Strained Mercy.

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—It is said that the Czar is about to issue a ukase permitting Jews to live in those Russo-Polish villages which are owned by noblemen in case those noblemen obtain guarantees for their lawful behavior. Wherever such guarantees cannot be obtained the Jews will be forbidden to settle.

He hopes to sail for New York on Dec. 15 or 16, returning here the beginning of next season.

Meeting of the British Cabinet.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The Cabinet held a meeting to-day for the purpose of considering the congested business of the House of Commons. A Russo-Turkish Alliance.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "The visit of the Russian squadron to Constantinople will be an important step towards a Russo-Turkish alliance, which M. Nelidoff has been instructed to push home. This basis of the treaty will be the guaranteeing of the Sultan's dominions in war coupled with absolute right of way for Russian war ships for all time."

The Canadian Tariff Discussed.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The discussion on the Canadian tariff question in the English papers continues from time to time. The Chronicle yesterday, following the same line as the Times a fortnight ago, points to Mr. Courtney's mission to Washington as a proof that the Canadian Ministry for the first time has come face to face with the Northwest demand for tariff revision. The Chronicle considers the man well chosen, the time opportune for the mission, and the prospects for some mutual arrangement with the States are more favorable than for a long time past.

Dutch Take 8,000 Prisoners.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—A courier arrived bringing fresh news from the Congo country. It says that Capt. Dhanis' party, after defeating the Arabs at Kasongo, found letters which proved the existence of a plot among the Arab chiefs to destroy the influence of the Congo Free State.

It was also stated that Capt. Pouthier, after taking Kibundi, pursued the retreating enemy to their camp at Ontia or Loma, and took 8,000 prisoners.

Women Fenced Off with Iron Bars.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Once again the time-honored question of removing the iron bars which shut the women spectators in the House of Commons in a sort of monkey cage has been raised, and this time there seems really some chance that it will be done. At least the Minister in charge is sympathetic, but he has adroitly explained that what is necessary is an expression of opinion from a majority of the House. This is difficult to get, for the reason that a majority secretly dislike seeing women about the place at all, yet would not wish to be on record as saying so, and hence keep the question from coming up in a form which would require a vote.

Serious Spanish Military Outbreak.

MADRID, Nov. 21.—A serious military outbreak occurred during the mobalizing of 5,000 reserves at Getafe, a town eight miles south of this city. Some of the troops revolted and the civic guard was called upon to quell the disturbance. This they sought to do, but the mutinous reserves turned on them and fought desperately. A number of the civic guards were injured. It was finally found necessary to call out the regular cavalry and infantry to restore order. The reserves were being mobilized because of the drafts made upon the regular troops in consequence of the trouble at Melilla.

Disastrous Results of an Earthquake.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—A special dispatch from Meshed brings further details of the earthquake that occurred Friday at Kuehan, in the northern part of the Province of Khorassan. The town was completely destroyed and the loss of life was immense. Great crevasses were opened in the earth, through which water flowed in torrents, causing the Atrek River to overflow its banks. The fertile region around the city was inundated, and the large gardens and extensive vineyards were swept out of existence.

The people of Kuchan had no chance to save anything. The shock was so severe that the largest houses in the town, including the residence of the Governor, were almost instantly toppled over, crushing hundreds of people to death. The town had a population of between 20,000 and 25,000 persons, and it is thought that at least 10,000 perished. Many persons were carried away by the flood that flowed down the valley. It is not known yet what damage was done in the valley, but it is feared that many of the villages below Kouhan have been destroyed.

A short time after the disturbance the entire water supply of the town disappeared. The people who were not injured fled panic-stricken to Ala Dagh Mountains, leaving the injured to care for themselves as best they could. The district in which Kuchan is situated is very populous, and it is feared that it has everywhere suffered from the earthquake and the flood.

The Woman Suffrage Question.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Walter McLaren, member for the Crown division of Cheshire, who is a Radical in favor of political and religious equality without distinction of sex and creed, moved to include among the electors mentioned in the Parish Councils bill married women who would be entitled to vote if they were single.

The Rt. Hon. Henry Fowler, president of the Local Government Board, made a counter proposal to disqualify married women except when they are duly qualified as ratepayers.

Right Hon. Leonard Courtney (Unionist), member for the Bodmin division of Cornwall, said he thought Mr. Fowler's proposal commendable for its simplicity.

