Ministry gives nod to St. Jerome

The Ontario Ministry of Education has given building proposal approval for construction of the $13 million St. Jerome school, just east of Huron Park.

Tenders will be awarded by the Dufferin-Peel separate school board in August. Construction is expected to start in October.

The separate board has concluded a purchase agreement with the developer who owns the land. The site was proposed for a senior public school by the Peel Board of Education, but that board decided last week to release its option because the school is not needed.

The separate board had hoped to have the public board transfer its option, so that the site could have been purchased for a reduced amount. However, the Peel board refused, saying developers would be reluctant to make purchase agreements in future if they thought they could be transferred. As a result the separate board is paying, "more than we expected to" for the site, says superintendent of business affairs Ed LeMay. As well, the cost of acquiring the land has been allocated in the 1981 capital budget by Ontario. The separate board may have to lease the land until the end of the year to start construction in 1980.

The construction of Archbishop Pocock secondary school is also expected to begin in October. Tenders have been awarded by the board for the $2.5 million project.

The separate board is opening six new schools in September, but none will be in regular buildings. The St. Jerome students will be bused to Applewood until their school is completed.

At the former Gulleden Public School, two separate schools will operate. One of them, St. Sofia, is for the Ukrainian Catholic church. The other, St. David, will house students from the new Creditview community north of Burnhamthorpe Road and west of Square One shopping centre.

The new St. Luke school, for children along Lakeshore Road east of Lorne Park Road, will be housed in portables at St. Christopher on Clarkson Road.

Students of St. Mark school in Erin Mills will be in portables at St.

Ignatius Loyola. The former Runningbrook Public School is to be the home of a new separate school called Mother Teresa.

Summer school boom in almost all areas

Instead of getting a job or taking a vacation this summer, many Peel students have opted for continuing their education.

Enrolment in the Peel Board of Education's summer school program is up over 10 per cent.

Frank Campbell, of the board's continuing education department says enrolment is almost 7,000 students. The number of those registering for the outdoor education programs in Caledon is down slightly, but all other programs are up.

The economy and shortage of jobs is a contributing factor in summer school's increased popularity, Campbell says. But the greater variety of courses offered this year, and the increase in centres where instruction is available have also made a contribution, he says.

Instruction in music, art and dancing at the Peel Arts Centre at Applewood Heights Secondary School culminated in a student concert last week. Any group of 25 students who wished to form a class in any other interest area also had the opportunity. Several student groups are continuing programs from their regular school year, especially in sports, says Campbell. Enrolment in the English As Second Language program has tripled. A co-operative business education program, which offers students an opportunity to work in the business world while earning credits in marketing and business courses, has doubled.

Total budget for summer school is $300,000 but local taxpayers contribute very little of the cost because of provincial grants.

Enrolment will continue to increase, Campbell says as more summer education centres are established.

And the driver walked away from it all

Carl Thomas, 29, the driver of this Toyota suffered only minor injuries when his car rolled into a ditch at the side of the Q.E.W. westbound lane near the Southdown Road exit. The car was struck by another car which swerved to avoid a vehicle stopped in the passing lane. The Toyota hit a third car before rolling in the ditch. Damage to the Toyota was $2,500, to the car which struck the Toyota $500 and to the third car, $1,500.
