New York Pastor in St. John's.

Pastor A. H. MacMillan, of New York City, one of the travelling lecturers of the International Bible Students Association of London and New York, who has just finished a tour of the Maritime Provinces, is to spend some time in Newfoundland. He will deliver two lectures in the British hall next Sunday Sept. 7th. The afternoon lecture which will begin at 3 o'clock, will be on the subject "How Shall the Heathen be Saved?" This subject will no doubt prove a very attractive one. Mr. MacMillan says that he will satisfy all of the salvation people. Mr. MacMillan says that he will satisfy all reasonable minds on the question.

The evening lecture will begin at 8 o'clock, at which time he will take up the topic "Where Are The Dead?" This subject readily appeals to every mind. Mr. MacMillan says that he will show from the Bible "Where The Dead Are." Also what relationship this life bears to that to come, and where our friends have gone, and our meeting with them in the world to come.

A cordial invitation is extended to all. Come and bring your friends.

QUEBEC, To-day.

SHERBROOKE, To-day.

Harry K. Thaw was not railroaded across the border by Immigration authorities yesterday, as Counsel had predicted. The special Board of Inquiry sat on his case from 10 a.m. until 5.30 in the afternoon when it adjourned until this morning. Thaw was on the stand the most of the day and made a good witness. His lawyers were denied a writ of prohibition by the Superior Judge Hutchinson, at Sherbrooke and failed to establish before the Board the contention that he had entered Canada as a tourist and like Jack Johnson should be allowed to continue to his destination. He could produce no ticket to any point outside Canada. There was in his possession a ticket to Detroit, but unfortunately for Thaw it had been purchased at Coaticook.

WASHINGTON, To-day.

The democratic leaders in the Senate will begin a supreme effort to put the Tariff Bill through before the adjournment on Saturday night. Eleven European nations have filed formal protests against a provision in the Bill granting five per cent reduction of duty on merchandise imported into this country in American vessels. The list includes Britain, Germany, France, Italy, Austria, Spain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Belgium and the Netherlands. President Wilson sent the list to the Senate in answer to a resolution asking for information on the subject. Most of the protests were filed several months ago with the State Department and sent to the Senate Finance Committee, but not made public. The nations protesting allege that five per cent. reduction violates existing treaties. John B. Moore, Counsellor of the State Department, in a letter to the President which accompanies the message, interpreted the treaties in question to mean that neither contracting party shall charge lower rate duty on merchandise imported in vessels of other contracting parties. Secretary Bryan, in another letter said that beyond the filing of formal protests the nations interested had not pursued their contentions. France however, announced that if provision was adopted she would adopt one, and like action is expected from others.

Sundays Annual Collection.

For Belvidere Orphans.

The annual collection for the orphans at Belvidere will be taken up at the Cathedral, St. Patrick's and St. Joseph's on Sunday next, 7th inst. Every one must admit that the caring for the orphans is a work which needs a large sum of money in order to carry it on successfully, and that the larger the number of orphans to be provided for the larger the collection must necessarily be. Year after year the collection has grown but at the same time it must be remembered that the number of little ones to be provided for has also increased. To-day we understand one hundred and fifty orphans are at Belvidere, and the amount of labour that such an undertaking entails can be estimated only by those of us who pay an occasional visit to the Orphans' Home. Let us all, then, do our very best to swell this collection on Sunday, let us all put forward our best effort and show the good Sisters who devote their lives to this noble cause, that we fully appreciate the good work which they are doing in educating, clothing and feeding the little orphan girls at Belvidere.

The Public Expects

THE AUDITOR GENERAL TO DO HIS DUTY.

We have pointed out the necessity for increased vigilance on the part of the Auditor General in order to prevent those improper and unlawful means employed under the present Morris-Morison Combine in 1911 to create a fictitious surplus by withholding accounts from one year to another also to protect the public from the Government's abuse of power by secretly voting money for purposes not provided for by Legislature last Session. The people have enough to bear in the way of taxation. Payments now made for salaries, pensions or services not voted for by the House of Assembly are illegal. It is a matter of common knowledge that officials in the Civil Service have obtained considerable increases in their salaries by threatening the Premier or other members of the Government to expose before the public certain transactions in the Departments to which they are attached if they did not obtain the increase demanded. The increase was granted and the information withheld from the public. This is a most disgraceful condition of affairs. If the information was upon matters honestly coming within the scope of the Department and the Government acted in the public interests only both self respect and public duty should have dictated one and only one course in relation to those officials. To submit to the threat and grant the demand could only have been dictated by one motive, namely, fear lest the public be informed of transactions wrong in themselves and disgraceful alike to the Department and to the Government. It means that such officials are bribed by the public money to withhold from the public information to which the public is honestly entitled. If the Premier and other Ministers submit to such dictation by a subordinate official and pay him money from the public treasury to hold his tongue, it shows that wrong has already been done and the Government is prepared to add still another wrong to shield themselves from the wrath of the people which their conduct deserves. But wrong-doing will out and the electorate know that they are not being dealt with fairly. It is reasonable under these circumstances that they should call for special vigilance on the part of the Auditor General and the Governor in order to protect the public money from abuses of this kind. It will be remembered that Morris stated that he would "tear up the Audit Act" if it suited his purposes. It is the duty of the Governor and the Auditor General to see that he observes the law passed years ago to protect the public from such improper and corrupt use of its moneys as those above referred to. Neither of these gentlemen should be under any obligation to the Executive Government. It is a matter for regret that the Auditor General should have accepted an office of emolument from the Government by filling the vacancy in the Savings Bank to suit the political tactics of the Morris Combine. He is, however, the Auditor General whose duties are due to the Legislature and the public expects that he will do his duty fairly and impartially.

