to a maiden living in one of the villages, the existence of which depended on the strength of these dykes. And there was to be a great feast in one of the villages that approaching evening in honor of the coming bridegroom. That day a great storm threatened the destruction of the dykes, and hence the destruction of thousands of lives in the villages sheltered by that stone wall. The ocean was in full wrath, beating against the dykes, and the tides and the terror were still rising. "Shall I go to the feast," says the engineer, "or shall I go and help my workmen take care of the dykes?" "Take care of the dykes," he said to himself, "I must and will." As he appeared on the wall the men working there were exhausted and shouted, "Here comes the engineer. Thank God! thank God!" The wall was giving way, stone by stone, and the engineer had a rope fastened around his body, and some of the workmen had ropes fastened around their bodies, and were let down amid the wild surges that beat the wall. Everything was giving way. "More stones!" cried the men, "More mortar!" But the answer came, "There is no more!" "Then," cried the engineer, "take off your clothes and with them stop the holes in the wall." And so, in the chill and darkness and surf it was done, and with the workmen's apparel the openings in the wall were partially filled. But still the tide rose and still the ocean reared itself for more awful stroke and for the overwhelming of thousands of lives in the villages. "Now we have done all we can," said the engineer, "down on your knees, my men, and pray to God for help." And on the trembling and parting dykes they prayed till the wind changed and the sea subsided, and the villagers below, which knowing nothing of the peril, were full of romp and dance and hilarity, were gloriously saved.

Now what we want in this work of walling back the oceans of and sin is the help of more womanly and manly hands. Oh how the tides come in! Atlantic surge of sorrow after Atlantic surge of sorrow, and the tempests of human hate and Satanic fury are in full cry. O, woman of many troubles, what are all the feasts of worldly delight, if they were offered you, compared with the opportunity of helping build and support barriers which sometimes seem giving way through man's treachery and the world's assault? O woman to the dykes! Bring prayers, bring tears, bring cheering words! Help! Help! And having done all, kneel with us on the quaking wall until the God of the wind and the sea shall hush the one and silence the other. To the dykes! Sisters, mothers, wives, daughters of America, to the dykes! The mightiest catholicon for all the wounds and wrongs of woman or man is complete absorption in the work to rescue others. Save some man, some woman, some child.

In that effort you will forget or be helped to bear your own trials, and in a little while God will take you up out of your disturbed and harrowing conjugal relation of earth into a Heaven all the happier because of preceding distress. When Queen Elizabeth of England was expiring it was arranged that the exact moment of her death should be signalled to the people by the dropping of a sapphire ring from the window into the hand of an officer, who carried it at the top of his speed to King James of Scotland. But your departure from the scene of your earthly woes, if you are ready to go, will not be the dropping of a sapphire to the ground but the setting of a jewel in the King's coronet. Blessed be His glorious name forever.

QUEEN'S SECOND OUTRAGE.

Mr. King was in town yesterday and we had the pleasure of an interview with him. The apparently adverse vote in Queens has had no depressing effect upon him, but rather the contrary. To-day Mr. King would rather stand as the defeated candidate than to have secured his election by the means resorted to by his opponent. The Dunn outrage of the former election becomes honorable by its boldness when compared with the unparalleled meanness of the tricks resorted to on the present occasion. Mr. King is sure that the ballots cast were marked by the electors to give him a majority of at least 150 in the county, but by some manipulation other ballots found their way into the ballot box, and this he is ready to prove so soon at the proper time arrives. If this be so, and, as will appear hereafter, there was opportunity at least by which it might be so, all persons concerned have been guilty of as foul and sneaking a crime as could well be conceived, and we trust they will not be allowed to go unpunished. Decency, as well as public interests, demand that such miscreants should be dragged before the bar of public opinion, as well as the courts, to receive condign punishment and be ear marked as public pests.

It appears that in some of the parishes, the polling officers folded up the ballots and delivered them so folded to the electors with injunctions that they should be returned folded in precisely the same way after being marked by the elector, and then the officer in tearing off the identifying counterfoil would hold the ballot under the table entirely out of sight of the elector so that no elector could, or did, know that his ballot was put into the box, nor but that under the table a substitution of another ballot may have been made. This is called the latest wrinkle, and so well up to it did some of the parties appear that we opine it must have been promulgated from the San Hedram of the tories, and perhaps was the very dodge by which the last general elections were carried in Canada. It is so innocent, and all the while the actors may be so exquisitely polite and gentlemanly to their opposing friends in the polling booth. Of course the co-operation and assistance of one or two election officers, and access to a spare ballot or two are necessary to play the game successfully, but we have learned in modern times such things are sometimes within reach.

