at these meetings, and since. Under such circumstances, it may be proper for considerate men, by a calm, deliberate, and public expression of their sentiments, to endeavour to remove the stain which these doctrines and proceedings, publicly avowed, might leave on the character of the country.—Gazette.

FROM TEXAS.—The army is in a state of great insubordination, in consequence of being kept so long in a state of inactivity—the soldiers threaten to elect their own officers, march for Metamoras, and pay themselves with plunder, unless the government makes arrangements instantly for operations against Mexico. Gen. Johnson has had an interview with the Cabinet, and insists on resigning unless he is ordered to march on Matamoras. The soldiers also threatened to march on the town of Houston and fire at every house in it if the President permitted the land offices to be opened, and he had in consequence postponed their opening.

A minister is to be sent from Texas to Great Britain, to request the latter power to recognise the independence of the former.

Two Rogues, calling themselves Hickson and True, came on here about a fortnight since to exhibit the powers of a Solar Microscope, and after cheating almost every body with whom they hay any thing to do, and passing off some bad paper, sailed for Portland on Saturday last.—Novascotian.

Prospectus

Of a new monthly Periodical, to be entitled "The Literary and Historical Journal:" (of New-Brunswick and Nova-Scotia.)

WHEN the imagination wanders over the fertile territory of New-Brunswick, and contemplates the easy and comfortable circumstances of her inhabitants—attained through their industry in developing her vast resources, by exterminating her forests, cultivating her soil, opening roads, settling villages, founding cities, and establishing a healthy and prosperous commerce; and when we reflect, that, as the intelligence diffused by the newspapers of the day is indispensible,—so likewise is the promulgation of science, literature, and correct principles of morality no less necessary to augment and sustain her prosperity;—and recollect the fact that numerous foreign miscellaneous publications obtain in this Province no contemptible measure of support;—we are struck with surprise that she can claim no local periodical devoted exclusively to the above named branches of useful knowledge, and capable of leading the intellect into the various extensive paths of delightful and moralizing entertainment, which modern writers of every clime are continually opening to view.

To supply this deficiency, with assurances of success founded upon the above reflections, and a reliance upon that liberality ever extended in New-Brunswick towards the promotion of learning, the Subscriber has been induced to present this prospectus to the public:—confident that the enlightened and enterprising inhabitants of this Province, while they behold the mists of intellectual darkness rapidly vanishing before the mighty energy of a well supported press in the surrounding States and Provinces, will not suffer their neighbours to surpass them in the encouragement of literature; but, on the contrary, will be prompt in extending the necessary patronage to call into existence the proposed Periodical.

To the people of Nova-Scotia, likewise, the Journal will present a choice fund of peculiarly interesting matter, as, in a historical feature, she will command an equal share of attention with her Sister. Under one name both were formerly in unity; and, hand in hand, they now advance—envigorated by mutual support—to the fulfilment of their brightening destinies: It cannot, therefore, be a work of superogation for the Journalist to record the peculiarities of this progression.

From indications already exhibited, the supposition cannot be incorrect that there slumbers in both Provinces an extensive source of literary talent. The character and objects of the Journal, and its evidence of permanency, will tend to rouse those dormant powers; and we are not pursuing a phantom in indulging the expectation, that the seeds sown by its stimulating influence, will bear a full crop of intellectual fruit. In order to afford some encouragement to amateur writers, as well as to enrich the Journal with a variety of original reading, the Proprietor hereby tenders a copy thereof, gratis, to any person communicating a description of country, or sketch from life—the scene to be of course in either of the two Provinces; provided that such is found worthy of publication.

The Contents of the Journal will consist of ORIGINAL ARTICLES; and CHOICE SELECTIONS from the most approved original works of the day, British and American, comprehending—Interesting Tales, Historical Sketches of different countries—men & manners, Biography, Short Essays on the interesting features of Science, and other entertaining and instructive matter. Politics shall never intrude, except when briefly treated as a science, or as connected with the changes and events historically interesting to New Brunswick or Nova-Scotia, which will always be faithfully recorded. Among the original articles will occasionally appear—REPORTS of interesting Lectures and public Debates, in the Literary Societies of this City and Halifax, upon subjects within the range of the above general heads. New Publications will be reviewed as they appear.

The Journal will be printed on fine white paper, in LARGE octavo form, with new and neat small type; each number containing 24 or more pages, besides an extra leaf for the accomodation of advertisers. A copious index or table of contents will be prepared at the conclusion of each year; when the numbers can be well bound for a small additional charge—making a handsome volume of 300 pages.

☞The first number will be issued as soon as there are sufficient names on the list to ensure its permanent existence.

TERMS—12s. 6d. per annum, 10s. if paid in advance, or upon the receipt of the first number. [The Journal will certainly be a comparatively CHEAP publication: It will contain as much reading matter as the "Acadian Magazine" formerly published in Halifax at TWENTY SHILLINGS per annum.] Any person forwarding Five subscriptions will be furnished with an additional copy, gratis. The postage to country subscribers will be 1s. 3d. per year.

Subscription Lists are now open at the several Book-stores in this City. The following Gentlemen will also receive and forward subscriptions: Mr. FRANCIS BEVERLEY, and Mr. J. M. MANSE, Fredericton; Messrs. A. & W. M'KINLAY, and Mr. E. BROWN, Halifax; and the POSTMASTERS throughout the two Provinces would confer a great favor upon the Proprietor by acting as Agents for the Journal.

All Communications for the Journal, (POST-PAID,) and Letters upon business, must be addressed to the subscriber. JOHN CROSSKILL.

Prince William Street.

ST. JOHN, N. B. JULY 13th, 1837.

☞Editors in this Province and Nova-Scotia will oblige by giving the above an insertion.
