper De Vry Went Into the Cage of "Billy," the Big Brown Bear, to Chastise Him, but "Billy" Did Most of the Chastising—De Vry Will be in the Hospital for Some Time.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Bare fists against teeth and claws Head Keeper Cy De Vry fought for his life with a bear in the Lincoln Park pit yesterday morning. Over and over the man and the beast rolled on the cement floor of the den in a desperate struggle for mastery, while the four other bears in the inclosure circled gingerly about the snarling, tumbling mass, and the crowd of men and women and children outside the iron railings shrieked and shouted for help, but dared not share the danger of the brave keeper within.

Twice the people saw De Vry wrench himself from the embrace of the beast, showering blows upon its head with naked fists. But each time the bear charged him before he could hobble to the door of the pit. The third time, as the bear—his name is "Billy," and he is the only brown bear in the pit—reared about on his haunches and reached out for his keeper, De Vry turned swiftly and planted blow after blow on the nose of the animal. One of the strokes caused the animal to tumble over on its back, and before it could return to the attack De Vry had torn open the gate in the iron fence and dragged himself to safety outside. His left arm was bleeding from a dozen gashes, and the calf of his leg was chewed to pulp.

Bear Was Friendly Formerly.

"Billy" and De Vry were very friendly until just before the keeper gave up his star and left the employ of the board two years ago. The bear was intelligent, and De Vry taught him many tricks that still win peanuts and popcorn balls from visiting youngsters. The lessons stopped suddenly one day, when "Billy" sunk his teeth deep in the right shoulder of his instructor and put him on the hospital detail for more than a month. Since then the man and the bear have ignored each other.

Yesterday De Vry was initiating A. H. Hanington, a park commissioner of St. John, N.B., into the mysteries of animal tending while he waited for Lyman Woodworth, the park commissioner, to help him chloroform one of the old mountain lions. In front of the bear pit they stopped, and De Vry went inside the outer railing to examine the fastening on the inner door. "Billy" slouched down to the fence, and, pushing his fore paws through between the iron pickets, embraced the keeper's right leg. De Vry beat him off with some difficulty, and, pulling down a whip, went into the pit to teach "Billy" better manners.

The Battle Begins.

"Billy" was in aggressive mood, and De Vry had hardly fastened the door behind him, when the awkward brown body charged swiftly down on him. Thinking the animal was trying to rush past him to hide in his cave the keeper stepped directly in his path and brought the lash of the whip down smartly over his head. "Billy" ducked like a professional pugilist to protect his tender nose, and before the lash could fall a second time De Vry's left leg was in the grip of his claws, and the keeper went tumbling to the floor.

For a moment the suddenness of the attack dazed De Vry, but the pain in his leg as the sharp teeth of the animal tore through his flesh brought him to his senses. He had battled with tigers and leopards and lions before, but never without weapon of any sort except his fists and nails, and the bear had him at a disvantage. The spirit of the man rose to the danger. He supported himself on one hand while with the other he jabbed and pounded at the head that was gnawing his as a dog gnaws a bone.

Attacks the Bear's Eyes.

Snarling with rage, the bear clung to the leg, while the man rained blows upon its head, and, failing to beat him off, closed with the bear and tore at his eyes, his throat, the paws that griped the leg. Into the little ditch in the middle of the pit they rolled, and out again, and across the cement to the foot of the withered tree in the centre. De Vry weighs a scant 150 pounds, and "Billy" three times as much, but the man finally shook off the beast, and made a dash for the tree.

Hugs the Keeper.

The bear was there before him, and, not daring to expose his back to the animal, De Vry turned and faced him just as the bear straightened up and caught him in the embrace of his forelegs. Throwing up his left arm to shield his face from the fangs of the beast, De Vry tried to choke him with his right.

"Billy" clasped his keeper until it seemed the man's bones cracked, and sunk his teeth again and again into De Vry's arm and shoulder. Down they went together, while the crowd about the pit left off its clamor for a moment, and the four other bears, aroused by the smell of fresh blood, drew nearer to the struggling mass.

