Our New Serial
—COMMENCES—
Saturday, April 4th.
One of the finest stories ever written.

We have written "There are no bargains in Kid Gloves. We said it, and believed it true, even while having our 39c. glove in stock."

Said it and thought it actual, with a fair knowledge of what others were offering as marvellous value in Kid Gloves.

Said it, adopted it as a tenet, looked upon it as datum from which we might argue.

But now!

But now!

Our new spring stock has arrived, in response to a telegram from us, "we expect our Kid Gloves for Easter." What shall we say of the 58c. and 77c. lines? To what shall we liken them? To the undressed kid at 78c., which many have seen and that only disappointed one customer, who wanted 8s. By the latter we place the new arrivals for comparison, and if they are not dwarfed in their presence, and they're not, it is only because these too are of equal value.

Her main rigging was carried away and the jibboom was also run through her foresail which tore away her main railing, bulwarks, stanchions, waterway and deck planks, and broke in the planking below the water line. It was impossible to learn the name of the other vessel, but her jibboom was carried away. [The schooner with which the Dow collided was the Clifford C., of this port.]

The Sound of a Voice.

This story was written by Mr. Cozzens between the years 1865 and 1869 and was found among his unpublished M.S.S. after his death which occurred on the 28th December, 1869. It was the last story that emanated from his pen and has lain undisturbed for a period of over twenty years. The M.S.S. has been unaltered in every respect, with the exception of the title in which a change was made. The inference is that the material for most of the descriptive portions of the story was gathered during Mr. Cozzens' trip abroad in 1858, when he went as a delegate from the Century Club to the International Convention held in Brussels and during which sojourn he spent some time in France. The rest of the story is simply a creation of his own and is without foundation as to fact. The GAZETTE commences the publication of this intensely clever story on Saturday next.

Still to the Front.

A glance at John K. Storey's show windows will convince the casual observer that spring is at hand, and that Mr. Storey is still to the front with the latest novelties of the season, among which we notice the largest hat we have ever seen, called the Latest, artistically decorated with flowers of various colors and, judging from the crowds of admirers, must be very attractive. We also notice one of the smallest and daintiest bonnets called the Butter Cup, which is very neat and unique and bids fair to be one of the leading styles. Altogether the display presents quite an attractive appearance and those in search of dry goods or millinery should see these novelties before they are disposed of.

Police Court.

Edward McCann and George Earle, drunks, were fined $4 each.

William Higgens, arrested on the charge of his mother for being drunk, in her house St. Patrick street is still at the police station, the woman not appearing to prosecute.

THE NEW PIER WAREHOUSE.—City Engineer Peters is now drawing the plans for the proposed warehouse to be built on the New Pier as described in the GAZETTE a couple of weeks ago. The warehouse will be nearly 500 feet long and over 70 wide, and will extend along the wharf from within 30 feet of the Pettingill wharf warehouse to the southern end of the Monticello's warehouse. It will be constructed so that a railway track can be run through it and another in front of it. The arrangements connected with the buying of the several properties, which will be covered by the warehouse, have been about completed.

A DEAL IN CHEESE.—A North wharf merchant made a curious deal in cheese a few days ago. He bought a carload of this article in Montreal at a low figure. While the shipment was on its way to St. John, the price of cheese went up in Montreal with a jump to such a height that the lucky cheese buyer found that he could sell his purchase at two cents a pound higher than he could in St. John. At this rate he could pay the freight back and still have a better margin than if he disposed of the cheese here. Consequently it was reshipped and he sold it again in the market where it was bought.

ST. LUKE'S—The concert given in the basement of this church last evening was very successful and was a happy method of closing the bazaar. The ladies who assisted the artillery band in giving this concert, were Miss Minnie Beattey, of the West end, and Miss Clara Watson, of the East side. Miss McInnis gave choice readings. The vocal selections of Miss Beattey and Miss Watson were admirably given and each lady was obliged to respond to an enthusiastic encore. The many admirers of Miss Watson's fine voice will congratulate her on her re-appearance and will be pleased to know that after her enforced rest, she is singing now even better than she did before. Infinite credit is due to Miss Farmer who played the accompaniments, for her energy and cleverness in arranging this pronounced success.
