BUSINESS BRIGHTENING UP

TRADE RETURNS FOR MAY GO UP WITH A BOUND.

Two Divisions in the House Yesterday on the Grant to Lady Thompson and on Motion to Cut the Funeral Grant to $10,000—Proceedings Before the Public Accounts Committee.

Ottawa, June 14.—The trade returns for May are of a very satisfactory nature, increases being noted in every item. The exports for the month were valued at $8,898,932, an increase of $1,055,000. The imports for the month were valued at $9,429,957, an increase of $268,796. The duty collected amounted to $1,522,793, an increase of $137,359. The total exports for the eleven months are only $2,000,000 behind the same period last year. The imports, however, show a falling off of $6,750,000, and the duty $1,822,000.

The deposits in the Postoffice Savings Banks last month totalled $615,545, and the withdrawals $770,747 In the Dominion Savings Banks the deposits were valued at $283,828, and the withdrawals $289,083. New Postoffices were opened in Ontario on June 1 as follows: Bowell, South Leeds, Cheswick Clint, and Levesqueville, Nipissing; Elsie and Lochlin, North Victoria; Foote's Bay, East Simcoe; O'Connell, North Ontario; Vinemount, South Wentworth; Wilson, South Norfolk.

The Funeral Expenses Again.

The question of the expenses of Sir John Thompson's funeral was again brought up in the House to-day in concurrence on the Supplementary estimates; Mr. Davies moving, seconded by Mr. Tarte, that the vote be reduced from $25,000 to $10,000.

Mr. Laurier supported the motion, calling attention to Mr. Ouimet's admission of yesterday, that some Halifax tradesmen had charged 50 to 75 per cent. more than the ordinary prices.

Mr. Foster said that, although it was true that high prices had been charged in some cases, it was not correct that such charges had been paid. The bills actually amounted to $23,000 at fair market rates. The proper course for the Opposition, in his judgment, was to propose a vote of censure on the Government and not attempt to strike a blow at the Ministry by refusing to pay what was honestly due to tradesmen.

Mr. McMullen spoke at some length in support of the motion.

Mr. Ouimet said the original accounts amounted to $33,000; it was proposed to pay $23,000, which was a reasonable sum for the articles supplied. Of the $23,000, $6000 went to the Intercolonial and other railways, so that the tradesmen would only get $17,000. The outrageous charges he referred to were not made by all the tradesmen, only by a few.

Mr. Casey thought that money had been spent at Halifax to benefit party friends.

Mr. Campbell said that the charge for coats, top boots and the like for the undertakers' men was a scandalous waste of public money.

After some further discussion the motion to reduce the appropriation was defeated by 68 to 48.

Grant to Lady Thompson Carried.

Dr. Macdonald, in concurrence on the item of $25,000 to the Lady Thompson fund, moved that it be struck out.

The item carried by 76 to 39.

In the division on the appropriation to cover the funeral expenses of Sir Sir John Thompson, Messrs. McCarthy and Tyrwhitt voted to cut downthe amount to $10,000, while Mr. Devlin voted with the Government. On the grant to Lady Thompson, the following Liberals voted for it, viz: Messrs. Laurier, Cartwright, Casey, Edgar, Edwards, Levergne, Devlin, Gibson and Perry, as also Mr. McCarthy. Two Conservatives, Wilson of Lennox and Hodgins of Carlton, voted against the grant.

Status of the Copyright Question.

On motion to go into Supply, Mr. Edgar called attention to the present state of the Copyright question. He trusted that the mission of Mr. Newcombe to England would be successful and that the right of Canada to legislate on the question would be conceded.

Sir C. H. Tupper said that there was no doubt the Canadian Act would have been assented to long ago, if it had not been for the opposition of the British authorities and publishers. The Canadian Government wished to have this question settled once for all. It was not a party question, both parties in Canada being anxious for it. The Act was designed, not to benefit any particular class, but Canadians as a whole.

