The Municipal Council

NEWCASTLE, January, 20th 1885.

Northumberland Municipal Council assembled at its chamber in the County Court House at 12 o'clock to-day. Ex-Warden Robinson assumed the chair and called the Council to order, when the roll was called, the following being present —

Ludlow—John Campbell, Samuel Amos.
Blissfield—Enoch A. Bamford.
Blackville—Michael Whelan, B. N. T. Underhill.
Derby—James Robinson. F. H. Jardine.
Northesk — Anthony Adams, Michael Ryan.
Southesk—Jared Tozer, John Parks.
Rogersville—Peter Thibedeau, Benoit Arseneau.
Nelson—Dan'l Baldin, Michael Grattan.
Newcastle—John Morrissey, John Woods.
Chatham—Roger Flanagan, Peter Loggie.
Alnwick—Wm. B. Stewart, Bruno Courier.
Glenely—Chas. Reinsborrow, Hugh Cameron.
Hardwick—Thos. B. Williston, Michael Branstield.

Coun. Loggie was moved to the chair.

Coun. Campbell said that as Warden Robinsen had givengood satisfaction and a good dinner to the Council last year he moved that he be re-appointed.

Coun. Morrissey asked if all the Councillors returned had fyled their qualifications as required by law. His reasen for asking was, he said, because anything done by them in their capacity as councillors without their nominations being duly fyled would be illegal.

The Secy.-Treasurer said he would read over the list of those who had fyled their qualifications. [While he was preparing to do so, however, quite a number of Councillors hastened to fill in and place the necessary papers in the Secy.-Treasurer's hands, and after about an hour it was announced by him that all had fyled their qualifications.

On motion of Coun. Campbell, seconded by Coun. Ryan, Coun. Robinson was unanimously elected Warden.

The Warden, on re-assuming the Chair, thanked the Councillors for again placing him therein, and said the honor was quite unexpected on his part. He hoped to be able to discharge the duties of the position more satisfactorily than last year and it was his desire to act impartially by all. If any Councillor, at any time thought he did not do so he would feel obliged by his informing him of it.

The minutes of the July [meeting were read and approved.

On motion of Coun. Bamford, Messrs. John Cassidy and Wm. Dalton were appointed constables.

Coun. Flanagan moved that their pay be one dollar per day.

Coun. Williston said $1 was too little.

Coun Morrissey moved to make $1.50—lost and Coun. Flanagan's motion was carried.

In the minutes of the last July session the following appeared,—

Whereas at last January session of this Council, a sum as pecuniary recompense was voted to be paid to editors of newspapers for their attendance reporting and

Whereas the editor of the ADVANCE, who was one of the above-mentioned reporters has published false reports of speeches derogative alike to the standing of individual members of the Council and to the Council as a body.

Therefore resolved that in the opinion of this Council such a course is highly reprehensible and that this resolution and preamble be entered on the minutes of the Council as a vote of censure upon the editor of the ADVANCE.

The resolution was on motion laid over until the next January Session.

At the request of the editor of the ADVANCE, who was not present at the July session of Council, but was at the reporters' table to-day, the Warden enquired when the mover of the resolution intended to bring it up,

Coun. Bamford, being reminded that he was the mover (although his name did not appear on the minutes as such,) said he would not be able to decide until Councillor Freeze came to Council.

Mr. Smith, being referred to said his reason for causing the enquiry to be made, was in order that he might be present to defend himself, which he could not be if the matter was to come up to-morrow. Any other time would suit him,

Coun. Bamford said he would be able to decide sometime this afternoon and let Mr. Smith know.

Council adjourned for dinner.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

Coun. Campbell, on moving for the appointment of regular Committees, said it would be better that they should be for the year, as it would save time and facilitate business at the July session. He was also in favor of these committees being the nomination of the Warden, as in other County Councils.

Coun. Tozer was of opinion that it was best to proceed as usual, which was done and the following appointed.—

Parish Accounts Committee—Couns. Wood, Williston, Grattan, Ryan, Parks, Whelan, Loggie, Jardine, Arseneau, Stewart, Cameron, Amos, Bamford. [Coun. Campbell here claimed that, as the mover of the resolution for the appointment of the Committee, he should be first named on it. The matter dropped however.]

County Accounts Committee,—Couns. Tozer, Adams, Campbell, Baldwin, Flanagan.

Alms House Committee,—Couns. Morrissey, Williston, Loggie.

Jail Committee,- Couns. Courier, Reinsborrow, Thibedeau.

On motion of Coun. Stewart a committee consisting of Couns. Stewart, Ryan, Loggie, Jardine and Grattan was appointed to visit the Alms House, and on motion of Coun. Campbell, they were directed to make the visit on Wednesday afternoon and report on Thursday at 12 o'clock.

Couns. Loggie, Morrissey and Parks were appointed printing Committee.

