News Summary.

DOMINION.

—There was an explosion at the Vale Colliery on the 10th which resulted in the loss of 13 lives, and the injury of 7 others. The mine has a vertical depth of 1700 feet and a slope of 2400. The explosion was of fire damp. Had it taken place an hour sooner, when the 100 men comprising the day gangs were at work, the loss of life must have been terrible. as 13 of the 20 in the mine at the time of the explosion, were killed. The bodies have been recovered. Pictou County has had several disasters of this kind. In 1875 there were 65 lives lost in the Drummond and 64 in the Albion in 1880. By the present disaster, nine are left widows, and twenty-nine children are bereaved of fathers. They are all in destitute circumstances, and sorrow and lamentation prevail. May help be given to those who need it so much.

I., at 8 o'clock a. m. yesterday morning and landed at Cape Bear, north of Cape Tormentine, at 8 p. m. They report the water stretches very rough and to keep their boat from swamping had to throw part of the baggage overboard. The old veteran, Capt. Lewis Muttart, aged 70, is again in command of a boat. He had retired from active service, but had to resume work owing to the difficulty in getting suitable men. It is noteworthy that Captains Muttart and Irving, the elder, in over twenty years' command of ice-boats, never met a serious accident.

Those who venture out must either crawl or wade through deep snow, without seeing where they are going, sometimes being blown out of their course, and often freezing their fingers or some part of the face.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

—There is little doubt that the heroic Gordon is dead. The report is that he went forth to see the meaning of a commotion in the streets, and was stabbed in the back, and fell dead. The cause of the commotion was that the Mahdi's troops had gained entrance into the city by treachery. After Gordon's fall a most terrible butchery began. The garrison of 2000 who had remained faithful, were hacked and maimed and mutilated, tongues were torn out, eyes thrust out with spear points, and all kinds of nameless horrors, to women as well as soldiers, perpetrated. There is some small hope the report of his death lacks official confirmation, but the hope is very small, indeed.

Gen. Earl, while leading his men in an assault upon some entrenched heights near Berli, was killed. The heights were carried by the British troops, who had to climb up the steeps on their hands and knees, in the face of a point blank fire from the enemy. British pluck and daring are as steady and brilliant as ever. There is nothing yet to injure the prestige of our soldiers. Khetoum has fallen, indeed, but it was not garrisoned by our forces. Wherever British soldiers have met the Arabs they have scattered them, though outnumbered ten to one. This is small encouragement to those who stand ready to rise against the rule of England.

Stewart's forces are entrenched at Gubat, near Metumneh.

The British government is thoroughly aroused. Three thousand troops are called from India, 10,000 are being hurried on from England and the Mediterranean. These will unite at Saukim, on the Red Sea, and proceed inland 130 miles by a railway which is being constructed, and then march across the desert to the Nile, to co-operate with Wolseley in his attack on the Mahdi and Khartoum.

Italy is sending more troops to Egypt. The latest news is confirmatory to the fall of Khartum and the death of Gordon. The Times, however, thinks that had the city been in the hands of Mahdi when Col. Wilson approached it, he would have been permitted to land and then his forces cut to pieces. There is also a reaction in English public sentiment against pursuing the war in the Soudan, at the present time, when European complications are so serious.

—The French general in Tonquin reports another great victory. His army has killed two Chinese, and wounded several more, and is still advancing. Hope Paris may keep its equilibrium over the joyful news.

—The 300,000 in Paris, and the 1,000,000 in the provinces who are out of employment, need something to divert them from their own need, or discontent may lead to outbreak soon. There is word of riots already.

UNITED STATES.

—It is estimated there are 40,000 persons in New York dependent upon gambling for a living.

The New Orleans Exposition is a financial failure; the attendence is small and exhibitors are utterly disgusted with its general mismanagement. Success cannot be expected to attend public enterprises where God is officially dishonored as is the case in keeping the exhibition open on Sundays.

At Mount Hanly, Feb. 2nd, Edward Brown, aged 74 years. The deceased left a widow, three daughters, and a large circle of relatives to mourn their loss. May the Lord comfort the bereaved family.

Mrs. Mary Hawkesworth, widow of the late A. E. Hawkesworth, died at the residence of her son-in-law, John S. Thomas, of South's Cove, on the 20th of Jan. Mrs. Hawkesworth was the eldest daughter of the late Caleb Slocomb, of Wilmot. She died at the advanced age of 89 years. She never made a public profession of religion, yet she was a constant attendant on the means of grace, until impaired health rendered it impossible for her to do so. She was a Baptist in sentiment, and supported the cause of Christ to the extent of her ability. She bore her last illness with great patience and Christian resignation. She leaves two daughters, and five grand-children. [The Lunenburg Progress and Yarmouth Herald will please copy.]

At Kingston, N. S., after a long and painful illness, Isabella Morse, aged 75 years, relict of the late Deacon Sydney Welton, mother of Revs. D. D. M. Sydney, and Burpee Welton, and of seven other sons and daughters, all filling places of influence. Our deceased sister was one of the few remaining links that still bind together the past and the present. Born in Nictaux, at marriage she removed to Aylesford, at that time a wilderness and in spiritual darkness. Her husband was one who feared God from his youth, whose voice was heard at the family altar and whose home was always open for religious service. At a prayer meeting in his own house "burst forth" that marvelous revival, the triumphs of which some few aged disciples still love to tell. Our sister fell in some measure its power, although a few years elapsed before she publicly consecrated herself to God. From that time her life was a benediction. In the community she was unusually beloved, her piety unquestioned, in the family her influence was mild but firm. The earnest cry of her soul was that all the family might be saved. "Her children rise up and call her blessed." In calm confidence she rested on the merits of her Saviour, at times longing intensely for the hour of deliverance. Worn down by intense suffering she passed away without a groan or sigh into the realms of the blessed. At her request a sermon was preached from Rev. 14: 13, and no more appropriate epitaph could be carved over her grave. F. BEATTIE.