Dr. Weldon doubted the competency of the Canadian Parliament to legislate on the Copyright question, and he trusted that when the Government envoy was in England he would impress upon the Imperial authorities the desirability of legislation being passed by the Imperial Parliament to make the matter clear. If the Canadian Act received the Royal assent without such legislation there might be contests in the courts with British authors, when probably the Canadian Act would be declared ultra vires.

The subject dropped, and the House went into Committee of Supply.

After recess the civil Government items were considered in Supply, and several passed. The House adjourned at 10 40.

Senator Boulton's Unworkable Idea.

Senator Boulton to-day moved a resolution declaring that if the excise on spirits, beer and tobacco were made equal to the protective duty on those articles on the basis of the average consumption during the past five years an increase to the revenue would result, amounting to $5,000,000, and if 25 cents a gallon spirits and 10 cents a pound on tobacco were added to the present rate of duty, a further increase would result amounting to $2,000,000 more.

After several Senators had spoken, Sir Mackenzie Bowell said the resolution if carried out, would involve serious changes in the fiscal system. The practical result of the proposition would be that whiskies made in Ohio and other States of the Union would take the place of the Canadian article, as corn was cheaper there. Such a change would close every brewery, distillery and tobacco factory in the country. The proposition was another free trade fallacy theoretically very alluring, but practically impossible. The motion was defeated on a division of 33 to 4, Senators Boulton, Scott, Power and McClellan voting for it.

MONTREAL'S MURDER MYSTERY.

Detectives Have No Clue—Shortis to Be Tried in October—Unlicensed Insurance.

Montreal, June 14.—The inquest began to-day on the body of Mrs. Demers, who was murdered in cold blood yesterday while alone with her child at 3426 Notre Dame-street. The whole case is shrouded in the deepest mystery. The most affectionate relations appear to have existed between husband and wife. Her 3-year-old baby was in its cradle when the dreadful deed was accomplished, and although scores of families live all around, no one was seen entering or leaving the house. Detective Carpenter is working up the case.

Some time since John A. Grose brought an action against J. B. Wood, who is sued for having issued, on behalf of a company, an insurance policy without a license. Judge Dugas fined Wood today $50 and costs or two months in prison.

The Hudson Bay Co. will despatch the schooner Eugene to Ungava Bay with supplies during the month of July.

Judge Belanger has granted a commission to proceed to Ireland to enquire into the insanity plea of Shortis' family. The trial of the Valleyfield murderer will take place in October.

HER MAJESTY AT A FIRE.

Mar Lodge, the Duke of Fife's Highland Seat, Burned to the Ground.

Edinburgh, June 14.—Mar Lodge Braemar, Aberdeenshire, the Highland residence of the Duke of Fife, son-in-law of the Prince of Wales, was burned to-day. The fire broke out in the Duke's private room. Owing to the scarcity of water, the efforts made to extinguish the flames were unavailing. The fire spread to an adjacent wood, which is still burning. Men cut down trees to prevent the fire consuming and them m prevent the fire communicating to the great ball-room and tenis court in the vicinity.

Among those who witnessed the destruction of the ducal residence, was Queen Victoria, who, as soon as she heard of the fire, drove to the srene from Balmoral. The felling of the trees stopped the spread of the fire, but not until all the buildings, exdept the tenis court and dairy had been burned. Most of the furniture and pictures in the lodge were saved. The property was insured.

FREE TRADE, DIRECT TAXATION.

Change in the Fiscal Policy of New South Wales.

Sydney, N.S.W., June 14.—The vote on the Customs bill yesterday stood 64 in favor of the measure to 38 against it. When he introduced the bill in May last, the Prime Minister said that the Government was pledged to abolish the customs duties imposed four years ago, and to establish a tariff on a free trade basis. The Government was determined to take this occasion to impose a direct tax at once.

There would be a land tax of 1d on the pound, and an income of 5d on the pound, with exemptions. There would be a permanent tariff only on wines, spirits, beer, tobacco and opium. The old duties would be retained for the present, and a duty on sugar for ten years would be imposed.