In three of the parishes, apparently giving Baird a majority, so shocked is the community that it should appear to have so voted, that the electors to a greater number than the vote counted for Mr. King have voluntarily come forward and stated they voted for Mr. King, and they are unanimous in declaring that their community has been outraged and misrepresented.

It is a remarkable feature of the election that in one or two instances the same officers who held surprising polls in 1887 have again held surprising polls, but not at the same places, and the surprising polls of last year have this year assumed their normal condition and given Mr. King a good vote. The Baird party have become aware that their tricks are known and prefer now to have it believed that they bought the electorate. Indeed Mr. Baird at declaration day made a distinct effort to create the impression that money had done it. He accounted for his unexpectedly large vote in Mr. King's stronghold by saying that he had "concentrated the boodle there" and on being asked how he accounted for his falling off at Wickham, answered, that all he had to do would be to put back the boodle there and the vote for him would be restored.

We hope there will be a full investigation.

THE COUNTY FINANCES.

Wise and prudent administration on the part of our Municipal Council for the past five years has placed the county's finances in a most satisfactory state. At the present moment the county's outstanding indebtedness is only $14,000 in debentures at six per cent., and $2,300 temporary loan at five per cent. During this year only $400 of debentures fall due. As against this there was, on the 29th inst., to the credit of the county in the People's Bank, $2,000 in cash; add to this $5,000 of the assessment of 1887 uncollected, and about $2,000 to come in from delinquents of other years. About $1,100 is due the county by the city on administration of justice account. York county people will be pleased to learn of this satisfactory state of affairs. The highly satisfactory condition in which the books and records of the county are kept by Secretary-Treasurer Wilson is also a matter for congratulation.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Toronto's Empire hastes to swift decay.

To the Farmer:—Toot your little horn at the Capital; we don't propose to advertise you.

Sir John is attending evangelistic meetings in Ottawa. "While the lamp holds on to burn," etc.

Mr. Edmund Gosse, Professor of English Literature in the University of Cambridge, whose knowledge of the poetry of the eighteenth century is unrivalled, says that there are three books which every young man should read, Shakespeare, Boswell's Life of Johnson, and Macaulay's Essays. Ruskin very properly adds a fourth, the Bible.

The Telegraph, writhing under a series of defeats, and loss of prestige, applies to THE GLEANER epithets peculiarly applicable to itself. We hope, nevertheless, that our valued contemporary will be able to come out of the terrible ordeal through which it is passing solitary and alone, with enough vitality left to enable it still to linger on.

What Am I to Do?

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily but too much known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhœa or Constipation may be symptoms or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect acure try Green's August Flower, it cost but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

HARVEY STATION.

Rough Winter Weather—Not the Land of the Heathen—Personal and General Notes.

HARVEY STATION, January 24th—The storm is over, and thanks to a large host of shovellers, the roads are once again passable, although dangerous for night travel. The storm began here on Tuesday morning and continued for 24 hours, during which time about ten inches of snow fell. Then the wind raised and blew 'great guns' until last night. No teams were out on Saturday. It was very cold, but no disaster of any moment occurred. Drifts average about five feet.

Miss Maud Glendinning, one of our deserving and most popular young ladies, has gone to Marysville to teach music. Miss Glendinning besides having a natural gift for this pleasing art has had the benefit of a severe training under the most skilled musicians. I would recommend her to any requiring her services.

The Printer's devil has caused me to run several times during the past week. It was either run or fight, and as I preferred the former I have lost no blood and have as yet got no broken bones. Behold the cause! Among my items was one stating that a young man had gone to the land of the "heather" but it come out in print land of the "heathen". Just think of it. Calling Scotland the land of the "heathen". It was supposed to be an insult offered to the "haggis" but verily I was innocent. It meant heather land of cakes, Auld Scotis, Auld Clishma Claver.

The general feeling in this parish is that the country could do very well without an inspector under the Scott Act. Now that the council have got an inspector to watch the liquor business the next move is to get a man to look after the inspector. Another case of the "gauger" and white cloths on the hedge.

Mr. Smith who seems to have outdone Dunn in the Queens county matter is well known here.

Well. Davis, Esq., crown land officer, was down a few days since looking after trespassers. He got none.
