UNVEIL MEMORIAL TO HONORED DEAD

Waverley Road Baptist Church Erects Tablet to Ten Fallen Members.

HUNDREDS WITNESS

A silent tribute to the ten heroic members of the church who lost their lives in France while defending Canada's honor, is the big granite memorial stone standing in front of Waverley Road Baptist Church. This memorial upon which are engraved the names of these brave lads, was unveiled yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, before the church congregation, and hundreds of residents of the beaches.

Dr. John MacNeill, pastor of Walmer Road Baptist Church, conducted the unveiling ceremony, and Rev. James H. Boyd, pastor of Waverley Road Church, conducted the service. A short memorial service was held inside the church, in which Rev. Boyd took as his text the appropriate quotation from Scripture, "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends." As these solemn words, yet full of feeling and heartfelt emotion, were intoned by the pastor they took unto themselves a new meaning—became something more than a mere Biblical quotation. It was as if the spirits of the departed heroes were present, taking a silent part in the service, and attempting to console their bereaved ones. Looking over the hushed congregation a silent tear could be seen in many cases, trickling down the faces of stalwart men, and several women wept quietly. The relatives of the ten fallen boys occupied special reserved seats for the service in the church, and held reserved positions at the unveiling.

Following the service the church's honor roll, containing 120 names, was unveiled by Dr. MacNeill. Then, led by the choir, followed by a saxaphone quartet, the entire congregation filed slowly out of the doors of the sacred edifice onto the greensward at the front of the church. A big Union Jack draped the memorial stone, around which the congregation gathered.

A Tribute of Song.

Following another short service by the pastor the choir sang Kipling's "Recessional." As the sweet strains pealed forth the assembled throng caught up the tune, and a volume of song arose which was in itself a tribute to the fallen ones. The saxaphone quartet then struck up "O Canada," in which all joined.

Dr. MacNeil, in unveiling the memorial, spoke of the part that Canadian boys had played in the world struggle. How they had been self-sacrificing; how they had suffered pain and exposure unflinchingly, and the manner that they had faced death—with a song on their lips. It was up to the present generation to carry on—to preserve the high ideals that these boys had fought and died for. The tablet was then unveiled. Victor Long, a returned boy, and member of the church, played "The Last Post" on his bugle.

Inscribed across the top of the tablet was: "Erected by Waverly Road Baptist Church, in loving memory of those of their number who made the supreme sacrifice in the great war." Underneath were the names of the ten boys, as follows: Charles Barnes, Robert G. Brookes, John L. Dashwood, Forbes E. Defriez, Frank E. Frost, Wilfred J. Jones, Charles Martin, Vernon D. Thompson, Philip Whitelock and Charles E. Woolidge.

PRICE OF SHOES MAY COME DOWN

Dealers Throw Doubt on Dumping of American Boots.

'I don't know of any shoes selling to the trade either from Canadian or United Seates manufacturers at less than six dollars wholesale, and direct wholesale at that, and if Sir John Willison's figures of export trade averages to Canada and other parts of the world are true, there is only one inference to be drawn, that is that the people on the other side must be dumping canceled and left-over stock into the Dominion."

This was the emphatic statement of a manufacturer retailer in Toronto Saturday morning to The World. He is a well known member of the trade in the city. He stated that the price of leather to the trade was at least $1.15 a foot from the tanneries, that it took four feet to make the uppers of one pair of men's boots outside of any consideration of soles, and that the trade journal, the most accurate organ of the boot and shoe industry, presented figures showing that the wholesale price correct was no less than six dollars a pair. So far as he was concerned he had not been embarrassed by the "dumping" if it had been carried on.

Sir John Willison stated that the chief consideration was the fact that the United States firms were exporting goods to European countries at higher wholesale figures than to Canada. This, in his estimation, was a direct contravention of the dumping clause in the tariff act.

"In what way would you enforce the clause in the act? asked The World.

"Ah, that I don't know" replied Sir John.

Interviews with a large number of firms showed that the average wholesale figures in the better class of stock ranged from ten to twenty-five dollars a pair, and the average price for medium stock ranged from six to ten dollars the pair. One dealer ventured the opinion that the large emporiums bought from factories in the United States at very low figures, doubtless good stock but all canceled and left-overs, and that these they were able to sell at sacrifice prices. He had received four offers for this class of shoe from American firms, all of which he had declined.