Protection and Currency.

Brussels, June 14.—Alphonso Allard, who was one of the Belgian delegates to the International Monetary Conference, held in Brussels in 1892, read a notable economic paper before the Brussels Conservative Union last evening. M. Allard aimed to prove that the present policy of protection was the direct result of the currency difficulty. Protection of commodities, he declared, was merely the outcome of perfection of gold, and the movement in favor of prohibitive customs duties was the direct result of monometallism. In conclusion, he said the only remedy for the existing depression of trade was the rehabilitation of silver and return to bimetallism, a movement toward which had made progress in every country.

FORETASTE OF MIDSUMMER.

The Longest Day and Canada's National Celebration Draw on Apace.

There are divers opinions on the best method of assessment, but no divergence from the uniform verdict that when you get within ten days of midsummer it is high time to purchase summer straw hats. Thousands of men, women and children have done this at Dineens', King and Yonge-streets, since Eastertide, and nearly as many will do so before Dominion Day. Last Saturday the crowd of customers was phenomenal; to-day, when Dineens' keep open until 10 o'clock at night, will be an equally busy day. Although the stock is so large in this the chief hat emporium of Canada, it is wise to purchase early in the day and thereby avoid the inevitable throng at night. Real good quality straw hats, for male and female, will be especially sold to-day, and up to 10 o'clock at night, at 50c, 75c and $1.

CANADA'S CONSENT NOT GIVEN

OBJECTION TAKEN TO THE IMPERIAL SEALING BILL.

British Protection Withdrawn From British Subjects on the High Seas—The Bill Read a Second Time—The Parnellites Express Their Candid Opinion of Oliver Cromwell.

London, June 14.—In the House of Commons to-day A. C. Morton, Liberal, moved to reduce the annual grant for the maintenance of Buckingham Palace and Marlborough House, respectively, residences of the Queen and Prince of Wales in London, and divert £100,000 towards repairing Holyrood House, the royal residence in Edinburgh.

Mr. Labouchere said he was delighted to hear that Holyrood House was going to wreck and ruin, and hoped that nothing would be done to save it.

Herbert Gladstone, First Commissioner of Works, said Holyrood House was in excellent condition, and did not need any grant for repairs.

Mr. Morton's motion, upon the strength of Mr. Gladstone's statement, was withdrawn.

Oliver Cromwell Sized Up.

P. Hayden, member for Roscommon, moved to reduce the estimates £500 as a protest against the expenditure of public money upon the construction of a statue of Oliver Cromwell within the precincts of Parliament.

William Redmond, member for East Clare, protested against the glorification of the memory of a man whom nine-tenths of the people of Ireland regarded as a murderer.

Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the House ought to be governed by the fact that the record of famous men in English history must not be determined by individual sympathies, and they must also remember the place that statesmen occupied in the life of the nation and look upon the matter in a broad spirit. The Commonwealth, he said, was a great epoch and Cromwell was a great ruler with a great policy at home and abroad.

Robert Everett, Liberal, said Cromwell played the part of a man of greatness, a fact which everyone admitted.

John P. Nolan, Parnellite, declared that Cromwell had played the part of a treacherous brute, and that Sir William Harcourt had identified himself with many of his (Cromwell's) actions. (Conservative and Parnellite laughter.)

The motion introduced by Mr. Hayden was rejected, 152 to 137.

Objections to the Sealing Bill

The bill introduced by Sir Edward Grey, Parliamentary Secretary to the Foreign Office, for the prohibition of sealing in Behring Sea during certain seasons and the regulation of the seal fisheries came up on its second reading.

Sir George Baden-Powell, who was British Commissioner in the Behring Sea case said he approved the general principle of the bill, but it did not go far enough in effect from the declarations of the Behring Sea tribunal of arbitration.

