U.S. MUST ISSUE MORE BONDS

THE GOLD RESERVE WITHIN $7,000,000 OF THE MINIMUM RECORD.

The Situation at Washington Coming to a Focus—A Bond Issue Expected at Once—The Civil Appropriation Bill Passed Forbidding Banks Holding Gold Certificates in Their Reserves.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Congress is face to face with the imminent danger that the Government may be forced to suspend gold payments or to make another issue of 5 per cent. bonds under the old resumption law.

As between the two alternatives there is no question which one the President will choose. He will direct Secretary Carlyle to negotiate the sale of another issue of 5 per cent. bonds, but the secretary will not be able to place them at anything like the advantageous terms at which the last issue was sold.

The tardiness of Congress in dealing with the problem of strengthening the Treasury, and the doubt whether it is possible to get a measure of any kind through, when taken in connection with what the bankers who bought the last bonds term the breach of faith on the part of Secretary Carlisle, have affected the credit of the Government to such an extent that there has been a decided depreciation in the market price of the last issue, and it is certain that a future issue will have to be sold at a much lower premium. There is even some doubt as to whether the Secretary can negotiate a 5 per cent. coin loan at any figure above par as long as there is the constant threat in Congress of the passage of a free silver coinage measure.

A BOND ISSUE IMPERATIVE.

Cleveland May Act Without Waiting for Authority From Congress.

New York, Jan. 25.—The extraordinary withdrawals of gold from the sub-Treasury were the chief topic of discussion in financial circles to-day, and even at the Stock Exchange the professionals, who have had a monopoly of the dealings, were inclined to go slow. The withdrawals of the metal to-day amounted to $4,750,000 coin and $1,000,000 bars, making the grand total for the week thus far $12,030,000. Of this $7,200,000 will be forwarded to Europe to-morrow. In view of this tremendous loss of the metal, the general impression to-day was that the administration will wait no longer for Congress, but will act at once. Some had it that a new issue of bonds would be made on Monday, and it was this that kept the market firm throughout the day.

Coming to a Focus.

This is the largest export withdrawal in a single week since the treasury reserve was founded. The export movement, however, is by no means unparalleled. The aggregate shipments of the four weeks are approximately $20,000,000. In May of last year $22,000,000 gold went out in the four weeks, a similar amount in June. In April of 1893, the exports of four weeks were $18,000,000 and in one week $7,900,000 was sent out, which is larger than the actual Saturday's shipment, for nearly $4,000,000 of the coin withdrawn this week will not at once be shipped. It is the circumstances under which this month's rapid drain of gold is progressing rather than the mere fact of heavy shipments which excites uneasiness. Still it is plain, despite tactics of indifference and obstruction, that the situation at Washington is coming to a focus. The federal gold reserve is down to $59,000,000, a smaller total than that at which either of last year's bond issue circulars was put forth and less than $7,000,000 above the minimum on record. This fact perhaps gave rise to stories current that the bankers and the administration were again in conclave. A further decline of 1-4 point in the 5 per cents., making a point full of 6-4 since the opening of the year, was no doubt attributable to the same idea. The scramble for sterling exchange and the high bids for demand bills at the market's close were plainly attributable to the doubt overhanging the situation. It was probably the expectation of some bond issue announcement which held the market so singularly firm. The president's positive assurance that bonds will be issued whenever the emergency requires has served to encourage holders of stocks and to prevent demoralization in financial circles.

RESERVE WILL MEET IN 3 WEEKS.

An Immediate Bond Issue the Only Remedy.

It is generally conceded that the gold movement can now only be stopped by a large enough issue of bonds to cause a higher money market. A permanent 2 1-2 per cent. money market would stop the gold exports, as the foreign bankers would quickly take advantage to make sterling loans, and the overflow of money would be immediately checked. Despite rumors of bonded issues, bankers who are usually well-informed say that they have received no information directly or indirectly of any impending call for bond subscriptions. One authority, however, believes that the administration cannot afford to wait any longer for action on the part of Congress and will issue a bond call next week.

There was also some belief that the Secretary of the Treasury might choose to issue 4 per cent. bonds, as the premium would be less than in the case of the 5 per cent.

Silver as a Currency Basis.

The rapid depletion of the gold reserve has excited alarm abroad and foreigners have been pouring securities into this country during the last six weeks, selling many high-class railway bonds, payable in currency, which were tenaciously held during the panic. For the first time since the panic there was developed this week a weak tendency in gilt-edged securities. It is believed that unless the situation changes very radically the whole treasury reserve will melt away in about three weeks unless there is a bond issue in the meantime. Houses with foreign connections say that the foreigners are exceedingly puzzled by the inaction of Congress. They fear that there is something radically wrong in the financial system of the United States, or that the sentiment of the people really favors a silver currency basis, and consequently they are liquidating their holdings of American securities. Some of the foreign houses have advised their correspondents that a silver currency basis appears to be inevitable.

