ST. JOHN, N. B., July 23, 1849.

Dear Madam.—In justice to you, and that the afflicted may know the great benefit derived from the use of your justly Celebrated Dinner Pills, I send you the following statement:—

My wife was afflicted with the Dyspepsia for one year, and Piles many years, and tried various remedies that were recommended, but nothing did good untill a friend told her to try your Pills, which she did, and after taking one box found so much relief that she continued to take them for four months, and now she is really in as good health as she ever was. And for myself, I had a cough for four years, and constant pain in my breast; I was also troubled with hemorrhage for upwards of nine months. I tried almost everything, but no cure was effected, until I used your Pills, which I have been taking for three months, and I have neither pain nor cough, and enjoy as good health as ever I did, and allow me with due respect to remain
Yours, very thankfully,
JOHN FREDERICKSON.

A SONNET.

"A vast multitude was incessantly passing down King Street, because the marmidons of the law permitted them not to stand on the street corners."—BECKFORD.

I sometimes dream, when shutting both my eyes,
That I, sometimes especially when I sleep,
And when I've dreamed enough, I always rise
And one my eyes no long r will keep.

With Thomson's Eye Wash for optics sore,
I bathe my eye-lids when I feel the pain,
And suffer ills and anguish nevermore;
But if I do, I bathe them o'er again.

And Quaker Bitters do I drink to kill
Dyspeptic aches, Yellow Jaundice dire,
A sure relief is it from every ill:
Consumption's cured, likewise the hectic fire
Which burns the heart and eats the ebbing life away.
And soothes the troubled spirit with its painless lay.

THE COMMON SCHOOLS ACT.

The Judgment of the Supreme Court Affirming its Constitutionality.

THE ARGUMENT OF THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT FULLY SUSTAINED.

FREDERICTON, Feb. 12.

Chief Justice Ritchie has just delivered the judgment of Judges Allen, Weldon and himself on the question of the constitutionality of the school law. Fisher and Wetmore agree with the majority of the Court on the main question, but deliver separate judgment.

The judgment was in the case of Renaud and others from Kent. The judgment is a very able one, occupying an hour and a half in delivery, and sustaining the constitutionality of the Act.

The Chief Justice first quoted section 93 of the British America Act, the first subsection of which is relied on as a basis on which the School Act should be declared void. This clause, says the judgment, might fairly be taken as applying to schools existing separated from Parish school, and under control of the different denominations such as the Wesleyan Academies, the Baptist Seminary, Madras Schools, Varley School and Catholic Schools, of St. John and Portland and other places.

It is not pretended that the School Act of 1871 affects these, and the court were of opinion that they must look only to the School Act of 1858 to discover if Denominational Schools existed in the Province at the Union, and must be controlled by that and by that alone.

What may have been done not provided for in that Act, whether with or without the knowledge of the Board of Education, could not be taken judicial notice of. The Catholics under that act had no means of enforcing their right to denominational schools, and, therefore, how could such right or privilege be said to exist by law? A right without a remedy is no right at all.

The act seems to have been framed for the benefit of the whole people, giving to no class any privilege in any shool not enjoyed by every other. The very section so much relied on in that act that Catholic parents are entitled to have read the Douay version of the Bible shewed by the addition of the words "without note or commen" that the Legislature intended the schools should not be in any sense denominational.

Except as regards direct taxation the Act of 1871 is very similar to that of 1858. True it is provided that the schools shall be unsectarian, but this is no more than was intended by the former Act. And then the reading of the Bible is not secured to children by the Act of 1871; but then it is not excluded.

Whether the Board of Education, by taking by regulation the privilege from parents of having the Bible, either common or Douay version, read in schools, and leaving it to the teacher to regulate, have done wrong, or whether by prohibiting the use in the schools of religious symbols or emblems they have or not needlessly interfered with delicate rights is a question with which this Court cannot deal. The remedy for this would seem to be pointed out by sub section 4, clause 93, by appeal to Governor General.

Rule discharged.

Judgments were also delivered in the following cases:—Herbeson vs. Cunningham—rule absolute for non suit; Betts vs. Venning—new trial; ex parte Geo. McLeod—ruld discharged; ex parte McInerney, Kent ex assessment,—rule absolute on technical points; ex parte Carvill and others—St. John assessment quashed on ground of irregularity.

The Common Council should have been notified of the amount required for school purposes before the general assessment was ordered. Ex parte McLean et al, case from Albert,—rule refused; ex parte Bank New Brunswick—rule absolute because the Bank was assessed irregularly. The assessment should have been against the President.
