THE WATER QUESTION

Real Estaters to Discuss Means of Overcoming Shortage.

The Real Estate Association will tonight discuss a new scheme for the overcoming of the water shortage in London.

It is understood that it will favor the metering of the city as fast as the surplus from year to year will permit of it.

Also the construction of a river water high pressure plant, with a main from the river to Egerton street, and laterals from this main running to the business district.

It will also be suggested that the London Electric Company, if the street lighting franchise with that concern be renewed, shall be compelled to pump by electricity the water needed for the high pressure plant. By this means the city would avoid the necessity of providing a pumping station.

When his photograph was first displayed in the shop windows of Tokio, Admiral Togo was much troubled. One morning he walked into the office of Maruki, the court photographer, who had taken the admiral's picture. "I am shocked to find," he said, "that people are buying my photographs. It is very wrong that they should spend money on the portrait of such a stupid person. I wish to have the negative, so that you may not print any more copies." Maruki was making a fine harvest from the picture and had no desire to part with it. "Your excellency will have to pay for the negative," he explained. "I know," the admiral replied sadly. "What do you want for it?" Maruki considered a moment, and then named what he thought would be a prohibitive price, 20 yen ($10). "That is a great sum for a poor man like me to pay, but I must have the negative." So he counted out the money and carried off the picture.

Please notice that the old bachelor is wedded to single blessedness.

WINDSORITE TELLS GRANT HE'S RIGHT

London's Assessment Commissioner Was Correct in Size-Up of Wages Assessment Case.

Assessment Commissioner Grant was right when he stated that a mistake was made in the reporting of the Windsor assessment case, in which the decision was handed down that wages are not assessable for income.

Today Mr. Grant received the following letter from Windsor on the subject which explains itself:

Windsor, Nov. 15, 1906.

Stephen Grant, Esq., Assessment Commissioner, London, Ont.

Dear Sir,—The attention of the writer, who is a member of the Windsor court of revision, has been called to an interview with you in yesterday's Advertiser in which you say that the Scot case in Windsor has probably been misreported You are quite correct. The court has all it can do to pass on values as directed under the assessment act without venturing into the realms of legislation.

The matter of Scot was very simple. The assessor had assessed him for $100 income, thinking that his earnings were $1,100. Scot produced his paymaster's certificates to show that his earnings had been less than $1,000. We struck the $100 off the roll.

The question of Scot being a railroad employe never entered in the case. Sincerely yours,

A. J. E. BELLEPERCHE.

TEARS OF RAGE AND HYSTERICS

Wild Scene at a Public Meeting Where Fur Wearers Are Scored.

Chicago, Nov. 16. — Tears and hysterical denials on the part of women delegates, who had heard themselves called "barbarians and murderers," marked the close of the convention of the American Humane Association last night. The women for half an hour had listened patiently while a speaker bitterly denounced the wearing of furs and bird carcasses. Adornment of such character was evident in all parts of the hall. Apparently unable to listen further, two women finally left the convention hall. Another burst into tears, while the husband of a fourth arose to his feet to defend the action of women who wore furs.

It was the addres of J. Howard Moore on "The Cost of a Skin" that caused the stir.

EXPRESS TRAVELING 30 MILES AN HOUR

two were taken to the hospital. They were Mr. and Mrs. Smith. Wilkinson, the brakeman, was a former resident of Woodstock, and instead of going to the hospital he was removed to the home of his mother at 497 Princess street.

Confusion Among Passengers.

For a time, the greatest confusion prevailed among the passengers. Those in the Pullmans were awakened from their peaceful slumbers, the jolting being so severe as to cause not a few of them to tumble out of their berths.

The occupants of the first passenger coach were badly shaken up, and like the others on the train, received a shock to their nervous systems from which they will not fully recover for some time. The car clung to the ties for a short distance after leaving the rails, when the force of the cars following forced the rear end into the ditch. The occupants were thrown into the aisles or over the seats ahead, and altogether received anything but a gentle handling.

The trainmen and passengers from the Pullmans gave their attention to the day coach which was overturned. Fortunately the lights in this car were extinguished, otherwise the coach might have taken fire, with fearful consequences. The windows on the upper side of the car were for the most part broken, and this would have afforded a means of exit in the event of haste being necessary. As there was no danger of the coach taking fire, it was decided to make an opening in the end, and this was done without and difficulty. By this means, men and women were enabled to leave the car in a very short space of time.

Cause of the Accident.

The cause of the accident is a mystery, but either a broken rail or a broken axle is supposed to be responsible. It is believed, however, that an axle on one of the day coaches broke, causing the derailment of the entire train. This theory is supported by the appearance of the ties midway between the rails. For some distance they are torn as if by an axle breaking and being dragged over them.

Auxiliaries from Hamilton and London were summoned, and early this afternoon the roadbed was ready for use again. The big derrick, however, could not make good headway in replacing the cars on the rails, and it is not likely that they will all be removed today.

Superintendent Brownlee and Assistant Superintendent Gillen reached the wreck on one of the auxiliaries, and superintended the work of the men during the day.

The Injured Interviewed.

Of the injured, only three remained in Woodstock. A special train was made up in a short time, and, drawn by the engine from the express, it proceeded to Suspension Bridge, carrying all the passengers except Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and Brakeman Wilkinson. The crew of the express, with the exception of the brakeman, was in charge.

Wilkinson was seen at his home, and he stated that when the train left the rails it was traveling at a good rate of speed, although he would not give an estimate of it in miles. It was over half an hour late, and an effort was being made to make up the lost time in order to avoid a delay to the New York connections at Suspension Bridge.

