LUETGERT IN GOOD SPIRITS.

CROWDS GROWING LARGER

And the Spectators Are Composed Mostly of the Fair Sex.

Reporters Bottled up Some of the Pinkish Matter From the Sluiceway of the Vat—Policeman Prouse Identified Bits of Corset Steel Found in the Refuse and Policeman Talworwitz Found a Hairpin—Mrs. Feldt Causes Another Sensation.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—The alleged wife murderer, Luergert, seemed to be in unusually good spirits to-day, despite the damaging evidence heard during yesterday's sessions. The spectators continue to be mostly of the fair sex, and the crowds are growing larger daily.

Two reporters of The Chicago Journal testified that they had bottled some of the pinkish matter which flowed from the sluice way of the vat, when the police opened the valve. They had delivered the bottle to an expert, who will be called later in the trial.

Policeman Bernard Prouss was called and identified two bits of steel as the pieces he found in the ashes where the supposed residue of bones and other material which was scooped from the vat was dumped.

Found a Hairpin.

Policeman Talworwitz testified as to having found a hairpin in the same pile of refuse, and the hairpin was produced as evidence.

J. H. Odenbrett and W. G. Cady, corsetmakers, were placed on the stand in succession, and positively identified the two alleged corset steels as having been the product of their factory.

It was considered by the State to be a great blow to the defence that it was unexpected by the latter, who hoped to prove that the two pieces of steel were scale bands.

Carl Klein, jr., who is employed by a dentist, described a set of false teeth which he had sold to Mrs. Luetgert.

Emma Schimpke, sister of Gotlieba Schimpke, who testified to having seen Luetgert and his wife enter the factory on the fated evening, was placed on the stand to corroborate the testimony of her younger sister. She was a very faltering witness, and suffered under the scathing cross-examination to which she was subjected.

A Trembling Witness.

Emma Schimpke was apparently imbued with the idea that she must testify only to those matters which hurt the cause of the defence. Judge Tuthill administered a kindly but firm lecture to the trembling girl.

From her the defence secured the admission that she was not sure she saw Luetgert and his wife enter the factory, and the defence also forced her to admit that she could not remember anything that happened on any other particular night than May 1. When asked the day of the week upon which May 1 fell, she hesitated and then said: "Saturday was not it." The defence felt that their cause had gained perceptibly from her testimony.

Spangler Tells of His Finds.

Police Sergeant Spangles, who was active in procuring evidence for the prosecution, testified to having secured, either from officers or from the factory and vicinity, corset steels, a celluloid hairpin, a half a tooth, particles of bones, scrapings from both the interior and exterior of the vat in which it is alleged Mrs. Luetgert was dissolved, and slime from the sluice leading from the vat.

Vickerick Bicknese, brother of Mrs. Luetgert, identified two photographs as likenesses of his sister. The pictures were passed around among the attorneys, and Luetgert attentively compared the two and consulted about them with his attorneys.

Mrs. Feldt Again.

Another sensation was sprung when Mrs. Christine Feldt was again called to the stand. The witness identified an ugly-appearing knife which she said Luetgert handed to her for safe keeping, on the day of his arrest. According to Inspector Schaack, Luetgert used this knife as the means whereby he killed his wife.

The evidence was a complete surprise to the defence, and the prisoner craned forward to see the weapon. The knife was passed around among the attorneys and Luetgert examined it. He smiled as he handled it, and talked with his attorneys about it, adding that it had been his property.

Assistant States Attorney McEwen stated that the prosecution will produce testimony showing that the knife is blood-stained. Prof. Haines will so testify. Attorneys for Luetgert declare that they attach no more importance to it than they would to any ordinary pocket knife. The knife is a horn-handled pocket knife about 4 1-2 inches long.

What the Experts Found.

The afternoon session was devoted to expert testimony. Prof. Charles B. Gibson, to whom the newspaper men gave the liquid they drew from the vat, testified to finding organic matter in the pinkish brown fluid, which he subjected to a chemical analysis.

The son of Watchman Bialk testified to having enticed Luetgert to his father the bed at the time and the latter's illness. A detective was concealed under the bed at the time and the testimony was intended as merely corroboration of portions of that of the officer who listened to the conversation between Luetgert and his old employe.

