Toronto Baseball Club.

The affairs of the Toronto Baseball Club are now practically in the hands of the bondholders, who will shortly foreclose, taking over the equity in the concern and leaving the common shareholders a net loss of 99 on the $. Thus, instead of a club with consist of 15 or 20 capitalists and patrons here hope for better results in 1905, than under last season's rule.

CLEVER AMATEUR CHAMPION.

Sam Berger Put on Gloves Yesterday at Argonaut Club.

Sam Berger, the world's amateur champion heavyweight boxer, who has been spending his vacation in Toronto, leaves for his home in San Francisco on Sunday. That he is clever there can be no doubt, and Oliver Brown's opinion, as sent to Toronto from St. Louis, must have been biased. Mr. Berger yesterday engaged in a friendly bout at the Argonaut Club with Joseph Wright, the ex-Canadian champion, of the Olympic champion Mr. Wright says: "He is shifty, clever with both hands and, in my opinion, would smother any of the Toronto boxers." Berger is a man over 6 feet tall, and in condition would scale about 190 lbs. He is swarthy complexioned, good-looking, of pleasant address and the he has had tempting offers to leave the amateur ranks will never join the scrap been of regulars.

Prof. De Witt Van Court, instructor of the Olympic Athletic Club, San Francisco, accompanied Berger to St. Louis, and to him the champion attributes his success. Berger was born in Chicago and spent his boyhood in Toronto, and he is proud to call this his home. He would remain for the November tournament only his vacation time is already spent, and he hopes on a future trip to make it convenient to box at one of the Toronto amateur tournaments.

Berger's compliment to Joe Wright is that the Toronto amateur is one of the many very clever men it has been his privilege to box, and that he is the youngest man at the years he has ever met.

The London line-up for the game with the Victorias will be: Full-back, Livingstone; halves, Fields, Labatt, Peel or Jacobs; quarter, McMahon; centre, Edy; wings, Girven, Bice, Brown, Crawford, McCallum, Ryan or Ingram; substitute, Kennedy.