Gold Shipments Will Increase.

Gold shipment houses say that more gold will be shipped next week than was taken this week. A member of the firm of Heidelbach, Ykelheimer & Co, a leading gold shipping house, said this gold export movement, from present indications, will go on each week with increasing magnitude.

The Civil Appropriation Bill Passed.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The sundry civil appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1896, was finally disposed of by the House to-day. The total amount carried by the bill, as it passed, was $39,037,721.50, a net increase of $497,000 over the amount as reported. The bulk of the increase was due to the requirements of the new printing bill.

Two important changes in legislation were made by the bill. One was to restore to the Secretary of the Treasury the discretion that formerly was vested in him to issue notes of such denominations as he may deem best, instead of being restricted to the re-issue of such denominations as may be cancelled and retired. The other was an amendment offered by Mr. Coombs (D., N.Y.) to amend the law authorizing the issue of gold certificates so as to make such certificates not receivable for customs duties after July 1, 1895, and forbidding their use by national banks in their reserves. The amendments, it was stated, were considered by Secretary Carlisle to be of the utmost importance to the Treasury.

Canada Sent $15,000 to the Irish Fund.

London, Jan. 25.—Justin McCarthy, leader of the anti-Parnellite Home Rulers and chairman of their Parliamentary organization, has published the financial statement of his party for 1894. According to this statement the party received contributions of £3000 from Canada, £2700 from the United States, £490 from Australia, New Zealand and Newfoundland, £5250 from Ireland and £980 from Great Britain.

Fishing Casualties Off the Banks.

Paris, Jan. 25.—Count Keratry has written a letter to The Figaro treating the frequency of disasters to fishing boats on the banks of Newfoundland through collisions with larger vessels. It is impossible, he says, to prevent the fast steamships from traversing the banks, and, this being the case, a strict exercise of vigilance is demanded. Most of the mishaps to fishing boats are due to their own carelessness, and they ought to be compelled to observe rigidly the article relating to the display of signal lights.

Peace in Italian Africa.

Rome, Jan. 25.—A despatch from Massowah says that Gen. Baratieri was received magnificently yesterday on his return from his victorious campaign against the Mahdists. Ar peace has been restored in Italian Africa, the Government will send either very few reinforcements or none at all. The Lazarists, who were expelled by Gen. Baratieri because they excited natives against the Italians, have sent to Rome a memorial to the effect that they in no way conspired against the Italian authorities.

Look ahead.

Next winter you'll need furs. Why not buy them now, and have the use of them during the remainder of this season?

'Twill pay you.

The fur garment that you can buy at Dineens' Fur Clearing Sale will last years. You might put off buying until next winter, but far-sighted people don't skip an opportunity where perhaps 50 per cent. or more can be saved on the price of a fashionable fur garment. That's the inducement which you will find at the Great Clearing Sale of Ladies', Misses', Children's and Gentlemen's Fur Garments at Dineens' all this week.

Everything is offered at the bare wholesale cost of the material and manufacture. Intending purchasers would find this a good day to examine the furs, and perhaps make selections that they would like the firm to reserve for them. The sale closes next week.

MAY HANG A MILLIONAIRE

AN INTERESTING MURDER TRIAL IN MISSOURI.

Killed His Young Wife, Then Held His Baby at Arm's Length and Blew Out Its Brains—Heavy Fees Paid to Secure Expert Medical Evidence As to Insanity.

Union, Mo., Jan. 25.—One of the most interesting murder trials in the criminal annals of this state was begun in this place. The defendant, Dr. Arthur Duestrow of St. Louis is a millionaire, and is accused of killing his wife and his 4-year-old son. The defence, brought forward by one of the craftiest criminal lawyers in the west, Ex-Governor Charles P. Johnson, is insanity.

Duestrow is about 28 years old, and is the son of one of the oldest citizens of the state. The elder Duestrow made his money by speculating in mining stocks, and when he died, five or six years ago, left to each of his children, a son and a daughter, $500,000. Mrs. Duestrow, the widow, was the legatee of a million. She died a few months ago, since Arthur's crime, and this event doubled the fortunes of her two children.