At Sacrifice Figures.

The management of the Royal Shoe Company had no shoes selling wholesale at less than $10. Any shoes that were selling with them below average prices were their own surplus, and were the very best that the American manufacturers could supply. They knew of one firm in eastern Ontario that was getting good American stock at sacrifice figures, but how these were permitted to cross the border they did not know. Any firms which were able to do this were naturally able to undersell other retailers.

The buyer at Bachracks, Limited, stated that the wholesale price of shoes depended upon the kind of stock in hand. There was a strong demand for American wear as against Canadian wear, because American wear, while not having the good quality of the Canadian stock, exhibited points which the Canadian manufacturer had not considered.

Over-Production

"Yes, there is over-production all along the line," said a prominent retailer to The World. "I know this is so in the United States, because a number of large firms there have closed shop because orders were not coming in. You can understand that in these circumstances there may be 'dumping,' altho I have not noticed any." He further expressed the opinion that this might be the beginning of the end of prices all along the line. There were more men on the road in the trade today than at any time in many years. The surplus, if any, was probably due to war production, which had been carried out with enthusiasm and with an eye to immediate and pressing need. For this reason the end of the war had witnessed a surplus of stock in the market.

May be General Slump.

The management of the Owens-Elmes Company, Yonge street, near King street, agreed that there might be some truth in the opinion that the figures of the trade journal summarized for men conversant with the trade would be more accurate than those given officially to the public. They agreed that the slump in wholesale prices in shoes might be the forerunner of a general slump in the market, but if that came it would not be for some months yet. "We don't get the class of shoe which would come under this heading," said Mr. Elmes. "I may say we pay $13 for a pair of Hannan shoes (New York), wholesale. On the top of this we have to pay a 20 per cent. revenue tax besides the customary discount on Canadian money. This totals at least 40 per cent. more than the cost of the shoe itself. We could not sell this shoe at a profit of any sort at less than $22, our price."

Sir John Willison was asked if he had investigated the retail prices of shoes in the Dominion or in Toronto. His reply was in the negative. He had only taken the statistical reports from the other side, and these were undoubtedly reliable as showing how the Dominion was being made the dumping ground of the United States firms in this commodity.

It was all very well for people to say that American exporters were bound to account for every pair of boots sent over as a measure of enforcing the dumping clause of the tariff act. The facts were clear, and showed conclusively that dumping was being carried on, and naturally to the detriment of the Canadian manufacturer whether he cared to admit that fact or not. It was also a well known fact that the Canadian manufacturer in order to compete successfully with American shoes had had recourse to the policy of giving his shoes American names. His shoes were of finer quality than the Americans, but had not the modern attractions which the American footwear seemed to specialize."

There are only three well-known American makes in Toronto. There are other makes, but these are of inferior make. Some of the Aemrican shoes are selling at the large emporiums at moderate figures, and are of excellent quality. Prices in the city range all the way from $4.95 and $6.75 to $12 and $13 at the cheaper establishments and from $12 to $24 in the better quality stores. The lowest figures include so-called bargains.

CAUGHT IN ACT

Harry Cohen Arrested on Charge of Picking Pockets—Seized With Purse.

Harry Cohen, who gives his address as 146 Argyle street, was arrested by P.C. Lowrie (525) on Saturday afternoon on a charge of pocket-picking. Cohen, the police allege, was caught in the act of relieving a lady of her purse at the corner of Yonge and Queen streets, at a time when that intersection was unusually crowded by pedestrians.

Assistant Inspector of Detectives Wallace happened to be passing at the time of the arrest, and related the proceedings to The World last night. Lowrie, he said, was taking no chances with his prisoner escaping, and had him firmly gripped by the scuff of the neck and the right hand. Cohen, he continued, had the purse in his hand, and, noticing a small Italian lad edging toward the two, he (Inspector Wallace) pushed the latter away, thinking that the was making for the purse. Apparently the lad was bent on seeing Cohen arrested, as he quickly reported: "Oh, no, you don't, I want to see this gink landed." Later, at detective headquarters, Cohen is alleged to have claimed that the Italian boy was his confederate, but the police entirely discredit the possibility of this.