Breaks Away at Last.

De Vry made a desperate effort to break the clasp that held him. A blow on the nose caused the bear's grip to relax for a second and the man jumped to his feet. "Billy" was scarcely a yard behind him as he started for the gate. De Vry whirled suddenly and struck the bear's head. Billy's nose went up in the air, his legs gave way, and before he could scramble up again De Vry was safe outside the iron bars.

De Vry is seriously hurt, but his surgeon, Dr. E. J. Kerlin, thinks that he will have him out in a couple of months. His left leg below the knee is torn to shreds, and his left arm and shoulder are badly lacerated. Dr. Coombs dressed his wounds at Link's drug store, and then he was taken to his home at 1756 North Park-avenue.

"Billy" is a brown bear, and has spent nine of his twelve years in the park. Except for his other attack on De Vry, he has done no damage to his keepers. When he attacked the keeper yesterday De Vry had on only a light jacket to protect him.

A New Bicycle Tire.

A new bicycle tire has been invented by a Canadian who no doubt will become a millionaire in a very short time. This tire is claimed to be non-puncturable, owing to the solid piece of rubber which protects the air cushion from the outside tire. The new tire is to be manufactured in Canada and patents have been taken out in the United States and other countries. A section of the new tire was cast for the first time this week.

Color Richness.
The almost daring dash of color introduced in the dyeing of the wools for gentlemen's Scotch suits would startle you in the mention of them, but the weaver's art has so beautifully subdued them that there's just the rich quietness that any gentleman would take pleasure and pride in wearing. THE COAL MINING SITUATION

Another Day Has Passed Without Disorder.

STRIKERS STILL MARCHING

An Increase of Wages Agitated, but Not in a Concerted Way.

The Priests Are Restraining the Men From Committing Acts of Violence—Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Colliers Still Idle—Work Resumed in Some of the Mines of the Pittsburg District—Call for a Convention of Illinois Miners.

Hazelton, Pa., Sept. 14.—Widespread as is the strike in the Hazelton region there has been no concerted action by the men in the different mines. All the strikers are working for the same end—an increase of about 10 per cent. in wages—but they go about it as separate clans. Some of them are raising a side issue about the company store, where they are subject to its abuses, but others have no complaint of this nature to make. At the Coxe Bros.' mines at Drifton, Stockton and Eckley, the men are paid in cash. They had been uneasy, however, for some time, and this uneasiness resulted in about 300 men at Eckley joining the strikers yesterday afternoon.

Restrained by the Priests.

To a great extent the strikers have been restrained from open acts of violence by the priests, whose influence prevails to a remarkable degree. At several turbulent meetings, which threatened to end in bloodshed, the priests have gone among the excited foreigners, commanding silence and forcing them back. They warn the men that to destroy the coal companies' property is only to take food from their own mouths by shutting off future employment.

The priests, however, have no plea of mercy for the sheriff's deputies who shot the men down at Latimer, and some of them are active members of the committee that is to push the murder charges in the court.

Gobin Has the Guns.

It is now certain that no attempt will be made to arrest the deputies as long as troops are camped at Hazelton. General Gobin's declaration that he will protect the sheriff's men just as long as he is in command has cooled the ardor of those who are going about the matter hastily.

The strike leaders and their attorneys deny the charge of General Gobin to enforce such an order, but they admit that he has too many guns for them. District Attorney Fell, it is said, is against an immediate serving of the warrants, though he is interested in the prosecutions.

Several of the deputies, who left the town immediately after the bloody affray, are known to be in Philadelphia and Easton, outside of General Gobin's territory, but it is not likely that they will be arrested before those who are under military protection.

Miners are Still Marching.

