Little Church Back Home.

When the big pipe organ's swellin' an' the city choir sings,
An' you almos' hear the swishin' of the lovin' angels' wings,
An' the congregation's musin' on the proneness for to sin,
Sort o' listenin' listless, waiting for the preacher to begin;
In that holy hush it happens that I clean forget the place,
An' again I'm meek an' lowly 'fore a throne of savin' grace—
A throne that wasn't nestlin' 'neath a spire or a dome,
But the sinners sought their Savior in the little church back home.

When we had protracted meetin's, why 'twould done you good to hear
The congregation singin' with a blend o' voices clear
How the "Rock of Ages" towered like a shelt'ring sort o' wall,
An' our souls soared up to glory since the Rock was cleft for all.
Ev'ry face was wreathed with sweetness, an' we always had a smile
For the stranger, saint or sinner, in the pew across the aisle;
For a diamond's often gathered from the commonest of loam,
An' we didn't mind the settin' in the little church back home.

There were weddin's where the neighbors gathered in from far an 'wide
An' the boys looked on in envy while their sisters kissed the bride,
There were fun'rals, too,—where neighbors didn't feel ashamed to cry
When they laid to rest the sleeper in the little yard close by;
Each new seems kind o' sacred, an' the lowly pulpit there
'Pears like a holy gateway to a firmament that's fair;
Where the sweet, supernal sunshine softly scatters sorrow's gloam,
An' let us enter heaven from the little church back home.

—Roy Farrell Greene.

Safety at Sea.

Some comment was excited in the case of the Republic on account of the fact that the boat equipment was not large enough to carry all persons on board. It is doubtful whether this is the case in any ship carrying a large number of passengers.

The largest lifeboats have a capacity of from forty to fifty people and if the total complement be taken at 2,400 it will be seen that from fifty to sixty of such boats will be required. The question arises how such an outfit of ordinary boats could be provided.

The folding boat in its latest forms seems to meet this demand to some extent, but still leaves much to be desired, and life rafts are difficult to handle. The ordinary lifeboat of to-day is practically the same as for a number of years in the past. The means of launching the lifeboat, however, have been improved.

The old davit had many drawbacks. Most modern ships are generally fitted with some improved type of apparatus for this purpose. Releasing gears of various types are also now on the market.—American Review of Reviews.

The Crater's Mouth.

"Now, Pearl Beem," said the Wyoming schoolmarm during the geography lesson, "what is it that volcanoes throw up?"

"Wait a minute! I know—don't tell me!" cried Miss Beem excitedly. "It's saliva! Red-hot saliva!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

THE PRETENDER.

DOM MIGUEL WILL LOYALLY SUPPORT PORTUGUESE KING.

This in Exchange for Right of Succession in Case Manuel Dies Without Heirs—Is Now Under Sentence of Banishment.

Lisbon, April 4.—While King Manuel and the Royal family have received favorably Dom Miguel's offer to renounce his pretensions to the throne, the pretender cannot return to Portugal until Parliament has repealed the act of banishment against him.

Dom Miguel only proposes at present to renounce his claims in favor of the present dynasty, and not any ultimate rights of succession he might have in case the King died without heir, and his uncle, the Grand Duke of Oporto, should not survive. In other words Dom Miguel proposed to throw in his lot with the young King and support him loyally in exchange for the right of succession, and this co-operation on the part of Dom Miguel is an important acquisition for the throne.

Over 250 noble families probably will return to Portugal if Parliament revokes the edict of banishment. Dom Miguel has considerable property in Portugal which was confiscated when he was banished, and it is assumed that this treasure will be returned to the pretender if he is allowed to come back to the country.

A WORKER.

Thaw's Mother Pleased With Her Granddaughter's Fiance.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 4.—"Thank goodness! he is a worker and he has said he will continue at work."

This is the remark accredited in Pittsburg to Mrs. William Thaw on learning that her foster granddaughter, Miss Margaret Thaw, of Rome, daughter of Dr. Alexander Blair Thaw, is about to marry the Marquis Teodoli of Italy, in the coming summer. The information given to Mrs. Thaw was that the marquis is at present and had for some time been connected with the State Bank of Italy, and that he had no intention of resigning his position, even though he would marry into the Thaw millions.

Dr. Alexander Blair Thaw is one of the elder children of William Thaw, and a stepson of his widow, who was a second wife. He has always been bitter toward Harry Thaw.

LOST AT SEA.

Vessel Struck Derelict and 21 Men Missing.

London, April 5.—A despatch to Lloyds from Punta Arenas, Chile, says the steamer Oakbranch struck what is supposed to have been a derelict in the Straits of Westminster and was abandoned in a sinking condition. The first officer and eighteen of the crew and passengers were landed safely, but the captain and twenty persons are missing.

The Oakbranch is a vessel of 2,064 tons, and sailed from Liverpool for Valparaiso on Feb. 24.

THREE DEATHS.