The purse has not yet been claimed by the owner. It is described as greenish colored, with dimensions of 5 by 3½ inches. It contained, in addition to a small sum of money, several car tickets and other papers.

DOPE FIEND ARRESTED

After wandering in other cities for over a month, William Dunk, who gives his address as 146 Berkeley street, arrived in Toronto on Saturday, only to be arrested on the same night by Detectives Waterhouse and Sullivan on a charge of theft. Dunk is said to be an inveterate dope fiend and the police claim that when arrested he had in his possession about 50 decks of morphine and two syringes and needles.

The police claim that Dunk hastily departed from the city after drivinng an express wagon, carrying goods valued at $700 and owned by the Dominion Express Co., from Yonge and Adelaide streets. He is said to have driven the wagon to the Globe lane, off Melinda street, where he removed the goods to another wagon and took them to his room on Berkeley street. The police at that time found the horse and wagon in the lane, where it had been left. The goods have not yet been recovered.

COLONIZATION SOCIETY FORMED

Western Canada Association Has Welfare of Agricultural Immigrants at Heart.

TO STOP SPECULATION

An organization named The Western Canada Colonization Association has just been formed, and considering the aims and objects it has in view it is surprising that something like it has not been brought into existence ere this. When agricultural immigrants from Europe or the States arrive in the Canadian west they often find themselves with their family and belongings dumped on a farm perhaps fifty miles from a railway and with land on their hands unsuitable for the class of farming to which they have been trained and in which they are experienced. It is pointed out that many such families struggle on for a year or so and when all their money is gone return to their home land and give Canada a bad name.

There is no reason why such a state of affairs should exist and especially so in the prairie provinces, where there is waiting for occupation 20,000,000 acres of idle land and all within 20 miles of a railway. The Western Colonization Association propose to remedy the past errors concerning agricultural immigrants, and by co-operation with the government, the immigration department and the railways, keep a helping eye on the imported farmer. It is proposed to help in the selection of these immigrants as a starting point, and to see that if he is used to mixed farming he gets ground suitable to that particular branch; if he is experienced in wheat production he will be given a wheat farm, and so on. In addition the association will see to it that the "new land" is properly houser and will look after him and his interests until such time as he becomes used to Canadian ways and is able to run off his own bat. By such means it is hoped the west may soon get the population she so badly needs. It is pointed out by the association that if the 20,000,000 acres of virgin prairie could be occupied by virile, active and ambitious young people of English speech and ideals, the whole Dominion would benefit by their presence and their activity on the soil.

Born in Alberta.

A group of Alberta citizens who shared such opinions met a few weeks back and formed the abovenamed association. They appointed a council of 45 members and selected an executive as follows:

Lieutenant-Governor Brett, James Ramsay, M.L.A., M. R. Jennings of The Edmonton Journal, P. Burns of Calgary; H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta; Brig.-General McDonald, general manager of the Industrial Congress; C. S. Noble of Nobleford, the largest wheat farmer in Canada, and M. A. Brown, mayor of Medicine Hat.

A summary of the aims and plans of the association was sent to Saskatchewan and to Manitoba. Immediately, a similar council was established in each of these provinces, and a joint meeting was held in Calgary in April, for the discussion of ways and means.

The plan of action seemed to be so practical, and the benefits which must arise from its realization appeared to be so closely related to the general business progress of the Dominion, that the convention determined to secure co-operation from the east.

Big Sum Needed.

It was decided that a fund of about $1,500,000 would be needed to finance the project over a period of years. Before sending a deputation to lay the case before eastern financial leaders, the association determined to ask a number of outstanding western men to become founding members by the subscription of $5000 or $10,000 each. Thirteen men instantly responded, namely: James Ramsay of Edmonton, Geo. Lane and P. Burns of Calgary, James H. Ashdown, Sir Augustus Nanton, Geo. Merrick and Jerry Robinson of Winnipeg, Dr. F. W. Gershaw of Medicine Hat, W. D. Craig and J. K. McInnis of Regina, J. F. Cairns and F. H. McMillan of Saskatoon, and A. E. McKenzie of Brandon.