Right Hon. Sir Henry James (Unionist), member for Bury, said that though he has hitherto opposed the giving of the privilege to vote to women for party purposes, he considered the proposal moderate, as before a woman could obtain the right to vote she must be rated. If a woman lived with her husband the latter must be rated. They were therefore dealing with the question of married women living apart from their husbands.

The Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, Conservative leader in the House, held that the change proposed was an important departure. If the House assented the Government's proposal it would give up all hope of drawing a distinction between married and single women, not only in relation to municipal and local franchises, but in relation to party.

Mr. McLaren withdrew his motion.

A PARTISAN PARSON

Causes an Ovation to William McKinley in Church—Strange Scenes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Gov. William McKinley, of McKinley Bill fame, worshiped at the Hanson Place Methodist Church, Brooklyn, Sunday morning, in company with Myron T. Herrick, of his staff, and Wilbur F. Wakeman. While preaching Pastor C. W. Parsons, D.D., an ardent Republican and a warm admirer of the Governor, recognized the distinguished guest, and at the close of his sermon notified the congregation of the Ohican's presence, referring to him as one of the most illustrious and noblest of Christian statesmen.

Quick as a flash there came a rousing cheer from over 500 men, while the women waved their handkerchiefs towards where the Governor sat. The assemblage then joined in singing "America." After the benediction Dr. Parsons descended and seized the visitor's hand, and more than 1,000 of the congregation followed the clergyman's example.

EDMUND YATES' GOSSIP.

The Marquis of Lorne's Beautiful New Scotch Home.

The Queen Leaves Balmoral—Gladstone Falls Asleep in the House—A Clever Prince—Dickens' Relics.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The following is Edmund Yates' cable to the Tribune:

THE QUEEN LEAVES BALMORAL.

The weather had been cold and wintery for more than a fortnight before the Queen left Balmoral, but her Majesty took a daily drive and paid all the usual farewell visits to the tenants of the royal estates and the cottagers at Crathie. The Queen has been in excellent health throughout the autumn.

A CLEVER PRINCE.

Prince Alexander of Battenberg was singularly unfortunate in that he was driven by the course of events on the Danube to the quarrel with his cousin, the Emperor of Russia, and the death of Emperor Frederick was a great blow to him. It is quite certain that if Emperor Frederick's life had been prolonged for a few years Prince Alexander would have married the Princess Victoria of Prussia, to whom he was engaged for several years, and would at once have taken a high place in the German court, and would have received an important position in the army, or have been very prominent in political life. Prince Alexander was greatly admired and very much liked by the Emperor Frederick and also by the present Emperor, and was also a favorite with the Queen and the Empress Frederick until his marriage. Prince Bismarck's opposition to Prince Alexander's marriage to Princess Victoria was really due to his apprehension that the Prince would soon become a dangerous rival to the Bismarck dynasty, as he was a consummate man of affairs, and Gen. Von Moltke had pronounced him to be an admirable strategist.

LORNE'S NEW HOME.

Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne have purchased a villa at St. Catherines on the shore of Loch Fyne. This house, which is known as "The Pynes" was built by the late Dr. Patterson, and it is a fine structure and stands on very pretty grounds. The windows and terrace command splendid views of the opposite shores of Loch Fyne with Inverary Castle and a richly wooded demesne in the foreground, and hills behind, with the peaks of Ben Cruachan in the PALACE TURNED TO HOSPITAL.

The royal palace at Dresden has become a veritable hospital, and the court physicians have had their powers of endurance tried to the utmost, for the King of Norway has been attacked with catarrh, and has been enjoined not to quit his bed.

MR. GLADSTONE FALLS ASLEEP.

Some of Mr. Gladstone's friends and colleagues in the House must have noted, with a feeling of uneasiness, that both on Tuesday and Friday he seemed wearied out before the dinner hour and fell fast asleep in his seat. As a rule when any party feeling is being displayed or a point being made the Premier is all eyes and ears, but on Thursday he fell asleep in the midst of a good deal of noise caused among the Radicals by Mr. Jesse Collins' remarks. Again the following day he slept through several speeches and only woke up when it was time to be thinking of dinner. Signs of extreme old age are unquestionably creeping on apace with Mr. Gladstone.

FAMOUS CORRESPONDENCE.

The famous correspondence between Goethe and Charlotte Von Stein from 1776 to 1826, numbering 1,348 letters, which are bound up in seven folios, were recently offered for sale in Berlin at the price of 200,000 marks.

CHARLES DICKENS' RELICS SOLD.