News has been received at brigade headquarters that the district where the Coxe mines are located is infested this morning by bands of marching miners. No word has yet come from the cavalry troops sent to the scene this morning. The Audenried miners refused to return to work this morning. The Stockton men went out, and the indications are that the whole district will be idle within a few days.

Did Not Resume.

Wilkes-Barre, Sept. 14.—The various Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre colliers on the south side and at Beaver Creek did not resume work this morning, as was anticipated. Superintendent Lawall stated that the men would resume tomorrow unless interfered with by the strikers of the Yorktown colliery. General Superintendent Lathrop of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co. went to Hazleton this morning to arrange with the employes if possible for an adjustment of their grievances.

Work Resumed in Some Mines.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 14.—Work has been resumed in a number of mines, and it is expected that all will be running full on Thursday morning. The general sentiment along the Wheeling division is for an early resumption. The women marchers who were arrested yesterday were released on bail, and were at miners' headquarters to-day, where they met a number of other women from Plum Creek. One of them said: "We are going to march to-morrow morning, and will not let the deputies stop us."

Call for a Convention.

Braidwood, Ill., Sept. 14.—President Carson to-day issued a call for a State convention of miners at Springfield, Sept. 20, for the purpose of taking definite action on the mining situation. The operators of Illinois are invited to meet with the miners' delegates. The call says:

"On behalf of the miners, we are desirous of arranging a uniform rate for the State, and with the assistance of the operators believe this can be done."

"We have had some Radnor Water analyzed, and as the result is highly satisfactory, we will now be pleased to use this water on our mail steamers."—H. & A. Allan, Montreal.

Yellow Fever at New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 14.—At noon today, the Board of Health announced five additional suspected cases of yellow fever. Reports from Ocean Springs say there have been four new cases.

SIR WILFRID AT ST. JOHN.

The Premier Had a Rousing Welcome—The City Full of People and Gaily Decorated.

St. John, N.B., Sept. 14.—The city is in holiday attire to-day in honor of a visit of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Mr. Tarte.

Fully ten thousand people were present at the Intercolonial train shed when the Montreal express pulled in, and the cheering lasted some minutes. As soon as Sir Wilfrid stepped from his car to the platform, erected for the purpose, Mayor Robertson extended his greetings in behalf of the city, and received addresses, at the conclusion of which the Fusiliers' band played "My Own Canadian Home."

The Premier was given rousing cheers as he started to reply to the addresses. He heartily thanked the Mayor and corporation for the address and the citizens generally for the reception tendered him.

At the conclusion, on the call of Mayor Robertson, three cheers were given for Sir Wilfrid. After this the Premier entered a barouche with Messrs. Tarte and Fielding, the Mayor, aldermen and others following, and, headed by the Fusiliers' band, all proceeded to the Dufferin Hotel.

The city is gaily decorated with bunting, and all the shipping in the harbor displays its full set of flags. The weather is bright, with warm sun. It is estimated that there are at least 20,000 visitors in the city to-day.

The Exhibition Opened.

It was 3 o'clock before Sir Wilfrid had completed his lunch and was ready to proceed to open the Exhibition. On arrival at the grounds he was received by a guard of honor from the Fusiliers. After inspecting the guard the Premier and Messrs. Fielding and Tarte were conducted to the grand stand by W. C. Pitfield, W. H. Thorne, Col. Tucker and J. Vellis. President Pitfield delivered an address, speaking of Sir Wilfrid's visit to England and his great reception as the leading statesman of Canada.

The Premier made a very happy reply, and completely captured the ten to twelve thousand people on the ground. He spoke at some length of his Jubilee trip. He recognized in England the greatest country on earth, and was proud to live under her flag. He visited sunny Italy and France, but in all his travels he saw no country to compare with Canada. He loved England and he loved France, the home of his ancestors, but above all he loved Canada best. He referred to the enterprise and push of St. John in seeking to secure the winter trade of Canada, and said his aim would be to never rest until he had so arranged affairs that every pound of freight imported and exported to and from Europe would go through Quebec and Montreal in summer and St. John and Halifax in the winter. This declaration was cheered again and again. Continuing, he said that, having accomplished that, he would seek to have as much American freight brought to Canadian seaports as possible.