With this backing, the deputation came east, and as a result of their mission secured a further founders' list, composed of Lord Shaughnessy, Sir Vincent Meredith, James A. Carruthers, Charles R. Hosmer, Sir Herbert Holt, Sir Charles Gordon, Brog.-General F. S. Meighen, Huntley H. Drummond, Col. W. Grant Morden, R. B. Angus, Sir Montague Allan, Sir John Eaton, Sir Joseph Flavelle and Sir Edmund Osler.

These twenty-seven men, fairly representative of the whole range of Canadian business, have subscribed $250,000 towards the fund—one-sixth of the objective. The rest of the money required should be in sight by the end of this month, if the great number of successful business men thruout Canada can be brought to realize the wide scope of the proposals and their bearing upon the general financial and commercial future of the Dominion.

Will Increase Crops.

Occupation of the lands in question will increase the field crops of Canada and the national wealth, provide a larger exportable surplus, aid in readjusting the exchange situation, better the prospects for railway revenue, and expand the home market for Canadian manufactured goods. To procure and settle 125,000 families of desirable immigrants is a project not too fanciful, especially since the association will work in close accord with the railways and the governments.

The executive of the association are now in the east, and hope before their return to their own provinces to have the whole organization, both as regards detail and finances, all ready to put into immediate operation.

TO WELCOME C. M. A.

Vancouver, May 17.—When the Canadian Manufacturers' Association convention opens here on June 7, official welcomes to the delegates will be voted by Premier Olivor on behalf of the province and Mayor Gale on behalf of the city.

VETERANS MARCH THRU EARLSCOURT

Widows and Orphans Must Get Fair Treatment, Says Comrade Higgins.

REMEMBER THE CRIMEA

Escorted by the band of the G. A. U. V., veterans marched thru the Earlscourt district on Sunday evening and later held a meeting at the Royal George Theatre, Dufferin and St. Clair. Comrade Higgins presided and explained the object of the meeting by saying that the widows and orphans of soldiers were not being properly looked after. He read a clipping from a newspaper containing an appeal from the Red Cross Society asking the public to give their left-over clothing to the association to hand over to the returned soldiers. According to the appeal, requests had been made by soldiers for clothing, and as the Red Cross had none, they made this appeal thru the newspapers.

Higgins declared that the G.A.U.V. was a political organization and was out to look after themselves if the politicians wouldn't give them a square deal. The speaker doubted if all the returned soldier members of parliament were playing square. He asked the meeting to get together and support the soldier movement, and reminded them that to fill Hon. Canon Cody's seat there were already four or five candidates, one of which would be endorsed by the G.A.U.V. in the coming election.

Comrade Fred Marsh, Dominion organizer, cited the case of an old Crimean soldier who was getting a precarious living by selling postcards in the city, who on Saturday had been turned away by the police and who had to lay a complaint at the city hall. The old man is 88 years of age. Soldiers who fought in the late war will be treated like this, he said, unless united effort is made. Sir Robert Borden had stated when at Vimy Ridge, said Marsh, that "the government will never forget you," but has he carried out his promise? he asked. He scored the profiteers during the war and said the reason why the profiteer was left alone was because Sir Robert Borden himself was one of the biggest. The band played selections during the evening and there was a large attendance of returned men and the public.

WANT RETURNED SOLDIER PLACED

Army and Navy Veterans in Toronto are requesting the Drury government to appoint a returned soldier to the office of deputy minister of labor, which Dr. W. A. Riddell is to vacate very shortly. The association also unanimously passed a resolution on Saturday night, asking the legislature to congratulate Britain upon her great sacrifices, which had terminated so fortunately for the empire and the allies. The veterans will follow the time-honored custom of placing wreaths on the monuments commemorating the South African and earlier campaigns.

G.A.U.V. AUXILIARY MASQUE.

Riverdale G. A. U. V. Auxiliary held a masquerade dance at the home of Mrs Thomas Bryan, Grace street, on Friday night last. Over fifty guests were present in every variety of costume imaginable, which, together with the red, white and blue decorations, made a kaleidoscope of color.