Adjourned for Committee work until 4 p. m.

The Warden took the Chair at 4 p. m.

On motion of Coun. Tozer, a Committee consisting of Couns. Adams, Tozer and Whelan was appointad to prepare a by-law to compel Commissioners of roads to take down fences, when rendered necessary by the blocking of roads with snow—to oblige land owners to permit persons and vehicles to pass over their property and to defray Commissioners' expenses for removing and re-erecting fences.

On motion of Coun. Morrissey a Committee, consisting of the Warden and Couns. Morrissey and Loggie was appointed to prepare a by-law relating to the running at large of cattle in Newcastle.

On motion of Coun. Baldwin Couns. Grattan, Morrissey and Baldwin were appointed a Committee to frame a by-law on the same subject for the Parish of Nelson.

Coun. Campbell moved the following resolution :—

Whereas it is thought advisable by this Council that the Local Government should amend the statute relating to the appointment of Alms House Commissioners in this County, and

Whereas the appointment of said Alms House Commissioners has, heretofore, been vested in the Government, which has not only been unsatisfactory to this Council, but more so to the ratepayers of this County, as it is their opinion that this Council, as it has the voting, assessing and collecting of Alms House Contingencies, should also have the power of appointing said Alms House Commissioners—and

Whereas it is thought by this Council that more efficient men, to a certain extent, could be procured, provided that this Council granted a fair remuneration for their services—

Therefore resolved that the Secretary-Treasurer be directed to prepare a bill to be laid before the Local Legislature at its next session asking leave for the Municipality of Northumberland to appoint the Alms House Commissioners for said Municipality and to allow them the same travelling fees as are allowed to Councillors, and Further resolved that a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary Treasurer to each of our representatives in the Local Assembly.

Coun. Campbell said it was unnecessary for him to say a great deal in reference to this resolution as every Councillor felt that it was wrong in principle for the County to raise and vote money for the support of a purely local institution and have the Government appointing those who were to expend it. He also believed that if members of the Commission were called upon to travel, in some cases, sixty miles to attend its meetings, they ought to be paid at least what it cost them. Until the present injustice in this respect was done away with the Upper Parishes would remain unrepresented at the Board. If the appointment of Alms House Commissioners were vested in the Council it would be far more satisfactory to the people.

The resolution was seconded by Coun. Morrissey and unanimously adopted.

Adjourned until 10 a. m., Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY FORENOON.

Council met at 10. Minutes of yesterday's proceedings read.

Coun. Adams said he was fully in accord with the principle involved in resolution introduced yesterday by Coun. Campbell with reference to the manner of appointing Alms House Commissioners, but before minutes were adopted he would like to see that portion expunged which says that more efficient men could be obtained were the Council to have the appointment of said Commissioners. He did not care to assist in doing anything which would even have an appearance of casting the slightest discredit on the present Commissioners comprising as they did some of the most intelligent gentlemen in the county.

Coun. Campbell said he had no desire whatever to cast any discredit on these gentlemen. The resolution did not do so—it simply said that more efficient men, to a certain extent, could be procured, and surely this was no slur on the Commissioners.

Coun. Loggie said he did not see anything objectionable in the resolution. The present Commissioners were fairly good men, but that did not prove that they were the very best men in the County, for it might just be possible that better men could be obtained.

The minutes, as prepared, were then adopted.

Council adjourned until one o'clock for Committee work and at one adjourned for dinner.

Kent County Notes.

RICHIBUCTO, January 20.

On Wednesday night last Mr. Robert Baldwin's house, on the post road leading to Welford Station and a few miles east of the half way house at Molus River, was destroyed by fire. The only articles saved were a feather bed and one half barrel of flour. This makes the third house burned in the Parish of Weldford within a few weeks.

This community was startled to hear that Thomas Curran, a hotel proprietor at Kingston, had been found dead in his bed on Saturday morning. Deceased had been out driving the previous evening and up to a late hour appeared in good health. His sudden death is a sad blow to his family and large circle of relatives and friends who have the sympathy of the whole community. The funeral on Sunday last was largely attended, although the day was excessively cold.

Geo. V. McInerney, Esq., will lecture in the Richibucto Temperance Hall on Monday evening next, subject "Our Country." The talented lecturer will, doubtless receive, as he deserves, a "bumper" house,

The smelt fishing has fallen off considerably of late, notwithstanding the weather has been favorable for the shippers for some days past. The Miramichi buyers still persevere, nothing daunted by the sudden changes in the temperature.

The bill of fare presented at the opening of the County Court (as published elsewhere) causes the heart of the lawyer to beat with joy and serves as a freshener during these dull times.

The thermometer this morning indicated 8° below zero at 7 a. m.