The crowd called on Fielding and Tarte, but they declined. The Premier then, under the guidance of President Pitfield, inspected the Exhibition.

Mr. Tarte, with Chief Engineer Coste and Mr. Fielding, went on an inspection of the harbor improvements.

The Levee.

The levee held by Premier Laurier in the Exhibition building this evening was attended by thousands of people. It was in every respect successful. Hon. Mr. Fielding, Sir Louis Davies and Mr. Tarte were also in attendance.

To-morrow the Premier and Ministers go for a drive around the city, later for a sail about the harbor, and afterwards a trip on the St. John River on the new steamer Victoria, in which luncheon will be served.

IS IT A CORNER SCHEME?

Grain Operators at Winnipeg Have Withdrawn Many Buyers and Give No Reason for the Step.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—(Special.)—A number of prominent grain operators have withdrawn their buyers from the markets of the Province. What may be the cause of this is only conjecture. Some attribute it to the competition of milling companies, and that the amount of wheat, being far below the amount estimated, it will be no largely bought up by millers as to leave little for exporters. Another reason given is that grain men have formed a combine which will allow them to dispense with many buyers and give them complete control of the market at many points. On Saturday prices paid at many points were below what could have been given, still allowing the grain men a good margin. The Tribune calls upon the Government to step into the market and arrange to send farmers' grain to Fort William if necessary.

NO DISTURBANCES.

There Were Alarming Rumors But Nothing Serious Has Occurred So Far.

Hazelton, Pa., Sept. 14.—Despite a variety of alarming rumors and a movement by a body of miners, which looked formidable, the day has passed without serious disturbance in the strike region. Matters still wear such an uncertain aspect, however, that General Gobin declares that the removal of the troops or of any portion of them has not been contemplated. The strike is spreading with great rapidity. Exact estimates of the number of men who have quit work are hard to obtain, but conservative figures place it at close to 10,000, with indications that within a short time every colliery of importance in the region will be idle.

At Lattimer this afternoon, a largely attended meeting of strikers was held to receive the answer of the company to their demands, with a large body of strikers gathered in the open space before the company's store. Superintendent Blake appeared at the door and made known his company's terms. He also made a short speech to the men, urging them to return to work, and arguing that they could gain nothing by remaining idle. "What do you say," he concluded. "Will you come back?" There was a moment's buzz and then a chorus of "No" went up. The superintendent attempted no further persuasion.

Embalmers at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 14.—More than 200 practical embalmers are already enrolled on the list of delegates to the National Association of Embalmers, which opened its first annual convention here to-day. President Frank Morrill of Detroit presided. The profession is represented by delegates from all parts of the United States and many from Canada. It is thought that the association will soon be made an international one.

Acid Factory Burned.

Tonawanda, N.Y., Sept. 16.—The acetic acid factory of Penchen & Co., which had been running but a few days, was destroyed by fire to-night, causing a loss of $15,000. It is not known what caused the fire or whether the firm carried any insurance. Peuchen & Co. recently removed their plant here from Toronto.

SEELYE TELLS A WILD TALE

Says Eli Gage Was Whipped With a Lash.

IS SECRETARY GAGE'S SON.

Was Given Twenty-eight Lashes and Driven from Alaska.

