TRADING MARKET DUE FOR SOME TIME YET

Foreign News and Domestic Economic Situation in United States Hold Down Prices.

(McDOUGALL & COWANS.)

New York, July 19.—A trading market with cross-currents is expected. There is evidence of quiet buying of Eastern rails and low priced reorganized properties during recessions. Price fixing, shipbuilding and food law delays, German chancellor's expected peace talk today, with Russian developments are again brought forward by bearish professionals. Higher prices are predicted for Tobacco specialties.

The Sun says:—"In no weak spot is the selling considered particularly good, while in the few shares recording price advances, the improvement was due chiefly to covering of the shorts, although in United Cigar Stores and Tobacco Products modest accumulation appears to be under way."

Fish Market.

Shad is very scarce and what little remains is selling for 35c. to 45c. each. Salmon is priced at 20c. to 30c. a pound; smelts, 15c. a pound; haddock, 13c. to 14c. a pound; finnan haddie, 15c. a pound; halibut, 25c. a pound.

"THIS PAPER A HOME PRODUCT."

"Newspapers so intimately affect their communities and the communities so re-act upon their newspapers that it is usually possible to guage the quality and spirit of a community by the newspapers which represent it. As a rule the city which is enterprising and awake, resourceful and progressive has one or more newspapers which reflect these qualities in a superlative degree as a part of its equipment; and similarly the city which is slothful, corrupt and re-actionary will be found to number among its possessions a vernal and corrupt newspaper, blind to good movements and cynical of every effort to better things."

FRANK KNOX.

This newspaper is distinctly a home product and a producer of home prosperity. Every advertisement placed in this paper and every subscription is a direct and effectual boost for this city, just as it is when you support any other home product. Having no entangling alliances it is free to support and does support this city to the full limit of its powers. What it gathers up through the channels of circulation and advertising it re-distributes in the community that gives it support, and that in turn it supports in single-hearted loyalty and devotion. Read the advertisement in today's paper for the best values on home products.