There were many lots of great interest in the sale of certain relics of Charles Dickens, which took place at Willis' rooms on Friday last. In particular the presentation copy of "Leaves from the Journal of Our Life in the Highlands," given by the Queen to the novelist exactly three months before his death, was of course unique. Upon the whole the prices were certainly high, but the opportunity was extremely unlikely to recur, and it is satisfactory to have it demonstrated that the love and admiration for the memory of Dickens is showing no signs of diminishing.

A STUBBORN OFFICEHOLDER.

Sir John Astley's refusal to resign the Irish Under Secretaryship is causing Mr. Morley some embarrassment. He is, however, only doing what he has every right to do, for he holds the office direct from the crown, and is by no means called on to retire just because he is a Unionist and because Mr. Gladstone's Irish Secretary wants him out of the way. It is unlucky, certainly, that the Dublin commissioner of police resigned his position to take Mr. Ridgeway's duties while he was away in Morocco, but Mr. Morley should have known better than to permit such an arrangement.

Murdered, Robbed and Burned.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 21.—Miles Mark, aged 50 years, was murdered, robbed and his body burned in his house here yesterday. Marks was found to have a large sum of money in his house.

At a meeting of the New York rapid transit commissioners on Monday a proposition to build an underground railroad from the Battery via Broadway, the Boulevard and Tenth avenue to Fort George, was submitted. It is to have four tracks laid in two tiers, one for express trains and the other for way traffic.

The best of all ways
To lengthen our days
Is to use Pierce's Purgative Pellets, sir!

For nine-tenths of the diseases of the body begin with constipation, or the clogging up of the sluice ways through which the impurities of the blood escape so that they are reabsorbed into the system. The Purgative Pellets act gently but thoroughly upon the stomach and liver, and are the best laxative known. Without racking and straining the organs, they open the bowels and restore a natural, healthy digestion. Unequaled in dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, piles, or any of the resulting diseases.

The Storm Subsides

But the List of Casualties Grows Longer.

Heroic Achievements of Life-Saving Crews.

The Wilson Liner Electra Goes to the Bottom—All Hands Saved.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The British steamer Amciott, 1,600 tons, was wrecked off Aldborough yesterday morning. All aboard were lost, although nine attempts were made to reach her with rockets. The British steamer Olive Branch, 1,767 tons, was wrecked off the Welsh coast. Only one of the crew was saved.

A dispatch from Toulon says that a heavy storm has swept the Mediterranean coast. At Toulon it did much damage. Lloyd's record reported 144 wrecks. The highest ever reported for a single day. The worst day before was in 1879, when 139 vessels were lost in 24 hours.

The steamer Aboukir Bay was wrecked off Morlaix near Brest, France. Fourteen bodies have been washed upon the shore opposite the wreck.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Late reports show that the gale has spent itself. Along the coast near Calais seventeen more dead bodies were recovered yesterday. A lifeboat went out from Dover and rescued eight men from a sinking schooner.

At Scarborough, on the Yorkshire coast, several houses were blown down and many were unroofed. Many fishing smacks are missing.

The Norwegian bark Gratia is stranded on the French coast near Barfleur. Nine of her crew were saved and three were lost. The Danish bark Embla, from Gothenburg, sank off Withernsea, near Hull. A large steamer, whose name has not been ascertained, foundered off Withernsea yesterday with all on board.

A violent gale blew Sunday all along the Atlantic coast of Spain and Portugal. Great damage was done at Bilbao and nearby ports. Several deaths from drowning in rivers are reported from the interior of Spain.

The crew of the bark Johanne Marie, which sank off Dungenness yesterday, took to the rigging when their vessel went down. They were exposed to the full fury of the gale, and their condition was pitiable. The lifeboat from Dover, though its crew had been taxed to the full in assisting crews and saving life, put off to the bark to save the men in the rigging. They did not get to the scene of the disaster until an hour after dark. The sea was running so high that it was impossible for the lifeboat to approach the sunken vessel, so it laid off and on until daylight, by which time the sea had gone down somewhat. Seven men almost dead from exposure were then taken into the lifeboat. Four of the crew, benumed with cold and completely exhausted, had fallen from their resting place during the night and were drowned. When the life-savers arrived at Dover this morning they were enthusiastically cheered by the crowd that was awaiting their return. From every direction came stories of heroism on the part of lifeboat crews and coast guardsmen. Had it not been for their noble work the death roll of the storm, already exceedingly large, would have had many added to it.

The Norwegian bark Moss has been towed into Yarmouth. She was found at sea derelict. Three of her crew were found dead on board. The others are missing.