The Great Carnival

Thousands upon thousands of people from all parts of the continent are going to the Montreal Carnival at the end of January. We hear the Montreal Daily Star is bringing out a magnificent Carnival number, something that will eclipse in artistic merit and absorbing interest every illustrated paper heretofore issued in this country, It will have the attack on the ice-palace and defence by the Garrison in all its magnificent pomp and brilliancy; the tobogganning-fete in its true natural beauty; the Ice Condora after the Egyptian models, inaugurated with electric and pyrotechnic illuminations; the mammoth ice-lion (British); the great sleigh drive, embracing thousands of superb equipages, and probably the grandest thing of the kind of modern times; the fancy dress entertainments, true to nature, and a magnificent inset-plate of the ice-palace in tints—a fine picture for framing. It will be remembered that there was a tremendous furore over the last year's Carnival number of the Montreal Star, the issue running up near a quarter of a million. It is said this year's number will be far ahead of last. The artists are Bengough, Julian, Harris and Haberer. The writers, George Murray, John Reade, Dr. Beers, "Adirondack" Murray, and W. H. Turner. Grip sends for production in the Carnival Star a double page which is said to be the most side-splitting cartoon ever published in this country. Fifteen cents in stamps sent to the publishers, Graham & Co., Montreal, will secure a copy of what is said to be the greatest illustrated paper ever issued in this country.

[From "The Week"]

The Close of Mr. Gladstone's Reign.

It is Mr. Gladstone's son who now tells us that the political life of his father cannot be much prolonged. His words are more trustworthy than bulletins. The luminary which has shone so brilliantly and so long evidently hastens to its setting; and it seems likely to set in cloud. Not that Mr. Gladstone's ascendency either in the country or in Parliament is diminished. Perhaps it was never more signally manifested than when, setting himself above the limitations of party, he negotiated a Redistribution Bill with the leader of the Opposition. Only the other day journals not entirely in harmony with his policy were proclaiming his "apotheosis." But the most fervent admirers of his genius and his character can hardly fail to see that while as an orator, as a Parliamentary leader, as a framer and exponent of legislative measures, he has not only not declined but risen higher than ever, in the work of a Prime Minister and a ruler his weaker points have been betrayed. Nature does not lavish all her gifts upon one man. On Mr Gladstone she has not bestowed a measure of practical decision and forecast equal to his share of other powers. Nor has fortune of late been kind to him, for she has accumulated upon him questions of the very sort with which a minister not pre-eminent in practical decision and forecast must be least qualified to deal.

Of the chapter of failures the saddest part is the State of Ireland. In dealing with this problem, desperate enough in itself, Mr. Gladstone was at a special disadvantage from having paid only one short visit to the country, and his want of knowledge was noted even by those who followed his standard and applauded his speeches. The Land Policy was not originally his own : it was pressed on him by those who had his ear. But it is his nature when he has once adopted a policy thoroughly to identify himself with it and to close his mind, not only against adverse opinions, but against the teaching of adverse events ; though it seems incredible that the fatal truth should remain hidden from him when the suppliant appeals of his new Irish Secretary for the favour of the Nationalists are met with renewed outbursts of veaomus hatred and foul abuse. He has brought the nation into serious peril of a dismemberment which as the Irish Republic would be born in deadly enmity, must reduce England to a second-rate power and deprive her not only of her might but of her beneficent influence over civilization. It would be unjust, however, to cast upon Mr Oladstone the whole or even the principal part of the blame. The principal part of the blame rests on faction, softly styled the system of party government. It was under Lord Beaconsfield that the "veiled rebellion" commenced. And what did Lord Beaconsfield do? Instead of appealing to the patriotism of Parliament and taking proper measures to meet the public peril, he welcomed the opportunity for snatching a party triumph, launched a slanderous manifesto accusing the Liberals of seeking the dismemberment of the Empire, dissolved, and flung the country into the turmoil of a general election. This act of course threw the Liberals into the arms of the Irish, whose support they received in the contest which followed and a sinister connection was thus formed. But Lord Randolph Churchhill and his crew have been constantly intriguing with the Parnellites in the House of Commons, and seconding them in obstruction, while Sir George Elliot, the Tory candidate for North Durham, made a bid, as palpable as it was infamous, for the Parnellite Vote and was not in any way disavowed by his party. Lord Salisbury has also done his utmost to cripple the Government in its struggle with rebellion. In his own ranks the Prime Minister has had to contend with the covert influence of twenty and thirty members for English or Scotch cities in which the Irish vote is large. These men have always been secretly protesting against anything which could place their seats in jeopardy and have unstrung the nerves of Government. Among the extreme Radicals there are some who hardly disguise their willingness to barter the unity of the nation for the Irish Vote. Had the House of Commons only been high-minded and patriotic enough to lay party aside for an hour and show itself resolved to maintain the union, the danger would have passed away. The preference of party to country which has almost placed England at the feet of Healy and Biggar is one of the foul spots in English history. Even Imperial Federationists have done their share of mischief by tampering in the interest of their chimera with the demand for disunion under the name of Home Rulers. That with which Mr. Gladstone is chargeable is the negative encouragement given to disunionism by his omission to declare his own unalterable loyalty to the Union; and if his silence indicates irresolution or a secret intention of giving way, it is far, better for him as well as for his country that his reign should close, even though it closed in gloom. Disaster is not so grievous as dishonour.