The attorneys for the defence assert that the day has done their cause good. They expect to controvert the material points in the testimony. Luetgert's unconcerned demeanor continues.

WILL DIE IN ALASKA.

There is Much Alarm for the Safety of Hundreds of Gold Seekers En Route to the Klondike Placers.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 8.—The Treasury Department to-day made public the following letter received from a Government official now on the way to the gold fields, stating at the same time that the writer, whose name is withheld, had been twelve years in the service, and was thoroughly reliable:

"Dyea, Alaska, Aug. 22.—I deem it my duty to write you on a subject that does not come strictly within my line of duty, as it trenches somewhat on the functions of the Treasury Department. I have had a long talk with Mr. Ivey, collector of customs for Alaska, who is at present at Skaguay, three miles below here. The Skaguay trail is the most largely use overland route (though by no means the best) to the Klondike. Mr. Ivey informs me that there are now between tide water and the lake something like 4000 people and about 2000 horses. The commander of one of the vessels now at Skaguay states that sixteen vessels are chartered to land cargoes at that place between now and Sept. 15, and that the number of passengers will average 200 to each vessel, making 3200 more people who will attempt to go in this fall.

Must Winter on the Coast.

"I have talked with some of the most experienced traders and miners in this vicinity and they are unanimous in the prediction that not over 20 per cent. of this vast number will get through to Dawson City before winter sets in. The other 80 per cent. will be caught on the trail, and those who survive and get back to tide water will have to winter at Skaguay or return south. If the rush continues two weeks longer hundreds will inevitably perish on the trail, which is extremely dangerous after the 1st of October.

"The postmaster and Indian trader at this place (Mr. Heron) states that more than 1000 men have gone up the Chilkoot Pass during the last thirty days, and that 700 of them are still this side of the lake (24 miles from here). Vessels are arriving every day or two, and at the present rate of influx another 1000 will enter the trail by Sept. 10. Mr. Heron is of the opinion that not more than 20 out of every 100 will get through, and he says this trail is far more dangerous than the Skaguay after the snows set in. He says if the rush continues another week the resultant loss of life will be appalling.

To Stop the Stampede.

"I attach the greatest weight to what he says, for the reason that it is to his pecuniary interest to have as many as possible come this way; yet he advises an immediate stoppage of the stampede. It is difficult to suggest a way to stop this inrush of people, but Mr. Ivey intimates that if the inspection rules of the Treasury Department were properly enforced it would materially decrease the number of passengers on the incoming vessels. Nearly every vessel that arrives here brings twice as many passengers as the law allows it to carry, and many of them are condemned craft which have been fitted up for this trade. Mr. Ivey will no doubt at once for present the facts outlined above to the proper authorities, and I merely give them to you for your information. The situation is appalling, and it is impossible for me adequately to describe the mad rush for the gold fields. I had no conception of its immensity till I saw it.

"I have talked with several men who have recently arrived here from the Klondike, two of whom left there less than thirty days ago. They unanimously agree that while there is a rich gold field there the facts do not justify the present stampede, and they say there is bound to be much suffering and actual starvation. Provisions are already scarce and the prices of many articles absolutely prohibitory in the case of a man of ordinary means.

Favored by the Postmaster.

"My usual good luck has attended me here. Mr. Heron, the postmaster, is an old Montana friend, and he has made it possible for me to go forward by Indian carriers at the prevailing rate (37 cents per pound), making precedence over hundreds, many of whom have been here two or three weeks, awaiting their turn. He assures me he can make the way easy for me at the lake in securing a boat, etc. So I feel comfortably sure of going right through.

"The mail facilities are very bad here, as the Postoffice Department has not made any allowance for the rapid growth of postal business. The postal authorities here are powerless to cope with the mass of mail matter, and I have doubts whether this letter will reach its destination. I am forced to close this letter to catch a boat, which is about to leave, and I am leaving unsaid some things which I shall have to include in my next letter."

The Slide Was Not Serious.

WHITNEY, MATHESON, MAGWOOD.

A Rousing Meeting of Perth Electors at Stratford—The Speeches Were Well Received.