His Crime Was That He Had Whiskey Taken to the Klondike Instead of Provisions—Everybody Building Boats—Surveyor McArthur Tells of the Advantages of the Dalton Trail.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 14.—According to a letter written from St. Michael, Alaska, by Prof. H. C. Seelye, a musician of that city, to J. W. Powles, a business man of Seattle, Eli Gage, son of Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage, was given 28 lashes and driven out of Alaska for transporting whiskey rather than food into the country. The letter says:

"St. Michael, Sept. 2.—J. W. Powles, Seattle, Wash.—Friend Powles: Safe arrival after a tough voyage. Passengers were dissatisfied, were short of water on the boat and six persons were crowded in a room 6 by 9. The steamship Humboldt could not get within a mile and a half of camp, and had trouble to discharge her cargo. Steamship leaves to-day. Expect to freeze up in Yukon this winter. It is hardly possible to reach Dawson City this winter. I think Wood (Mayor Wood of Seattle, who had charge of the Humboldt expedition), will have trouble with the expedition before it is complete. I am the oldest man left. Many turned back or left on other boats. Gage has been whipped at Dawson City—28 lashes—and driven out of the country. He took up whiskey instead of grub. All hands are at boat-building; too much detention. It is raining hard. I think the pass is a better route than this. The passengers tried to discourage me. I made a mistake in coming alone. Nearly every state is represented here. My room represents Alabama, Pennsylvania, New York and Washington. Don't know of any Washington people except Wood brothers and myself. Their expedition will not allow any person to continue the journey without grub. There are lots of smiles here, but trouble to get them up the river. No tidings of the Eliza Anderson. Will write as opportunity offers. Regards.

"H. C. Seelye."

The above letter was received in Seattle to-day via the steamship Humboldt. Powles says Seelye is a truthful man. Passengers who returned from St. Michael on the steamship Cleveland made the direct charge that both the North American Transportation and Trading Company and the Alaska Commercial Company were leaving food in the warehouses at St. Michael and were loading their boats with whiskey for Dawson City and the Klondike settlements.

ABOUT THE DALTON TRAIL

Canadian Surveyor Writes of the Advantages of That Route to the Klondike.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 14.—J. J. McArthur of the Canadian Survey, recently sent out to explore the several routes to the gold fields, win a view to selecting one for winter travel, writing from Dalton Trail, on which his party is now working, says:

"We went over the Dalton Trail until we reached Hootchei Lake, the outlet of which is Nordenskjold River. From this place the trail follows the river which takes an eastwardly course and empties into Lynn Canal river about Rink Rapids. Then we took a northerly course overland for Fort Selkirk at the mouth of Pelly River, at which place we arrived 10 days from Hootchei Lake. We had no difficulty in traveling over the country without building trails, though we were continually crossing small valleys and high-rolling mountains. The route followed is through a succession of Alpine valleys. This route is 300 miles overland from the head of Lynn Canal to Fort Selkirk, which is at the head of deep river navigation on the Yukon. By going over the newly explored portion of the trail all of the rapids are avoided and connection with large river steamers can be had. I do not, however, deem it possible to build a wagon or railroad over this portion, though it is unquestionably the way to take in large herds of stock."

McArthur says cattle are now being taken in over this route, gaining flesh considerably on the journey, notwithstanding the fact that they are carrying packs. One man, Cameron, of Victoria, reported that he had lost 30 head of his cattle, owing to a stampede caused by the Indians, who, he heard afterward, had rounded up his cattle and sold beef to the miners at Skaguay and Dyea. Mr. McArthur and party are now on the way back over Chilkoot Pass and will inspect White Pass.

GOLD IN THE STREET.

Miles Has Staked a Claim in Front of the Postoffice at Victoria, B.C.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 14.—Victoria is probably the only city in America possessing a gold mine on its principal business street. It did not until yesterday, when William Miles of Alberni carelessly broke a chip from a stone at the sidewalk edge while waiting for a street car.

He found it rich in free milling ore, and a claim of the regulation size was staked immediately, the discovery post being directly opposite the Postoffice and Custom House and the ledge running under these buildings and half a dozen business blocks.

The ore is so rich that gold can be seen with the naked eye, and Miles anticipates no difficulty in securing the cash deposit for the value of all property entered upon, which must be deposited before record can be granted or development commence. He promises that the mine will be sending ore to the smelter less than a block away before Christmas.