Thomas Gibson Bowles offered an amendment declaring that no bill would be satisfactory that withdrew British protection from British subjects on the high seas and that rendered British vessels liable to search and seizure by foreign naval officers. Mr. Bowles said he doubted whether Canada's objections to the bill had been removed. At any rate the measure would render British subjects, engaged in lawful pursuits, liable to humiliating treatment at the hands of foreigners.

Sir Edward Grey said that the bill was only intended to affect the existing agreement with Russia. It contained no clauses for other purposes. Canada's consent to the measure had not been expressly given, but every endeavor consistent with fulfilling the agreement with Russia has been made to satisfy the Dominion. He believed that the restrictions imposed were reasonable even in the interests of Canadian seamen.

Mr Bowles' amendment was rejected by a vote of 87 to 11. The House then adjourned.

Cromwell's Statue Again on Monday.

UNIONISTS AND TORIES.

The Alliance Must Be Maintained Until Danger of Disruption Is Past.

London, June 14.—The National Union of Conservative Associations gave a banquet in this city this evening. Among the guests were the Duke of Devonshire and Joseph Chamberlain, Liberal-Unionist. The Duke of Devonshire made a speech, in the course of which he said this was the first occasion on which the Liberal-Unionists had been guests of the National Union of Conservative Associations. He connected the fact with the recent unfair attacks on Mr. Chamberlain, and declared that the leaders of both sections of the Unionists always had absolute mutual confidence. He dilated upon the progressive change in the attitude of the Conservatives, ascribing it to the influence of A. J. Balfour, the late Lord Randolph Churchill and men like them, and to closer contact with public feeling. The Unionist Alliance, he added, must be strenuously maintained until the danger of disruption of the Empire shall have passed. Meanwhile the Unionists would try to effect social reforms upon which they were agreed. The time was nearing when a new Government would have to be formed, and power shared by the two sections of the Unionists. Whether it would be a Union fusion or coalition was of small importance, for difficulties would be incurred anyway. The Conservatives could not be expected to call themselves Liberal, while the opinions of many Liberal-Unionists prevented them from adopting the name of Conservatives, but there was a growing disposition on the part of both to adopt the name Unionist to the exclusion of the older and narower party term. Most of them were prepared to merge Conservatism, Liberalism and Radicalism into the nobler title of Unionism. This might result in the alliance becoming permanent, and the formation of a party to be called a national one.

Mr Chamberlain said he concurred in the remarks of the Duke of Devonshire. He added that the occasion marked the advance to completeness of their Union. He hoped that both sections would endeavor to make the alliance permanent. The Conservatives had proved that they were not opposed to reasonable reform, and were not reactionary. The Liberal-Unionists looked forward to cooperation with them in useful constructive legislation.

FATHER MEETS SON AFTER 32 YEARS

A Remarkable Story From Buttonville. East York—How John Stiver Found His Long Lost Son.

John G. Stiver of Buttonville, near Markham, has just been reunited to his son after 32 years.

In the sixties Mr. John G. Stiver and family moved back into Nottawasaga. Shortly after their settlement in the new quarters death carried off all the children but one, a son. Not long after this for some unknown reason the husband and wife parted and Mrs. Stiver took charge of the child. Some years after Mr. Stiver learned of his wife's death and with it no news of their child. Stiver spared no effort to locate his lost son, but the attempt was in vain, and he concluded his boy was lost to him.

About a month ago a letter arrived at Buttonville directed to Jacob Stiver, now deceased, signed by Stephen Joseph Stiver, Port Arthur. It stated that the writer had been searching for his relations for 20 years. The letter was shown to Mr. John G. Stiver, who took the correspondence in hand, reviving his almost departed hopes of finding the long-lost boy. The correspondence established the identity of the Port Arthur writer as Mr. Stiver's son, and after a separation of 32 years father and son were united.

