[illegible] of formularies. The man [illegible] centuries ago put into words, that shall [illegible] of people, "that the empiry of truth, [illegible] of it, the knowledge of truth, which is [illegible] the relief of truth, which is the originally of [illegible] of human nature." Our own Dr. J. S. [illegible] as living man appreciated the late Pro[illegible] who great lady wrote, "Young men, and older men, [illegible] his life, as well as from his teaching, that truth [illegible] as a very precious thing; that none can [illegible] do not grasp the entire part of it; that a [illegible] a blind adoption of formulas be represent[illegible] of its real representation, and that [illegible] and consciousness as well as the intellect." [illegible] only a metaphysician, he was an emi[illegible] cross-grained Kinds of the Cube and [illegible] he had a system of his own; as a [illegible] a collection of his own. I will remember [illegible] to the Transactions of the [illegible] Professor Cherriman, who then sat [illegible] Chair, now occupied by one of our own [illegible] President of University College [illegible] of the Homer men of my year to these [illegible] I will remember, in later years, his dis[illegible] of [illegible] which excited the [illegible] the world [illegible] of analysis was entirely his own. And [illegible] Saturday evening before an audience of [illegible] of whom very few were mathematicians, [illegible] proceeded, in a manner his [illegible] [illegible] by his [illegible] which [illegible] from the blackboard to [illegible] hands, groping in the gloom of [illegible] of them. With a great shaggy [illegible] of his head and a stress of his hand [illegible] [illegible] it is an experience [illegible] the [illegible] of his [illegible] [illegible] of his [illegible]
