NOBLE CANADIAN MOTHERS

owe their vigorous health to

Psychine

(Pronounced Si-keen)

These mothers of ripened experience and knowledge give Psychine (Si-keen) the praise of which it has proven worthy in combating disease.

Mrs. D. McKinnon, Ingonish, C.B. writes: "Psychine does all that is claimed for it. I know of no better tonic or blood purifier. Through disease and overwork I became greatly run down; had no appetite; was weak and nervous; life was something to be endured rather than enjoyed. Growing steadily worse with other treatments, I tried Psychine, and with the most pleasing results."

Psychine is woman's truest friend. With Psychine your blood will be made pure and rich; new vigor will be instilled into your nerves; you will increase in weight and strength; health and vitality will displace weakness and disease.

Mrs. Blaisdell, Arnprior, Ont., writes as follows:

"It's a long time since I used Psychine and Oxomulsion. I had felt miserable for a long time. Had no appetite, couldn't obtain any sleep, and was unable to work or enjoy life. Psychine has proven a blessing. I work every day in my garden, and I am very grateful for what Psychine did for me."

Mrs. Thos. Blais (widow), 168 Artillery St., Quebec

Mrs. Thos. Blais (widow), 168 Artillery street, Quebec City, says: "I certainly can recommend Psychine for catarrh, colds, lung troubles, or decline. Some years ago I had la grippe, and it left me in a precarious condition. Psychine did me a world of good. I remain, with gratitude, yours very truly, Mde. Thos. Blais."

RUSSIA DISLIKES BALFOUR'S WORDS

Premier's Ridicule of Rojesvensky's Story Creates Bad Impression.

Paris, Oct. 29. — The speech of Premier Balfour at Southampton, England, last night, has created a decidedly unfavorable impression in the highest Russian quarters here, and, it is stated by those in the best position to judge, that in the view of St. Petersburg will similarly disapprove the Premier's remarks.

The following statements were given out from the most authoritative sources:

Mr. Balfour's deduction that Admiral Rojestvensky's statement is pure fancy is based on the Premier's declaration that the admiral was looking out for torpedo boats coming from Japan. As a matter of fact, the Russian admiral was not guarding against torpedo boats coming thousands of miles from Japan, as that would have been manifestly absurd, but he was guarding against torpedo boats armed and equipped in the vicinity of the North Sea. This is not a matter of speculation or imagination, but is a matter of fact upon which the Russian authorities have been furnished with precise details. This information establishes that the Japanese fitted up craft as torpedo boats at certain Swedish ports, and that they also had a large number of Japanese officers at Newcastle-on-Tyne and other important English shipping points, for the evident purpose of fitting out craft to obstruct the Russian squadron. Therefore, instead of these torpedo boats being imaginary craft coming thousands of miles from Japan, the Russian authorities possess precise information that such torpedo boats were actually fitting out at points near the North Sea.

A second important matter on which Mr. Balfour's statement creates an erroneous impression, is his saying that the Russian squadron on Dogger Banks was many miles away from the usual route. As a matter of fact, the Russian naval route through the North Sea is across the Dogger Banks. This is not the route of the British and other navies, but the Russian navy has preferred it because the shallowness of the water permits easier soundings for the purpose of locating the positions of the ships. Therefore, instead of the Russian squadron being far out of its course, as Mr. Balfour asserts, it was exactly on its right course. There is no doubt that the Japanese informed themselves concerning the probable route of the Russian squadron, and were aware that the Russian naval route would take the squadron across the Dogger Banks.

As indicating the preciseness of the details reaching the Russian authorities concerning Japanese activity near the North Sea, a case is cited which came to the knowledge of the Russian authorities, in which a Greek reported to a consul in Paris that he shipped as cook from a port in Scotland on board the Japanese ship Itsima. The ship, he said, made trips of surveillance of channel ships, took in the Japanese flag and raised sometimes the American and sometimes the Swedish flag. The Greek, perceiving that she was engaged in a dangerous mission of surveillance over Russian ships, left her.

There is reason to believe that some of the foregoing details will go before the international commission, and that they constitute some of the features of Russia's viewpoint of the British charges.

FLINGS AT RUSSIA

London Vaudeville Stage Reflects Public Animosity.

London, Oct. 31.—"Do you know the quickest way to the undertaker's?" asked happy Fanny Fields on Thursday night at the Oxford Music Hall. "I'll tell you. Go out in the street and call for cheers for the Russians," and the audience laughed and cheered in agreement with the recipe.

At the same hall Miss Bessie Featherstone introduced verse dealing with the attack on the fishing fleet into her song, "The Latest London Betting," in which the odds are against the Russians going unpunished, the British are quoted at a very low price, and again the house cheered.

At the Tivoli Mr. Henry Moore recited a poem called "The Fishermen and the Russians," in which mention was made of Russia's first victory. A song with a refrain beginning "Shall we haul down our flag to the Bear?" was sung by Mr. Alexander Higginson at the Alhambra. The words of this song were, it was said, written by a very distinguished playwright.

Relieved At Once---Cured Permanently---Well Ever Since.

Colonel H. M. Russ, of Edwards, St. Lawrence County, N. Y., is one of the fine old heroes of the civil war.

After being permanently cured by Ferrozone, the colonel wrote:

"I couldn't get around without a cane, and then only with difficulty.

"Rheumatism took complete control of my limbs.

"The suffering was more intense than hardships on the battlefield.

"When my doctor had done his best I got Ferrozone.

"Then came a quick change.

"Ferrozone gave me comfort at once, eased the pain and took the stiffness out of my muscles.