On the death of his mother the lad was taken in charge by a Church of England clergyman who placed him in the children's home, Toronto, and after being there a short time he was taken out by a widow lady who educated him and brought him up. At present he holds a position in the Dominion Express office, Port Arthur, and is now visiting his father, as before mentioned, Mr. John G. Stiver, Buttonville. The meeting of the father and long-lost son can better be imagined than described.

MAY APPOINT A COMMISSION

TO INQUIRE INTO THE CONDITION OF MANITOBA SCHOOLS.

Archbishop Langevin's Opinion of Greenway's Decision—D'Alton McCarthy on the Point Whether Parliament Can Exempt Manitoba Catholics From Public School Taxation.

Ottawa, June 14.—Not many members of the House venture to express themselves publicly in regard to the Manitoba school question, although there seems to be no doubt that some hard thinking has been done to-day. As was naturally to be expected, the French-Canadian press are a unit in demanding Remedial Legislation this session. It would not, however, be a matter of surprise if the Government, as suggested last evening, appointed a commission to enquire into the condition of the Manitoba schools.

Remedial Legislation Unjustifiable

Mr. D'Alton McCarthy has been hoarding up a number of petitions against interference with the Manitoba school system, and to-day, the first opportunity afforded him since the decision of the Manitoba Government was announced, he presented them to the House. They are supposed to be signed by about 10,000 people.

In the course of conversation to-day, Mr. McCarthy spoke as follows: "The action of the Manitoba Government is exactly on the lines it has pursued all through. I was asked to oppose the question of a remedial order on its merits before the Privy Council, on the ground that the present system worked well.'"

"It is a fact that the Remedial Order was passed without a knowledge of the circumstances which led to the abolition of Separate Schools.'"

"Premier Greenway shows by what he says as to a commission, that there has been no oppression or bigoted action on the part of the Government, and that he was only actuated by motives of consideration for the province's welfare. He thus challenges the fullest investigation."

"Can the Federal Parliament exempt the Roman Catholics from taxation for Public School purposes in Manitoba?"

That is a grave and doubtful question," said Mr. McCarthy, "no Federal action can be effective unless it is supplemented by local legislation. I consider there is no possibility of the Dominion Government subsidizing Catholic schools. The sentiment of the people of Ontario on this issue is more pronounced than on the trade question. I cannot imagine any circumstance which would justify, on the grounds of public policy, any remedial interference with the Manitoba schools."

Mgr. Langevin's Sorrow and Sarcasm.

Montreal, June 14.—The following despatch was received to-day from the Archbishop of St. Boniface: I am sorry for the local Government's bad will. Rather strange that after five years of public discussion their memorial should blandly charge the Ottawa Government with ignorance, and claim for themselves the monopoly of knowledge. I trust the Government and Parliament of Canada will sustain the judgment of the Privy Council of England and stand by the constitution of the country. (Signed) Archbishop Langevin.

Winnipeg, June 14, 1895.

Greenway's Decision Popular.

From The Winnipeg Free Press.

The Winnipeg Free Press says concerning the Manitoba Government's reply to the Remedial Order: "We believe the reply will meet with the approval of the people of this province, and of thinking men throughout the Dominion. With sufficient delicacy, but plainly enough, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his colleagues are told they do not understand the condition of public education in Manitoba, with the necessary inference that they would not have issued the order had they been more fully informed, and that if they desire knowledge the Provincial Government will give all the assistance in its power towards enlightening them. The answer is dignified, logical and convincing, and in effect shows that, while the present Legislature of Manitoba is in no wise obstinate, but willing to prove its assertions and support its position, any change that may be found possible can only be made after the disappearance of the existing Remedial Order, and in response to a more reasonable and friendly proposal."

Cannot Coerce Manitoba.

Hamilton Spectator.

It is quite clear that Manitoba means to defend her school laws from attack and interference, and it now remains to be seen whether Quebec can force the Dominion Government into further blunder. The Remedial Order was a grave mistake; to attempt to enforce that order would be suicidal. Manitoba cannot be coerced, and it is better to acknowledge that fact now than after futile attempts at coercion.