Corruption Must Go!

People Want a Clean Civil Service.

Its amusing to listen to the Tories who hold up their hands in horror at the alliance between Sir Robert Bond and Mr. Coaker. One would imagine that the men who swallowed the Morris-Morison Combine and who continue to support it, while the corruption of Morison's actions respecting the timber law is still fresh in their memories, would hail with delight a combination of Bond and Coaker, which can only result in the good of the masses. But it must be remembered those who appeared shocked at the Bond Coaker alliance are those hypocrites who are in the receipt of large sums of money from the Government and live in the expectation of plums from the People's Party. Because the United Opposition will send all these leeches, who have been bleeding the country white, to root for themselves, they are working overtime to keep the present gang of boodlers and incapables in office.

The corruption which began in high places is spreading through the civil service. Observe the condition of the Post Office. To-day the News announces another arrest of a postal official charged with stealing $50. A few days ago a young girl was sentenced to a year for the larceny of $850. Yet another official, a postmistress also is under remand charged with the larceny of another large sum. Two of the above have not been up for trial yet, but it will be noted that the amounts are not small. How can anything but gross irregularities be expected in the civil service when irregularities are furnished by members of the Executive, by those who should enforce the law, but whose memories, alas, are so peculiar.

There is one thing that the bitterest opponents of Sir Robert Bond, even the man who has just been accused by the Tory Plaindealer standing for all that is basest, meanest and lowest in public life of the country, have not dared to charge him with and that is personal corruption. Throughout the length and breadth of the land he is known as honest and incorruptible. The people can rely on him, can place their trust in him without fear that he will sell them out to Reids or some other capitalists, it is well known, have no effect on Sir Robert Bond. He stands for right and will do his duty fearlessly. Mr. Robinson is on record that Sir Edward Morris has always been susceptible to the blandishments of capitalists. No corporation need fear more than a just enforcement of the law under Sr Robert Bond, but none will be allowed special favours and none will be permitted to filch the colony of thousands of dollars in duties and all, especially the colossal Reid monopoly will be kept to the strict lines of its obligations to the colony.

Morris M

That is What

More Nuts for Patsy.

Morris is wearing old second-hand clothes again.

He is making fun of the poor people who are showing their contempt. It's quite time they saw through him.

Morris would give $100 for an outfit to go to one of Reids' dinner parties. But a second-hand $7 suit is good enough to look for votes in. He'll burn it after the election.

Morris ate the seed potatoes instead of setting them. He'd eat a dogfish now to get a vote.

Patsy was burnt on the pond. He came to life again, as a sewer rat emerging from a drain.

He developed low instincts before when he said "E. P. Morris was reared on Poor House Scraps." Afterwards he said: "If you give Morris a flag and a Jar of Rum, he'd raise a riot in St. John's."

Morris's mouth may have been built to swallow anything. But if he can swallow Patsy McGrath, "the lowest and basest in public life," then he is not wanted. Because if he gets the chance he'll swallow the country and its people, or may help Canada to do it.

Judas got the thirty pieces! Patsy played the Judas for twenty-five pieces! Morris acted the Simon-pure and didn't take a salary; but he took ten thousand pieces on one job alone!

Morris knew what he was about when he said he would take no salary. Why did he mention it, if it was not to let the people think he would work for nothing? Why does he go about in old clothes? Morris got his fill, but he didn't charge it in as salary!

For ways that are dark, and tricks that are vain,
The heathen Chinee is peculiar!
And the Sewer Rat thrives in a filthy drain,
Like the lowest and basest reviler!

Mr. "East End," in the Advocate said: "Morris played the Judas on more than one occasion."

When Morris gave Reids the contract to build Railways, he talked millions, and was well dressed. But he thinks old clothes are best to get votes with.

Look at me! says he, with a grin,
I got the pants from Yankee Flynn;
The cap once covered a load of sin,
I got that from Patsy the Ratter!

No oil yet has been found to drive away sewer-rats. But the votes of the people can turn out the men who harbour sewer-rats.

P. T. McGrath has never been known to wash his mouth clean once. Why should he? Rats never do!

A "Catholic Layman" in yesterday's Telegram gave McGrath a crushing reply on Godless Schools. He says, "one of the causes of Morris's defeat will be McGrath's brazen attempt to 'rod' the Catholics on the school question." McGrath's brazen insolence is only equalled by his vitriolic depravity.

Morris is a Simon-Pure! Laugh at it while you can! When he is taking no salary, he is diving into the Flesh Pots of Egypt whilst you are asleep.