"I was in the second day coach," said Wilkinson, "and the first intimation I had that something was wrong was a heavy jolting of the car, as if it was running on the ties. Then it toppled over, and I knew nothing more until I was pulled out of the car on to the track. There were possibly 25 people in the car. Across from the seat I occupied were a man and his wife from Buffalo. The lady, I heard, had three ribs broken, but she was able to continue her journey."

Mr. Smith was seen at the general hospital. He was suffering considerably from the injuries to his head, and also from an injury to his back which caused him considerable difficulty in breathing. Mr. and Mrs. Smith occupied a seat in the front end of the car, and they were not only thrown over the seat ahead, but they were drenched with the contents of the water tank. Both were able to walk to a nearby house before being removed to the hospital.

Some Baking Powder Sense

It is utterly impossible for anybody anywhere to make a better baking powder than ours. It is a pure cream of tartar powder, which is precisely what a worthy baking powder must be. There is no manufacturer who puts a powder on the market who can supply as good a one as ours at the price 25 cents per pound. At

45,000 MURDERS IN U. S. IN 5 YEARS

Chicago Judge Declares Inefficient Law Is Responsible for Crime.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—"During the past five years 45,000 persons were murdered in the United States. More persons were murdered last year than died of typhoid fever. This awful total has been due to the way in which the law was administered. And the law itself is bad and inefficient.

"It is burdened with restrictions and technicalities, and in almost every case the criminal has nine chances of escaping to one of being found guilty."

So declared Judge Marcus Kavanagh last night in an address before the alumni of St. Ignatius College, gathered at a banquet at the Great Northern Hotel. He spoke on "Enforcement of the law in large cities," and vigorously assailed the operation of the courts under the jury system.

That the United States is the most criminal country in the world, the jury system most loose and antiquated and the law open to attack were among the assertions made by Judge Kavanagh.

Figures and crime statistics of the great countries of the world were also given and it was shown that, while England and Wales had only 317 murders last year, in the United States 8,760 persons died by the hand of the assassin.

FAILED TO WARN

Head of Observatory at Hong-Kong Should Have Known of Typhoon.

London, Nov. 16.—Sir Matthew Nathan, the $30,000 a year governor of Hong Kong, and the only member of the Hebrew faith among the satraps of England's important colonies, is just at present in very serious trouble owing to the gross mismanagement of the Government observatory at Hong Kong.

As governor Sir Matthew is held responsible for everything that goes wrong among his subordinates, and owing to the neglect of the observatory to issue the customary warning of the approach of the typhoon, the last cyclonic visitation, a couple of months ago, resulted in damage in the port to the extent of some $20,000,000, and in the loss of nearly ten thousand lives.

If the shipping in the port of Hong Kong was taken unawares, it was entirely due to the insulting behavior of the director of the observatory of Hong Kong to those in charge of the observatory at Manila, who, from motives of courtesy and humanity had alway furnished telegraphic warnings to Hong Kong, until informed by the director there that their observations were unreliable and useless.

The observatory at Manila knew, two full days in advance of the cyclonic peril threatening Hong Kong, and, since intercourse with the observatory at Hong Kong had been interrupted, cabled the warning to the American consul there. Unfortunately, the latter seems to have been absent from his post, and owing to this the message did not receive the proper publicity.

There is a question as to whether the owners of the shipping which has been destroyed in the port of Hong Kang have not a cause for action for damages against the governor for the failure of the Hong Kong observatory to issue a warning, which had been received and posted at Shanghai, Amoy, Manila, and in most of the Chinese ports, 36 and even 48 hours before.

A singular maple tree on the left bank of the Oder, in Germany, is at least a century old, and has been twisted and cut into a kind of circular house of two stories. A firm, leafy floor has been formed by causing the branches to become gradually woven together. Above this is a smaller second floor, similarly formed, and the ends of the branches have been woven into solid walls, in which eight windows on each story have been cut out.

The temple elephant in Southern India is the object of great respect, for physical contact with him is supposed to do more good to the human body than the best medicine. Adult men and women warily feel his legs with their finger tips and press them fervently to their eyes, and ailing children are, for a small consideration, carried on his back the distance of a few strides that they may be cured

Unusual Overcoat Styles and Values

The "unusualness" of Young Overcoat styles speaks for itself. It's prominent. It shows the minute you put a garment on. There's a smartness, a perfectness of fit, a "made-specially-for-you" look to it that needs no pointing out by smooth salesmen. It makes overcoat sales here easier than they're made in any other store in town. We've made the values extra, too. Enough better than the best you can find elsewhere to impress you forcibly and quickly, and to prove conclusively the supremacy of the "Young" system of buying in the open market.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stockbroker, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, Nov. 16.—Noon.—Although the market is somewhat irregular, it is on the whole strong, and there is evidence of buying by important interests. One house which in years gone by had done an enormous commission business and which retains many of its old clientle, was a conspecious buyer of railroads stocks and more especially of Reading. Liquidation had been quite heavy and in Union Pacific and St. Paul these stocks have been well taken on every decline and quickly recovered any loss. Indications point to a good bank statement tomorrow, as money is decidedly easier and offerings much more plentiful. Conditions abroad seem to be shaping themselves satisfactorily and it is reported that the Bank of France is showing a willingness to release gold. The room is full of the usual rumors, reference to which has been made so often in these letters. The strength in Copper was looked upon as an encouraging feature, owing to the fact that the company is controlled by Standard Oil interests. Sales to noon, 655,900.