The first prize for men was awarded to W. Stone, who portrayed "Mr. Micawber." Mrs. Hewlett, as a "colored mammy," was the most successful among the fair competitors. Altogether a bright evening was spent, those who did not dance indulging in various games of cards.

HYDRO CHIEF DENIES RAMSDEN'S CHARGE

Existing Services in Houses Are Now Being Continued, Says Manager.

The statement made at a meeting of the board of control by Controller Ramsden that the Hydro system would not supply current to a man who moves into a house where hydro equipment had already been installed and that there was much wastage of material hs brought forth a denial from Manager Couzens of the Toronto Hydro system.

Mr. Couzens writes to the board of control as follows:

"A letter has been received this morning from the board of control re a statement by Controller Ramsden, which does not give sufficient information to enable the matter to be investigated in detail, and in order to save time I am writing Controller Ramsden asking him to kindly furnish me with the address to which he makes reference in order that I may be in a position to report thereon.

"As you know, until toward the end of last month, the system, in view of the power shortage, had been giving service only to old Hydro customers, and if a new occupant of a residence had not been a previous Hydro user, the service was discontinued.

"This policy was obviously not of advantage to the system, but dictated in the interest of the system's consumers, who have suffered during times of power shortage. The commissioners three weeks ago made a ruling that existing services might be continued to incoming tenants.

"I cannot, of course, deal with the specific case where it is alleged that Hydro material was thrown away until I obtain information as to where this is stated to have occurred, and as soon as the information is forthcoming I shall be very glad to deal with it."

SALE OF BUILDINGS ON WEST ADELAIDE ST.

Three Structures and Lease of 100 Feet of Land Bought by Confectioner.

OTHER PROPERTY DEALS

The three business blocks on the north side of Adelaide street, between Yonge and Bay streets, taking in Nos. 16 to 24, inclusive, have been sold by Joseph J. Follett, merchant tailor, to Charles A. Reed. Ownership in the land, which belongs to the Brooks estate, is not conveyed by the deal, but the lease of the site, which has 13 years yet to run, goes with the buildings. The consideration is said to have been $125,000. The total frontage of the three buildings is 100 feet, two of the buildings being three storeys and basement of brick, and the other of four storeys and basement of brick, with stone front. Among the tenants are Charles Potter, optician, No. 16; Nukol Fuel Company, No. 18; Walsh's restaurant, Nos. 20 and 22, and Goldsmith Bros.' Smelting & Refining Co., No. 24. Some of the present leases in the buildings have several years to run.

The purchaser, Mr. Reed, has several tea rooms and confectionery stores in the city, with head office at 9 West Adelaide street. It is understood he will use part of the newly acquired space for warehouse purposes temporarily.

The International Automobile School, Ltd., has leased, thru J. R. Gay, for five years, the premises at 211 and 213 Victoria street, formerly occupied by the A. D. Gorrie & Co.

Messrs. Hugh J. and W. W. McLaughlin have purchased from Sarah Plewes the residence at 61 Walmer road for about $15,000. The property has a frontage of 33 feet with a depth of 128. The Chartered Trust and Executor Co. were the brokers.

The firm of Copeland-Chatterson Limited point out an error in the recent Sunday World report of the sale of the building at 1303 West Queen street. The World is now informed that the property was purchased by the firm of Copeland-Chatterson Ltd., and not by a member of the firm as was reported. The manager also writes that it is not the company's intention to remove any of the deaprtments from Brampton to this Queen street factory, which will be used as an auxiliary plant.

BOY BADLY INJURED IN TRUCK ACCIDENT

Charles Hatley Has Both Legs and Arm Broken—Driver Not Held.

Charles Hatley, aged 5, of 110 Markham street, sustained fractures of both legs and his right arm in addition to scalp injuries, when he was run over by an auto truck owned by the Toronto Dairy Co., opposite 107 Markham street, late Saturday afternoon. The driver, George E. Spring, 123 Rhodes avenue, was not detained.

According to the police, Spring had drawn up at the wrong side of the street to deliver some ice cream. While there, another car parked directly in front of his truck, which necessitated his backing the vehicle in order to pass it. While doing so, the little child, who was riding on the back, is said to have fallen under the rear wheel, which passed completely over his body. He was removed to the Western Hospital, where his condition was reported last night to be serious.