Arthur was always of a taciturn disposition, and at the medical college in St. Louis made few friends. On completing his education he married one of the most accomplished young women in St. Louis, and the couple set up housekeeping in the fashionable West End. The doctor began to drink and finally to associate with women of bad character. The birth of a son did not wean him from his evil ways. At the time of the tragedy he was almost wholly neglecting his home.

How He Did It.

His fortune had been securely invested by the elder Duestrow, and he enjoyed only the income. One day last February late in the afternoon, he drove up to his home in a cab. Entering the house he picked a quarrel with his wife, it is charged, and, without warning, shot her. She fell unconscious to the floor, whereupon the little boy began to cry. Lifting him from the floor, the father held him at arm's length and blew his brains out.

The homicide was arrested and committed to jail, where he has since been confined. The state has repeatedly sought to force him to trial, but in each case he has secured a continuance. He got a change of venue from St. Louis to this county, and when the case was called on January 14 his lawyers asked that a jury be first empanelled to inquire into his sanity. The court granted this request, and the state asked for a week's time in which to have its experts examine him. Nearly all the famous experts in the west had already examined him on behalf of the defence. Opposed to the young man who represents the state is ex-Governor Johnson, of whom it has been said: "Had he defended Satan, John Milton's 'Paradise Lost' would never have been written."

Plenty of Money.

Money has been poured out like water in Duestrow's behalf, the homicide's income being nearly $50,000 a year. Every effort has been made to create a public sentiment in his behalf, but with indifferent success. The honor of the crime, especially the killing of the little boy, has aroused a prejudice that it will be hard to overcome.

Duestrow's jail life in St. Louis has not been as trying as one might suppose. His cell is fitted up in elegant style, and his meals are brought to him three times a day from one of the best cafes in the city. He consumes from 25 to 50 cigarets daily, and spends much time in reading. He is especially interested in hypnotism, and recently wrote a treatise on the subject.

Expert Testimony.

The battle royal began yesterday when the experts were produced. The defendant's wealth, by the lavish use of money, has succeeded in securing the greatest alienists in the country to testify in his behalf. The expert witnesses for the State receive but $1.50 a day, so it will be seen that the people labor under a great disadvantage.

As an indication of what money will do, the first expert examined declared that he believed Duestrow to be insane, although at the time of the coroner's inquest the same man declared that the murderer was not in any sense crazy. He ought to know, for he has been the Duestrow family physician since Arthur was a boy. He declined to say what his fee was to be, but admitted it was large.

Four other eminent alienists testified that they believed Duestrow was insane. Two of these are the Drs. Banday, father and son, looked upon as among the most eminent insanity experts in the west. On cross-examination Dr. Banday, jr., said he was called upon to examine the defendant last September, and from then up to the present time he has almost daily enquired into his condition. His fee to be paid this witness for testifying, by the defence, has not been determined yet. Further, the witness said he might be mistaken as to the defendant being insane, but he did not think so, as he had given this particular case a long study. The defendant, he said, is suffering from the most beautiful case of paranoia he had ever seen. The witness expressed his opinion that the defendant could not have been taught all of the delusion he has, even should he have read them out of a text-book. He further said that if the defendant had wanted to pick out a class of insanity to simulate, he never would have picked out paranoia, as that is the worst class of all.

Spending Money.

In reply to a question put by Attorney Zachrits, as to whether or not the defendant realized that he was charged with murder, Dr. Banday said Duestrow absolutely did not know what was going on about him. Paranoia is very hard to simulate. It has never been done in this or any other country, and Duestrow has not the mental condition to simulate paranoia, he said.

Union being a very small town, Duestrow is the first millionaire that any of the citizens ever saw.

The senior Dr. Banday has testified on the stand (hard on Duestrow's lawyer tries to rule out the testimony) that he has already received $1000 from Duestrow's estate and that he "may receive more." The "more" is taken by the public to be contingent on the murderer's acquittal. The fee of the Bandays, father and son, is certainly not less than $5000; some place it at $20,000.

The man who has charge of the Duestrow estate testified today thay $30,000 had already been spent by the doctor in preparing for his defence. This does not include attorney's fees. Governor Johnson, his senior counsel, alone gets $50,000, and there are several others, among them two from this town, employed, as were the local physicians, for the moral effect they would have on the jury. Other witnesses were laymen and testified to their belief in his sanity.

THINKS HIS BROTHER WAS KILLED

A Former Torontonian Supposed to Be Among the Victims of the Montana Explosion.

Mr. T. Moffatt of 66 Wood-street, this city, is inclined to think that his brother, William Moffatt, may be one of the victims of the recent explosion at Butte, Montana, in which 53 people were killed. Among the debris were found a number of letters from Canada.