Stratford, Sept. 8.—Mr. J. P. Whitney, the Conservative leader in the Province, arrived in Stratford to-day accompanied by Col. Matheson and Mr. Thomas Magwood, and met with a very gratifying reception at the hands of the local Conservatives. They addressed a public meeting in the evening, which was attended by about 900 persons, including quite a large number of farmers from the surrounding country. They roundly condemned the Government for mal-administration in every department, but they dealt especially with the finances of the Province, the system of education, the working of the license system and the mining policy of the Government. They asserted that the conduct of all these branches of Government here was a crying evil, and that in an especial manner the finances of the country had been mismanaged. Waste and dishonesty existed everywhere, they said, and it would require a new Government not dominated by officials to thoroughly reorganize the monetary system of Ontario if the people were to escape direct taxation. Mr. Whitney's reception was a very cordial one.

BOUGHT ST. MARY'S ISLAND.

The First Step Taken Towards the Establishment of an International Park on the St. Lawrence.

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 8.—St. Mary's Island, in the St. Lawrence River, is the first land to be purchased by the State for the establishment of the International park on the St. Lawrence River. The last Legislature authorized the State Fisheries, Game and Forest Commission to spend $30,000 in purchasing land to form the nucleus of the park, which is to be maintained by this State in conjunction with the Dominion of Canada, and is to extend along the St. Lawrence River from Messina Springs to Clayton on this side, and an equal distance on the Canadian side. Many points along the river have been offered to the commission, but they were held at such high prices that the commission despaired of ever being able to acquire lands to the advantage of the State.

At a meeting of the commission to-day it was decided that the offer of the Westminster Park Association to part with St. Mary's Island for $5000 was a reasonable one, and its acceptance was authorized. The island is one of the most picturesque of the river group, and is a mile and a half from Alexandria Bay and close to the Canadian shore. President Barnet H. Davies of the commission says that other lands will be purchased as soon as owners of lands along the river front realize that the State will not pay the exorbitant prices now asked.

RAZORS IN THE AIR.

Red Hot Row in a Colored Church in Which One Member Was Cut and Another Shot.

Dowagiac, Mich., Sept. 8.—At the jubilee meeting of the popular colored church, the Second Baptist, to-night, several parishioners precipitated a row by calling Treasurer Gamiel Hill to account for funds left over from a social, the funds to go to the missionary cause.

Remarks made about "Calvin niggahs" enraged Mrs. Wiseman Harris of Calvin-street, and her husband became involved in a row with Treasurer Sanford. Revolvers and razors were soon liberally sprinkled throughout the church, and in the meree young Hill got a bullet in his leg. Another member of the church was slashed with a razor, and then the police came in.

INTOLERANCE IN RUSSIA.

Proposal of Ecclesiastics to Take Children From Their Parents for Education.

Moscow, Sept. 8.—A congress of high Russian ecclesiastics, which is now in session at Kazan, is considering measures to stop the spread of sectarianism. The congress has decided to ask the Government to proceed against the adherents of Count Tolstoi, as being dangerous to the church and the state. It also voted to prohibit the publication of Lutheran books in the Russian language. It was proposed that the children of sectarians be taken from them and educated in public institutions of the orthodox faith, but the proposal was not adopted, for the reason that there are no such institutions in Russia. One bishop suggested that the property of sectarians be confiscated by the Government.

The Eye of a Child.

Who can explain or fathom the wondrous instinct of the child? Lying in the arms of its nurse, in its carriage or elsewhere, its large, round, wondering eyes roam over a sea of faces till suddenly its features break into a sweet smile, a baby laugh dances in its eyes, perhaps the tiny hands are extended and the little body gives a bound, as though it would throw itself through space. What has happened? It has recognized a friend, nothing more and no less. It makes no mistake. Wiser, perchance, in that moment of inexperienced helplessness than it will be years afterward, when the world and its imitates have been studied in the light of instruction and experience, love offering is seldom if ever mistakenly presented. By what power is this child's love directed? By what subtle influence does it see and know what in after years it may strive in vain to discern?

Cigars for Victoria's Guests.

It is well known that Queen Victoria has a great dislike of tobacco, so much so that she does not allow smoking in her immediate neighborhood. And yet the cigar bill for her guests is a very heavy one. The principal item is the thousand of finest Havana cigars which are specially made for her, and sent to Windsor in glass tubes hermetically sealed. According to the Pharmacological Magazine, Queen Victoria's cigars could not be had even in Cuba at wholesale prices under $1 apiece. The men who make them receive 30 cents for each cigar, and none but the oldest and most skilled workmen are entrusted with their manufacture.