Politician, Doctor and 400 Pound Man Passed Away.

(Special Despatch to the Times.)

Belleville, Ont., April 5.—E. G. Silks, a prominent resident of this city, died here last night, after a short illness, aged 73 years. He has been for many years connected with the paper mills at Frankfort, now run by his son. He was prominent in politics, being Reform member for West Hastings in the Legislature from 1882 to 1886, defeating the late Baths Rose. He took an active interest in municipal affairs.

Dr. P. D. Goldsmith, retired physician, and father of Dr. Perry G. Goldsmith, Toronto, died here this morning, aged 64 years.

Charles Doran, the heaviest man in the county, weighing over 400 pounds, died at his home in Tyendinaga yesterday, aged 73 years. At one time he travelled with a circus.

Electricity Cleans Vessel.

An electrical method of cleansing the hull of a vessel without the necessity of docking the craft is in use in England to a certain extent. The scrubber works by being dragged up and down under the hull of the ship by ropes. By the use of electricity it is made to cling to the steel sides of the ship like a magnet.

The mat of the scrubber is a series of battens carrying the brushes and magnets. Position chains are passed around the ship at the bow and stern, and between these hauling hawsers, carrying the mat, are moved fore and aft by a steam winch. It has been demonstrated that an 18,000-ton battleship can be scrubbed in twelve hours. The cost of cleaning a vessel by this method is small. It is said that a 4,000-ton ship can be cleaned in about eight hours, at a cost of $100.

OVER LUNA FALLS.

An Unknown Man Committed Suicide at Niagara.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., April 4.—An unknown man, about 53 years old, this afternoon committed suicide by jumping into the river from Luna Island. A score of people saw him swept over the falls. The man's actions were not unusual, and even when he clambered up on the bridge railing no one supposed he was going to jump. He stood on the railing for a second or two, peering into the water, and then dove in headforemost, like a swimmer taking a dip in the lake.

He was described as an unusually handsome man, weighing about 180 pounds, with black hair and moustache. His overcoat was found on the bridge. The authorities hope to establish his identity by means of a child's ring found in one of the pockets.

BIT HIS THUMB.

House Surgeon in London Hospital Died of Bloodpoisoning.

London, April 4.—Dr. Angus Bowley Wilson, a house surgeon at the London Hospital, is another of the many martyrs to science.

Dr. Wilson was performing an operation on a woman suffering from laudanum poison, the result of an attempt to commit suicide, and in her struggles she bit one of his thumbs.

The operations was entirely successful in the case of the woman, whose life was saved, but in the case of the doctor blood poisoning set in from the bitten thumb, and Dr. Wilson died last week.

FIGHT WITH BURGLARS.

Desperate Struggle on a Train Near Ottawa.

Ottawa, April 3.—Frank Murray and Wm. McKay, two burglars who robbed the boot and shoe store of Isaiah Pratt on Thursday night and got away with $400 worth of goods and money, were arrested after a terrific fight on a C. P. R. train between Ottawa and Vankleek Hill yesterday afternoon. Detective O'Meara, of Ottawa, followed two suspicious valises that were checked to the Hill from Ottawa, and spotted his men ten miles from Vankleek Hill. He went to place them under arrest, and a terrific battle ensued, the three men fighting all over the car. J. H. Downie, an immigration inspector from Winnipeg, came to O'Meara's help, and the men were handcuffed and taken to Ottawa. Murray is an old jailbird, having just served a five-year sentence for burglary.

MAN AND EAGLES.

Lumber Dealer's Desperate Fight For His Life in Virginia.

Norfolk, Va., April 3.—J. L. Durnell, a lumber dealer of this city, while looking over some timber land on Sand Hills plantation, in Princess Anne County, yesterday had to fight for his life with six eagles.

The great birds swooped down on him, and falling into a hole, he was momentarily helpless. With their talons and beaks scratching his flesh and tearing his clothing, he regained his feet and fought them with a big stick for three hundred yards before gaining shelter. He was then almost helpless, and without protection soon would have been overcome by the eagles.

STOOD BY LLOYD-GEORGE.

East Denbighshire, Wales, Went Strongly Liberal.

London, April 3.—The Liberals won a decisive victory in the by-election in East Denbighshire, Wales, yesterday, when Mr. E. G. Hemmerde carried the riding by a majority of 2,721. Mr. Hemmerde secured 6,265 votes, and Sir Foster Cunliffe, the Unionist candidate, 3,554. In the by-election in August, 1906, when Mr. Hemmerde first carried the riding, he secured 5,917 votes, and his opponent, Mr. A. S. Griffith-Boscowen, 3,216.

The Liberal majority yesterday was slightly reduced, while the total vote was much heavier than in the former by-election. East Denbighshire has been consistently Liberal since 1885, and at the general elections of 1900 and 1906 the Unionists did not place a candidate in the field at all. Yesterday's by-election was rendered necessary by Mr. Hemmerde's appointment as recorder for Liverpool.
