Extract from the Log of the brig Elgin, Adams, of St. Stephen:—

"Fell in with, and boarded on 25th Sep. in lat. 34° N. lon 66° 30' W. the wreck of brigt. Portland, Buxton, of Baltimore. and relieved the survivors of the crew, consisting of the master, mate, and three men, three others having perished some days previous.—Capt. B. states that they sailed from Baltimore on the 2d ult. and proceeded on their intended voyage without any particular occurrence until the 14th, when they were visited with a hurricane, and nothwithstanding every seamanlike effort being used the vessel was thrown upon her beam ends.—They then used their utmost exertions to cut away the masts, but did not succeed until she filled with water; after this they cleared the wreck of her mast, when she righted with the hatches blown off, deck literally swept, and one man missing. They then lashed themselves to the aftermost part of the wreck, being highest above water, where they remained three days without the least sustenance, the sea breaking over them continually; on the fourth day the wind and sea abating a little, they got some bottles of porter out of the cabin by diving, and some flour which floated out of the hold. In five or six days women expired. The rest of the crew preserved their lives for the remaining six days with about one dozen bottles of porter and cocoa and raw flour, until the last day or two upon the wreck; their little stock being entirely exhausted, they were reduced to the necessity of using salt water. They were brought on board the Elgin, some of them in a very low state, as may naturally be expected. On the 29th she Captain and mate were put on board the brig Sparkler from Pictou bound to Philadelphia, and the crew were landed at Eastport on the 5th October."

CHARLES E. ADAMS,
Master of brig Elgin.

Sailed from Ballshoe, Bligdon, from St. Lucia, bound to St. Andrews, put into Bermuda, 19th in consequence of the cook stabbing the Captain severely, French ship Commerce, from St. Thomas, Amschir Sussman and Mary, put in in distress.

Arrived at Liverpool Sept 2, Retrench, Morrison, St. Andrews, Loncondery, 26th, Carouge, Williams, St Andrews.

Sailed from Liverpool, Sept. 1st, Princess Victoria, Paul St. Andrews; Sept 5th Dublin, for St. Andrews.