Knapp's Roller Boat Launched.

A novel vessel was launched yesterday afternoon in Toronto harbor. It is a "roller" boat, the invention of Mr. F. A. Knapp, of Prescott, Ont., who claims that it will revolutionize ocean travel. The dimensions of the craft are 110 feet by 22 in diameter. It has been constructed by the Polsons, from whose yard it was launched.

Cucumbers and melons are "forbidden fruit" to many persons so constituted that the least indulgence is followed by attacks of cholera, dysentery, griping, etc. These persons are not aware that they can indulge to their heart's content if they have on hand a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellog's Dysentery Cordial, a medicine that will give immediate relief, and is a sure cure for all summer complaints. ed

THE MAPLE LAKE TRAGEDY.

Hiram Sawyer Describes the Fight Between His Son and the Thompson Brothers.

Haliburton, Ont., Sept. 8.—The inquiry into the killing of W. H. Sawyer at Maple Lake was continued here today. Hiram Sawyer, father of the deceased, was the first witness, and on being sworn said:

"Me and William Henry Sawyer drove from my farm to Maple Lake postoffice, in the Township of Stanhope, on Sept. 1, about 7 o'clock p.m. While we were at the postoffice Matthew and Thomas Thompson came for their mail and went away. After they were gone some little time we started for home and overtook the Thompsons about half a mile from the postoffice. When we overtook them we stopped our buggy and said 'Good evening.' William Henry Sawyer said to Thomas Thompson that he understood that Thomas Thompson had misused his (Thompson's) wife on account of her being picking berries with him. W. H. Sawyer said: 'If anyone told you such he is a —— liar.'

"Thompson replied: 'Can you back it?' He said yes. Thompson said: "Come out of the buggy.'

"W. H. Sawyer jumped out of the buggy and said: 'I'll tie the horse,' and took the horse by the head, and Thompson sprung and kicked Sawyer on the hip. Then Sawyer sprung from the horse and Thompson struck him about the shoulder. Then Sawyer faced Thompson and knocked him down. Sawyer went to get on Thompson, when Thompson threw up his feet into his face. Then Sawyer caught Thompson by the legs and threw him to one side and got on top of Thompson. With that Matthew Thompson grabbed Sawyer by the back and pulled him back, helping his brother at the same time to get up. Sawyer told Thompson to keep back and give him fair play. Sawyer jumped to his feet, and T. Thompson kicked him in the stomach while he was rising to his feet. Sawyer again faced him (Thomas Thompson), and knocked him down."

The inquest was continued this evening.

COCOS ISLAND TREASURE.

Harford Says the Wealth of Peru is Buried There and He Will Go After It.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 8.—Even with silver at fifty-two cents an ounce it is not given to many to think and speak of it by the ton so lightly as does Edward Harford, the hermit of Cocos Island, but then it is given to still fewer men to know that there is within comparatively easy reach an untold wealth of the more precious yellow metal, in search of which thousands are to-day undergoing all the hardships of the Dyea and Skaguay trails.

No one knows more about Cocos Island than does Edward Harford. There is not a man living who has more definite information upon the value, location and history of the wealth said to be deposited there. Harford's connection with Cocos Island was familiar to most newspaper readers, for when he arrived in this city several weeks ago on the schooner commanded by Captain Hackett, which brought him from the island, a full account of his discovery there and of his attempt to compromise with the seekers after treasure who constituted the Hackett party was published.

Harford said he was put on the island through the agency of the Costa Rican Government, and that, owing to their failing to perform their part of the contract with him that referred to bringing him safely from the island, he preferred to come to Victoria rather than stay, like Robinson Crusoe, on that wave-dashed dot in the blue Pacific.