In South Africa, and still more in Egypt, there has been vacillation with calamitous results. This hardly anybody denies, and the demand of the Times that the Ministry should resign, though it can hardly be serious, and will certainly not be effectual, may be taken as a strong sign of national impatience. There were good reasons against intervention in Egypt, unless the Suez Canal was in danger, and Mr. Bright, no doubt, now feels well satisfied with the course which he took. On the other hand, destiny seemed to point to a British occupation of the country, the ruler of which had become the warder of the highway to India. This much, however, was clear that to interfere was to occupy, at least till a permanent settlement should have been effected; and the imbroglio which now seems bottomless is manifestly the consequence of having taken the first and really decisive step without distinct forecast of the inevitable consequences or resolution to embrace them. The fact, however, is that the foreign and military policy of the country has now, by the advance of democracy, passed out of the hands of the Government. The vacillations, inconsistencies, and blunderings which the nation is deploring are those of the nation itself, and of the press, which is the many-voiced organ of its fickle, irresponsible, and divided will. In the Liberal party, to whose support the Government had always to look, there has reigned throughout a perfect Babel of opinion on the Egyptian question. The present editor of the Pall Mall Gazette takes with the utmost violence the opposite line to his predecessor of yesterday. Even the Opposition has been united in nothing but the determination to condemn, harass, and thwart the Government. This haphazard expedition to Khartoum, the issue of which ever body awaits with misgiving, is the work not of a Cabinet Council, but of the passionate interest which the nation has conceived in the character and adventures of an inspired madman. That democracy, unorganized as it is at present, is incapable of carrying on a foreign policy of administering an Empire, is the moral of these events, and it is one which, if trouble should really arise in India, may receive calamitous illustration. In judging the conduct of the British Government at the outset of the Egyptian affair allowance must be made for the faithlessness of French diplomacy, though all statesmen might know by this time that under King, Emperor, or Republic, French deplomacy is always and alike faithless. Allowance must also be made for the sinister activity of Bismarck, who is evidently anxious to embroil England with France. Finally, allowance must be made, as the world will gradually learn, for the influence of a press largely under the influence of financiers who have very little interest in the welfare of England, but a large interest in the Egyptian debt.

Who will succeed Mr. Gladstone? Replace him, no one can. There is no other figure which fills to anything like the same degree the mind of the vast and excitable multitude on whose allegiance government has now to be based. The masses, however democratic they may be in sentiment, need a king of their imagination, That the Cabinet is divided and is held together mainly by the hand of its chief is a fact of which there may be said to have been overt proofs, in addition to our general knowledge of the men; so that notwithstanding Mr. Chamberlain's politic adhesiveness, upon the chief's departure a crisis could hardly fail to ensue. Power might pass into the hands of the Opposition if the leaders possessed the confidence of the country, for the by-elections indicate a reaction against the revolutionary movement which extends, no doubt, to moderate Liberals. But Lord Salisbury, in spite of his power as a debater, is discredited. Sir Stafford Northcote is powere less; and Lord Rrandolph Churchill, of whose elevation, whether we consider his character or his qualities as a statesman, it is impossible to think without shame, has for the second time raved himself into a state of nervous prostration. Lord Hartington, from a patrician idler playing with politics as a hereditary amusement, has become a serious politician, and not only a serious politician, but an object of general confidence and respect. Even the Radicals, though he is not one of them, prefer him to the other Whigs and, when he promises them anything, feel sure that he will be at least as good as his word. Round him, more probably than round any other man, might be formed a Government which would try to find in strength of connection a substitute for the personal popularity of Mr. Gladstone. The ranks of the Whigs and moderate Liberals would close. Mr. Goschen might be expected to come in, and it is not unlikely that Lord Landsdowne might be recalled from Canada to English politics. With Mr. Gladstone, who is the object of the bitterest hatred, as well as the most intense attachment, will depart the frantic virulence of Opposition. Before very long all Conservatives who did not want place might begin to feel that serious interests were at stake, and that they had better lend a practical support to the Government of Lord Hartington than run after Tory Democracy and fall into the pit. Yet no Englishman who has attentively watched the course of English politics for some years past, and who has any means of knowing the thoughts of sagacious observers on the spot, can look without deep and sad misgiving on the failing helmsman, the gathering clouds, and the rising sea.