"I am well today. Ferrozone cured me completely. I can jump and run like I did 40 years ago."

No matter how long you have suffered Ferrozone will bring you prompt relief. It will increase your strength, renew your vitality, drive out every trace of rheumatic pain. TRADE DOUBLED BY PREFERENCE

Striking Evidence Given by the Manufacturers Before Commission.

London, Oct. 31.—At the Southampton conference, Liverton Harris, M.P., said the manufacturers were giving evidence before the tariff reform commission, and one and all declared the Canadian preference had been of the greatest advantage to their industries, in some cases the trade doubled or trebled.

The mayor of Winnipeg, in a letter to the Glasgow Herald, emphatically contradicts the statements made by one George Fair, in a letter to that paper on Sept. 15. As an example of success in the Northwest, the mayor gives a brief synopsis of his own experiences.

Lord Hugh Cecil, speaking of the free trade demonstration at Edinburgh, said he could not consent to a colonial conference if it was assembled with the implicit understanding that it was to arrive at some settlement with respect to a colonial preference, which no one in England was to object to having carried out by the machinery of taxation of food. From an imperial point of view the taxation of food was a profound blunder. How could a man interested in timber be drawn closer because a man interested in corn got the benefit? So long as the colonies thought protection right, and we thought free trade right, they never could make a good bargain. He did not want to see protectionists driven out of public life, but he wanted them to consent to recognize that their views were objected to by the country, and that there were no prospects of success. Lord Balfour of Burleigh said it was nothing short of a blunder to say that a colonist expected us to give them a preference for their sake, unless we were convinced it was good for ourselves.

ELEVATOR SINKS IN QUICKSANDS

370,000 Bushels of Barley at the Bottom of a Buffalo Slip.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 30.—From some cause which cannot be definitely explained the Ontario elevator collapsed today and sank into the waters of the Evans slip. The elevator contained about 370,000 bushels of barley, a large portion of which lies at the bottom of the slip. The loss on the grain and building is estimated at $350,000. Chas. Bartholomew, 62 years old, the elevator superintendent, was seriously injured. The Ontario was built 15 years ago, and had been in active operation all of this season. Various reasons have been given as to the cause of the collapse, but as nearly as it could be learned it had its origin in the weakening of the foundations about the dock. It is a well-known fact that the land about the elevator contains large deposits of quicksand, and it is thought the accident was caused by the settling of earth on the dock side caused by the washing out of this quicksand.

NO BID FORC ANAL

Auctioneer's Eloquence Fails to Dispose of the Waterway.

London, Oct. 31. — What are we to do with our canals is a question which has been asked for some time past.

In England various artificial waterways which cross the country represent tremendous capital which is now practically unproductive. One of these canals between Basingstoke and Woking, 37 miles long, was put up for sale last week.

It was, the auctioneer told the crowd, a unique chance for a bold speculator. Many were the uses to which he conceived it properly might be put. One of the most natural was to extend the canal to Southampton in one direction and to the Thames in the other, a project which he admitted would require parliamentary powers. Another and more daring suggestion was that the canal should be drained and converted into a great automobile highway 40 miles long, on which you could go as you please. This also would require a short act of parliament because the purpose to which land may be put is clearly defined by the statute.

He wondered why even the London and Southwestern Railway Company did not come forward in this emergency, a remark which provoked some laughter. Anyhow, here was going a concern on which £170,000 had been expended, which at one time brought in £5,000 a year, and even now earned £500.

In the Dutch fashion the rostrum suggested £50,000 as an offer, then £30,000, so on down to £20,000. Everybody seemed to be mightily interested and many questions were asked, but the daring speculator was not forthcoming.

The auctioneer could not mention the selling price.

"I am acting under sealed instructions of the court of chancery," he said. "Am I to tell the court of chancery," he added, pathetically, "that nobody will make a bid for the Basingstoke Canal?"

This is what the auctioneer will have to do, for there was not a single offer.

Sutton, Ont., Oct. 31.—A very sad shooting accident occurred here Saturday afternoon. Two boys named Hilliard Millard and Norman Taylor, aged about 13 years, were out rabbit hunting. Not getting any game they had decided to return home, when Taylor proposed discharging their guns, he doing so as he spoke. Great sympathy is felt in the town, as the boys were great friends, and their parents well known and highly respected.

BALKED AT ALTAR

Ardent Lover Wins Widow in Siege Only to Lose Her.

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 31.—In a complaint filed in court, Mrs. Lottie Johnson, an artist with a studio in the Masonic Temple in this city, charged that Lindley Erwin besieged her in her rooms last Wednesday night, and forced her to sign a contract whereby she was to become his wife on or before Thanksgiving Day. The artist had Erwin arrested and asked the court to put him under peace bonds. Judge McMahon heard the testimony in the case, and will give his decision later.

Erwin is a fraternal insurance organizer and had offices in the same building with Mrs. Johnson, who is a dashing widow. He became acquainted with her several months ago, after he had been jilted by another woman whom he had already secured a marriage license to wed. After visiting the World's Fair at St. Louis with Mrs. Johnson, Erwin laid siege to her heart, but she would not capitulate.

During a call which lasted five hours on Wednesday evening, by dint of passionate pleading, followed by threats, it is charged, Erwin walked out of the studio with the contract by which the artist says she was forced to yield to his importunities.

The next day Erwin obtained a marriage license, and engaged Rev. L. M. Smith, of the First M. E. Church, to go to the studio for the ceremony at 2 o'clock. When the minister appeared Mrs. Johnson balked and had her ardent suitor arrested. Erwin's only defense was that he "loved the woman to distraction."