Here in Victoria is Harford. On the island are two men of the Hackett party hunting for the hidden wealth on behalf of the company, whose hospitality Harford availed himself of to get to Victoria, and, according to Harford, also upon the island, are a designing, untrustworthy, murderous German of the name of Geissler, and a faithful, hard-working and grateful negro, who seems to have filled the part of Man Friday to Harford's Robinson Crusoe. Of these four the negro boy is the only one who is at all likely to know where the treasure is, and if the version of the story which Harford gave soon after his arrival here be true, the negro does know. Harford, however, came to Victoria and placed himself in communication with the Costa Rican Government with a view to compelling them to adhere to their compact with him, his plan being to again visit the island, so sure is he of the wealth in gold and jewels, and return to Victoria to spend a portion of the great fortune.

Pending the receipt of a reply from the Costa Rican Ministry, Harford has secured a party of Victorians to accompany him and protect him after he has discovered the treasure. They are not asked to contribute a dollar to the outfitting of the expedition, and they have a large part of their wages paid in advance, for the hermit of the island has in some way secured plenty of ready money since his arrival here.

"How do you know the treasure is there?" was asked him to-day, and the reply came, with an exclamation of impatience:

"Seeing is believing, I guess. Talk about the Klondike! If you saw twenty million dollars in gold bricks would you go to Klondike? There are jewels on that island now, and I have found the stone that is the key to their hiding-place."

"How did all this treasure come there?"

"I will tell you. In 1821, during the war, the Government of Peru placed all the Crown jewels and bullion on a vessel and sent it out of the country. Pirates met the ship, killed everybody on board, and took the treasure to Cocos Island. The most valuable portion of the wealth, diamonds and gold, was stored in a tunnel by two of the pirates. They killed the men who helped them, tumbled their bodies into the tunnel, sealed it up, and used gunpowder to blow a portion of the mountain over its mouth. I have a chart of the spot, but I don't need it now, for I have found the tunnel itself.

"After spending nine months on the desolate island do you suppose I want to go back for fun or to be proved a liar? No, sir; I was almost starved there, and I have contracted rheumatism for life, but the treasure is there, and all I have to do is to take it away. I have now $5000—enough to fit up an expedition of my own. I only require 10 or 15 good men to protect the treasure, which weighs about 40 tons. Several people wanted to fit up expeditions for me, but I have declined all their offers. I have chartered a steamer and will bring all the treasure here on my own account. The silver is too heavy to handle, and we will have enough without it. Hackett's men can have the white metal as their reward. It is in bars three feet long, and buried only two feet deep."

HIRED A FRENCH GOVERNESS

And Now Mr. De Barry is After Mrs. Ed. B. Green With a Sharp Stick.

Buffalo, Sept. 8.—The beauties of the Allen Labor law, as interpreted by Inspector DeBarry, were exemplified to-day, when that gentleman placed into the hands of District Attorney Close the case of Mrs. Edward B. Green, who is charged with violating the immigration law of 1885. It is alleged that while Mrs. Green was in Paris last summer she hired Miss Maria Worts to come to America to be governess to her children. It is also alleged that Mrs. Green brought Miss Worts to Buffalo, and that Miss Worts taught Mrs. Green's children French and German. For this a fine of $1000 or one year's imprisonment, or both, can be imposed.

Notes on Good Dressing.

Skirts are still moderately ample, but they no longer flare like an open umbrella.

Women with pretty throats now often wear gowns without collars, so swiftly does one exaggeration follow another. A tiny square or oval top to a bodice is effectively trimmed with flatly-applied laces, braids, ribbons and passementeries.

Worn skirts are modernized by a trimming of small square bows set down one or both sides of the bodice, and upon the side-front seams of the skirt from knee to hem or from belt to knee. Usually these bows are of black velvet or satin, no matter what the line or fabric of the gown.

A pretty new blouse of cashmere, stylishly loose and drooping over the belt in front, closes with five buttons. It has one large lapel that turns away to the right from two or more overlapping rows of pointings arranged to stand out becomingly from under its edge. A similar plaiting is set upon the top edge of a high collar.

Independent skirts—unlined and with facings—are regaining favor. They are less heavy, hang more gracefully and are less expensive than those lined throughout with silk.

White taffeta dancing skirts to wear with silk, muslin or other fancy waists are already in general use. They bear any sort of trimming in vogue, but their own shimmer is enough ornament while they are fresh. Trimming may wisely be added to them later on.

Ostrich plumes and ostrich tips are more than ever approved since algrettes have lost favor.—The Delineator.