A few weeks ago Mr. Moffatt received a letter from his brother dated at Cheyenne, Wyoming, intimating that he intended leaving on a trip to Montana in connection with his business, that of cattle ranching. It is supposed he was at Butte when the explosion took place. Mr. T. Moffatt has wired the mayor of Butte for particulars.

THE DRAYTON DIVORCE CASE.

Mrs. William Astor Will Assist Her Daughter in Defending the Suit.

New York, Jan. 25.—On Tuesday next Mrs. J. Coleman Drayton, through her lawyer, R. V. Lindenberry, will make application for the right to amend the petition in the sensational suit for divorce brought by her husband several months ago. The petition comes before the Chancery Court in Trenton, N.J., and is said to be based on new evidence which Mrs Drayton and her lawyers have been able to procure. Since the return of Mrs Drayton from Europe the other day there has been a revival of the old scandal which connected her name with H. Alsoph Borrowes. It was said that Mrs. Drayton would allow the suit for divoce to go by default, but this motion puts a damper on that gossip. Mrs. Drayton will now fight the case bitterly and she has been assured of the complete support and approval of her mother, Mrs. William Astor, and her brother, John Jacob Astor. Their combined wealth has been put at her disposal. Mrs. Drayton is stopping at her own house in Fifth-avenue, but last night she dined with her mother at 350 Fifth-avenue, and it is believed that Mrs. Astor has at last manifested her complete sympathy with her daughter. John Jacob Astor has also been brought around. He held aloof until it was shown to him by Lawyer Herbert A. Shipman, Mrs. Drayton's attorney, that the plaintiffg had proved false to promises made to Mrs. William Astor regarding the contesting of her husband's will. These promises will be the bone of contention in the suit. They involve the custody of the Drayton children, who are at present in the care of Mr. Drayton's sister at Tuxedo. Mr. Drayton is also living there very quietly, and he only comes to town occasionally to spend the night at his club. Mrs. Drayton is exceedingly anxious to have her children with her, and Mrs. William Astor, and John Jacob Astor are determined that every thing shall be done to get them for her.

Object to Reducing Lord Brassey's Salary.

London, Jan. 26.—The Standard has this despatch from Melbourne: It is understood that Great Britain cabled to the Ministry in regard to the reduction of Governor's salary. The retiring Ministry notified Great Britain of a proposed reduction of the salary from £10,000 to £7000, to which, it is understood, Great Britain agreed. The Assembly's decision was a surprise, and it is likely to lead to trouble. It is asserted that it is doubtful whether Lord Brassey will accept £5000. The Premier will move the reversal of the vote, with a view to making the salary £7000.

Revolution Impending in Bulgaria.

Berlin, Jan. 25.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Franfurter Zeitung says a revolution is impending in Bulgaria. The movements which aim at the deposition of Prince Ferdinand from the Bulgarian throne are under the concerted leadership of ex-Premier Stambuloff and M. Zankoff, the notorious agitator who recently returned from exile by virtue of a grant of amnesty by the Government.

MANITOBA CATHOLICS PETITION.

The Hierarch's Statements of Grievances Set Forth at Length—The Petition Presented to the Premier.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—Rev. Father Allard of St. Boniface, who has come east with another Roman Catholic petition against the Manitoba school law, has presented the same to Sir Mackenzie Bowell. The document was sent east some time ago by the ecclesiastical authorites of Manitoba, for the signatures of the hierarchy of Quebec. It is as follows:

"We, the Catholics of the Dominion of Canada, the loyal subjects of Her Majesty, respectfully declare:

"That during the parliamentary session of 1894, a petition asking for redress for the grievances complained of by the Catholics of the Canadian West in school matters, and signed by His Eminence the Cardinal Archbishop of Quebec and by all the other archbishops and bishops of Canada, was presented to His Excellency the Governor-General-in-Council, to the members of the Senate and to the members of the House of Commons.

Rights, Duties and Grievances.

"In dignified and truthful language the Canadian episcopacy clearly set forth the rights and duties, as well as the grievances of Catholics. They showed that the Catholics of Manitoba, after having enjoyed up to 1890 the right of educating their children in schools conducted in keeping with their religious convictions, were deprived of that right in a most arbitrary and unjust manner. They pointed out that their position was becoming worse, as a result of the new legislation.

"They also pointed out the serious infringements made on the rights of Catholics in the Northwest by the ordinances of 1892, which deprived the Catholic schools of their free action and their rightful character. Then decreeing with the authority which belongs to them, and the science which distinguishes them, the doctrine of the Catholic Church in matters of education, they reminded the parents that they have the right and obligation by natural law and divine commandment to educate their children according to their religious belief.