Reports of persons having perished in the snow have been received from Arundel, Sussex; Peterborough, Northampton, Bamburg, Oxford and Crickley, near Gloucester. Near Uppingham, Rutland, a mail cart became imbedded in the drifts. When found the driver was badly frost-bitten and the horse was frozen to death.

Since yesterday the bodies of 40 persons who lost their lives in the storm have been picked up on the beach in the vicinity of Calais.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The American bark A. C. Bean, which was wrecked off Dolegan on Nov. 18, was bound from Newcastle, N. S., for Bowling. Capt. Mountford and five of the crew were drowned.

A DEATH MYSTERY.

Did Charles F. Kirby Die in This City or Was He Murdered?

A telegram from Attleboro, Mass., says: "Charles F. Kirby, who for several months has been in the employ of Totten & Co., jewelers, has suddenly disappeared, and his friends here fear he has met with foul play. Kirby had a brother, Thomas J. Kirby, in Birmingham, England, for whom he found a situation with the firm by which he was employed. On Oct. 17 Kirby got leave of absence to go to New York to meet his brother, who was to come to this country by steamer.

"Nothing was heard of him until to-day, when the proprietor of the boarding house where Kirby lived received a letter from Thomas J. Kirby, from Birmingham, inquiring about his brother, and whether he was alive or dead. The letter also contained a clipping taken from the Birmingham Mail, in which Charles F. Kirby's death was announced as having occurred in London, Ontario.

"A few days ago a postal card dated "Providence, R. I., 6 p.m., Oct. 28," was received at Kirby's boarding place, upon which was an invitation to meet English friends, Mr. Williams and others, signed "Harry." The man's disappearance, coupled with the death notice in the English paper, has led his friends to believe that he has been put out of the way and that this method was taken by the perpetrators to cover up a crime."

THE LEHIGH TIE-UP.

Total Embargo on Traffic at Some Points.

The Men Sanguine of Securing the Concessions They Demand.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 20.—The grievence committee of the Lehigh Valley strikers received encouraging reports this morning from the scene of action. A message from Buffalo stated that every brotherhood man was on strike with the exception of three engineers. Another from Wilkesbarre reported everything as being tied up between Wilkesbarre and Easton and the substance of a batch of telegrams was that the official corps on all divisions is being pressed into service to move trains.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 20.—President Wilbur says: On the eastern division all passenger trains are moving, also some local freight, through freight and coal trains. On the coal branch everything is running as usual, including coal trains. On the northern division passenger trains are running with some delay, but no freight trains are moving.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Superintendent Maguir, of the Susquehanna division, denies the reports to the effect that the Erie is handling any Lehigh freight. The Erie positively refuses to touch Lehigh freight.

SAYRE, Pa., Nov. 21.—The Lehigh road is now completely tied up. Not a wheel is moving at Sayre to-day, and there is little prospect that any trains will move. The strikers say that passenger conductors were not ordered out until to-day, and now, having been ordered out, all will leave their trains at their destinations. All the orders are now united except the switchmen, and it has been reported here that to-day the switchmen at Buffalo have joined in the struggle.

ALBANY, Nov. 21.—Word has been received at the State Department of Mediation and Arbitration that Commissioner Feeney is in Buffalo to inquire into the causes of the Lehigh Valley strike. If there is any prospect of settlement through the efforts of the State Board the other members will meet with Commissioner Feeney.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—General Manager Voohees, of the Lehigh Valley Railway, said last night that the outlook for the company was much better than he expected it would be. Only 32 operators had gone out along the line, and their places had been easily filled.

SAYRE, Pa., Nov. 21.—Not a train either mail or passenger has passed this station today in either direction. Throughout the morning occasional trains have been arriving from the north and south, but as they reached this station the engines were housed and the trains abandoned. The tie-up is now absolute and complete. The crowd about the station and the streets has been constantly growing, but all is as orderly as anyone could desire.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 21.—P. M. Arthur, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was seen to-day in reference to the Lehigh strike. Mr. Arthur said he recognized in the proposition to blow up the Lehigh Valley roundhouse the same old tactics which are always put forward by the enemies of labor organizations in every strike, and he was glad that General Chief Wilkinson had kicked them out of the hotel. Mr. Arthur was asked if he though the Lehigh strike would spread, and he replied: "I don't know. I do know that we have a just cause, though."

THE K. OF L.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 20.—The Knights of Labor General Assembly is waiting for the report of the finance committee on the Powderly-Hayes trouble before taking any action on the matter. The report is to be presented to-morrow.

Mr. Powderly declined to discuss the charges.
