Poetry.

ODE TO SPRING.

BY LELIA, OF BALTIMORE.

Oh! who would not welcome the spring?
Child of the budding wreath—
Sunbeams, and dew drops fling
Gems o'er the heath.

The reign of the frost king is o'er,
The links of his ice chain are broken;
Unlock'd is spring's beautiful store,
And the ice-fetter'd rivulet's spoken.

Oh! who would not welcome the day?
Like a sportive and frolicsome child—
The streamlet resumes its glad play,
And the hills tops in verdure have smil'd.

All nature greets thee with pleasure—
The sweet warbling choir of the grove
Add to their musical measure
New notes of harmonious love.

Then hail to the balmy spring—
Parent of fragrant flowers,
Come on the dew-laden wing
To this beautiful earth of ours.

THE SWEETNESS OF HOME.—He who has no home has not the sweetest pleasure of life; he feels not the thousand endearments that cluster around that hollowed spot to fill the void of his aching heart, and wile away his leisure moments in the sweetest of life's joys. Is misfortune your lot, you will find a friendly welcome from hearts beating true to your own. The chosen partner of your toil has a smile of approbation when others have deserted, a hand of hope when all others refuse, and a heart to feel your sorrows as her own. Perhaps a smiling cherub with prattling glee and joyous laugh, will drive all sorrow from your care-worn brow, and inclose it in the wreaths of domestic bliss.

No matter how humble that home may be, how destitute its stores, or how poorly its inmates are clad; if true hearts dwell there, it is yet a home—a cheerful, prudent wife, obedient and affectionate children, will give their possessors more real joy than bags of gold and windy honors.

The home of a temperate, industrious, honest man, will be his greatest joy. He comes to it, "weary and worn," but the music of the merry laugh, and the happy voices of childhood cheer him. A plain but healthful meal awaits him—Envy, ambition, and strife, have no place there; and with a clear conscience he lays his weary limbs down to rest in the bosom of his family, and under the protecting care of the poor man's friend and helper.

A GEM.—Perhaps no lyric has been more universally admired than Burns' beautiful little poem commencing—

"Scots wha hea wi' Wallace bled."

But it is not so generally known that Burns, by the advice of some friends, was induced to suppress the first two stanzas as they originally stood in the poet's manuscript. It is much to be regretted that the poem was not printed entire, for the poet's talent far surpassed the critic's taste. It stood thus in the original:—

"At Bannockburn the English lay—
The Scots they warna far away,
But waited for the break of day
That glinted in the east.

But soon the sun broke through the heath,
And lighted up that field o' death,
When, Bruce wi' soul-inspiring breath,
His heralds thus addressed.

Scots, wha hea," etc:

In 1787, a Somersetshire curate, somewhat "cracked," fell in love with a milk girl, "because she reminded him of his first love;" and all his friends being opposed to a marriage, and no clergyman willing to officiate, he published the bans himself—married himself to the girl—in the middle of the service—gave her a kiss—and went on with the service to the end.

"Father," said a four year old, "I think you are a fool." "Why, my child?" "Because you have brought that baby here when mother is sick, and you have to get a woman to take care of it."

Horse and Cattle Medicines.

Don't permit your Horses or cattle to die, when the means of cure are within the reach of all!

The undersigned has spent several years in the study of Veterinary practice in "London and Edinboro'," he has also availed himself of the researches of Leibig, and other celebrated men, who have contributed so much towards a judicious treatment of animals; the principles of our practice consists of the rejection of general bleeding and the total rejection of all medicines that experience has shown is be of a dangerous tendancy. These remedies are in harmony with the vital principle, and when given according to the directions which accompany each article they are capable of exciting and increasing the naturisl functions, without diminishing or destroying their power, hence are safe in the hands of every one.

TRIUMPHANT SUCCESS OF
Buchan's Hungarian Balsam of Life,
THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY FOR
Colds, Coughs, Asthma, and Consumption.

THE most celebrated and infallible remedy for Colds, Coughs, Asthma, and every form of Pulmonary Consumption, is the HUNGARIAN BALSAM OF LIFE, discovered by that eminent medical chemist, Dr. Buchan, of London, England, and extensively known as the "Great Eastern Remedy."

It has been tested for upwards of seven years in Great Britain and on the continent of Europe where it is universally considered the great, and only remedy for this awful malady, and now introduced to the public under the immediate superintendence of the inventor. Within three years it has been distributed from Maine to Florida, and from Canada to Wisconsin, and its effects are every where alike ASTONISHING and TRIUMPHANT.

As a preventive medicine, and an antidote to the consumptive tendencies of the climate, it is invaluable. As a remedy for severe and obstinate coughs, inflammation of the Lungs, croup, &c. it is unrivaled. But the Proprietor is so confident of the merit of this great remedy, in the worst forms of consumption, that he prefers to have it used by the DYING INVALID, rather than by persons afflicted with some simple and less dangerous disorder of the throat and lungs:—this may seem strong language, but it is the result of experience in thousands of cases, sustained by the most intelligent and unimpeachable testimony. It is not pronounced an infallible remedy in all cases, but it is THE MOST INFALLIBLE remedy known to the civilized world. It is the preventive of hereditary consumption—it is the best defender against the influences of climate—it is the best remedy for incipient consumption—and it is the great and only remedy for that fearful softening in the lungs—inflammation of the membrane, and tuberculous decay, which are the last effects of that erroneously supposed to be beyond the reach of medical aid:—the parent or proprietors of other and farther beyond the reach of hope.

Such is not the case with the Hungarian Balsam It is always salutary in its effects—never injurious It is not an opiate—it is not a tonic—it is not a mere expectorant. It is not intended to lull the invalid into a fatal security. It is a great remedy, a grand healing and curative compound; the great and only remedy which medical science and skill has yet produced for the treatment of this hitherto unconquerable malady. It is in fact the best remedy in the world!

[From the John Bull, newspaper, London.]

There is certainly some mysterious and occult virtue in the famous "Hungarian Balsam of Life which the medical faculty are unable to discover or Dr. Buchan would not be permitted for so many years to enjoy the magnificent monopoly of the treatment and cure of Consumption in Great Britain. No satisfactory analysis of this famous compound has ever, to our knowledge, been offered to the public.