Vexatious Laws.

"They stated that the exercise of this right and the free carrying out of this obligation had been granted the Catholics of the Canadian west by the most solemn promises, which were violated to impose upon our co-religionists most vexatious laws, contrary to justice and all legitimate liberties, which have to-day thrown our country into most deplorable dissensions.

"As our bishops truthfully said in that petition, the sad fate of the Catholics of Manitoba and the Northwest is felt by all the Catholics of the Dominion, and we reiterate their pressing representations and their prayers, and confirm their declaration that the pastors and the faithful are one, and that together they are determined to vindicate their rights by all constitutional means in their power.

Redress Asked For.

"The pastors have shown themselves to be our enlightened interpreters, and we will be their devoted champions. This is why we protest against the fallacious and disloyal reply of the Government of Manitoba to the order of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council; and adopting the conclusions of the petition of their lordships, the archbishops and bishops of Canada, with them and like them, we call for redress of the grievances of the Catholics of Manitoba and the Northwest, by the disallowance of the law of 1894, and by all constitutional means."

AT THE FORUM.

Mr. Edward Farrer and Editor Wrigley were discussing mugs of Beer and Pork Pies in the office of The Farmers' Sun yesterday, discussing them, however, in a purely academic fashion and in connection with the name of an old friend of theirs, mentioned that morning in some newspaper as possessed of a facile heartiness in the despatch thereof. Mr. Farrer, laughing with side-shaking fervor, denied any responsibility for the article in question, though going so far as to admit that, while he had seen mugs disappear, he had never been sure as to the contents of the pies, inasmuch as the meat was hashed and therefore liable to cause doubt, even if the juicy stew that flowed from the pie on its incision had the well-known toothsome and porcine flavor. He had, however, heard his friend call for a mutton pie and the accompaniment thereof, a practice quite common in the County of Waterloo, and a mark by which the native of that district might be fixed.

Editor Wrigley chuckled, stroked his Flyaway Whiskers, and informed his visitor that, while the Principles of Patronism might not allow beer, now that it was made from things other than Canadian barley, it was quite in line to encourage the consumption of Pork Pies, involving as it did the expansion of the swine-raising industry. It was therefore in the line of both himself and his visitor to congratulate their common friend when they should meet him. This they hoped soon to do; and, in fact, as it was only fair that all Advanced Thinkers should stand shoulder to shoulder, he proposed that they attend the Students' Meeting in Forum Hall on Saturday next and hear Messrs. Jury and Thompson lecture, the boys sing Gaudeamus Igitur and Mr. Moses Oates make a forecast as to the result. Mr. William Bland, another friend of theirs and the President of the Onion Club, was also expected to assist.

BROOKLYN STRIKE NOT ENDED

A CALM YESTERDAY WHICH MAY PRECEDE A STORM.

Judge Gaynor Has Not Yet Issued the Writ Ordering the Companies to Operate the Cars—No Troops Withdrawn—The Trouble Extending Into Queen's County and More Troops Asked For.

Brooklyn, Jan. 25.—No troops have been withdrawn from Brooklyn, and though they had a comparatively quiet day of it to-day, there are signs that they will make up for it to-morrow. The quiet of to-day is thought to be the calm before a storm. Disturbances requiring cavalry charges and quick details of infantry occurred during the day evening, but the troops did not find it necessary to fire upon the crowds. Since the battle of Hicks-street, orders have been issued to the militiamen not to fire upon people who fail to obey commands, but to arrest them, and only to fire under dire necessity.

The riotous proceedings which have marred the quiet and peace of King's County, overflowed into Queen's County to-day, and the sheriff of that county was obliged to call for troops.

Justice Gaynor of the Supreme Court figured prominently in the day's proceedings. He listened to arguments in the mandamus proceedings, and a fair inference from the observations he made from the bench warrants the conclusion that he will grant a peremptory writ compelling the officials of the company to operate their road.

Mayor Schieren drove to police headquarters at 9 o'clock to-night and held a secret conference with Commissioner Welles and Superintendent Campbell. They were informed by the presidents of the three systems affected by the strike, presumably in anticipation of the writ of mandamus, that all lines are to be operated to-morrow. They know that such an attempt would mean plenty of trouble. The mayor declined to discuss the nature of the conference.

A portion of the Seventh Regiment is under marching orders, and it is supposed they are to be moved to Green Point, Eris Basin and other danger points in the morning.

The strikers still stand firm and very few have quit the ranks. The cars were moved on several new lines
